MARKET WAS STRONG.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(AP)—A broad upward movement of stock prices which carried the general industrial average to a new high record for all time today, was associated in Wall street with the announcement of U. S. treasury financing and its implied continuance of easy money rates for some time to come. More than 60 individual issues, including such favorites as American Can, Baldwin, General Electric, General Motors, U. S. Steel common and Woolworth sold at their best prices of the year, or longer.

There was little trade news over the week end to influence the price movement, although comment of business leaders on current conditions was almost uniformly optimistic. A brisk fall upturn of business is expected, partly because of the increased purchasing power of the agricultural districts as a result of the recent advances in wheat and cotton prices. Directors of the General American Tank Car Co., today raised the annual dividend from $3 to $4 and the U. S. Industrial Alcohol Co., advanced alcohol prices two cents a gallon, but both stocks closed practically unchanged.

The cotton market was firm but quiet pending publication of the government crop report on Thursday morning. Favorable weather caused active selling of wheat futures, which declined about 2 cents a bushel. Coffee prices advanced on cables intimating a further restriction of exports from Brazil and sugar quotation held steady.

Banks called about $10,000,000 in loans but this failed to have any effect on the money market, a plentiful supply of funds on call being available all day at 3 1-2 per cent. There was no change in time money and commercial paper rates.

With the public showing more interest in the market as a result of the recent sustained advance, and the optimistic utterances of banking and industrial executives pools resumed activity in a number of specialties, particularly those in which favorable merger or dividend developments are believed to be pending. Woolworth, which pays a $5 annual dividend, soared more than 7 points to a new peak at 187 on buying influenced by President Parsons' announcement of expansion plans for the new German subsidiary.

Increasing talk of Ford competition failed to check the buying movement in General Motors issues, the old stock attaining a new top at 252 1-4 and the new at 127 1-4, final quotations in each case being within a fraction of the top U. S. Steel common reached a new high at 143 1-2 on buying influenced by the recent expansion in mill operations. American Smelting, National Biscuit, DuPont, International Harvester, Allied Chemical and Reynolds Tobacco B also broke through their previous 1927 maximum quotations.

There were a few soft spots scattered through the list but they were disregarded. American Machine & Foundry and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe each lost about 2 points, and several others a point or more.

Rails moved up with the industrials, but the gains were not as large. New peaks were recorded, however, by New York Central, Great Northern preferred and Southern Railway.

Foreign exchanges held steady, with a further advance of 7 points in Norwegian kroner to a new high at 26.25 cents as the only feature.

CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 6—(AP)—A long list of specialty and industrial shares were bid up sharply to new peak prices in today's curb market, which evidently took its cue from the "big board" and evidence of continued easy money as reflected in the new government financing plans at low interest rates. Much of the buying movement centered in oil favorites which have been moving forward with few interruptions for several weeks.

Buying was well distributed, taking in numerous high-priced, as well as inexpensive shares, and centering in no particular group. Public utilities in the main were well supported on current good earnings reports, although there were few outstanding points of strength in this division, oils tended downward after earlier firmness, Standard of Indiana, for example, touching a new peak of 75 7-8 in the morning and closing at 74, a net loss of 1 1-2 points.

Among the outstanding stocks which gained 2 to nearly 7 points to new high prices for the year were such miscellaneous issues as Amoskeag company, Auburn Auto (new), Singer Manufacturing, Gillette Safety Razor, Durham Duplex Razor, Borden common and preferred, New York Central Railroad (when issued) and Curtis Publishing.

Servel of Delaware was conspicuous among the weak spots, falling to a new minimum of 53 cents a share, compared with a high for the year of more than $10. Lackawanna securities also slipped backward, reaching a new low price of 65. Some of the high priced issues also lost ground, Safeway Stores and Tubize Silk each declining 5 points or so.

Activity and strength of Standard Investment 5s, which scored an extreme gain of more than 6 points to a new top price of 111, featured the active bond market.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 6—(AP)—The response of the bond market to announcement of details of the treasury department's September 15 financing plans was not so great or general as was expected. The only marked stimulation was noted in certain of the government issues, notably Second Liberty 4 1-4s, which are exchangeable for the new Treasury 3 1-2 per cent notes. These bonds, which began the day around 100 3-8, advanced to 100 17-32, which puts their market price about even with the value of the bonds under the treasury offer. Treasury 3 3-8s were offered freely and sagged to 101.

Convertible liens were the most active of domestic rail and industrial mortgages. Erie "D" 4s once more were accumulated briskly, advancing more than a point, while strength also was displayed by New Haven convertible 6s and International Paper 6s. High grade issues were rather inactive on the whole. Canadian Pacific 4s were offered freely, but held up well just under their peak price for the year. Third Avenue 5s again attracted a number of buyers and Goodyear Tire 5s were fairly active at firm prices around 94 1-2.

Discussion of French refinancing plans appeared to have lost force as private dispatches from Washington stated that the U. S. government had not been approached regarding such an operation. It had been assumed in some quarters last week that the treasury department was to be asked shortly for its approval of the Paris government's program, although there was little likelihood that any offering was to be expected before early in 1928. French bonds inclined to heaviness today, and the foreign group as a whole displayed considerable irregularity.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Sept. 6—(AP)—Corn took the lead in the speculative grain markets today and a big decline in corn prices followed. Improved crop prospects for corn as a result of auspicious weather was largely responsible. Corn closed nervous, 2 1-4c to 3 5-8c net lower, wheat a shade to 7-8c off, oats 3-4c to 7-8c down and provisions varying from 17c decline to a rise of 10c.

Generally fine weather over the week end, together with a forecast that the excellent conditions would remain effective at least temporarily, were emphasized by reports of many holiday observers from Chicago that the corn crop was making substantial progress. Agreement was much more nearly unanimous than of late that the weather taken as a whole was good for forcing the crop along toward maturity. Besides, country offerings of old corn were decidedly increased and so too were purchases by Chicago handlers.

Downturns in the value of wheat were ascribed largely to favorable weather northwest likely to bring about a liberal movement of new spring wheat, both domestic and Can

MADE LIQUOR RAID ON NORTH MAIN STREET

Armed with a warrant, a squad of local police, headed by Sergt. Matthew Delaney, raided the place at No. 461 North Main street, alleged to have been run by Paul Salamucha, and as a result arrested Salamucha Tuesday night about 8:30 on a charge of violation of the liquor law. The police found a case of alleged beer, two pint bottles containing a small quantity of alleged liquor and three small glasses, such as are used for whisky.

Salamucha was booked at police headquarters and his bonds set at $1,000. He will be presented in the city court this (Wednesday) morning. The raiding squad consisted of Sergt. Delaney and Officers John Quinn, Peter Sullivan and Patrick Shahan.

HOLLYHOCK ISLAND TRACT IS SET ASIDE AS CITY PLAYGROUND

The court of common council at its September meeting Tuesday evening in the council chamber adopted a resolution establishing a permanent playground on Hollyhock Island. As William J. Fitzgerald, chairman of the city recreation commission, stated, at a hearing which preceeded the vote on the resolution, the plan is to establish a recreation center or athletic field on the land for young people up to the age of 18 or 20. The need for such a recreation center, he stated, has been demonstrated.

The meeting was called to order at 8:15 o'clock by His Honor, Mayor Milo R. Waters and the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting took the usual course. The city clerk read the notice of the hearing on the Hollyhock Island playground resolutions after which Mayor Waters announced that the hearing was open for remarks and that the council would first hear those in favor of the proposition.

William J. Fitzgerald, chairman of the recreation commission, was the first to be heard. He spoke in favor of the plan and strongly urged the adoption of the resolution. He was speaking as chairman of the recreation commission and said "We are here in a body in favor of this proposition. The idea has gone around that we want to establish a playground there for small children. That is wrong." Mr. Fitzgerald said it was not expected that small children should come for two or three miles to the playground. "We must have playgrounds for the small children in the centers where they live," Mr. Fitzgerald said.

After referring to the accomplishments of the recreation commission at the playgrounds in the interests of the children Mr. Fitzgerald said that this year the commission wants to reach out and provide legitimate amusement for the young men and women, 18 to 20.

We are here for a recreation center, an athletic field, he said. We have demonstrated the need for such a field. The speaker went on to tell of the organization of the twilight league which he said had an attendance this year of 50,000 or over. He said that the commission can't look to the trustees for the use of the academy grounds forever. He said the Hollyhock island plan is a business proposition and that it is proposed that it be self maintaining. The plans call for a baseball diamond, tennis courts and a running track, 1-4 mile straightaway.

Mr. Fitzgerald called attention to the fact that in Tuesday morning's paper it was stated in a letter to the editor that Hollyhock island was not all right for the children but all right for a manufacturing plant. If it is not all right for the young people it is not all right for a manufacturing plant.

Mr. Fitzgerald said it is the only available piece of land in the city for a recreation ground. It is a place that can be beautified, it can be leveled off and is away from everything.

Mr. Ryan of Newton street said that the proposition seems to have been misunderstood. He favored the proposition as it was explained by Mr. Fitzgerald but thought that it should not be made permanent. He asked if any provision had been made for the city barn.

Mayor Waters stated that there was a plan to place the city barn on the Baltic street dump. Corporation Counsel William H. Shields Jr., stated that provision had been made for the city barn at Hollyhock island.

As this information clarified the matter the hearing was declared closed as there was no one else to be heard.

Alderman Henry Gebrath moved the adoption of the resolution, setting aside the tract of land on Hollyhock island as a permanent public playground and recreation place for the city of Norwich.

Councilman Clarence G. Thompson inquired as to the estimated cost of the recreation ground development.

Mr. Fitzgerald stated that the estimate was $20,000.

The resolution was adopted by the council without opposition, after which Alderman Gebrath moved that a survey of the grounds be made and filed in the town records. This motion was also adopted.

The council then proceeded to the regular monthly business and petition was received and referred as follows:

From the Calihan Oil Co., for the placing of an electric light in front of No. 73 Thames street. Referred to the police committee with power.

From Samuel Taylor, et al asking for an electric light on Washington street, near its junction with Yantic street. Referred to the police committee with power.

The monthly reports of the street commissioner and city treasurer were received and accepted. The council then accepted the resignation of Herbert B. Loewry as a member of the supernumerary list of the police department, Mr. Loewry having submitted his resignation as he has removed to New York city with the intention of making his future home there.

Sewage Disposal Survey

A communication from the state water commission, asking the city to take up the matter of sewage disposal, was read by the clerk as follows:

Honorable Milo R. Waters
Mayor of Norwich
Norwich, Connecticut
Dear Sir:

As you are no doubt aware, the state water commission was created by the 1925 legislature for the purpose of improving the condition of the state waterways from the point of view of pollution.

The commission has been active along the Quinebaug and Shetucket rivers above Norwich and the time has now arrived when it seems necessary that Norwich should consider the question of sewage disposal. In this connection it seems desirable to point out that the commission regards the different principal watersheds as the units with which it has to deal. To improve any given river requires that all sources of pollution on that river shall be minimized or removed. This implies that each community on the watershed concerned shall do its part in accomplishing the desired result.

In the last analysis the question of treating the sewage of any municipality is one of cost. No accurate estimate of cost can be made until certain basic engineering data are obtained. This information should include careful determination of the volume of sewage to be disposed of, the type of particular community, selection of a suitable site for a disposal plant and various other allied factors. Much of this information can be secured by the city engineer but for the determination of the more technical questions involved it is usually necessary to call in an engineer who specializes on such problems. With the information so obtained an estimate of the cost of such an undertaking can be made and until this is done no community is in a position to intelligently consider this question.

The state water commission desires therefore to place before you the wisdom of taking up this problem for early consideration and specifically it asks that the city of Norwich make available at the earliest possible moment a sum of money sufficient to cover the cost of a study such as has been indicated above. It would be highly desirable to have this investigation begun this fall. Just how much money will be required for this purpose it is impossible with our limited knowledge of your local conditions to say but it would seem probable that six thousand dollars would cover this preliminary investigation.

It is further requested that you advise the commission as to progress made in carrying out these recommendations. The state water commission will be pleased to cooperate with your and your city engineer in advising as to any technical details which may arise.

Very truly yours,
STATE WATER COMMISSION
By S. H. Wadhams, Dir.

Mayor Waters said that members of the commission had conferred with city officials in regard to the matter. He told of outlays which are being made in other cities in regard to sewage disposal and suggested that the matter be referred to the finance committee for investigation and recommendations. It was so referred.

Claim for Water Damages

A claim from Disco Bros., for $1,933.93 damage to their stock through water leaking into the basement of their store on Main street recently, was referred to the finance committee and corporation counsel.

The amusement committee moved that $100 be appropriated by the city towards the expense of the bronze tablet erected by the Indian Historical Pageant committee and the appropriation was voted. The committee informed the council that the estimates for the float which the city is to place in the procession at the New London county fair this month exceeded $200 and suggested that another $100 be appropriated, making a total appropriation of $300. The extra $100 was unanimously appropriated.

Department bills were approved as follows:

Fire department $7,149.85; police department $6,731.40; cemetery department $1,138.76; public works department $53,773.09; gas and electrical department $55,534.92; Deep River reservoir $18,418.80; water department $6,1146; recreation commission $2,169.17; park department $1,100.27; finance department $32,974.05. Adjournment was taken about 8.45 o'clock.

Automobile Backfired

At 9:25 o'clock Tuesday morning the fire department responded to a telephone call for a fire at the garage used by C. A. Gager and located in the rear of No. 76 Franklin street. A Cadillac automobile backfired and started a blaze. Richard Pendleton, employed by Mr. Gager, had the fire practically extinguished by the time the firemen arrived. Slight damage resulted.

SHARVAN CASE NOLLED IN CRIMINAL COURT

The case of William J. Sharvan, a former member of the Norwich police force, was one of the last reached Tuesday afternoon in the session of the criminal superior court in this city. He had been bound over from the city court on the charge of statutory rape upon a girl of the juvenile court age to whose home he was sent to recover stolen goods, but he has always maintained his innocense of this charge made against him.

When State Attorney Brown took up the case Tuesday afternoon, he told Judge Booth that the officer had been tried by the common council of the city and had been dismissed from the police force on the charge of conduct unbecoming an officer. The state attorney declared that he was satisfied that the common council was justified in the action it had taken, but the evidence in this case was not such as to justify putting Sharvan on trial in the criminal court. He should accordingly recommend a nolle of the case. Judge Booth directed that the nolle be entered.

Disposition of the Sharvan case left the case of Joseph P. Gadle, Jr., of this city as the only one on the docket which was not reached Tuesday. It is understood that this will be taken up today (Wednesday). He is charged with operation of an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

The case of Glen A. Henderson of New London, accused of obtaining money under false pretenses, was continued to the next term of court as the state attorney had not had time to look over the files in this new case, he said.

MRS. ANNIE ZELINSKY IS TO GO ON TRIAL

Mrs. Annie Zelinsky of this city is to go on trial in the criminal superior court here this (Wednesday) morning on the charge of violation of the liquor law. She pleaded not guilty when put to plea Tuesday and elected to be tried by the court. She is charged with selling a half pint of liquor to Nathan Repps on Aug. 22, and with keeping with intent to sell. She is also charged as a third offender.

Her counsel is Atorney Lubchansky of New London.

SAW PLANE "OLD GLORY" ON OLD ORCHARD BEACH

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Collins of Union street and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. O'Reilly of Fall River, Mass., formerly of Norwich, have returned from an automobile trip through Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire. In Maine they found the mornings and evenings quite cold. In their stop at Old Orchard beach they had the good fortune to see the monster plane Old Glory as it was being fueled for its journey to Rome.

Old Glory was an inspiring sight owing to its large wings and sturdy appearance. It is a plane which seems equal to all weather or adverse conditions. Many tourists were attracted to Old Orchard Sunday and Monday to see this plane. Camera men were very numerous both newspaper and news weekly photographers.

On the return trip Monday afternoon traffic was very heavy on all roads. Many accidents were also noted.

The application was presented by State Attorney Arthur M. Brown.

MONTVILLE BOY WAS STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

Struck by an automobile driven by Charles H. Ladd, 159 West Thames street, this city, while crossing the new highway at Uncasville early Monday night, Elbert Witt, 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Witt of Uncasville, was seriously, perhaps fatally, injured.

The accident occurred at 7:30 o'clock directly in front of the boy's home and in plain sight of his father and other relatives who were in the yard.

The boy was rushed to the Backus hospital in this city, where it was said that the frontal bone had been fractured and that there was a possible fracture at the rear of the skull His condition was said to be quite serious. The affair was investigated by State Policeman George Webber of the Groton barracks, who reported that the boy was struck when he darted across the street directly in front of Mr. Ladd's automobile, which was returning to Norwich from New London. Nothing was learned that would indicate that Mr. Ladd was responsible for the accident and he was not arrested.

Gas in the Stomach Is Truly Dangerous

Gas, Pain, Bloating and a feeling of fullness after eating are almost certain evidence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach.

Too much acid irritates the delicate stomach lining, frequently causing chronic Gastritis and dangerous Ulcers. Food ferments and sours, forming a gas that distends the stomach and often seriously affects the Heart.

It is genuine folly to neglect such a condition or to treat with artificial digestive aids that cannot neutralize the stomach acid. A better way is to get from your druggist some Bisurated Magnesia (powder or tablets) and take a little after each meal. This famous but simple and inexpensive stomach sweetener and anti-acid can be depended upon to prove its value in less than five minutes. In most instances, relief come instantly! Pleasant and perfectly harmless to use—Bisurated Magnesia does give wonderful relief in nine out of ten cases. Ask your Doctor or Druggist.

SHIPS FAIL TO FIND TRACE OF OLD GLORY; CARLING NOT SIGHTED SINCE TAKE-OFF

Mysterious Tragedy Caused the Old Glory to Send Two SOS Calls for Help—Liners and Merchantmen That Answered the Call Searched in Vain for the Rome-Bound Airplane—Aviation Authorities Believe There is a Probability That the Old Glory May be Speeding On Her Way to Rome—Little Hope is Held Out for the Lives of Three Men Aboard—The Sir John Carling Has Not Been Sighted Since She Set Off From Harbor Grace, N. F., at 7.25 Yesterday Morning.

By Associated Press

Possibility that the monoplane Old Glory may be speeding on her way to Rome while liners continued to search the Atlantic under the position given in her mysterious "S O S" call, is being recognized by aviation authorities.

Failure of any ship, despite the proximity of several, to find the slightest trace of the plane, plus the thorough preliminary planning for the expedition and the painstaking "try out" of the mechanical equipment, combined to bolster the theory that the distress signal may have been caused by a minor and temporary mishap.

Some of those close to members of the crew—James DeWitt Hill and Lloyd Bertaud, pilots and Phil Payne, passenger— refused to admit that a serious situation existed until, at least, after the hour the plane was scheduled to pass over Boneraux, France on the road to the Eternal City.

Meantime, several hours behind Old Glory, the Stinson-Detroit monoplane Sir John Carling also was supposed to be driving east. Of the progress of this the latest of the trans-Atlantic argonauts not the slightest information had been received since early Wednesday when, a few minutes after the take-off from Harbor Grace, she was reported passing a point barely 30 miles away.

Resting at Harbor Grace last night, the crew of the Royal Windsor, of the same type, had announced their intention of following her flight today with Windsor, England, as their destination.

FEAR OLD GLORY WILL BECOME OCEAN MYSTERY

NEW YORK, Sept. 7—(AP)—The name of the monoplane Old Glory was tonight tentatively added to that long and list headed "Position unknown; lost at sea."

And three more men who only yesterday joked and laughter and kissed their loved ones were generally believed to have joined that gallant company of their comrades of the air who during the present season dared death, and lost.

For 14 hours Lloyd Bertaud and James D. Hill, the pilots, and Philip A. Payne, their passenger, are known to have stayed in the air on their way from Old Orchard, Me., to Rome. But it was 40 hours at the least they needed and 14 found them but five hours out over the ocean.

It was then that some mysterious tragedy occurred, something so swift and terrible that there was no time to inform an anxious world of its nature or its cause.

At 11:57 E. S. T., last night the steamer California sighted the giant Fokker 350 miles east of Cape Race and reported that all was well. The hours passed and confidence grew that another American plane was to cross the sea in safety.

And then at 3:17 o'clock this morning, there crackled through the air the terse message that for all its brevity spoke volumes of tragedy.

"WRHP-SOS, five hours out of Newfoundland, east," the message read, and the officers of five ships which picked up the call knew that Old Glory had come to a premature end of its path to fame.

There were no details. Was Old Glory in a tail spin? Was she on fire? Did her crew meet their death in a watery crash immediately after that message was sent? Or were they floating in their rubber raft beside the wreckage of their plane?

These things no man could tell, but every effort was made at once to find out. The nearest ship of all those crossing the sea was the Transylvania, 65 miles from the estimated position of Old Glory. It turned at once to the rescue under forced drafts. Other ships turned also from their course to obey the summons of the S. O. S.

Toward noon, messages from Captain Bone to the Cunard Line offices and the Associated Press told of his having reached his destination at 9:30 E. S. T., and of having found no trace of Old Glory.

Then silence fell over the sea and those ashore.

Anthony H. G. Fokker, designer and builder of the plane, expressed the opinion that if there had been time to dump the gasoline and so turn the main tank into a great float the aviators might be able to survive for days.

Hope was seen in the fact that there was a lapse of time, one report said as much as six minutes, between the SOS call and the addition "Five hours out of Newfoundland, east." If there was a period of six minutes after it was known that danger threatened before the plane hit the water, it was generally agreed the fliers would have had ample opportunity to arrange their safety devices.

Fokker expressed the opinion that engine trouble must have been the cause of the disaster and said this danger would always remain in over water flights with single engined planes.

But others were more inclined to lay the blame upon the goddess known as fate, the goddess to whom Bertaud and Hill turned for a decision in their last moment on the ground.

There had been considerable discussion as to which of the pilots should take the heavy plane up from the beach, the takeoff being considered in advance as probably the most dangerous moment of the whole flight. In the end it was decided, as though by tacit agreement that their lives hung to a great extent on chance, to leave the matter to luck.

A coin was spun and Hill won the honor of the dangerous takeoff. He accomplished the feat without mishap, and the ship took the air at 12:23 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

CARLINE IS BELIEVED TO BE SPEEDING OVER SEA

HARBOR GRACE, N. F., Sept. 7—(AP)—The Sir John Carling was believed tonight to be speeding far over the sea and traversing the areas where Nungesser and Coli's Bluebird was lost, where the St. Raphael with Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim aboard disappeared, and the spot where the Old Glory was last heard from.

Unaware that the Old Glory had sent out an "SOS" and that her fate was in doubt, the Sir John Carling, piloted by Captain Terry Tully and Lieut. James Medcalf, made a graceful hop-off from the airport here early today on what they hoped would be the last lap of their previously-intentioned non-stop flight from London, Ont., to London, England.

The plane took the air at 7:25 a. m., eastern standard time, and was last seen heading across the Atlantic at Cape St. Francis, 30 miles away. The plane carries no radio equipment, and until it is either sighted by some steamer on the ocean, or seen over land or arrives safely on the other side, no word can be expected from it.

Fearing that if the aviators were informed beforehand of the bad news from the Old Glory their confident spirit, which strongly manifest when they entered their plane, would be dampened, local authorities saw fit to withhold the news of the "SOS."

A brief message, however, telling of the Old Glory's call for immediate assistance, was inserted in the fliers' map case where it would be found as soon as it was opened.

The Sir John Carling is a Stinson-Detroiter monoplane, equipped with a Wright Whirlwind motor, and is virtually the same as the Pride of Detroit, now in use by Brock and Schlee on their round-the-world flight.

Tully and Medcalf are products of war flying, both having served in France with the Royal Flying corps. They are now members of the Provisional Flying corps of Canada.

COVERED 867 MILES IN IN 7 HOURS AND 55 MINUTES

HARBOR GRACE, N. F., Sept. 7—(AP)—Covering 867 miles in seven hours and 55 minutes, Phil Wood and Lieutenant C. A. "Duke" Schiller brought their monoplane Royal Windsor in from Old Orchard, Maine, today on the last land hop of their fog-delayed flight from Windsor, Ontario, to Windsor, England.

They landed here to be greeted with two important bits of news, the fact that the Canadian trans-Atlantic flight rivals had hopped off for London, in the Sir John Carling some five hours and a half ahead of their arrival and that the American monoplane Old Glory had called for help and then become silent somewhere in the North Atlantic early today.

Both developments were believed to have caused the fliers to order their plane refuelled at once and announce their intention of hopping off again as soon as possible, but it later was decided to abandon any attempt to continue the flight tonight.

Fearing a recurrence of the fire which on Monday night threatened to destroy the Sir John Caling it was decided not to begin refuelling the Windsor until daylight tomorrow. It will take about four hours to take aboard about 500 gallons of gasoline necessary to complete the trip and the hop off, as a result, probably will not be made before tomorrow afternoon.

TRANSYLVANIA SEARCH WAS WITHOUT AVAIL

NEW YORK, Sept. 7—(AP)—A message received at the Cunard Line offices late today from Captain Bone of the Transylvania declared he had searched the area in which the missing monoplane Old Glory was last heard from without avail and that he was proceeding on his voyage. The message was sent from the ship at 2 p. m., eastern standard time.

The full message of Captain Bone, giving his position as latitude 49.22 north, 42.27 west is as follows:

"Have searched area without result. Feel little hope of survival in view of rough sea at time of casualty. California seeking to northward and American Merchant to eastward. I am proceeding on voyage. Please communicate to press.

"BONE".

MESSAGE FROM MASTER OF AMERICAN MERCHANT

NEW YORK, Sept. 7—(AP)—A message received from the master of the steamer American Merchant at the office of the American Merchant lines shortly after 5 p. m., eastern standard time tonight, stated that the ship was the nearest American vessel to the vicinity in which the monoplane Old Glory was last heard from and was now headed toward the last known position of the plane.

The text of the message was:

"Nearest American vessel to Old Glory plane. Have deviated toward her last known position.

(Signed) MITCHELL, Master."

CARMANIA MESSAGES TO ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK, Sept. 7—(AP)—The following message was wirelessed to the Associated Press from the S. S. Carmania at 2:50 p. m., eastern standard time today.

"Position 49.25 north, 39.22 west. Now searching along estimated opposite course of Old Glory. Weather now west southwest wind with frequent strong rain squalls and rough breaking seas. Temperature air 59 degrees, water 62 degrees. Consider little chance survival of collapsible boat under present conditions if Old Glory was provided with same. Visibility varying from four to ten miles.

"F. G. BROWN, Commander."

A second message, wirelessed to the Associated Press from the S. S. Carmania at 3:20 p. m., eastern standard time today, read:

"Now nightfall and quite dark. Regret search for missing plane Old Glory without result. Weather conditions, fresh westerly wind, cloudy, squally and rough breaking sea. Consider very small chance survival of collapsible boat under present conditions. Now proceeding on great circle to Cape Race.

(Signed) "COMMANDER."

MANCHESTER, Eng., Sept. 7—(AP)—A private meeting of the American section of the Cotton Spinners' Federation here recommended the curtailment of production by a stoppage on Saturday and Monday, or its equivalent, until the end of October. PRIDE OF DETROIT IN FLIGHT FOR BANGKOK

RANGOON, British India, Sept. 8—(Thursday)—(AP)—The Pride of Detroit hopped off for Bangkok, Siam, at 6:50 o'clock this morning.

W. S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee piloting the Pride of Detroit are now facing a very dangerous part of their journey. The distance between Rangoon and Bangkok by direct route is about 550 miles, but involves extensive mountain ranges where landing would be impossible and where storms are frequent.

Bangkok, the capital of Siam lies in the valley of the Menam river, and this area is cut up by innumerable canals.

If they successfully negotiate the passage to Bangkok in quick time, they are likely to proceed, with only a few hours rest, to their next destination Hanoi, French Indo-China, which lies about 600 miles to the northeast.

FOUR PERSONS KILLED IN OPEN SWITCH ACCIDENT

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Sept. 7—(AP)—Four persons are known to have been killed and 15 others injured, some probably fatally, when an interurban car coming from the Dale park race track sped through an open switch and crashed into three box cars loaded with brick on a siding.

The dead are William Tilley, farmer; Chester Brown, motorman of interurban; Max Meyers, Evansville and an unidentified man.

The car was traveling at a speed of about forty miles an hour, when suddenly it swerved from the main line into the siding. It whirled down the track about 150 yards before crashing head-on into the box cars. Those seated nearest the front of the car were the most seriously injured, many sustaining broken bones and severe cuts about the face.

Every seat in the car was torn from the floor, and passengers were piled in a mass at the forward end. Out of the mass the few able to extricate themselves pulled fellow passengers from the wreckage and administered first aid to those seriously injured.

Because of the tangled wreckage and piles of brick thrown from the loaded freight cars, rescue work was slow.

Hundreds of automobiles, returning from the race track, made it difficult for ambulances and volunteers driving private cars to bear the victims away from the scene and to hospitals. A special car, sent to the wreck by the traction company, was hurriedly converted into a relief car, and rushed here with many of the injured.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET CONTINUES BULLISH

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Bullish enthusiasm ran riot again in today's stock market, more than 50 issues crashing through to new high records on a total turn-over of about two and one-half million shares. The average of 20 leading industrial shares, compiled by The Associated Press, was pushed up nearly another point to a new peak at 175.74, as against the year's low of 141.23, and the average of 20 railroad shares advance nearly a quarter of a point to 148.49, as compared with a high of 149.56 established a few weeks ago and a low of 125.55 last spring.

During the day arrangements were completed for the sale of another stock exchange seat for a record price of $235,000 or $5,000 above the previous sale and $65,000 above the year's low.

DIRIGIBLE LOS ANGELES RETURNS FROM TEST FLIGHT

LAKEHURST, N. J., Sept. 7—(AP)—The giant dirigible Los Angeles was berthed in its hangar at the naval air station shortly before 9 o'clock daylight saving time tonight, after an all-day test flight south along the Jersey coast. The ship took off this morning several hours after its return from a night cruise over Pennsylvania.

Habeas Corpus Writ Denied Stephenson

Not Within the Province of the Federal Court to Intercede in the Case, Judge Rules.

SOUTH BEND, Sept. 7—(AP)—D. C. Stephenson has no remedy in the state courts for his conviction of murder and sentence of life imprisonment, and it is not within the province of the federal court to intercede, Judge Thomas W. Slick of the United States district court here ruled today in refusing the former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan his freedom on a writ of habeas corpus.

Thomas V. Rooker, Indianapolis, counsel for the famous prisoner, who before his conviction of the murder of Miss Madge Oberholtzer, of Indianapolis, in 1925, was an acknowledged political power in Indiana, announced that an appeal would be taken to circuit court of appeals in Chicago and if necessary to the supreme court.

Stephenson provided the only thrill of an otherwise technical and dry legal case when he spoke briefly during the rendering of the decision by Judge Slick. Misunderstanding the court to say that both parties to the suit had admitted that a transcript had been filed with the Hamilton Circuit court clerk, Stephenson jumped to his feet exclaiming:

"I may be talking out of turn but as I am the party most interested here, I want the record in this case to show that I am not bound by anything which would tend to show that a transcript had been filed with the Hamilton county court. It is our contention that such has not been done."

PETITION OF W. E. SHEAN FOR PAROLE DENIED

HARTFORD, Sept. 7—(AP)—The petition of Walter E. Shean to be paroled from the state prison, was denied by the board of parole at its meeting in the institution in Wethersfield today. The denial of the petition means that Shean must spend another year in the prison for his part in a New Britain robbery in which a policeman was killed and for whose murder Gerald Chapman was hanged.

The denial also means that the matrimonial bliss Shean contemplated by a marriage to his loyal sweetheart, Miss Herminia M. Gruendler, a telephone operator in Greenfield, Mass., is now indefinitely postponed.

FOUR JURORS SELECTED FOR MURDER TRIAL OF AUTHOR LEONARD CLINE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 2—With the completion of nearly six hours of examination of 52 talismen, but four jurors had been selected today for the trial of Leonard Cline, author, who is to be presented before the Tolland county superior court at Rockville on a charge of first degree murder of his friend, Wilfred P. Irwin. State's Attorney Thomas F. Noone, leader of the state prosecution and former Attorney General William A. King, head counsel for Cline, carefully pursued the 25 challenges allowed each side in excusing jurymen. The bulk of the excuses were left to be made by Judge Edward M. Yeomans.

The qualifying jurors to date are: George N. Sterry, lumber dealer of South Willington; John Swanson of Bolton, farmer; Charles Long of Bolton, farmer and August H. Mattern of Mansfield, poultryman.

The majority of the 52 examined were farmers by occupation while other trades or business represented included cotton weaving, clothing, general merchandise, manufacturing, domestic, plumbing, undertaking, painting and tobacco raising.

In most instances a five minute interrogation proved the disqualification of the talisman.

To qualify the jurymen had to answer in the negative to such questions as, "Have you a pre-conceived opinion on this case which cannot be removed except through strong evidence?" and "Do you conscientiously object to capital punishment?" An affirmative answer was required to a question as to whether the talisman felt that circumstantial evidence of adequate nature would warrant conviction on a charge of first degree murder. While a great number declared they could not enter the jury panel without being weighed by pre-conceived opinions, for the most gained by reading newspaper accounts of the shooting, several declared against the death penalty for any reason and about half a dozen proved physical impediment, generally deafness.

When court adjourned at 4.45 o'clock, sheriff Fred O. Vinton was preparing to organize his deputies for a round-up during the evening and night of another list of jurymen to be examined upon the reopening of court at 10 o'clock d. s. t. Thursday.

When Judge Yeomans ordered court opened at 10.15 o'clock this morning the modest little court room in the Rockville town hall was filled to capacity. Within a rostrum about the judicial bench were seated the attorneys, the accused Leonard Cline, court officials and over a dozen reporters representing several New York newspapers and a daily tabloid in addition to leading central and eastern Connecticut newspapers.

At the attorney's table were, State's Attorney Noone, Attorney Michael D. O'Connell, representing the state and Attorneys William A. King, John Hamilton King and Samuel B. Harvey of Willimantic, for the defense. With this array of defense attorneys it is expected that Major John Bulkeley of Union will join forces when the jury panel selection is completed. The court officials were Sheriff Fred O. Vinton of Eagleville, Deputy Sheriffs A. E. Harmon of Coventry, Harvey S. Collins of Columbia and John W. Watkins of Ellington.

Of the list of 100 jurymen summoned 89 answered to the roll call by Clerk of the Court Willis H. Reed. Deputy Sheriff Harmon acted as foreman. Following the roll call Judge Yeomans announced that he would excuse applications. It soon began to appear that the 14 towns of the county were unhealthy or that the inhabitants were overworked and Judge Yeomans had to withdraw his consent to excuses which were coming in scores. The jurymen were then escorted to an ante-room until called individually for examination.

Talismen who answered the roll today and yet remained to be examined are; Andover, George M. Ladd; Bolton, Clement N. Sumner; Coventry, George W. Barber, Edwin H. Hanson, Nathan D. Potter and Alfred G. Crickmore; Columbia, Christian Oehlers, Lucius W. Robinson, George C. LaBonte, Henry A. Burr, Howard A. Squires; Ellington, E. Carlton Pease, Paul Liebman, Mahlon B. Mex. Defense For Alleged Bombers Counsel for Mexican Consulate Appeared in Court in New York to Defend Them.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7—(AP)—New York state in its prosecution of four men for the bombing of the Brooklyn supreme courthouse early Monday morning ran into an international snag today.

When the quartet was arraigned, counsel for the Mexican consulate appeared and announced that none other than the Mexican consul general would defend them, as they are citizens of that republic.

This led department of labor officials to institute an investigation to determine whether they had entered the United States legally.

It is "to prevent a possible repetition of the Sacco-Vanzetti case," said Robert Wilson, representing the Mexican consulate, that Mexico is taking a hand. Sacco and Vanzetti were avowed anarchists, and the defendants in the bombing case have been accused of exploding the bomb in an anarchistic demonstration.

Julian de Hoyas and Jesus Silva were arraigned on charges of planting the bomb which shattered $500 worth of windows Monday morning, and Jose Roa and Victor Fern were arraigned for illegally possessing explosives. All were held without bail for a hearing next Wednesday.

Octave Barreda, Mexican vice consul, was in court with Mr. Wilson during the arraignment.

DEVELOPMENTS IN NEW YORK REAL ESTATE SHOOTING

NEW YORK, Sept. 7—(AP)—Water department employes late today recovered from a lower East Side sewer a package which police said contained the two revolvers Charles Bernstein, Baltimore dress merchant, is alleged to have used in the real estate office shooting affray yesterday that ended in the death of four men.

A relative of Bernstein, who said he had seen the man after the shootings, told police Bernstein had acted "peculiar" and remarked that he had had a dream in which it seemed he had killed many people.

After examining the package at police headquarters, Inspector Arthur D. Carey said it contained the revolvers Bernstein is alleged to have used. Both were loaded and some of the shells in each had been exploded, he said. He would not disclose the number of bullets fired from them.

Meanwhile Bernstein, who surrendered to police late last night, was held without bail in homicide court.

JAPAN DEPRECATES GREAT ARMAMENTS COMPETITION

Japanese Delegate to the League of Nations Assembly Contends That Armaments Should be Lowered to a Level Strictly Essential to National Security—Declared That Competitive Armaments Create an Atmosphere of War.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 7—(AP)—That competitive armaments create an atmosphere of war and that reduction of armaments must be doggedly fought for and achieved was the outstanding feature of the addresses at the league of nations assembly today.

The Japanese delegate Minoichiro Adachi, said Japan ardently desired that ruinous competition in armaments should be brought to a standstill and lowered to a level strictly essential to national security. He pledged his country's cooperation with the league's preparatory disarmament commission, which another speaker, Erich Lofgren foreign minister of Sweden, insisted it was useless to convoke anew before the great military powers settled the divergencies of views which had appeared at previous meetings of the commission.

M. Lofgren criticized the council of the league for its passive attitude on political problems in the past year, alluding, it is believed to the controversy between Italy and Jugoslavia, and scourged the practice of certain members of the league in discussing burning political questions among themselves.

After declaring that the old pre-war methods were still in vogue and that the league of nations should be a psychological seismograph to foresee and forestall all events which, as in 1914, might lead to a World war, Felix Cielens, foreign minister of Latvia, warned the assembly that the military budgets of 1926, including naval and air forces, amounted to one billion and a half dollars, about the same as in 1913, and that the aggregate number of soldiers, more than three million, was only slightly less than the figure for 1913.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE IN A BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR SON

RAPID CITY, S. D., Sept. 7—(AP)—Spending the day at the state game lodge, President Coolidge joined in a birthday party for his son, John, who was 21 years old today, and later inspected the soldiers who have had charge of the place all summer.

The party was a dinner participated in only by Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge and John. The family spent the afternoon which was warm for this season of the year, together on the front porch.

The presidential guard which is composed of soldiers stationed with the Fourth Cavalry at Fort Meade, S. D., received the thanks of Mr. Coolidge for their arduous labors of the summer. And for the first time since entering the white house, he posed for a picture with the forces who have guarded him.

Later, the president rode to the soldiers camp, set up nearby, and with Captain R. A. Ifker, commanding officer, inspected the quarters which included all the attributes of a regular military post.

In the detail of 75 men which has kept the 24-hour guard about all sides of the lodge were 20 Indians belonging to the Sioux tribe which once ruled this territory. The president himself was made a chief of the Sioux early in the summer.

Another quiet day is in prospect tomorrow as the Coolidge begin to make preparations for their departure on Friday night for Washington.

MINERS AND OPERATORS FAIL OF AGREEMENT

CHICAGO, Sept. 7—(AP)—Miners' and operators' representatives in joint conference here, were no nearer an agreement on wages tonight than they were five months ago.

After their sub-committee which met in closed session had adjourned this afternoon until tomorrow, President Harry Fishwick of the Illinois Mine Workers, spokesman for the sub-committee, said some progress had been made, and that the committee hoped to issue some announcement tomorrow.

This statement from the miners' president was coupled with a denial that any temporary agreement was under consideration. It had been reported that a plan for return to work pending a definite wage agreement had been contemplated. Both operators and miners denied it.

"We went into this conference," one operator said, "with slates clean. We have one desire and that is to end the strike."

Today the suspension attained the record of the shut down of 1910, which lasted from April 1 to Sept. 8. If no agreement is reached today, permitting work tomorrow, the record will be broken, and this coal mining suspension will be the longest in history.

LATEST PHASES OF THE IND. GRAFT CONTROVERSY

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Governor Ed. Jackson was asked today by Boyd Gurley, editor of the Indianapolis Times, to waive any statute of limitations and relate to the grand jury his efforts to have James E. McDonald appointed prosecutor in 1923. The Marion county grand jury is investigating charges of political corruption in the state.

The letter was in reply to a communication yesterday in which Jackson denied that he, while secretary of state, had carried an offer of $10,000 to Governor McCray if the latter would appoint McDonald. Governor Jackson admitted that he suggested the appointment at the behest of Bishop H. H. Fout of the United Brethren church.

The Times, in a story published several weeks ago, said that Jackson not only made the financial offer to aslist McCray, who then was facing criminal charges for using the mails to defraud, but that later D. C. Stephenson, then a klan and political leader, also made a similar offer to McCray's attorney.

Curley in his letter today, declared that the request of Bishop Fout and the allegations contained in the Times story were two separate matters.

ABOUT 3,600 DANIELSON PEOPLE TO PAY PERSONAL TAX

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Sept. 7—There are approximately 3,600 people in the town of Killingly who will be interested in what is to be set down here about the payment of personal taxes this year. This particular tax is due November 15. It is in each instance $2.00. This afternoon Arthur A. Dean, collector of personal taxes, pointed out that under a new statutory provision all those who do not pay this tax within 60 days after it is due will be required to pay an additional dollar, so the cost to them will be $3.00, instead of $2.00. There is no option as to applying this penalty to belated taxpayers. It is a requirement of the law. The money from the tax goes into the treasury of the town.

Men who have been grubbing around potato fields in this vicinity the past few days assert that some of the potato crop appears to have been ruined by the heavy and frequent rains. But there are other areas where the potatoes have done remarkably well and an unusually abundant crop is in sight. And there you are. The cry of "potato crop ruined" has come to be regarded as an advance notice that prices are to be jacked up to the consumer this fall. The plan may not work out too well. There is a big crop in sight, if all the producers do not share in the marketing of it.

On the other hand, corn crop that simply would not get started in May and June and brought forth other dire predictions has done amazingly well, and one of the best harvests in years is in sight in Windham county.

Because it came on the night of a holiday, there was only a small attendance at this week's meeting of Killingly grange. The plan to have past lecturer sconduct a program was abandoned for the time being and the program equally divided between the master and the lecturer. Rev. Charles A. Downs, a past lecturer, gave an historical sketch of Killingly grange and Walter G. Bruce, the present lecturer, spoke of some things he would like to see in Killingly grange in the future. On Friday evening of last week a delegation of Killingly grange members visited Ekonk grange and supplied the literary program.

Once more trees overhanging the narrow traveled way on the state route through Reynolds street at the southerly side of Davis park have been the cause of property damage. The driver of a truck loaded with furniture was obliged to swing his car so far over to the side of the street to allow another machine to pass that the top of his load was raked by limbs on three different trees before he could stop—and the roadway therabouts was scattered with chair legs and other parts broken the furniture he was carrying. The driver's remarks thereupon would be entirely out of place in a family newspaper.

It was made known today that Danielson is to become a distributing point for gasoline on a wholesale as well as retail basis for the first time. This is brought about through an arrangement of the Danielson Oil company, of which Richard D. Banigan is proprietor, with the Sinclair Refining company, which heretofore has not been represented in this immediate territory. Mr. Banigan is causing a storage base to be established on Railroad street near the tracks of the N. Y., N. H., and H. R. R. company and also is constructing the down town station of his concern in Railroad square. The local concern will distribute in the Danielson-Putnam and surrounding territory.

Friday evening of this week the republicans of Killingly will nominate their candidates for town offices. Up to this afternoon no contests loomed and the forecast appeared to be that renominations of present party encumbents of office will be general. On Saturday the democrats will have their caucus, and this, it is anticipated will be a spirited affair with a large attendance.

At the high school the cafeteria was reopened today, the first full day of the new school year. A very large percentage of the upwards of 330 students in the building have their noon day lunch in the cafeteria, which was opened last winter after the enlargement of the school by the construction of two wings.

A dinner is to be served and a program of sports has been arranged.

Many appreciative things were said today about last evening's concert on Davis park by St. James' band. The evening was ideal, the concert excellent and the attendance large. The entire affair would have been very pleasinging to Mrs. Marinda C. Butler Robinson, who sponsored it, had she been able to be here from Boston to share in the pleasure she made possible for so many people.

Jeremiah Doyle, Wauregan, of the management of the Moosup Town Talks vowed while here today that the Riverview team of Norwich will have its work cut out for it when the teams meet again at Moosup next Sunday. At present Riverview has a decided edge on the Town Talks in the series the teams are playing.

Two weeks from next Sunday, which will be Sept. 25, the daylight saving arrangement that has been in force in the majority of the communities in this immediate vicinity since last spring will come to end. The fast time arrangement has been almost universally observed in Danielson this year.

It is anticipated that this community's interest in aviation will be materially heightened through the flying circus arranged to be held next Saturday and Sunday at Kimball field on Wood's hill in Brooklyn, and that is one of the special purposes of the event, the hope being that it will be a mean stoward the development of an aviation field in Danielson.

CITY COUNCIL HEARS REPORTS AND DISCUSS TRAFFIC RULES

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 7—The city council chambers at the municipal meeting last night with Alderman-at-large Charles Richard presiding and Alderman Ryan, Rogers, Ames, Labby, Dubois and Vadnais present.

The report of Captain of Police Jarvis for the month of August was as follows: There were fifteen arrests during the month, being drunkenness ten, breach of peace one, violation of motor vehicle laws five, larceny two. They were disposed of as follows: Committed to care of probation officer, three; discharged one; judgment suspended, two; paid fines and costs, twelve. Fines and costs were collected to the amount of $431.31.

Hogan, for Sunday matinees both at the Bradley and Victory theatres in accordance with the state rules and regulations. When the permit was granted, Mr. Hogan, in behalf of the corporation extended an invitation to the members of the council to visit "Putnam's newest Roxy theatre."

Alderman Labby, for Mrs. Jennie Labby, asked that sewerage connection be made with property on a street that has not yet been accepted. Alderman Richard said that it was not customary for the city to install sewerage. In response, Mr. Labby said that he had a prospective purchaser, and that it would benefit the city, if he could sell the land with the sewerage. He said that some of Putnam's streets were not legal in measurements but were accepted by the city and a sewer had been installed. It was moved that it be referred to the highway committee with power to act.

Fire Chief Ralph E. Thurston stated that a more thorough supervision should be given to the fire house. A necessary recording instrument was estimated to cost twenty-five dollars.

Stores on the business square attract so many automobiles and the parking is so dense, especially on Saturday evenings, that in case of fire it would be impossible for the fire engines to get away from their station. If property burned to the ground, because of the fire apparatus not being able to get to the scene of the fire it would obviously increase the rate of insurance.

The parking facilities on South Main street, if used," Mr. Thurston said, "would alleviate this hazard." The matter was referred to the ordinance committee, which is composed of Vadnais, Ames and Carroll.

After the bills for the month had been ordered paid, the meeting was adjourned.

Funeral services for Mrs. Addie Hodges Teale were held yesterday afternoon from her home in West Somerville, Mass. She has been in failing health for some time. Your Kidneys

Are the Sentinels of Your Health
Don't Neglect Them!

YOUR kidneys! Do you realize what an important part these organs play in your bodily health and length of life? The kidneys are the blood filters.

To be well they must thoroughly cleanse the blood of poisonous waste. Sluggish kidneys permit waste impurities to remain in the blood and cause slow poisoning of the system.

One is apt to feel tired and drowsy—to have a dull, nagging backache and annoying headaches and dizzy spells. That the kidneys are not working right is often shown by scanty or burning excretions.

Assist the kidneys with a stimulant diuretic.* Use Doan's Pills. They have been winning new friends for more than forty years. Doan's act on the kidneys only— are endorsed from coast to coast. Ask your neighbor!

A New Power in Motordom!

The smooth and mighty power of the steam engine -and obtained without the use of special fuels

There is a new power in motordom—totally different in development and expression—totally new in range and efficiency—the smooth and mighty power of the steam engine delivered with the silky ease, dash and vivacity that stand out from all performance with brilliant luster.

The basis of this great Hudson capacity is a new companion invention to the Super-Six principle which turns waste heat to power. Together they combine the highest efficiency in power generation and transmission ever achieved within our knowledge. It makes Hudson the most economical car per pound weight in the world.

In the new Hudson motor, spark knock heretofore characteristic of the high-compression motor is eliminated.

Ordinary gasoline gives the performance results sought through special and higher-priced fuels.

The New Hudson is receiving the greatest public reception in Hudson history, because in all ways it is the greatest Hudson Super-Six ever built.

GETTING OUT THE VOTE

Back in 1924 there was a widespread movement to get out the vote. It laid stress upon the fact that too many were neglecting their responsibility and yet according to a statement by President Edgerton of the National Association of Manufacturers "27,000,000 people stayed away from the polls in the presidential election of 1920; 28,000,000 people stayed away in the election of 1924. There were 57,000,000 eligible voters in 1924 and only 29,000,000 of those cast their ballots. The ratio of actual voters to eligible voters in the latter election was 51.2 as against 49.1 in the previous national campaign. This was not quite so bad a showing, but both figures stand out as an indictment against the civic consciousness of the people of this country."

Whether the association of manufacturers or any other association lends its support to the getting out of more voters it is engaged in a worthy undertaking. There's never any telling how great a response there will be to it. The gain was slight back in 1924 and through similar efforts it ought to be possible to boost it a bit higher next year. Whether it will be possible to get out 60 per cent. or 35,000,000 out of an estimated total eligible vote of 60,000,000 is a question that will depend upon the effort made and upon the issues that develop during the campaign, and it can best be answered after the ballots have been counted.

The need of arousing the voters to their duty is evident. The franchise is eagerly sought and it seems to be treasured and yet there is a surprising indifference on the part of those who have it when an opportunity prevails for them to use it.

One might well wonder whether the franchise is appreciated today as it was in years gone by, for no farther back than 1896 the voters who went to the polls were 80 per cent. of those eligible. That percentage would be none too high for 1928, meaning 48,000,000 out of 60,000,000 eligible, but, judging from recent elections there is no reason to anticipate such an outpouring. Getting 36,000,000 will probably be a pleasing accomplishment.

LANDING FIELD DANGERS

While steps have been taken to check such low flying by aviators that they endanger the lives of those assembled to witness their stunts, or to observe other contests, there doesn't appear to have been much done to provide adequate protection for the fliers at the landing fields.

Attention is called to this by Lieutenant Williams, the speed naval flier, who points to the danger involved when great crowds surge onto the landing places and the fliers are compelled to face this added difficulty. He recognizes the harm that may befall the onlookers as well as the trouble that may be experienced by the airmen in endeavoring to avoid the crowd, and it is his suggestion that there ought to be a campaign of education by blackboards, charts and actual demonstrations to show the public how they endanger the fliers by their thoughtlessness in getting in the way.

Such demonstrations might have their effect upon some, but something more than that will be needed to keep the curious from crowding in just as closely as possible to the machine that is alighting. They cannot fail to recognize the danger, but they do not stop to think of anything except to be in the front line of witnesses. The situation is one which calls for the keeping of the public back where safety will be insured. Restrictions are not pleasant to enforce but in that as in many other instances the reason for them lies entirely with those who are penalized. Proper forethought is entirely lacking and the result is rules and regulations are forced into being.

DEPEW'S BANK ACCOUNT

We don't know that Chauncey Depew set out to teach thrift when he put $100 into a bank at Peekskill, N. Y., in 1861 and we don't know that he had anything of the kind in mind when he made inquiry at that bank one day recently concerning the amount standing in his name in that bank, but it is nevertheless an excellent lesson in making preparations for rainy days.

Mr. Depew had just earned the $100 when he banked it. He was proud of his accomplishment, and whether he acted on his own initiative or followed the advice of someone else it was the right kind of a move. He has left that deposit undisturbed for 66 years and there is to his credit now practically $1100 or $1000 in excess of the nest egg.

What he has done is only what it has been repeatedly shown can be done by those who invest wisely and leave their funds at compound interest. He took no chances with that original bank account. He might have been fortunate enough to have done much better with those first earnings if he had been willing to take chances and there are the chances that he would have no such bank account to ask about if he had gone wildcatting. He chose the safe and sane method at a time when that was the very course needed, and he is able to show others the benefit of it today.

This account doesn't of course constitute all of Mr. Depew's funds. He has been successful in other ways, but it is not improbable that it was due to the fact that he understood as a young man the value of guarding against uncertainties and the importance of storing up something that would be available in case of need. He was fortunate that he was not obliged to draw upon it and he probably realizes that it would have increased much more rapidly had he made regular additions thereto.

Such examples are worthy of the most careful study, for a little thought will quickly disclose the desirability of thrift over wastefulness. How preferable such a course is to an old age pension system!

HIGHWAY SPEED

Michigan has reached the conclusion that the time has come for the removal of the speed limit on highways outside of cities and it has adopted a law to that effect which has gone into effect this month. Michigan has followed Connecticut, for while it takes away the old 35 mile limit it requires a driver to have his car in complete control at all times in order to cope with prevailing traffic conditions. That means that he must have his car under such control that he can stop it within the assured distance ahead, but the same law penalizes reckless driving and provides a mandatory jail sentence and fine.

Michigan is putting the responsibility right up to the drivers. Where roads are good restrictions are lifted, but the driver must use judgment in letting out his car to see that he can avoid accidents and at the same time protect the rights of others.

There are many highways in which limits have not been respected in the past and it is evident that there are times when it is possible to exceed restrictions and do so safely. This is in keeping with efforts which have been undertaken in other states to speed up traffic. Rhode Island for instance requires traffic on the main thoroughfares to move along at not less than 35 miles an hour. By this means the large volume can be taken care of without the liability of congestion and it makes those who are inclined to drive at an ox-cart rate to speed up and thereby reduce the amount of passing by other vehicles headed in the same direction.

When it is realized that many of the accidents are due to speed there will be those who shudder at the idea of a "no-limit" speed law, but inasmuch as such a law does not apply to the cities and the drivers are expected to maintain control, even though they do speed in the country, there is still enough responsibility resting on their shoulders to keep recklessness at a minimum. The Michigan law will at least permit of a try out of the idea and it will naturally be closely watched by other states.

ON THEIR JOB

Time will disclose whether the six men who were arrested in Brooklyn soon after the explosion of a bomb at the courthouse were guilty of that act and just what part they have played in connection with other affairs of a similar nature. Apparently the authorities have acted none too soon in getting such a group under restraint for from the literature found, the material seized and the maps which were in their possession it is evident that they are propagandists who are encouraging anarchy and have been traveling about the country for such a purpose.

Because the courthouse explosion caused no deaths and because those bombs which were planted in the New York subway resulted in no loss of life does not mean that no attention should be paid to them. Those who were responsible for such acts were bent upon destruction. They intended to cause trouble and to terrorize part of if not the entire community.

It will be noted that the accused have not brazenly admitted that they are anarchists. They even maintain that they are not radicals and insist that they have had explosives in their possession for experimental purposes. How closely their stories jibe with the facts which the police have and with the information which the police gained in the raid upon their places will be disclosed at the proper time. Thus far the New York police have acted promptly in dealing with these gangs. Whether the actions of those arrested made this possible makes no difference. The need was for action to insure public safety and it has been taken in accord with the law with the expectation that conviction and penalization will come later.

EDITORIAL NOTES

In view of the large numbers returning home, is there any danger that Europe will be lonesome?

They must be dusting off the bell for use in a few days in recalling the few straw hats that are left.

The man on the corner says: Those who accomplish long distance water flights are proving exceptions to the rule.

The use of radio by Old Glory in the flight to Rome was a wise precaution in disclosing its location and in getting help in case of need.

Let's see, did the long distance weather prophets give us any hope in advance that we might experience such delightful weather in September?

There is constant complaint about taking big strings of fish and laws limiting the catch exist in many states, but there are those who are complaining because the president didn't exhaust the supply in Yellowstone park.

KILLING THE CAT

Dot's greatest pride lay in the fact that her husband's interests were definitely centered in her and their home. It is not difficult to imagine the peculiar trend of her agitation, therefore, when Bob made the startling announcement at the dinner table one night that he had become a full-fledged member of the Black Cat.

"And what in the world is the Black Cat?" demanded Dot.

"That's the secret," he replied, mysteriously. Dot noticed that he fumbled with his salad fork. She sighed and found a grain of comfort in his evident confusion.

"Where's the olive oil?" he grunted.

"Why, darling, I thought you disliked oil on lettuce."

"Well, this stuff needs something."

Dot brought out the oil. Then:

"Who's in this Black Cat and what do they do?" She tendered her spouse one of those innocent, wide-eyed stares which so very often launch husbands beyond the cradle age on foaming seas of rage.

"Oh, thunder," Bob exploded. "Don't be a nag. It's a secret organization and it meets every Tuesday night. That's all I can tell you and all I will tell you. Now for goodness sake, let's drop the subject."

"Certainly, love," replied Dot. "Shall we have dessert?" Then to herself. "The very fact that he won't tell me about these Tuesday nights indicates that there is something to tell."

Tuesday morning arrived and Bob appeared at the breakfast table fortified by an air of supercilious dignity.

"What would you like to have for dinner tonight?"

"Won't be home. This is Tuesday," came the prompt rejoiner.

"Of course. How silly of me." Dot blushed and dropped her eyes.

He was scarcely out of the house when the telephone rang.

"Why, Bess Aldrich, what's the matter?"

This was the beginning of the day's phone activities for Dot. By noon seven of her most intimate friends had called her up and all for the same purpose: Did she know anything about the Black Cat? Each one had a husband enmeshed in this feline creature's clutches.

"Let's kill the cat," she offered boldly.

"We couldn't if we did," one added, almost in tears. "They say a cat has nine lives."

"I was thinking of something else they say about cats," Dot persisted stubbornly. "I've a peach of an idea, but you mustn't breathe it to a soul—never ever, even if it works."

The seven wives promised faithfully.

That night there was a cyclonic upheaval in Dot's ordinarily immaculate little bungalow. It was a fair example of what took place in seven other little bungalows. Dot wrought the havoc in her own house and then stood viewing the effect. Her very best coat sprawled outrageously across a footstool near the living-room door. Close by on a chair lay her hat. Strung along the hall floor were a chiffon scarf, a pair of gloves and a handkerchief. The bathroom was a jumble of silk undergarments, the bedroom was a muddle of cosmetic scents and a conglomeration of accessories which constitute a modern woman's toilet. To add further to the disorder Dot had spilled a box of powder on the floor, right in front of the chiffonier.

"It's not so bad at that," she sighed, "for all this debris doesn't tell anything definite; it merely hints that I have had an occasion to pull out my very best clothes and that I was in a dreadful hurry about everything."

Then she went to bed, but not to sleep. She heard Bob at the front door, heard the dive he made through the house, understood to a tee the grunt he gave when he stepped into the bedroom where she lay with her eyes tight shut. Morning came, and with it breakfast; but Bob Perkins made no comment whatsoever on the night before.

A week rolled by and on the following Tuesday Dot said at the breakfast table "I suppose you'll be off to the Cat tonight?

"What gave you the big idea?" Bob growled.

"It's the night for it."

"Not much kick in the darned thing," Bob put in glumly. "Think from now on I'll hover around the old home roost."

Later on that morning seven feminine voices said to Dot over the telephone:

"It's dead—I do believe its dead." And seven times Dot replied confidently.

"Yes. I'm sure that curiosity has killed the Cat."—Chicago News.

HOW CANCER OF THE URINARY TRACT IS DETECTED

By Elmer Hess, M. D., Erie Pa.
Member Gorgas Memorial

In discussing hte urinary tract, we of course consider all the organs which have to do with the manufacture and expulsion of urine from the body. This includes two kidneys, the tubes leading from the kidneys to the bladder, the reservoir or bladder, and the tube leading from the bladder carrying the urine away from the body.

Cancer, of course, is a growth of cells which take nourishment which should go to other parts of the body. These cell-masses bleed easily, causing hemorrhage. The cancer or tumor is composed of cells which are not normal and these cells can spread very easily to other parts of the body. They can be best likened to the spread of weeds in a garden. They grow anywhere and everywhere, taking the normal body nourishment for themselves and depriving the normal cells of the same nourishment.

Cancer can occur in the kidney, in the tube leading from the kidney to the bladder, in the bladder, and in the structures surrounding the tube emptying the bladder.

The first question the ordinary individual wants answered is: "How can I tell when I have a cancer of the urinary tract and if I have cancer can it be cured?"

Blood in the urine is perhaps the very first and very earliest symptom of cancer. This bleeding may be the only sign for months that anything is ing occasionally. There may be othed or it may be very scanty, only showing occaselonally. There may be other symptoms, such as burning on urination, painful urination, pain in the back, a lump in the pack in the region of either the right or left kidney. As a rule these symptoms do not appear except in the later stages of the disease.

What is the safe thing for a person to do who has passed blood in the urine, and does the bloody urine always mean cancer? Of course, bloody urine does not always mean cancer. There are other diseases which can cause bleeding from the urinary tract but the first thing a competent physician thinks of, when a patient comes in and tells him that he or she has passed blood in the urine, is cancer.

Most cancers could be cured if, on the first appearance of blood from the urinary tract, the patient would go to a competent physician and that physician would then refer the patient to a competent urologist or genito-urinary specialist with the demand for a complete and thorough investigation of the urinary tract by all the known methods of diagnostic procedure.

No man can make a diagnosis, an early diagnosis, of cancer of the bladder, uterer, or the kidney, without the aid of the electric lighted instrument, the cystoscope, and the aid of a competent X-ray man. The important thing is a complete and thorough immediate investigation by a kidney specialist in close cooperation with the family physician.

English As She's Spoken

The young college professor was home for a vacation. Across the way from his home lived a neighbor just starting in business with pigeons. One night the professor went over to his neighbor's place and was invited to inspect the pigeons and the houses in which they were raised.

So in went the professor, listening all the while to the account of the pigeon raising. He wasn't much interested until his neighbor began to tell of the birds' mating habits, emphasizing the fact that one bird mates only with one another, and that they continue this arrangement forever. To the professor the fidelity of the pigeons in this day of easy divorce seemed remarkable, and he broke into the discourse suddenly.

"Oh, they're maggamous, are they?"

His neighbor turned quickly and looked at him in surprise, apparently wondering how any man could be so dumb.

"Naw, they ain't; they're pigeons."

The Open Cellar Door

When e'er a door is open wide
Temptation may be just inside.
—Buster Bear.

You may be sure that when Farmer Brown's Boy took Cubby back he fastened that chain so that there would be no pulling it free again. Such a sight as Farmer Brown's Boy was! You will remember he had a milk bath. Cubby had frightened the cow that Farmer Brown's Boy was milking and she had upset him and tipped the pail of milk over. How Farmer Brown and Mother Brown did laugh at him!

"I don't know what's going to happen," said Farmer Brown, "if we keep that cub much longer. There is no knowing what that rascal will do next. He certainly has brought us more excitement than a box of monkeys would have."

Cubby didn't miss anything that was going on around Farmer Browns. Those small eyes of his took in everything about him. There were certain places that he had made up his mind to pay a visit the first chance he got. He didn't tell anybody this. Of course he couldnt have told anybody if he had wanted to, but he wouldn't have told if he could. You see, he suspected that those were places that no little Bear was expected to visit. One of those places was the cellar of Farmer Brown's house.

Now the cellar of Farmer Brown's house could be entered from the outside by what is called a bulkhead. Now and again the bulkhead doors were left open and Cubby could get a glimpse of what looked to him like a nice, dark, interesting cave. The more he saw of that nice, dark, interesting cave the more he longed to explore it; and in the back of his funny little black head was a resolution that some day he would visit it. He would just watch his chance.

Now there is a saying that all things come to him who waits. Cubby waited for that chance because he had to wait, and at last the chance came. It was this way.

Farmer Brown's Boy had been playing with Cubby. As a rule Cubby would follow Farmer Browns Boy anywhere, so whenever possible Farmer Brown's Boy would unsnap the chain from Cubby's collar and set him free. Then he would keep watch of Cubby to see that he didn't get into any serious mischief. On this particular day Cubby had taken it into his funny little head to climb a tree, his favorite tree in the dooryard. Cubby regarded that tree as his own and sometimes he would go up and stay a long time. In fact, the little rascal would take a nap up there. So Cubby had climbed the tree and established himself in his favorite crotch high up. Up there he certainly couldn't get into mischief.

Up there he certainly couldn't get into mischief

Farmer Brown's Boy went into the barn on an errand. Hardly had he disappeared through the barn doorway when Cubby came down that tree tail first. It is surprising how fast a little Bear can come down when he is in a hurry. Cubby was in a hurry. All the way down he kept one eye on that doorway through which Farmer Brown's Boy had disappeared. He was for all the world like a mischievous small boy. When he was almost to the ground he let go and dropped. Then, with a hasty glance toward the barn, he scurried straight for the open cellar door, straight for that fascinating dark cave he had looked at so longingly so many times.

At the entrance Cubby stopped for an instant and stretched forth that funny little nose of his to see what he could smell. There were certain odors that promised to be interesting. That dark cave promised to be even better than Cubby had thought it would be. He didn't hesitate. He went right straight in. And when he got down in the cellar he stood up on his two little hind feet and looked eagerly all about while his wobbly little nose told him that there were good things in that celar.

AGGIE FOOTBALL SQUAD TO START PRACTICE TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Sept. 7.—The first football practice of the season for the Connecticut Aggies will be held tomorrow at Storrs under the direction of Freshman Coach Louis A. Alexander, '23, who will direct grid work at the state college until Varsity Coach Sumner A. Dole has sufficiently recovered from his operation for appendicitis to take over the work. Latest reports from the St. Joseph's hospital in Willimantic were Dole is convalescent are indefinite as to when the Aggie mentor will be in conditon to take charge of the squad and it is doubtful if he can resume work until October at the earliest.

About 50 candidates are expected to report for the first day of practice tomorrow, and intensive drill will begin immediately in preparation for the first game of the season with the U. S. Coast Guard academy at Storrs on September 24, which allows a scant 18 days of actual practice before the initial contest of the year. The size of the squad will probably be increased somewhat with the opening of college on the 19th, but as has previously been announced, by Coach Dole, all candidates should report tomorrow.

Announcement of the addition of Elmore G. Ashman, '23, of Guilford, to the Aggie coaching staff was made today by Prof. Allan W. Manchester, thairman of the athletic council.

SUPERIOR COURT ENDS SEPT. TERM WITH GADLE AND ZELINSKI CASES

The September term of the criminal superior court which opened here on Tuesday morning came to an end Wednesday immediately after the noon recess with the Gadle and Zelinski cases as the last to be disposed of.

All through the morning Attorney Charles L. Stewart, counsel for Joseph Gadle, Jr., of Hickory street, who was accused of operating an automobile while intoxicated and Attorney Morris Lubchansky, counsel for Mrs. Annie Zelinski, of 69 Summit street, accused of violation of the liquor laws, were in conference over the cases and explained to Judge John R. Booth in chambers the conditions and evidence in each case.

This resulted in both of the accused being brought before the court immediately after the noon recess. Gadie was first put to plea, and pleaded guilty to operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor on Sept. 3 in this city. State Attorney Brown at once moved for sentence and Judge Booth pronounced the sentence of six months in jail.

Mrs. Zelinsky, who had pleaded not guilty on Tuesday to three counts and had elected to be tried by the court, was then brought before the court. She changed her plea to guilty on the third count, which was on reputation of keeping liquor with intent to sell, and also pleaded guilty to a new count charging her with being a third offender.

State Attorney Brown recommended a sentence of a fine of $500 and six months in jail, asking that the New London jail be specified as the Zelinski family was about to move to New London. Judge Booth accepted the recommendation and made the sentence as stated.

Gadle, who was a second offender on the charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, was arrested here last Saturday night after the machine he was driving on North Main street had struck a telephone pole, run into a fence and knocked over a gasoline pump at the filling station of Charles O. Mueller. The car turned over on its side and Gadle was found behind the wheel by Officer Peter Vuono who arrived shortly afterwards in a pursuing machine. It was reported that the Gadle machine had struck automobiles in Taftville and on North Main street before hitting the pole.

One of the two counts against Mrs. Zelinski which was nolled alleged a sale of half a pint of liquor to Nathan Repps, her cousin, on Aug. 22, who is understood to have been in the employ of the police as a spotter. But Repps was a missing witness Wednesday and could not be found to testify. Mrs. Zelinsky was convicted of the charge of violation of the liquor law, on Aug. 30, 1923, in the city court of Norwich; was given six months in jail by Judge Allyn L. Brown at the January term of the superior court here in 1925.

In the court Wednesday morning John Foley 29, married, of Lyme, was sentenced to serve four months in jail after pleading guilty to a charge of statutory burglary. Foley was arrested last June 6 for the theft of cigarettes and other small commodities from Smith's Filling station, Waterford. He was taken into custody by state policemen from the Groton barracks after being found near the filling station by the owner.

In court Wednesday Foley admitted the theft but declared that he was under the influence of liquor when he committed it. He was recently arrested in New London for driving under the influence of liquor.

When the court business for the term was over Wednesday afternoon, Judge Booth declared a recess until October 28. At that time he will be here to preside at a session of the civil superior court.

SPOKE TO ROTARIANS ON RADIO DEVELOPMENT

A. J. FitzGerald, local amateur radio experimenter, gave an interesting review of the outstanding accomplishments in the history of radio, at the meeting of the Rotary club on Wednesday noon. Mr. FitzGerald told of radio experiments in Spain at the close of the eighteenth century and on through the 19th and 20th centuries, a period of nearly 130 years. Most people believe Marconi and DeForest were the originators of radio but this is erroneous, he said, as both Marconi and DeForest took a previous discovery and developed it. It has been within the last decade that radio has become a source of entertainment other than something to experiment and play with.

President Clarence A. Spear presided at the meeting and Dr. Fred Richards in charge of the program introduced Mr. FitzGerald. J. Lincoln Crawford was the song leader. The most pleasing event of the musical program was the duet numbers by Maurice E. (Shorty) Wallen of Hartford and Frank R. Murdy who sang the Gypsy Love Song and The World is Waiting for the Sunrise.

Secretary Jewett made several announcements relative to the fall conclave and the charter night of the Shelton-Derby club and the Bristol club. The meeting closed with singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

ILLEGAL NORWICH MARRIAGE ON HARTFORD LICENSE

Dr. Charles P. Botsford, superintendent of health, who has supervision of the Hartford marriage license bureau, has notified the Rev. Dorothcos Nemos of No. 272 Franklin street, Norwich, that the ceremony in which he joined in marriage Sam Nicholson and Mabel Emory, both of Hartford, was illegal and void, because the license was issued in Hartford and the marriage was performed in Norwich.

The state law provides that if a clergyman marries a couple in any other town than the one in which the license is issued he is liable for a fine of $500 or a year in jail or both. In such a situation the attorney general has ruled, Dr. Botsford explained, that the marriage ceremony may be legally corrected by having it repeated in the town in which the couple obtained the license or else have them obtain a new license in the town in which the clergyman lives.

It is not often clergymen make this mistake, Dr. Botsford said, as the license blank which the clergyman fills out, states the legal requirements regarding this situation. The application for license indicated that the couple live at No. 22 Goodwin street, Hartford, that the groom is a counterman, age 24, and the bride gave her age as 18 and her occupation, chambermaid.

WARRANT SENT HERE FOR LEVESQUE'S ARREST

Chief George Linton Wednesday morning received a warrant from the Providence police chief for the arrest of Geoffrey J. L. Levesque of West Warwick, R. I., now in the Norwich jail working out a fine for violation of the motor vehicle laws in this city last Saturday. The warrant charges Levesque with theft of the automobile which he was driving in this city when he was arrested here.

The machine belongs to Joseph Dimeo of No. 75 Westminster street, Providence. Levesque, according to information received by Chief Linton, has served two years in the Rhode Island state prison and was shot once while trying to escape. He is also wanted in Coventry, R. I., on a burglary charge. The charge against him in the local police court was failure to grant the right of way.

John W. Campbell, representative of an insurance company, came here Wednesday and recovered the automobile which has been held in a garage by the Norwich police.

CONNECTICUT BUSINESS IN TRANSITION PERIOD

HARTFORD, Sept. 7—Henry Trumbull, treasurer of the Trumbull Electric Manufacturing company, who was recently elected first vice president of the Connecticut chamber of commerce, by its board of directors, today issued the following statement to the members of the state chamber:

"Connecticut, in common with other sections of New England, is going through a transition period at the present moment. This transition period has been caused by the aggressiveness of other sections of the United States and also by the fact that the entire American business structure is undergoing a change brought about by increased competition, new methods, closer margins, new products, new inventions—and, generally speaking—a rather wide-spread replacement of the old by the new.

"Until quite recently I am afraid that Connecticut may have gloried both consciously and unconsciously a bit too much in the prestige obtained by virtue of the early development of New England as compared to the rest of the country and the subsequent leadership in business matters which we obtained as a result of this early development.

HENRY TRUMBULL

"Quite recently, however, the new order of things appeared on the horizon. The two factors of competition from other sections of the country and of alterations in the American business structure became apparent. We of Connecticut and of New England began to view our assets and our liabilities in a new light. We came to see that Connecticut and New England must keep on developing in order to keep pace with the new order of things. At this point the transition period arrived.

"Today we of Connecticut are thinking along different lines than we did even five years ago. Certainly, our attitude toward business has changed from that of ten years ago. Our thought is still undergoing a change; we are still in the transition period of adjusting ourselves and our business structure to the new order of things. How long this transition period will last is any man's guess. It will last until we of Connecticut and of New England have come to realize that 'eternal vigilance is the price of safety.'

"The transition period through which Connecticut and her business structure is today going is one of the most interesting in our history. The emergencies of a transition period are always more interesting than the tranquilities of normalcy. They are also more trying and yet they have a good aspect, as they challenge our ability and our versatility to the utmost. The business men and the public realize this as well as the fiction writer and the dramatist.

"Not only are the emergencies of transition periods more interesting, but they are also more vital to the life of a community. Connecticut and New England are in a vital period in their careers. The business men of Connecticut today are thinking as never before; they are solving problems, affecting economies, introducing improvements and changes as never before. If we visualize Connecticut as a ship, we may say that her deck is stripped for action as has not been the case in a long period of years. In recent months I believe Connecticut has returned to some of the aggressiveness and seriousness which was prevalent in the early days of this country when our forefathers faced a stern array of problems and difficulties. We are fast deserting the ease and complacency and indifference that has characterized New England for the last twenty or thirty years.

"My activities as an officer of the Connecticut chamber of commerce will be to assist in every possible way and to encourage the business interests of Connecticut to meet successfully the problems of this transition period—these emergencies—through which we are now going. The state chamber has the confidence of the business institutions of Connecticut. Its record is one of constructive accomplishments for the welfare of those business institutions and of the state itself. The state chamber has the active interest of many business leaders. It has a board of directors of eighty-eight men representing all of the branches of business in all sections of Connecticut. This last winter it had twenty committees with a personnel of one hundred sixty. It has over one thousand members. All of those business concerns and executives are grouped together expressing their thoughts and helping Connecticut to meet the emergencies of this transition period which we are now going through. The state chamber is not a one-man organization; it is supported and conducted by a large number of highly responsible persons. Its constitution defines its purpose as: 'To promote the welfare of the people of Connecticut and bring to the solution of public questions the collective judgment and concerted action of the entire organization.'

"It is my desre to keep Connecticut progressive—realizing that what we do to help Connecticut also helps ourselves and our individual business institutions to prosper. We all want to live in a prosperous and progressive Connecticut. More than ever before we must learn to think in state-wide terms—not in purely local terms. We must all pull together. We must meet the emergences of this transition period courageously and wholeheartedly. We must get back of an organization that is doing the constructive work that the state chamber is doing. Today the business interests of Connecticut need an organization such as the state chamber as they never did before.

"In short, it is my hope that we can all get together and: 'Keep Connecticut Pigressive'".

JEWETT CITY FANS BANKING ON YOUNG SALINSKY TO WIN IN DUWELL AMATEURS

YOUNG SALINSKY

In three fights, Young Salinsky of Jewett City, has demonstrated to the local fans that he is about the most promising prospect in the boxing line turned out in this section in many a moon. The Jewett City feather, since appearing in the Duwell cards of amateur bouts, has scored one technical K. O. and won two other decisions, each by a wide margin.

At the first card staged over at the Duwell field he chased his opponent all around the ring for three rounds for an easy win. It was during his second local appearance against a Westerly boy that the locals saw the real Salinsky in action. Displaying the class and style of a veteran, he danced around his Rhode Island opponent for two rounds and threw gloves from every angle, until his man was actually cut to pieces, and called for the towel. At the athletic meet over at the Fairgrounds on Labor day, the Jewett City youngster was forced to extend himself to beat Young Fairbank of Westerly, after that boy had unintentionally fouled him in the first round.

Instead of demanding a decision after the unfortunate blow, Salinsky won himself a lot of new friends by going to Fairbank's corner to touch his gloves to express his willingness to forgive the foul and carry on the fight.

Salinsky is only one of Jack Potts' stable of boxers who fight. The Jewett City manager handles the interests of "Vic" Darr, Young Bontempo, Kid Miller, Young Golas, and Young Smith, all of whom are entered for the amateur show over at the Duwell field, Friday night.

Possible Heavyweight Bout

The possibility of a heavyweight scrap for Friday night, looms up at the present time, as a result of the challenge hurled at "Big Boy" Burlay of Westerly by Pete Tombari of the West Side section of this city.

Tombari saw the Rhode Islander beat up Billy Brush at the first show and feels that the colored boy is made to order for him.

The West Sider has been training on the quiet for the past few weeks and now thinks that he is ready to measure Burlap. Although it is not permissable to advertise any particular amateur bout, Burlap and Tombari are the only two heavies registered, so that it now appears as if a bout between these two men must be. All boxers are requested to get in their entries before tonight. The first to enter will be given the preference of going on.

COUTURE ALLOWS TWO HITS AS Y. M. C. A. WINS

Holding the Thermos to two scattered hits while his mates got to Driscoll in the first two frames for seven runs, Couture tossed the Y. M. C. A. to a 7-1 win last night in the Industrial league at the Academy campus. After the first inning the Y had little to worry about although they were held runless from the moment Lemieux entered the box at the start of the third inning. Lemieux fanned five in the three innings he worked.

Pete Tombari took the lead in home runs in the league, poling out his third in the second inning with two men on base. It was a vicious drive to left center and after striking the race track near the scoreboard, bounded clean over the fence across the road. Tombari also got a single for himself besides catching a bang-up game.

The league leading Richmond Radiators have a chance to clinch the Industrial league's first pennant tonight (Thursday) at the Academy campus when they meet the second place Werman Shoe team. A win for the Ironmen this evening will assure them of first place when the final standings are reckoned and will send the Shoers hurling down the ladder quite awaya.

NO "POINT THROWING" IN DAVIS CUP MATCHES

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7—(AP)—Captains of the rival Davis cup teams, Charles S. Garland of America and M. Pierre Gillou of France, agreed today on a policy of not "throwing" points as a sporting gesture, in the challenge round matches starting tomorrow. Whether the players will abide by it, however, appears another matter.

"It is agreeable to me and I will make the request to our men," said Mr. Gillou but with a shrug of his shoulders he indicated doubt that "at least one" of the French players would agree.

The French captain was understood to refer to Rene LaCoste, who always has shown readiness to "throw" a point to offset a decision in his favor with which he did not agree.

"Big Bill" Tilden, the American ace, is widely known for similar tactics whenever he felt that question existed on a ruling of linesman or umpire in his favor. In fact Tilden has not only "thrown" points but games and sets when piqued or dissatisfied with decisions.

REDS CUT LEAD OF PIRATES TO HALF GAME

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 7—(AP)—Cincinnati gave the pennant aspirations of the Pittsburgh Pirates another jolt today by taking the odd game of a five-game series, 6 to 5. With the second place Giants idle, the defeat narrowed the Pirates' hold on first place to a half game.

Hill, who started for Pittsburgh, was wild and was relieved by Dawson in the eighth. Costly fielding fumbles also figured largely in the Cincinnati scoring.

The Reds scored three runs in the third inning on two walks, a double by Dressen, a sacrifice fly and Harris' muff of Wright's throw on Bressler's grounder. Cincinnati put two more runs across in the next inning on a single, another walk, and a second two-base hit by Dressen, the second run going in on Barnhart's low return to Traynor of Dressen's hit.

The visitors' sixth run was scored in the sixth on a single by Sukeforth, a stolen base, Smith's wild throw and Dressen's sacrifice fly.

The Pirates were held scoreless until the third when two runs were counted on a walk, singles by the Waner brothers, and a double steal on which Lloyd Waner scored. Wright's double and Traynor's single added another in the sixth. Wright hit for the circuit in the eighth with the bases empty.

Pittsburgh attempted a comeback in the last inning when Harris tripled with one out and scored on Smith's sacrifice fly. Brickell was sent into pinch hit for Dawson but lined out to Pittenger.

Lloyd Waner returned to center field after having been out of the game since Monday with a split finger. The score:

CUBS AND CARDS BREAK EVEN IN DOUBLEHEADER

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 7—(AP)—The third place St. Louis Cardinals and the fourth place Chicago Cubs divided a doubleheader here today, the Cards taking the first 6 to 2, and the Cubs copping the second 8 to 4.

The world's champions gained ground on Pittsburgh, in first place, as the Pirates lost to Cincinnati. The Cardinals are now two games behind first place and one and one-half games behind New York, in second place.

The Cardinals swatted Carlson and Nehf for thirteen safeties in the first game, including a home run by Bell with two on in the sixth. Orsatti, recently obtained from Houston, got four hits. Frankhouse, also obtained from Houston, pitched well until the eighth when he was relieved by Haines after walking two men.

The Cubs batted Blake out in the fourth inning of the second game after he had allowed three runs. Wilson, Chicago center fielder, hit his twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth homers of the season in the seventh and ninth innings. No one was on base either time. The score:

RUTH HITS TWO MORE HOMERS AS YANKS WIN

BOSTON, Sept. 7—(AP)—Babe Ruth personally conducted the Yankees to a 12 to 10 victory over the Red Sox in the last game between the clubs this year before 12,000 fans today. He made two homers for a total of 49 making him four up on Gehrig. He hoisted off MacFayden in the opening stanza with none on base. In the sixth, his double drove in two runs and he later scored. In the eighth, with Shawkey on base he connected with the Harris delivery for another of his famous Ruthian smashes.

The Red hose put over an eight-run attack in the fourth but could not hoil the lead.

DODGERS SPLIT TWIN BILL WITH PHILLIES

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7—(AP)—The seventh place Brooklyn Robins and the tail end Phillies divided a doubleheader here today, the Phils winning the opener by 3 to 2 and taking the short end of a 3 to 1 verdict in the second.

Petty had the Quakers blanked with three hits until the ninth when he was driven from the box and nicked for three runs. Babe Herman hit a home run in each contest. The clubs broke even on the season's series with eleven victories apiece. The score:

RUTH NOW HITTING FASTER PACE THAN IN 1921

NEW YORK, Sept. 7—(AP)—Babe Ruth's dash to better his own home run record of 59 in one season established in 1921 received added momentum today when the Yanks' big gun banged out a pair at Boston for a current total of 49. The Bambino has 20 more games in which to make up the ten home run deficit at the present time.

For the first time in months, Ruth has gained a noticeable advantage on the up and coming Gehrig who now trails by four of the big swats.

Comparison of home run data in 1921 and now shows that Ruth is stepping along at a faster pace in the present struggle.

The Babe has hit 12 home runs in the last 20 contests against eight homers during that same interval in 1921. However, he is five homers behind his banner year standing for the number of games played at this time.

Ruth had three homers in the two games at Boston yesterday and combined with the two today, the five aggregate ties the record for that achievement. Ruth did it once before in 1921. Other like performances are held by Ken Williams of the Browns who produced five home runs in three consecutive games in 1922. The records for five was first set by Michael Mildoon of the Cleveland Nationals in 1882 and duplicated by Mike Kelly of the Chicago Nationals in 1885.

The standing:

	Played Games	Homers
Ruth, 1921	134	54
Ruth, 1927	134	49
Gehrig, 1927	134	46

TWO HORSES KILLED IN SPILL ON RACE TRACK

CHICAGO, Sept. 7—(AP)—Six horses went down, two being killed and two jockeys were seriously injured and four others shaken up when a big field of eleven selling-platers piled up near the first turn in the mile and the furlong, sixth race, at Washington park today.

The spill came directly in front of the clubhouse and was the most serious ever to occur on a Chicago track. Jockey Mick Walsh, riding his first race on any track, was believed to have suffered a broken neck, and G. Hughes, another jockey, was also seriously hurt. Jockeys on the other four horses were shaken up and bruised.

The horses killed in the spill were Fifteen Sixty, owned by H. P. Garner of Kentucky, and Pommard, owned by A. Peternel of California. Others which went down were Princess Elma, Roella, Stone Age and Ann.

J., Sept. 7—(AP)—The greater Newark baseball club, including its franchise in the International league, the players, and a $200,000 stadium, was purchased at auction today by Paul Block of New York, advertising man and newspaper owner. The total price was $507,040, his bid being $360,000, and the remainder representing an indebtedness to citizens who subscribed to a building fund last year.

JOHNSTON AND TILDEN TO BE AMERICAN LINE OF DEFENSE IN DAVIS CUP PLAY

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7—(AP)—For the seventh time in eight years of Davis cup campaigning, "Little Bill" Johnston and "Big Bill" Tilden will form the main line of America's defense in the challenge round battle with France for the historic tennis trophy, starting tomorrow, on the courts of the Germantown Cricket club.

With today's draw for the opening two singles match, starting at 2:15 p. m., Johnston will play Rene LaCoste, present holder of the American singles title, after which Tilden will meet his Wimbledon conqueror Henri Cochet.

These pairings promise plenty of opening drama for a series expected to develop the most formidable challenge to American team supremacy since the famous Australian combination of Brokos and Wilding carried off the trophy in 1914. The "luck" of the draw if any, appears equally divided for while Johnston's game in the past has always been "poison" to LaCoste, Tilden has found Cochet a Nemesis here and abroad within the past year.

The doubles match, scheduled Friday between teams which will not be officially announced until tomorrow, and two singles matches Saturday, the first between Tilden and LaCoste, the second between Johnston and Cochet, will conclude the challenge round. Possession of the Davis cup will go to the teams first capturing three matches.

Although it is generally believed Tilden and Francis T. Hunter, by virtue of their Wimbledon and American championship doubles victories, will be the choice of the defenders for the doubles, strong belief was entertained by some observers tonight that Johnston would be paired with Tilden, thus putting the entire defense in the hands of the two "Bills" who brought the cup back from Australia in 1920.

Several members of the Davis cup selection committee were known to favor the Tilden-Johnston combination on the ground that Hunter did not quite measure up to expectations in the national tournament at Boston. Offsetting this, however, is the record of Tilden and Hunter's comparatively decisive march through the national field plus the fact that they have played together brilliantly all season and that Tilden personaly favors Hunter as his partner in this series.

Except for a single reverse in trial matches two years ago at the hands of the now defunct doubles team of Richard N. Williams and Vincent Richards, Tilden and Johnston never have been beaten in doubles. They paired together, however, for Davis cup play only in 1920 and 1924.

Should there be victories tomorrow for both American singles defenders Tilden and Hunter may yet assume the burden of the doubles. Should France win one or both of the opening encounters, it is believed Tilden and Johnston will be asked to combine forces for a last stand.

On the strength of Tilden's brilliant present form, his keen desire for a big come-back, and that fact that Johnston previously has had the "Indian sign" on France's aces, America is favored to win the series and keep the cup for the eighth year in a row. Johnston's form is somewhat uncertain because he has had no preliminary singles competition in the east but tennis critics are accepting "Little Bill" on faith, as well as past performances.

CLARK-KAPLAN BOUT AT NEW HAVEN TONIGHT

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 7—Louis Kid Kaplan, resigned featherweight champion of the world, and Clicky Clark, of Holyoke, two fighters who are now headed for the lightweight crown worn by Sammy Mandell, will meet at the arena here tomorrow night in a 12-round bout for the lightweight championship of New England.

The bout is all important for both men as a defeat for one or the other will mean virtual elimination in the race for the tiara which has been kicked about considerably since Benny Leonard put aside his gloves.

Kaplan and Clark are supported by a strong bill which brings the total roundage of the show up to 38 rounds. In a special six round semi-final Nando Tassi, who two years ago was a school teacher in his native Italy, will meet Prince Tooma, a Syrian potentate who was brought to this country by Jimmy De Forest when that very able trainer of Jack Dempsey discovered that he had ring capabilities.

Tassi has an enviable record in Italy and South America and when he steps into the ring here tomorrow night he will be making his initial bow on United States soil. Tooma has appeared in several fights in New York city and looks like a comer in the light heavyweight ranks.

Two eight rounders and a four round opening bout complete the bill.

In the first of the two eights Murray Gitlitz, heavyweight of New Haven, who made his name with the Yale boxing team and then later with the United States Olympic outfit, will meet Al Walker, Southern colored heavyweight champ who is now residing in New Haven. The other brings together Bobby Wagner, brother of Eddie Kid Wagner, of Philadelphia, and Red Garren, sturdy lightweight of Waterbury. The opening bout will feature a return engagement of Jimmy Clinch, of New Britain, and Harry Goldberg, of New Haven. In their last meeting Clinch was knocked out. The first bout will go on at 8:15.

TUNNEY LAYS OFF UNTIL EYE HEALS

TUNNEY CAMP, Lake Villa, Ill., Sept. 7—(AP)—Nursing a cracked eyelid, inflicted by Chuck Wiggins' head in a sparring bout, Gene Tunney declared a holiday today and visited with friends across the Lake Villa. The vacation will continue through tomorrow, with boxing workouts probable for both Friday and Saturday.

JUDGES ARE APPOINTED FOR TAFTVILLE FIELD DAY

At a recent meeting of the Taftville field day committee the following were as judges, Erastus Terrington, A. E. Pingree, Bryan Hanlon and William Bailey. John Sharples was chosen starter and George Young will be timer. The committee is hard at work getting things ready for the field day on Sept. 17th and entries for the various events are being received.

GOLF CLUB NOTES

John Dick entered the semi-finals of the club championship on Wednesday when he eliminated John F. Rogers, one up. Dick will meet the winner of the Moulton-Eldred match in the semi-finals.

Dave Morton is matched against W. G. Park in a first round match of the club championship which will be played this afternoon. The winner of this match will meet Sam Wilcox in the semi-finals.

In the first sixteen of the Labor day tournament Sam Wilcox has defaulted to Warren Chaffin as he leaves for college next Monday and will be unable to play out the tournament. Sam is a member of the William and Mary golf team.

In the second sixteen E. R. Bliven and F. R. Smith go to the second round as Eben Learned, Sr., and Eben Learned, Jr., defaulted as they will be out of town during the next few weeks.

A week from today at the team match between the Norwich and New London Rotary clubs Masse Miller will play a return match with R. Brooks of the New London Country club. In the previous match Brooks won from Miller.

Yesterday about twenty executives of the Eastern Connecticut Power Co. indulged in a company tournament, five foursomes playing the course. The results of the play are given elsewhere on this page.

Another big tournament is to take place in two weeks when the woolen men, manufacturers, buyers and brokers stage their annual tournament. It is expected that about 90 will take part in this tournament.

Now that school has started there is a shortage of caddies at the club until late in the afternoon.

After playing eighteen holes on Wednesday Buster Corey said that he had come to the conclusion that he was a cold weather golfer.

Five days of ideal golfing weather and now those of a pessimistic turn of mind predict rain.

MARTAFTS TO PLAY MANTON CLUB SUNDAY

There will be no game at the Providence street grounds on Saturday but on Sunday the Martafts will clash with Dan Costigan's fast Manton Town Team. The Manton team played the Riverview club last week and lost by one run the score being 8 to 7. Costigan has a well balanced club that plays a fast brand of ball.

E. A. HARRIS WINS EASTERN CONN. POWER CO. ANNUAL GOLF TROPHY

Big Ed Harris, husky south paw golfer, shot his way to a 20 gross to win the Mitchell trophy for the third time in the Eastern Connecticut Power Co. golf tournament held at the Norwich Golf club on Wednesday. Mr. Harris was five strokes ahead of his nearest competitor, William B. Mitchell, doner of the trophy. The winning of the trophy yesterday gives the company's treasurer permanent possession of the cup as his name has been on the cup for 1925 and 1926. Mr. Mitchell having won it the first year.

Eighteen executives of the company from all divisions of the company participated in the tournament and the scores ranged from Mr. Harris' 90 to 156, made by R. K. Linsley of the Hartford office. First low net was made by C. F. Hamer of Hartford, who had a gross of 101 with a 30 handicap, giving him 71. C. L. Campbell also of the Hartford division had second low net with a 72 net and 100 gross.

Mr. Phillips stated that he had constructed a wall which conformed with the pond line in his deed and had only built to the water's edge.

Mr. Bliven admitted building a dock 40 feet into the pond, running the length of his property, but claimed he was merely building a dock where the new Pleasant View pumper would be operated not only to protect his property but those adjoining.

Mrs. Smith did not appear. The commission announced that as there were no objections to the dock built by Mr. Phillips and that built by Mr. Bliven, in all probability if a proper permit were filed the docks would be allowed to remain. Lengthening Shadows

Over 90 years ago the first cargo of coal for this company landed on Central Wharf. Since that time over three and one half million tons of coal have passed through our hands to the coal users of Norwich. In one pile this vast quantity would if piled on a lot 800 feet square, tower into the air over 700 feet.

Close your eyes and visualize this impressive mountain of coal. Realize the long years of toil that have gone into its distribution to our city—the unfailing practice of sound and fair business that must have been used to accomplish its purchase and sale.

And as your eyes see the ever lengthening shadow of this vast accomplishment — the bringing of health and happiness to our homes and power and prosperity to our factories do not forget the smaller but just as important shadow that lengthens beside it.

The Spirit of Edward Chappell, founder of this business, is still and always will be our guiding genius. A great merchant and a fair man he has left us a legacy of integrity in all things that we prize and guard more highly than all our other possessions.

Into the very fibre of this business have grown the unalterable laws of successful business propounded by him. Each one in our office, those in our yards, the men on our trucks know them and live by them — The unfailing habit of helpful service; absolute integrity in all things; courtesy under every consideration and always at reasonable prices.

THE LATE FRED S. CAMPBELL MAN OF NOTABLE SKILL

The funeral of Fred S. Campbell was held in the Baptist church Wednesday afternoon. Rev. E. E. Scates conducted the service, reading Crossing the Bar and speaking comforting words, paying tribute to the worthy life of Mr. Campbell. One Sweetly Solemn Thought and Rock of Ages were sung by Mrs. G. H. Prior, Mrs. George Sparks and Miss Margaret Jordan, with Miss Ellen Prior at the organ. Burial was in the family lot in Yantic cemetery. The bearers were G. H. Prior, Abraham Zegeer, Walter Field and J. T. Stewart. The Masonic burial ritual was carried out at the grave by Lawrence Drescher, worshipful master of Mt. Vernon lodge, No. 74, F. and A. M. There were beautiful floral pieces. Relatives present from out of town were the son, Howard R. Campbell of Bayonne, N. J., Mrs. James Austin, Norwich, Mrs. Charles Austin of Danielson, Mrs. Richmond and Mrs. George Jennings, of Preston. Undertaker E. E. Gilbert was in charge of the arrangements.

Older residents remember Mr. Campbell when he was a young man in the prime of life. After marrying Miss Wilcox he owned the house on Tracy avenue purchased some years ago by Dr. F. E. Rainville. It was here that he lived and reared his family at the time when he was superintendent of the Baptist Sunday school and a member of its board of trustees. His business in early life was that of a cotton weaver. He was employed for many years in the W. A. Slater mills, back in the times when the late L. A. Thornton was overseer. In those days there were 450 looms. Cotton weaving today, with its automatic electric stop and start, and trouble-detecting devices is an entirely different matter from the problem it was 45 years ago. Most weavers then found it as much as they could tend to to run 4 looms. Mr. Campbell and the late Mrs. George W. Blake (she being Miss Lucy Wood then) were the only two, in all the great weave rooms who could operate 8 looms. To accomplish this meant steady application to piecing ends and threading shuttles keeping an eye watching for "scratch outs," and in short, keep the bat wing going from 6.30 a. m. to 6.30 p. m. At that time a fancy colored cotton cheviot, blue and brown denim, and farmers' and standard ticking were woven in the Slater mill. In the cloth shop of the mill the cuts were baled and sent to Greeneville bleachery to be sized and finished and at the manufacture of all these textile products Mr. Campbell rated as an expert.

He was the eldest son of the late Orson and Emily Sawyer Campbell. He was born in Griswold 73 years ago.

MAN AND CHILD COVERED WHEN WALL SLIDES INTO DITCH

Mose Salois and his daughter Eleanor escaped serious injury Monday morning, when a wall fell into a ditch where they stood and nearly covered them up. Mr. Salois was digging a trench near his home on Palmer avenue. It was about four feet deep, when the ten years old child jumped down into it with him. Without warning, a stone wall nearby toppled over into the trench, almost completely burying the child, and covering the man so that he was unable to move. Mrs. Salois' screams for help brought assistance from several people. No shovels were available, and they used their hands to dig the father and child out. They were bruised all over, but escaped broken bones or serious injury. They were extremely grateful for the neighborly assistance.

She was married at St. Cecelia's church, Pawtucket to Charles Augustus Ginouves, of New York city. The bride was gowned in white crepe satin, trimmed with silk lace, with satin appliques. The veil was embroidered, and was trimmed with quantilly lace, the headdress of the same material, with orange blossoms and lilies of the valley.

The bride carried a shower bouquet of white roses with lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid was the bride's sister who wore a gown of peach georgette and gold lace with hat to match and carried yellow roses.

The trustees of Jewett City Baptist church are to receive $300 from the estate of the late Fred S. Campbell, one of its oldest members. There is no mention of this bequest in the will, but Howard R. Campbell his only son and executor of his will will give this sum to the church, purely on the strength of a request once made by his father, that he should do so. No one but the son knew of the desire of the father, expressed by the latter some time ago.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Bread Theater

The requirements of the average motion picture cowboy star seem just to be good riding ability these days. There are a few who go a bit further and add to their horsemanship some stunts with a lariat.

Ken Maynard, star of The Land Beyond the Law, the First National feature western coming to the Breed theater Friday and Saturday, seems to be setting the pace. For Ken, who was formerly the star rider for the Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey, which stamps him as the screen's foremost rider, not only is a first class rope manipulator, but is a finished rodeo artist.

In other words, Ken rides, uses the lariat, can use a gun with the best of them, rides four and six horses at a time, does buckboard racing, drives a stagecoach.

In addition Ken does something never seen on the screen before! He "bulldogs" wild steers in record time, a stunt which is the most difficult in the world to do and for the camera to catch.

All of these accomplishments are incorporated into The Land Beyond the Law. Which by itself makes The Land Beyond the Law — "unique and extraordinary," it is said by those who have already seen the film.

You will enjoy every moment of this masterpiece and want to see it over again. The surrounding program consists of an overcert orchestra, latest Paramount news, cert orchestra, latest aramount news, comedy Bill Dooley, favorite musical comedy star in Row Sailor Row, and Krazy Kat cartoon. Palace Theater

A big surprise all star five act bill of vaudeville opens today for a three day run at the Palace. An exceptional line up of features will appear on this bill and each act is a sure fire special.

Shuron Besta and company, a beautifully set dance revue with a cast of seven people holds the headline honors. Temper trio, Two Jacks and the Ace of Spades, a trio of high grade comedians. William Dill billed as The Radio Man, has surprises galore to furnish all audiences. Art and Lucille Davies, a sensational wire act, classic and astonishing.

A great vaudeville show that will please all.

The screen's main attraction, Rudolph Schildkraut in The Country Doctor is one of the biggest dramatic sensations of the year. It is as big as Over the Hill, and will linger in your memory for many a day. The story is of a rural New England doctor, one of those unsung heroes who devotes their lives to the alleviation of the sufferings of the needy sick, who often risked their own lives to save others, and whose skill and devotion to duty often were repaid with a sack of potatoes or turnips. It's tense, lovable and never to be forgotten. Don't miss it, and be sorry afterwards.

Rhode Island's Big Fair to Open Sept. 14

The Washington County fair at West Kingston, R. I., will open September 14 and be held four days and evenings. This fair should be attended by every person living in this community or the surrounding territory accessible to it. It is, in fact, your fair, and the officers are running it for you. They want your assistance in making it a fair that the whole community will be proud of. A fair cannot be made a success without liberal and substantial encouragement from the public and exhibitors. While the management assures the people that it will spare neither time, labor, nor expense to make the exhibition large and a glorious success, it wants to be seconded by the liberal hand of the whole people in this part of the state and is relying upon you, and your neighbors and friends, to boost the fair in every way you can devise. We aim to have an exhibition that will not be a plain repetition of the efforts of former years; but plan to have a live, progressive fair, with new and novel features that will be interesting because new and strange to the eyes of those who witness them. We hope to make this the most marked and memorable of any show ever held by the society, or held in this section of the country. It will be our endeavor to have the grounds, halls, and exhibits exceed in extent, novelty, cleanness, freshness and splendor, those of any former years, and the occasion more conspicuous and gratifying. We are ambitious to hold a fair that will have no superior in its class, and be the event of the season. Do you approve of this? If you do co-operate with us in getting results.

Conn. State Fair

Both agriculture and industry have demands which they need filled, and are capable on the other hand of fulfilling certain demands. The worker in the mills needs good food, at a reasonable price. If he has to have his foodstuffs shipped him from distant states, or even neighboring states, he must pay in addition to the value of the produce, the costs which the grower encounters in shipping it. So the cost of eating mounts, the worker's pocketbook grows thinner, and prosperity is meager. Also, the farmer needs implements for making the ground yield and equipment to make the farm home a pleasant place in which to live. Can he afford to pay the higher prices necessitated by buying goods at long distance? Not if he hopes to save anything from his earnings. But if the local farmer sells to the local workers, and the local workers ply their trades for the home market, it means more money in the bank for each, more peace and more prosperity and thus progress in comfort for the state.

These are primer-simple facts, representing the fundamentals of economics, known to everyone as "supply and demand," and demonstrate how this basic law may be worked out to the best advantage. By means of the Connecticut State Fair, the residents of the state, the people directly and indirectly benefited by the functions of this principle may have concrete examples of how agriculture and industry fare here, and what each is contributing to the welfare of the other. There are all the farm exhibits, interesting in themselves, important in the light they throw upon agriculture in this state. There are the industrial exhibitions and demonstrations, whereby the farmer can learn what industry means to him, and the worker can see the progress his trade is making in various parts of the state.

Hunters are beginning to cast their eyes in search of pheasants, but for some reason the birds do not appear to be as numerous as they were last year. One ambitious cat caught one partially grown one several weeks since. He had not read the law, and so was not aware that it was the close season for pheasants. Being informed that such was the case, he has slaughtered no more.

Miss Brady of Norwich has been a visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lucy.

Rev. D. C. Stone, having returned from his vacation, occupied the pulpit of the Congregational church on Sunday. Not all of the congregation have returned yet, some remaining at the shore, others among the mountains and lakes of northern New England, to which so many have taken trips during the past two months.

POETRY

Beginning of September in Vermont

Now the year begins to slope
Toward the chilly season;
Autumn pokes his bald head in,
Summer hollers "Treason!"
I don't know and never shall Jest the solar reason.

My! the nights are cooling off
Faster than they oughter;
Makes you think the cowbar wa'
Needs some dabs of mortar;
Makes the wimmen realise
Dresses can't be shorter.

Fair ground folks are in a stew
Over Fair Week weather;
Butant thieves are hopping God
Gives them strength to gather;
Soon a dollar's worth of shot
Buys a partridge feather.

Sonny Chipmunk has the corn
That you want for dinner;
Pine-pig boys are teasing dad
How to grow a winner;
Second wives at last perceive
Stockings can't be thinner.

Sweet preserving odors float
From the kitchen quarter;
Ain't you glad you've got a farm
And a stay-home daughter;
Ain't you glad you ain't a doc,
Lawyer or exhorter!

Old Jack Frost is on the move,
Three more months to "Santy";
Five before them seavenly smelt
From the fishing shanty;
Joyful days—when wife won't dress
Quite so stunning scanty.

Daniel L. Cady, in Burlington Daily News.

In a Copy of Omar Khayyam

These pearls of thought in Persian gulfs were bred,
Each softly lucent as a rounded moon:
The diver Omar plucked them from their bed,
Fitzgerald strung them on an English thread.

Fit rosary for a queen, in shape and hue,
When Contemplation tells her pensive beads
Of mortal thoughts, forever old and new.
Fit for a queen? Why, surely then for you!

The moral? Where Doubt's eddies toss and twirl
Faith's slender shalop till her footing reel,
Plunge! if you find not peace beneath the whirl,
Groping, you may, like Omar, grasp a pearl.

The reply was surprising: Please teacher, he ironed on her.

NEW LONDON CITY COUNCIL HEARS OF TENTATIVE BUDGET

The city manager introduced the tentative budget for the ensuing year and it was referred to the committee on finance. Mayor Fox suggested that the budget, or that part of it in reference to the board of school visitors, be taken up first, inasmuch as the board heretofore had expended a portion of its appropriation before the council had acted upon it. A vote was passed that before definite action is taken on the budget, the city manager and a committee composed of members of the board of school visitors make a report to the council on the same.

A bond issue calling for permanent streets, that is, the resurfacing of a half dozen streets so that the improvements resulting from the work will be semi-permanent, was introduced and was referred to the committee on public safety.

MARKET WAS STRONG

NEW YORK, Sept. 7—(AP)—Heavy selling impeded, but failed to halt another general advance in prices in today's stock market. More than 50 issues, including such favorites as U. S. Steel common, General Motors, Woolworth, American Smelting, Baldwin, New York Central and Southern Railway, mounted to new high levels for the year, or longer, although profit-taking cut down or wiped out many of the early gains. Trading was on an unusually broad scale, the day's sales running above 2 1-2 million shares.

The day's trade news was mixed in character. Freight car loadings in the week ended August 27 set a new high record for the year, but were under those for the corresponding weeks in 1926 and 1925 but were under those for the corresponding weeks in 1926 and 1925. August bank clearings in the metropolitan area failed to show the usual seasonal decline due, in part, to heavy securities trading during the month. The weekly steel trade reviews reported little change in the output and demand for steel, and the iron age composite pig iron price dropped to within 2 cents of the lowest level since 1916. Directors of the Gulf States Steel company passed the quarterly dividend due at this time, the first time.

Little attention was paid to the increase of more than $32,000,000 in stock exchange member loans last month. Although banks called another $5,000,000 in loans during the day, call money was in plentiful supply at the renewal figure of 3 1-2 per cent. There was no change in other money accommodations.

Increased public participation probably was a factor in the advance, although pools and powerful financial interest continued to provide the bulk of the buying power. The rapidity of the advance in many issues induced many conservative traders to take profits on the theory that the technical position of the market had been weakened but offerings generally were well absorbed and net declines held to a point or two.

Houston Oil was the sensational individual feature, soaring nearly 29 points to 149 1-2, and then reacting about 3 points on realizing. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe jumped 12 points and lost 5 of its gain, while about a dozen other issues including A. M. Byers, Colorado Fuel, Commercial Solvents, Consolidated Gas, Endicott Johnson, National Surety, Savage Arms and U. S. Rubber showed net gains of 4 points or more.

In the railroad group, New York Central was again heavily traded in, but closed only 1-8 higher at 160 3-8 after touching a new top at 162. Western Maryland common was again active on the upside, but Atchison was heavy.

U. S. Steel common closed 2 points higher at 149 7-8, a new peak, but General Motors (old stock) showed a net loss of half a point at 252 after having crossed 253 for the first time.

Commodity markets were mixed, reflecting the usual evening-up of speculative accounts prior to the publication of government crop reports, cotton tomorrow and grain on Friday. Wheat declined a fraction of a cent a bushel and cotton closed 1 to 8 points net lower. Coffee and sugar prices held fairly steady.

Establishment of another new high price since the war by Norwegian kroner around 26.40 cents and the weakness of Japanese yen which dropped 26 points to 47.64 cents, were the contrasting features in the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling held around 4.85 11-16 and French francs around 3.91 11-16 cents.

MOHICAN CO'S NEW STORE SUSTAINS FIRE DAMAGE WHEN PITCH POT UPSETS

Fire caused by the overturning of a quantity of hot pitch resulted in considerable damage to the Mohican company's new store on Main street shortly before 6 o'clock Wednesday evening. At 5:48 o'clock the fire department responded to a bell alarm from box 23, Franklin square. Dense clouds of black smoke rolling from the building gave the impression that a good sized blaze was raging inside. However, the smoke was the worst part of the fire.

Two lines of hose were laid, a chemical line run into the building, and some water was used to cool the pitch pot and squelch the blaze. It was necessary to tear down a small section of the new metal ceiling as sparks had worked their way into the partition.

The pitch was being prepared for use in the construction of the large cork encased refrigerator and in some manner was upset. The recall was sounded a few minutes after the box had been pulled.

PYTHIAN GRAND CHANCELLORS ARE TO ATTEND BARBECUE

A ball game between Colchester and Hadlyme ball teams was held last Sunday on one of the recreation fields of Connecticut Farm association—the Pythian home, on the road to Devil's Hopyard. About 400 people witnessed the game which was hotly contested. Colchester team won the game and received an ovation as they left the home grounds.

F. B. Ames, superintendent of the Pythian home, was very glad to offer the grounds for the use of the players, saying, "Our home is being established primarily to furnish a recreation center for the Pythians of the domain of Connecticut, However, our grounds are so large that we can easily accommodate non-member organizations, and we are glad to extend to them the courtesy and the use of our grounds when they intend to use them in respectable American play."

The arrangements for the barbecue and corn roast to be held at the Pythian home on Sunday, September 11, are well advanced. Superintendent F. B. Ames is greatly encouraged by the responses which come in daily from Pythia nlodges throughout the domain of Connecticut and adjoining territory. Old Lyme and Middletown Knights of Pythian lodges throughout the domain ball game at 10:30 a. m. and in the afternoon a ball game will be played between Old Lyme and New Britain Pythian lodges. The three participating teams have a large following and the Knights in the vicinity look forth to enthusiastic anticipation to the coming game.

The barbecue will be of a full day's duration ,beginning at 9 a. m. and lasting late into the evening. Thomas Dyson, who for four years has spent his time in Illinois specializing in putting on barbecue festivals, will treat the visiting Knights and their friends to a novel exhibition of roasting several beef in specially prepared pits.

In addition to the ball games there will also be held a number of amusing sports, such as, fat man's race, tug of war between competing lodges, fat and lean races, broad and high jumps, three legged races, a number of relay races, and other sports. Home Superintendent Ames is now sure that with fair weather he will have over 3000 Pythians attend the barbecue. A fine orchestra has been secured to play during the day and evening.

Word has been received from reliable sources that a surprise visit will be paid to the Pythian home on the day of the barbecue festival by the Pythian Past Grand Chancellors association which voted to honor the occasion with their presence. On the strength of this important news Rhode Island Pythians have entered with zest into the spirit of the coming event and will turn out in large numbers. Wauregan lodge, No. 6, of Norwich is a moving spirit in everything connected with the welfare of the Pythian home and together with its neighboring brothers of Trumbull lodge of New London are greatly instrumental to make next Sunday, a big day at the Pythian home.

The festival will be open to Pythian friends who are not members of the organization and cordial hospitality will be extended to all comers. No admission charges will be made to anyone visiting the grounds during the entire day of the barbecue. The parking space of the Pythian home can easily accommodate 10,000 cars, which makes it easy for automobile owners to bring their families for a fine day of out of door enjoyment and recreation.

LAMBTOWN SCHOOL PUPILS RETURN FOR REUNION

The third annual reunion of the teachers and pupils of the Lambtown school was held Sunday afternoon at the school house in Ledyard. Each year more and more interest has been shown in these reunions and many who formerly went to school or taught school there attended the reunion last Sunday, One of the oldest ones there, at least in point of schooling, was Elisha McGuire, of New York city who last attended school there in 1872, just 55 years ago. Others of the older graduates were Mrs. Clara McGuigan of Philadelphia who started attending school there in 1872; Billings T. Avery, who is at present chairman of the town school board; Silas Whipple, Amos Gallup of Mystic; Thomas Whipple of Groton; George Montgomery of Ledyard, and Mrs. Rose Gardner of Winsted, Conn. Many others were also present who have graduated in more recent years.

An impromptu program was arranged and carried out as follows:

Songs :Tenting Tonight; Old Lang Syne; talk, Old Times, Elisha McGuire; song, The Golden Shore, Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery; talk, History of the School, Billings T. Avery; talk, Memories, Mrs. Clara McGuigan; remarks, Silas Whipple, Amos Gallup, Thomas Whipple, George Montgomery and Mrs. Gardner; song, Nearer My God to Thee.

All who spoke mentioned with appreciation the good teachers which they had in those days. All expressed their pleasure at being able to attend the reunion and hoped that some means would be taken to continue them.

The Lambtown school house, if not the very oldest, is one of the oldest school houses in Ledyard, probably being nearly 200 years old. With the exception of being plastered, and having had modern seats installed it stands very nearly as it was built two centuries ago. There has been much talk in the past few years of tearing down the old building and putting up a new one.

At this meeting a vote was taken to form an association to be called The Little Red School House of Lambtown association, the object being to protect the school house and to preserve it for future generations. Miss Gertrude Watrous, the present teacher, was elected to be the first president. She chose as a committee to help her carry out her duties, Mrs. Leon Colver, Mrs. Leslie Gray, Mrs. Carl Wiemann, all of Ledyard, and Mrs. Robert King of Stonington. These four were largely responsible for the holding of the first reunion.

Mr. McGuire, who is a lawyer, has promised to draw up articles of incorporation and send them to the president who will circulate them among the different members for their approval. At the next reunion a more complete list of officers will be elected and the necessary business transacted.

It was voted to hold the reunion each year on the Sunday following the Bill Library dinner which is always held the last Wednesday in August. The meeting closed by singing: God Be With You Till We Meet Again.

The association hopes eventually to get a complete history of the school house, also to get a list of all teachers who have taught and all pupils who have attended school there. If anyone who is interested in the association, or has information of interest to the association will get in touch with the president or one of the committee it will be greatly appreciated.

FIREMEN HURT FIGHTING BLAZE AT STONINGTON

(Special to The Bulletin)

STONINGTON, Sept. 7—(AP)—Two firemen were overcome and another sustained a cut in the forehead as a result of a fire this morning in the two story frame structure owned by Mrs. Amelia Clemens and occupied by a barber shop on the first floor, conducted by Alex Lopes, and by Joseph Fernandz on the second floor. The damage caused was estimated at $5,000 with no insurance on the building.

The fire was discovered at 10:15 o'clock and it is thought it originated in the barber shop. Three fire companies, the Pioneer Hook and Ladder Co., the Neptune Engine Co. and another responded and soon had the blaze under control. Soon after noon the blaze again broke out, but was quickly extinguished.

It is believed that the fire was caused by an explosion in a gasoline heater, which was kept in the building. The two firemen overcome by smoke were Manuel Sylvia, and Arthur Raynor of the Pioneer Hook and Ladder company. Francis Gilmour of the Neptune Engine Co. received a cut over the forehead. All received attention for their injuries from Dr. Veal.

The brunt of the damage was on the first floor, which was gutted and the barber shop appliances were damaged to some extent.

When returning, upon reaching Plymouth, Sunday night was spent at very fine tourists' accommodations, the journey home being through Taunton, Providence, and Mystic, reaching Norwich after covering about 400 miles. Robert Burke stopped over in Mystic, to spend a week at "Fair Acres," the attractive home on Mystic River, of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Smith, former Norwich Town residents. The party spoke especially of the courtesy of automolists, particularly in Massachusetts, during the heavy traffic over Labor day.

Mr. Mace who will be 68 this month, is a Veteran of the Civil War. When leaving his home in California some time ago, he traveled alone as far as Chicago, where he was met by his son, with whom he continued to Washington, D. C., for a visit at the latter's home, thence proceeding to New Hampshire, before arriving at Mr. and Mrs. Chant's home in Massachusetts. Mr. Mace expects to pass the winter in Washington. The party returned Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Miner and Mrs. Miner's niece, Barbara Pratt, of Essex, who has been their guest for a few days, motored Sunday to the home of Mrs. Miner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beebe, of East Haddam. OLD GLORY AND THE SIR JOHN CARLING NOW LISTED WITH THE MISSING PLANES; PRIDE OF DETROIT OVERDUE AT BANKOK

Eight Planes Have Been Engulfed During the Summer—Thirty Great Liners Were in the North Atlantic While the Old Glory and the Carling Were in Flight, and Shipping Men Opine the Planes, if in the Air, Would Have Been Sighted Surely Once and Probably Many Times—The Globe-Circling Pride of Detroit Might Have Continued Its Flight to Hanoi, French Indo-China.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)

The "Pride of Detroit" is overdue.

Coming on the heels of the recent series of aviation disasters. Instant apprehension was raised last night when hours passed beyond the time the globe-circling plane should have arrived at Bankok, Siam, without a word being received from W. S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee.

Difficulty of communication from that section and the suggestion prior to their take-off yesterday morning from Rangoon that the day's hop might be continued to Hanoi, French Indo-China, served to lessen somewhat the anxiety.

With nearly half their world-circle completed, Brock and Schlee left Rangoon on the comparatively simple jump of 250 miles to the colorful capital of Siam. Four hours would have been a liberal allowance for the trip in the absence of untoward development and extension of the jump to Hanoi should not have more than doubled the time of the flight.

Their "ship" would be the ninth in the space of a few brief months to be posted on the new air-navigation rosters first as "overdue," then as "missing."

The North Atlantic today still held as an agonizing secret, the fate of four planes and ten lives and somewhere in the wide Pacific rests the answer to the complete disappearance of three planes and seven persons.

As sea, sky and land in three widely separated sections of the world were being scanned for missing aviators, the wave of revulsion against further hazardous flights continued to mount.

Leading papers and spokesmen for aviation in many countries now have joined the protest against further risk of brave men in what they term gainless "stunt flying." Paris papers yesterday, especially, were vigorous in their condemnation of plans for further long-distance flights this year.

The campaign has begun to have results, apparently. Backers of the Royal Windsor flight wired the pilots at Windsor, Ont., a "suggestion" that the entire plan be abandoned and the Junkers pilots, waiting favorable weather at Dessau, were called to Berlin, assumably for similar advice.

OLD GLORY AND CARLING IN LIST OF MISSING PLANES

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—(AP)—The Canadian monoplane Sir John Carling was believed to have ended its flight to London in that port of missing planes which has engulfed eight others during the summer.

The last of those eight was the American monoplane Old Glory which disappeared yesterday and of which no trace had been found tonight.

The Carling, manned by Capt. Terence Tully and Lieut. James Medcalf, took off from Harbor Grace, N. F., at 7.25 a. m., eastern standard time yesterday and from the moment it faded from the sight of watchers on the field no eye beheld it.

At 2.17 o'clock of the same morning Old Glory, which had previously been reported proceeding swiftly over land and sea, sent out its electrifying S. O. S., giving its position only as "five hours out of Newfoundland, east." Three men were on board, Lloyd Bertaud and J. D. Hill, pilots and Philip Payne, managing editor of the New York Daily Mirror and flight manager for William Randolph Hearst.

Optimists saw some hope for the two planes in the amount of gasoline they carried. Old Glory's gas could have kept her in the air, if she did not plunge in the sea after her S. O. S. until 8 o'clock tonight. The Carling's supply might keep her up until four o'clock tomorrow morning.

But less hopeful persons argued that if either plane were still in the air tonight it would surely have reached land. Had Old Glory continued on its course after the S. O. S. it should have crossed the Irish coast at five o'clock yesterday afternoon, the Carling should have got there early this morning.

Thirty great liners were on the North Atlantic while the flights were in progress, and shipping men believed that had either plane crossed the sea it would have been sighted surely one and probably many times.

The search for Old Glory was spurred, if anything can spur the traditional zeal of men of the sea in rescue work, by Mr. Hearst's offer of a $25,000 reward to the crew saving the plane's occupants.

The futility that the searchers felt, however, was expressed for all in a wireless sent to his offices by Captain David W. Bone of the Transylvania. "Have searched area without result," the message read. "Feel little hope of survival in view of rought sea at time of casualty. Am proceeding on voyage."

Some time later the Carmania, who also had been taking part in the search wirelessed: "Regret search for missing plane Old Glory without result. Weather cloudy. Squally with rough breaking sea. Consider very small chance of survival collapsible boat under present conditions. Am now proceedings great circle course to Cape Race."

After these two had left three ships remained, but there was little hope that they would find anything. And for the John Carling not a single boat turned from its course, for there was nothing to tell them which way to turn or where to go.

ROYAL WINDSOR TO SEARCH FOR THE LOST PLANES

HARBOR GRACE, N. F., Sept. 8—(AP)—Unnerved by the disappearance of two trans-Atlantic planes and the probable addition of five names to the list of fliers lost this year in transoceanic attempts, Phil Wood and "Duke" Schiller, co-pilots of the Royal Windsor, continued this evening their preparations to take off for England. Weather permitting, they said, they would hop off early tomorrow for Croydon, completing their flight from Windsor, Ontario, to Windsor, England.

Despite the coolness of the pilots in the face of the apparent loss of those who had been their immediate predecessors in the attempt, it appeared unlikely that the Royal Windsor would get away tomorrow. Flying conditions were bad today and the forecast for tomorrow was discouraging. A dense fog hung over the coast tonight and strong southwest winds prevailed.

HANDWRITING OF PAUL REDFERN IDENTIFIED

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Sept. 8—(AP)—Backers of the Brunswick to Brazil flight today identified Paul Redfern's handwriting with photostatic copies of notes brought back to the United States by the Norwegian steamer Christian Krohg, whose officers said they met the monoplane August 26, 165 miles off the coast of Venezuela.

The identification was hailed as the conclusive link in definitely establishing that Redfern reached the vicinity of South America, if he did not land somewhere on the continent itself.

ATLANTIC CITY BEAUTY SHOW PRELIMINARIES

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 8—(AP)—Fifteen intercity beauties passed safely through the preliminary judging today and one of their number will be selected by a jury of artists to be Miss America 1927.

The judges disregarded the instructions of the pageant committee that only one contestant be selected from each geographical division for the final judging. They declared that at least three from each division should remain before the ultimate selection is made some time tomorrow.

Under the rules there is no first, second or third place in the divisional judging but each contestant ranks equally with the others in her division.

INTERNATIONALY KNOWN SWINDLER ARRESTED

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—(AP)—Police today arrested another "Billy Christmas", internationally known swindler, in the person of an elderly, distinguished man whose professional card proclaimed him a London osteopathist, but who later claimed to be G. Dindas, 67, of New York city.

Fingerprints of Dindas were said by police to correspond with those of Laurence M. Farrell, original "Billy Christmas," whose frauds have been practiced principally on the very wealthy. Dindas was held for Boston police on a charge of being a fugitive from justice.

Alexander P. McCauley, Toronto business man, was arrested and about to be indicted in St. Louis three years ago when police insisted he was "Billy Christmas" but the real fugitive was apprehended and McCauley was released.

BATTLESHIP MASSACHUSETTS TO BE TARGET FOR AIR BOMBS

PENSACOLA, Fla., Sept. 8—(AP)—Beginning today and lasting through Friday and possibly Monday, the old and obsolete battleship Massachusetts, now lying half mile from the shore line of Santa Rosa island, abandoned by the navy department, will be the target for live bombs dropped from seaplanes which are to be in the hands of students of Class 27, now in training at the naval air station.

The old hulk has withstood shot and shell from 10-inch batteries at Fort Pickens, about a mile distant. The bombs to be dropped by the seaplanes are said to be greater, from a standpoint of destruction, than anything in the shape of shot and shell ever received by the old battler, which helped make history when Cervera's fleet tried to escape at Santiago.

TILSON THINKS WELL OF SECRETARY HOOVER

ASHVILLE, N. C., Sept. 8—(AP)—Expressing belief that the republican party and the country would want Mr. Coolidge for president in 1928, Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, the republican house leader, said today that of others mentioned as prospective republican nominees, he thought Herbert Hoover the most likely.

He declared the commerce secretary is a "man who is liked everywhere," and is the "sort of person who will grow even more on the people of the country."

The Connecticut member also said he did not consider Charles E. Hughes "too old for the office, although he recently made the statement that he was". Of Vice President Dawes, he spoke as follows:

"Dawes is vice president and he is a man who has certainly put himself in public eye lately."

Tilson declared he believed President Coolidge sincere in his statement that he did not "choose" to run.

"The president was wise in stating his case that way," he said. "He has now thrown the entire responsibility of running on his party and the public. There is nothing in that word 'choose' to keep him from being a candidate for his second or third term, according to the way you view it. If he finds his party is behind him and wants to put him up again."

GOV. TRUMBULL SPEAKER AT NEW ENGLAND DINNER

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 8—(AP)—New England became the "birthplace of America's industry," not "through any particular gifts of nature," but rather "in spite of many handicaps thrown in the way of easy progress," Gov. John H. Trumbull told the engineers and manufacturers gathered at the New England dinner held here tonight in connection with the New Haven Machine tool exhibition.

Water power was, and is, the only 'raw material' to be found in any abundance," he said, "and even this has not been developed to a great extent until recently.

"What did exist from the time of the earliest settlers was a spirit of inventiveness, coupled with a spirit of thrift. * * * The ingenious and thrifty New Englanders threw themselves into their work with such vigor that almost before they were aware they had overcome their own handicaps and were eager for more fields to conquer.

"This craving they satisfied in two ways—in further pioneering and in extending their manufacturing to supply the needs of a widening circle of less mechanical neighbors. * * * Just as soon as the transplanted New Englanders, particularly those in the middle west, settled down, they in turn became manufacturers. New England today is therefore actually facing the competition of her own offspring."

His party was the guest of the fair association at luncheon, along with Mayor Stevens and Corporation Counsel W. Arthur Countryman, Jr., representing the city of Hartford.

REPORTS ACCEPTED BY VETS OF FOREIGN WARS

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 8—(AP)—The 38th national encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of Amercia this afternoon accepted in its original form the report of Junior Vice Commander in Chief Milburn B. Gregory of Reno, Nev., including charges that Secretary of Labor James J. Davis has blocked investigation of naturalization frauds, although the encampment earlier in the day had been swept into enthusiastic applause when addressed by Secretary Davis and two of his subordinates.

The Gregory report was accepted in spite of the recommendation of Harper M. Tobin, of Philadelphia, chairman of the committee on officers reports, recommending the deletion from the report of all references to Secretary Davis and the department of labor.

Mr. Gregory reiterated his charges and was supported before the encampment by Robert E. L. Murphy of Louisville, Ky., who urged the veterans not to be swayed by the oratory of Secretary Davis, who, he claimed, had submitted no concrete fact to disprove Mr. Gregory's charges. The committee recommendation was defeated and the report accepted in the original form.

Bodies of Canoeists Found at Milford

Two Fordham Students Had Been Missing Since Sunday—Both Lived in New York.

MILFORD, Sept. 8—(AP)—Doubt as to the fate of Frank Murray and John S. Gary, both Fordham university students with homes in New York, was ended today with the finding of their bodies near the northeast corner of Charles Island, about a mile from where they were believed to have been drowned Sunday.

The two youths, visiting friends here, went out in a rented canoe Sunday afternoon and failed to return. The canoe was found Monday, by a New Haven man, and identified.

Murray's body was located by Commodore Thomas J. Fahs and a party which had ben searching since the young men disappeared. Frank Lennon and Raymond and Wilford Mitzger of Myrtle Beach, while rowing on the sound, found Gary's body.

The bodies were taken to the Yacht club and thence to the morgue, where they await formal identification by the parents, who have been notified.

Both were in bathing suits, which they wore when they started out for another paddle while waiting for lunch.

LEGIONNAIRES SAILED FOR FRANCE YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—(AP)—The harbor rang with merriment today as six great liners steamed gally off for France with 6,000 passengers who a decade ago silently put forth in somber troop ships.

It was the advance guard of the American Legion leaving to hold its annual convention this year in a Paris that has changed since the Legionnaires knew it from an armed camp to a city happy in peace.

Three more liners will sail tomorrow, and on Saturday the Leviathan, the flagship of the Legion, will sail, carrying an additional 6,000 ex-doughboys, accompanied by 2,000 gold star mothers and war widows.

The old banners that were carried aboard the troop ships 10 years ago, again are crossing the waters, no longer bright and new, but bearing tales of sacrifice and heroism rather than promises.

Veterans of every color and class from every corner of the United States crowded the liners. A few wore the drab uniforms carefully preserved since the days of war, while in contrast many wore picturesque costumes in gay colors. The old overseas caps were everywhere in evidence.

The vessels leaving today were the Tuscania, the Antonio, Scythia, and Caronia of the Cunard line, the Degrasse of the French line, and the Caledonia of the Anchor line. The Scythia will stop at Boston to take on New England veterans.

Tomorrow will sail the Celtic of the International Mercantile Marine, the United States liner President Harding, and the Savoie of the French line. Two Canadian vessels sailed today and two other ships left this port yesterday, so by Sunday the Legion will be Paris-bound with a fleet of 14 ships. All are scheduled to arrive before Sept. 19, the date set for the opening of the convention.

OBITUARY

Harry W. Goddard

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 8—(AP)—Harry W. Goddard, for years one of the leading figures in industrial and civic life of this city, died tonight at his home after a long illness. His grandfather shared with Ichabod Washburn the distinction of founding the wire business in America.

The boy was "brought up" in the wire business and at the age of 17 he went to work for Richard Sugden who operated the Spencer Wire company at Spencer. At the age of 21 Goddard became superintendent and when the older man died he bought out the stock of the plant at $170 a share. The years passed and the plant thrived until there came the merger of the Central Massachusetts Independent Wire mills. Finally Mr. Goddard agreed to sell his business and in 1920 his plant became a part of the Wickwire-Spencer Steel company.

THREE JURORS REMAIN TO BE SELECTED FOR THE LEONARD CLINE MURDER TRIAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

ROCKVILLE, Sept. 8—The selection of five more jurors and the drawing of a consensus from prospective veniremen that the death penalty is not generally favored in Tolland, made up the sum total of today's session of the Tolland county superior court at Rockville where Leonard Cline is awaiting trial for the murder of his friend Wilfred Pryor Irwin.

With four jurymen selected Wednesday and five today there remain 44 prospective talesmen from which three more are to be accepted to complete the panel.

The jurymen chosen today were: Carroll H. Hawkins of Mansfield, farmer; James J. Kerwin of Mansfield, carpenter; Clement N. Sumner of Bolton, farmer; Edwin H. Hansen of Coventry, farmer and employe of a grain concern; and Arthur I. Mitchell of Stafford Springs, wool manufacturer.

It is singular that there are now three jurymen on the panel who are residents of Mansfield, the town in which the alleged shooting took place on the morning of Monday, May 16, last. Of the 42 examinations today Judge Edward M. Yeomans excused 24, the state 6 and the defense 5.

Sheriff Fred O. Vinton and four deputies had summoned a new list of 50 talesmen Wednesday night. These and 25 of Wednesday's list who had not been examined responded to the roll called by Willis H. Reed, clerk of the court, this morning.

A. L. Mitchell of Stafford Springs, the ninth juryman to qualify today was the 82nd to take the stand for examination. Following his acceptance two more were examined and court adjourned at 5 o'clock until Friday morning at 10 o'clock D. S. T. Confidence was expressed that the panel would be completed by noon Friday in which case the trial may be started. The alternative is an early adjournment until next week.

The selection of a jury, although grim in its purpose and a tiresome process, was not without a few brief relaxations of dry humor today. Expressing his objection to capital punishment one genial prospect for the panel advanced the information that he would not even hang Thomas Edison. Another well-matured young man confessed that his mother had brought him up to be against the death penalty.

Mrs. Cline and Cline's sister, Mrs. Weirengo, spent most of the day in the courtroom. The furtive lens, of several newspaper cameras sought them out for photographs while the two women remained unaware of this fact. Mrs. Cline, a slight dark-haired woman probably in her early thirties

MAN UNDER ARREST KILLS TWO NEW YORK TROOPERS

Slayer Had Been Granted Permission to Go Home to Change His Clothing—Shot Fired From an Upper Window Killed One Trooper—The Other Trooper Was Shot When He Started Upstairs—The Alleged Murderer Had Been Arrested on a Charge of Defrauding a Gasoline Station—Troopers Are Searching the Woods Near Caneadea, N. SEE ANOTHER ATTEMPT TO FREE CHINESE WITNESS

HARTFORD, Sept. 8—(AP)—Another attempt to free Sam Ong Jing from the custody of the state, by which he is held under bond of $50,000 as a material witness in a Chinest murder case, was foreshadowed today.

The move this time will probably be made in the federal court on an application for a writ of habeas corpus. Frank T. Y. Goofi, a Boston merchant, and Sam's uncle were in this and enlisted the services of Thomas J. Spellacy in addition to those of Edward W. Broder, who handled the previous petition for release in the state court.

To bring the action in the federal court, those interested in Sam's release must obtain his signature to the writ. This had not been done today before Sam was taken from the court house to the quarters provided for him at the home of a constable.

The state urges that Sam be held in custody to protect its cases on appeal and to protect Sam. Those sponsoring Sam's release contend that he should be released on a smaller ond which they are prepared to raise.

The effort to release Sam will be continued tomorrow by lawyers for those sponsoring his release.

TWO BOYS WERE BURNED TO DEATH IN SOUTHINGTON

SOUTHINGTON, Conn., Sept. 8—(AP)—Two boys, three and four years old respectively, were burned to death here this afternoon when they were trapped on the second floor of a burning barn. Their presence in the barn was unknown until the floor collapsed precipitating the charred bodies to the ground.

The boy were Joseph Stefanik, 3, and Andrew Turek, 4. Dith other children, they had been playing about the rear of the Stefanik home while their mothers and Mrs. Margaret Pekro prepared tomatoes for canning.

Mrs. Pekrol went into her house next door, and some of the children followed, coming out with her when she returned to the Stefanik home. A little later she noticed that the hay loft was afire.

Plantsville firemen responding to an alarm had brought the fire under control when the loft gave way, and the bodies of the children fell into sight, so charred as to be unrecognizable Mrs. Michael Turek, mother of Andrew, had to be restrained by three men to prevent her rushing into the still burning building.

It is thought that when the boys were with Mrs. Pekrol they secured some matches, and took them into the hay loft to play with them.

TO CHARGE ADMISSION TO "HAUNTED HOUSE"

MANCHESTER, Conn., Sept. 8—(AP)—So great has the interest in South Manchester's "haunted house" become that today a police guard was put on the building to prevent visitors from disturbing Mrs. Frank Vullerman, wife of the owner.

Tonight Vullerman decided to capitalize the "ghost" which induced his three predecessors as tenants to move, and fixed a fee for which the curious may enter, inspect, and feel the thrill of leaning against the trembling walls and trying the quaking beds.

The house is located on a side hill near a large reservoir from which water flows into a swimming pool maintained by Manchester. The theory has been advanced that the peculiar actions of the building are due to the effect of water which has struck a crevice in the rock undermining the house.

BALKY CHURCH CLOCK FIXED BY NONAGENARIAN

ATHOL, Mass., Sept. 8—(AP)—After defying the skill of experts to repair it, the clock on the Congregational church, once regarded as a perfect timepiece but since the departure of its maker an unreliable ornament, is once more pealing out the hour of the day with old-time precision. The "old master" has returned to town.

Arriving today from Grand Rapids, Mich., George W. Rickey, now 92, was informed that his favorite timepiece was no longer the model of the community. Off came coat and hat and the nonagenarian ascended to the rickety belfry. A few minutes later the silvery notes were pealing out the hour over the hills and housetops. Old settlers immediately flocked out of their stores and homes and journeyed to the church in time to see their old neighbor climbing down from the belfry.

DISARMAMENT DISCUSSED AT L. OF N. ASSEMBLY

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 8—(AP)—World disarmament unexpectedly caused a discussion in the council of the League of Nations this afternoon when Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, commenting on a plan for organized financial assistance for a nation, victim of aggression, declared that the project possessed great value and would deter aggression, but that Great Britain would want to see a tangible reduction of armaments before supporting the scheme.

Another matter of importance that came before the council had to do with Germany's former colonies. The council decided to increase the membership of the league's mandate commission, supervising these colonies, from nine to ten, and assured Germany a seat in the commission. This is interperted as meaning the eventual restoration to Germany of one or more of those colonies she lost in the great war.

Norway and Lithuania joined Sweden in demanding that the league council adopt a less passive attitude in international political problems. If the applause and later comments of the mixed public galleries are to be taken as a criterion, the general reaction to this is that the criticism heard in the past few days will serve a useful purpose in preventing the league from becoming lethargic and will put increased vim into its activities, particularly disarmamnt activities.

HILL READY TO FACE CHARGE OF MATRICIDE

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 8—(AP)—Harry H. Hill, 22-year-old son of a wealthy surgeon of Streator, Ills., was ready tonight to go back to his home town to try to clear himself of a charge of having killed his mother.

Announcement that Hill would return to Streator without legal resistance came after the youth, through attorneys engaged by his father, Dr. H. C. Hill, to defend him here, had waived extradition. This decision made possible an earlier return to Illinois than the officers anticipated; as the extradition papers had not arrived from Illinois and legal action had been set in motion by the defense to delay the removal of the prisoner.

Young Hill today was as firm as ever in his denials that he is guilty of the crime of which he is accused.

His father was equally positive in his expression of confidence in his son's innocence, and offered an explanation of the precipitous flight of the youth.

"I want to say at this time that my son, who was in Streator on that Tuesday night (August 23) when he was accused by a coroner's jury of slaying his mother, became panic stricken and the poor lad, without knowing why, ran away."

RAPID CITY TO OBSERVE DEPARTURE OF PRESIDENT

RAPID ITY, S. D.C, Sept. 8—(AP)—In a farewell that is planned to draw out nearly the whole of this gateway to the Black Hills, the people of Rapid City bid goodbye to President and Mrs. Coolidge tomorrow.

Stores and factories have been asked to close for three quarters of an hour so that everyone can have a hand in the farewell which will take place in the school building where Mr. Coolidge has had his private offices. Mayor Jepsen will make a speech and the president is expected to respond.

As the time comes for the president's departure for Washington, people here are taking stock of the events of the summer and what they have meant to them. John B. Green, secretary of the chamber of commerce, has expressed it in this way:

"The visit of the presidential party has meant much to Rapid City. It is the highest honor that could be offered us and we are grateful.

"Among other phases we have come to regard a president of the United States as a very likeable human being rather than an impersonal institution; we have met most of the official party and wish they could stay with us. Through our friends, the correspondents, we have seen our region in print many more times every week than has been our previous fortune in the average year and we appreciate it. The scenic beauty of our region has been flashed on every screen in the country."

The scientific committee chosen for the coming year consists of Doctors Louis I. Mason, J. Arthur Girouard and Edward J. Ottenheimer. A lengthy discussion took place regarding the milk supply of the city and a committee was appointed to interview the city council regarding ordinances which would require all herds supplying milk for Willimantic to be tuberculin tested. In view of the fact that the state department of health in a recent report has shown that there are very few herds in this vicinity which have been so tested, the society feels that this situation represents a very grave danger to the public, and that definite steps to remedy it must be taken immediately.

HELP FOR SICK WOMEN.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Restored the Health of Thousands

Brooklyn, New York.—Mrs. G. Hegmann of 238 Schaeffer St., was in a run-down condition and could not do her housework. She could not sleep at night. Her story is not an unusual one. Thousands of women find themselves in a similar condition at sometime in their lives. "I found your advertisement in my letter box," wrote Mrs. Hegmann, "and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got relief." Mrs. Hegmann also took Lydia E. Pinkham's Herb Medicine and Lydia E. Pinkham's Pills for Constipation, with good results. She says, "I am recommending your medicines to all I know who have symptoms the same as mine, and to others whom I think it will help. You may use my statement as a testimonial, and I will answer any letters sent to me by women who would like information regarding your medicines."

There are women in your state—perhaps in your town—who have written letters similar to this one telling how much Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped them.

DANIELSON

LIST OF TESTED CATTLE RECEIVED BY FAIR SECRETARY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 8—Secretary Marshall J. Frink of the Windham County Fair association said this afternoon that he has received from the state a list of all tested cattle in the county as of July 1. Within a few days he is to receive another supplementary list showing tests of herds made in the same territory since July 1. This list will be a guide to the fair association in keeping to its announced purpose of receiving only tuberculin tested cattle for exhibition at this year's fair. It will also be a protection to tested herds that are entered and exhibited against the possibility of being shown in company with untested cattle. Secretary Frink illustrated a number of ways in which the list will be a guide and of value to the fair officials.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home on Bidad street funeral services for George H. Call were conducted by Rev. Harding W. Gaylord of the Westfield Congregational church. The attendance at the funeral included representatives of the official boards of the Danielson Trust company and of the Brooklyn Savings bank of which boards Mr. Call has been a member for years. Burial was in Westfield cemetery. The bearers were Frank T. Preston, Kent A. Darbie, Frederick E. Bitgood, Treasurer Sidney W. Bard of the Brooklyn Savings bank, Treasurer Clifford H. Starkweather of the Danielson Trust company and George O. Thomas. There were many beautiful floral pieces including one from Putnam lodge of Elks, of which Mr. Call was a member. A. F. Wood was in charge of the arrangements.

Persons who have been checking up on the recent action of the special town meeting in defeating a proposal to have Killingly adopt voting machines for use in all elections declare that many of the votes against the machines came from men who get a few dollars a year from the town for serving as booth-tenders, ballot-box tenders and in other minor capacities as election workers. Likewise, they are said to have induced their friends to protect them against the loss of this bit of revenue. There is further evidence that another bit of the opposition to using the machines came from politicians who have learned to be clever in marking pink or specimen ballots when "splitting" is to be done in their interest by their constituents who are not always too certain to remember instructions given them, but can copy from a pink ballot to an official one. There was, too, of course, opposition to the voting machine proposal from people who deem them impractical or who feel that the town should not incur th expense of purchasing them at this particular time. However, there is the promise that the campaign for them will be renewed.

Mentioning the coming of a new oil company into this territory that is to do a wholesale business, it was inadvertently stated this morning that this would be the first time that wholesaling of gasoline had been undertaken here. Last evening 23 members of Killingly grange attended a meeting of Killingly grange and participated in the presenting of the program. Norwich and Ekonk granges also were represented at the meeting and members of them gave program numbers. Howard Wood, upholding the affirmative, won the debate. The negative side was presented by Kenneth Preston. Other members of Killingly grange contributing to the program were Miss Alice Jordan, with a vocal solo; Frank Bennett, who gave a reading, and Frank J. G. Bailey, whose paper on Our National Currency was followed with close attention.

Red itching blisters on baby's face healed by Resinol

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 19:—"My baby had eczema for three months and nothing seemed to do him any good until I tried your products. His cheeks were red and covered with blisters, and the itching was so annoying that he could not sleep.

Taking every thing into consideration, this is a most satisfactory showing and is a significant fact in local business and industrial circles.

Murdered sleep

SLEEP that brings no soothing rest, sleep—that drives tense nerves and aching muscles back to weary bodies! No wonder people crack and break when precious sleep is murdered.

What a tragedy that so few realize the suffering constipation causes! It ruins health and wrecks beauty. It saps strength. It murders sleep! It sickens the body and causes disease after disease. And it could all be so easily relieved. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation safely, promptly.

Why part-bran products fail!

ALL-BRAN has "bulk." This bulk absorbs moisture and carries it throughout the intestines — gently distending them—purifying, removing poisonous wastes. In a part-bran product the quantity of bulk is so small that there is seldom enough to do this work. That is why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN because it is 100% bran—100% effective.

Empty aching

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

No need for habit-forming pills! How different from dangerous pills and drugs—which become useless unless the dose is constantly increased! ALL-BRAN is delicious with milk or cream—and add fruits or honey. Let it soak a few moments to bring out all its flavor. Serve with other cereals. In soups. Try recipes on every package. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

Don't accept a part-bran substitute. Insist on genuine Kellogg's. Sold by all grocers. Served at hotels, restaurants — on diners. Made by the Kellogg Company in Battle Creek, Mich. Write for free "Treatise on Constipation."

A Heavy Load — Lightly Carried

Little by little, through our years of business in Norwich, we have acquired a reputation that is one of our proudest possessions. People have learned that they may safely trust us. That we keep our word. That we meet emergencies. That we price our product fairly. And that what we say about it is invariably true.

We welcome this responsibility. We do not seek to evade it in the slightest degree. Our customers depend on us, and we meet their expectations fairly and promptly. We are a part of this city. We are in business here to stay. Our lives are interwoven with the business fabric of Norwich.

Consequently, in order to meet our obligations to our customers, it has been necessary to develop an organization, and train it to meet or anticipate every change that could possibly affect our service. We must be ready for anything—a war, (and our wartime policy can stand fullest investigation), a crop failure, a strike, a fire or an earthquake! No matter what happens we must take care of our customers.

This was the guiding principle on which our business was built. Since its founding, our personnel has changed, our buildings have changed, our horses have given way to our motors. And this city has altered in its progress until our founders would scarcely recognize it.

But the policy of this business has not changed. The political, and business crises through which we have passed have only proved anew to us its worth and value.

We know that honest and fair dealing are responsible for our success. We know that our ever-reasonable prices have established confidence. We know that our open belief that nothing is too good for the people of Norwich has won us friends.

And we are ready now, as never before, to serve our customers through any emergency that may arise. Through fat years and lean years, through the ups and downs of business, we cheerfully assume the responsibility of giving the people of Norwich the best product in the market at reasonable prices.

TIME TO STOP

Fully justified is the position taken by the committee which arranged for the flight of the Royal Windsor from Windsor, Ont., to Windsor, England, in discouraging the continuance of the flight. The committee has expressed itself as against continuance but leaves the matter entirely with the fliers.

The manner in which one tragedy has followed another in long distance flights over the ocean is enough to call a halt. Lives have been needlessly sacrificed. They have been seeking prizes and yet there was nothing in the flights that would have served to advance aviation.

There have been flights where none too much time and care was used in making preparations, although such can hardly be said in connection with the three recent disasters in the Atlantic. Two different types of machines were involved in these cases and the loss of these powerful machines and their pilots and passengers gives strength to the statement which has been made by experts that no flights over the ocean ought to be attempted in planes which have only one motor. It is true that successful flights have been made under such circumstances but where a few have succeeded many have been lost.

In any endeavor, there have always been those pioneers who have sacrificed their lives. It is possible to look upon the disasters to the transoceanic fliers as such but it doesn't appear that any benefit is being gained from the disastrous experiences of those who were ready to take the risk and start out when they had no greater assurance of success than those who had failed.

Skilled pilots and navigators, stable and well tested planes and engines and the latest in flying and safety equipment have been employed in the feverish contest to cross in both directions for fame or for prizes. Where a few have succeeded 20 lives have been sacrificed which clearly indicates that it is time to stop the throwing away of human life.

WASTEFUL MAIL PRACTICE

The statement has been made that those who send advertising matter through the mail are satisfied if they get a response from one in seven of those addressed. That means that they realize in advance that they will not hear from the large proportion of those to whom letters are sent. But they must nevertheless hope that the mail matter will reach its proper destination and yet from the statement by First Assistant Postmaster General Bartlett there is no such certainty. During the past year, according to his statement, more than 50 per cent. of the work of the dead letter office was due to the handling of millions of letters sent by advertisers which could not be delivered because of obsolete addresses and which became a total loss because the advertiser failed to place a return address in the corner. According to estimate this represented a loss of more than $600,000 in material, printing, postage and labor.

Carelessness with mail matter is by no means new. For the most part the dead letter office is kept busy because of the failure to plainly and correctly address letters and because there is neglect in putting the address of the sender on the envelope. When so little attention is paid to important matter it may not be so surprising that advertising mail matter, even though the first class rate is paid, should get no more careful attention. Revision of mailing lists occasionally instead of sending to one address for a quarter of a century without attempting corrections would be a sensible thing to do while the placing of a return card on an envelope is only what good business suggests.

However this added expense and this waste are characteristic of much that is done in these days of speed. It nevertheless discloses a situation which can hardly be regarded as good business when measured with the efforts which are put forth in other directions. The efforts of the postoffice department to correct this tendency is praiseworthy but there's much uncertainty about the success it will meet with.

FOR BETTER OR WORSE

Quite the same as the recent contest at the polls, the entrance upon government control of liquor in the province of New Brunswick is going to be watched with plenty of interest. It will be checked up from all angles, quite the same as it has been in Quebec, and after a certain time it will be possible to make comparisons with conditions that existed under the days of prohibition and those under government control.

For a number of years New Brunswick has been under prohibition. It apparently believed that it would be better for the province if there was no liquor to be had for beverage purposes, and it sought to get that benefit. Experience has evidently demonstrated that the conditions under prohibition were not what were desired, that prohibition was not prohibiting, that the bootleggers and those engaged in the violation of the law were able to carry on their activity to such an extent that they were getting rich while the province was losing the revenue which it might otherwise have received and that under such an arrangement the conditions were not satisfactory.

It was contended at the time government control was adopted in Ontario that it would result is a reduction in the consumption of all intoxicants, for the open sale would not be as large as it had been under prohibition with the bootleggers and the manufacture of beverages in many of the households. The change to government control means the licensing of certain places to sell wine, certain places to sell wine and beer but strong drinks will be obtainable only at government stores. Restaurants and taverns will be licensed to sell wines and beer but there will be no bars as in the days of the open saloon.

When given the chance to declare itself for or against this change New Brunswick voted for it. The change has gone into effect this month and the test under the new conditions is on.

REGISTRATION NEEDED

Quite in accord with the view that he has previously taken is that of Secretary Davis of the department of labor in announcing his purpose of opening a campaign for the prevention of the illegal entry of aliens into this country. He has recently been inspecting some of the immigration stations and been made more fully aware of stopping those entrants who evade the law and later make it necessary for Uncle Sam to resort to deportation proceedings.

Such a class has no place here and the best way of eliminating the expense of returning more than 11,000, as was done in the last fiscal year, is to prevent their entrance.

There are also those who have gotten into the country against the provisions of the law and who are continuing to remain here for good or bad as the case may be. They have managed to escape detection upon entrance and as long as they behave themselves they are not liable to be found out, but there's no telling how long they can restrain their inclinations for those who are ready and willing to break one law may be undesirable citizens in other respects.

This country has much difficulty in stopping the boolegged aliens, those who desert from ships' crews and those who sneak across the borders because the quota provisions prevent their entrance in the regular way. We have trouble in keeping out the undesirables and it must become more and more apparent that the suggestion made some time ago by Secretary Davis for the registration of aliens is the proper course to pursue in dealing with this complicated problem.

HELPED BY A GUN

Another New York case has revealed just such an instance as it is desired to overcome by the placing of restrictions on the transportation and sale of firearms by having uniform laws through the states of the Union and possibly by having a federal law dealing with the question.

One of a group of New York men engaged in a business deal suddenly drew a gun and began firing. The result of his outburst was that four persons were directly or indirectly killed and it was later disclosed that he was carrying two revolvers in his belt. He maintained that others were trying to put him out of business and he has even lost confidence in his own lawyer, one of the group, but it was evident that he had gone to the conference equipped to do just what he did do and evidently carried out his intentions.

That the claim of insanity will be raised in his behalf is to be expected. He acted like a crazy man but he was able to cause those four deaths simply because he was able to get and carry about with him a pair of revolvers. Had it been impossible for him to obtain the firearms, his fighting attitude might have been made evident just the same but he would not have been able to have terrorized the office building as he did or to make such an attack single handed.

Such cases give much support to the campaigns that have been organized against firearms and the efforts that are being put forward for uniform restrictions in all states. If the man is actually insane, it is all the worse that he is able to get hold of and use death dealing weapons.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Many a pilot proves the channel is somewhere else by striking a rock.

The man on the corner says: Ambitions to accompany fliers to Europe have gone aglimmering.

According to all reports this is going to be a season without a swimmer crossing the English channel.

It is going to be a big relief when Saturday arrives and ends the strain of the first week in school after the long vacation.

Secretary Kellogg says France isn't planning to seek a new loan in this country. Probably Senator Borah will have his doubts about that.

Report has it that Poland and Russia have reached an agreement. The world moves even though there's no telling how long the understanding will last.

The new Main street pavement is a great improvement. May it never go into as wretched condition as the old brick paving which was supposed to be permanent.

Of course a fellow can play golf on his vacation which he can never duplicate on his home course. That shows that golf stories are gradually crowding out the fish stories.

If it is found that the latest French altitude record was faked, it will cause greater scrutiny than ever when other attempts are made and discredit all other records which the faker has been credited with.

HUSH, A SURPRISE

Dave was sitting at his desk in the little book room when Mrs. Dave came in and carefully closed the door.

"What's up?" he asked, knowing that they two were alone in the apartment.

"Dave," she said in a low tone, "I'm going to tell you a deep dark secret, and you're not to think I couldn't keep it, because I could, perfectly well, if I thought best. But I feel it's doing as I'd be done by. Promise you'll never let a soul find out that I gave it away?"

"Why sure," said Dave, being human.

"Well the Neighborhood club is going to surprise you with a present at the next dinner. They want it to be something really worth while, to show how they feel about the years of service you've given the club as president. And they've asked me to sound you out very cautiously and let them know what you'd like best."

Dave's glance wandered to a row of silver trophies on top of the bookcase.

"There!" she said. "I expected that. I haven't any desire to divorce you, Dave, but if you're going to make this an occasion to add another engraved loving cup to that array I can't promise what I'll do. Aside from keeping them polished, a home's no place for them!"

Understanding dawned in Dave's consciousness.

"I suppose I'm to say I'd like one of those wild-looking banjo clocks you rave about!"

"Why, of course not! You're to say what you want!"

"And what do I want? Out with it." She giggled.

"If you ask me, you want an up-to-date radio. A nice little flat cabinet affair to stand against the wall, just over there."

"Go on! They couldn't raise enough money for that!"

"They could, too. They gave me to understand there was almost no limit. They're all perfectly silly about you, Dave, and you know those business men can afford to give."

A few days later the vice-president of the Neighborhood club came into Dave's office and drew a chair close to the desk.

"Fact is, Dave," he began confidentially, "I don't know whether I'm right or wrong, but I have a hunch you'd rather know what I'm going to tell you. The club is going to do something rather handsome for you in the way of a present at the next meeting. Never mind what. That much I won't give away, but if I were in your shoes I'd want to be warned and I thought you would too. But you'll protect me, won't you?"

"Enough said, old man." Dave clapped him on the shoulder. "I appreciate your motive and I'll never let on."

That was all, until the morning Dave received a letter on Neighborhood club stationery.

"Dear Fellow Member," it read. "Maybe you've already contributed. If so, how about a little more? We all know and love our president—'Dave.' As you doubtless know, we're planning at our next meeting to do something rather grand for him and our purse, to date, isn't quite equal to the demand. Some of our members have given most generously so that the deficit is not large. Won't you come across with $1 today, and help us clear this up?"

It was signed by a committee of Dave's friends. Carefully folded away in an inside pocket, he treasured the letter till evening, when he handed it, without comment, to Mrs. Dave.

She read it aloud, shrieking with laughter.

"Of all the hangings!" she gasped at last. "They turned the list over to some typist and of course you're included among the members. We must destroy it, Dave, and forget it, too." Dave grinned.

"It's buried right now. I'm going to be surprised, and they can't stop me."

The day before the dinner, his telephone rang.

"Say, I understand you're the president of the South Shore Neighborhood club. Do you know where this radio set's to be delivered? We've lost the directions."

"Look here, my man," Dave came back, "I'll give you the number of a chap who can tell you what you want to know, but he's a big husky fellow and if you don't want him to knock your block off, you'd better not let him find out you mentioned this to me—see?"

It was late that night when Mrs. Dave realized that her husband had not come to bed.

"What on earth are you sitting up so long for?" she called out. From the book room came the sound of tearing and crumpling paper.

"What do you suppose?" Dave answered, rather sheepishly. "I'm writing my impromptu speech of acceptance."—Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Eighteen months or so ago Sir Josiah Stamp had no more connection with railways than any ordinary traveler. He is now a director of the London Midlands system, and will succeed Sir Guy Granet next month as head of that big English railway organization, after little more than a year's experience. Sir Josiah is only 47, and when 15 he started his career as a boy clerk in the civil service. At 19 he was an assistant surveyor of taxes. He was high up in the civil service when he resigned at the commencement of the war to join a big armaments firm. At the close of the war he became known to the general public as a finance expert in connection with the reparations schemes. In recent years Sir Josiah has paid several visits to America. Persons who met him here describe him as a "human dynamo."

YOUR HEALTH

HEMORRHOIDS

By D. Homer Judkins, M. D., Idaho Falls, Idaho
Member Gorgas Memorial

You are perhaps familiar with varicose veins in the legs. You have observed the small tortuous group of veins or the massive bulging veins in areas affected. Piles or hemorrhoids are nothing more nor less than a similar condition of the veins which carry the blood from the rectum back to the heart.

The very nature of the manner in which these vessels return the blood to the heart predisposes to varicose conditions of these vessels. There are two principal veins which carry the return blood from the rectum. One main vein, the inferior Vena Cava, carries the blood from the rectum into the vein returning blood to the heart; the other main vein, the Portal vein carries the return blood directly to the vein of the liver. If a tumor should occur in the lowermost part of the abdomen known as the pelvis, pressure on one or both of these main trunk veins would result in stagnation of the blood in the veins of the rectum, and the result of this would be hemorrhoids or piles.

Conditions within the rectum itself can cause piles. One habitually constipated and habitually passing a hard stool may thus scratch the walls of the rectum and irritate the veins therein, causing a stagnation in the veins and sometimes infection. The straining effect resulting from constipation and from various obstructions to the urinary flow from the bladder may be another contributing cause. The too frequent use of enemas or injections into the bowel may result in the hemorrhoidal condition.

Piles show themselves as a group of small swellings just within the outlet of the rectum. Sometimes there is only an itching sensation in the parts. Then again the engorged vein may slip through the external sphincter and protrude singly or in grape-like clusters when the bowels move, returning at the end of the movement. Sometimes bright red blood appears, which means that one of these has been ruptured. The enlarged veins may also protrude, become swollen and painful and fail to return. This constitutes a condition which may require immediate surgical interference.

If the hemorrhoids spring from the outlet of the rectum they are called external hemorrhoids. Again they may be found well up in the rectum and then are known as internal piles or hemorrhoids. Backache is quite a common accompaniment of this condition, and many aggravating nervous symptoms may result.

In persistent cases a physician should be consulted to determine the cause of this condition. If, for instance, an individual had a disease of the liver an attempt to cure the piles without first correcting the liver condition would result in failure. If a tumor were pressing on the veins of the rectum, little relief could come until the tumor was removed. One chronically constipated should have this condition corrected as part of the treatment for curing hemorrhoids. Thus, the first precedure in overcoming this distressing condition is consultation with a regular physician for advice as to the proper procedure.

Of the treatment of hemorrhoids much can be said. Too frequently irritants and caustic salves and suppositories are inserted into these parts. The irritating effect of such treatment often does positive harm, and may lead to formation of cancer. This statement is not to be construed to mean that the quieting salves and suppositories prescribed by your physician are wrong; but is offered as a warning against the unwise use of patent medicines or preparations recommended by well-meaning friends, without the direction and approval of a competent doctor.

Stories That Recall Others

He Couldn't Use It.

Edgar, age five, received a nickel from his aunt to bup candy. He went to the store and lay down the nickel as the clerk came up, but was told that all the candies he desired were six cents. So the boy left the nickel on the counter and went out. The clerk called to him that he had left his money.

"Keep it," said the lad, "it won't buy anything anyway."

A Workable Scheme.

Buddy, having reached the age of three, decided that he had drunk enough milk in his life and would have no more of it. His mother and father had offered various bribes if he would drink only one glass a day, but to no avail. Then his grandmother tried a plan. She sat him down on the front porch before his little "tea party" table on which she had placed a tall glass filled with milk.

"Now, Buddy, you sit here and every time an automobile passes by, you take a big drink of milk. Now you just watch and see how fast they pass."

That sounded interesting enough and Buddy took a big drink as the first car passed.

Finally a popular small car came along and Buddy said: "Grandma, here comes a Ford and now I take only a tenny drink, don't I?"

SHANNON BUILDING ROOF SHOWS NORWICH NAME

The word "Norwich" has been painted on the roof of the Shannon building in letters six feet tall by four feet wide for the benefit of aviators passing over the city. J. Henry Shannon has had the city's name painted on the roof in response to a general request of Gov. John H. Trumbull that cities in the state do so to enable aviators to locate themselves as they pass over cities in the state. Mr. Shannon is the first in Norwich to respond to the governor's request.

DEEP RIVER RESERVOIR WORK IS APPROACHING COMPLETION

Work on the new Deep River reservoir for the city of Norwich has now progressed so far that the gates could be closed now if there were any necessity for beginning to impound water to supplement the present supply for the city, but as it is now, it will probably be a month or more before the gates are shut.

The big dam, 750 feet long, 32 feet high and 30 feet wide at the top, is practically finished except for some of the top courses of the stone paving that makes the face of the slope on the pond side. On the concrete gate house there is still to be erected the small brick superstructure that will house the gate control machinery and that will bear a bronze tablet containing the names of city officials, the water board and others connected with the building of the reservoir.

Below the dam there is still to be erected the concrete structure which will contain the meter house and chlorinating plant. This will be built underground and will be divided into two rooms, one for the meter room and the other for the chlorinating plant. On this side of the dam also there is still to be put into position the final length of pipe in the waste way, which ends in a gate that can be opened when it is desired to let the water run into the brook below the dam.

At the present time the contractor's workmen are engaged in building the spillway at the easterly end of the dam. This is 60 feet wide where it leaves the dam and tapers down to a width of 20 feet where it enters the brook. It is enclosed by a stone wall and will be floored with eight inches of concrete. Running from the top of the 32 foot dam down to the bed of the brook, the slope is a sharp one, but this will be broken by a series of steps, so that the water will drop off from one step to another instead of rushing from the top to bottom of the spillway in an unbroken stream.

That the reservoir shows promise of responding quickly to rainfall was indicated recently in a heavy Saturday night downpour when the rainfall was 2.81 inches. The next day the pond that is now behind the dam gained five feet

WOMAN FOUND WANDERING IN MASON'S ISLAND FIELD

Constable F. O. Burroughs of Mystic received a call Wednesday to locate Mrs. Maude McGuinness of Quiambaug, who had left her home sometime during Tuesday night while in a demented state.

After some inquiry Constable Burroughs learned that a woman answering Mrs. McGuinness' description, had been seen on Mason's Island, and he followed up the clues given him with the result that she was found in an open field near the middle of the island.

Constable Burroughs had taken his wife with him on the search and so the woman was induced to go with them in search of a home, which, in her deranged state she was seeking. After getting her to enter his automobile, Mrs. McGuinness was taken to Norwich State hospital for treatment and observation.

MILLS FAMILY REUNION HAS ATTENDANCE OF 60

The second annual reunion of the Mills family was held last Saturday, at Wildwood park, near Dayville, with nearly 60 persons present, including several members of the Corbin family who have joined the Mills reunion. Those present ranged in age from little David, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wetherbee of Worcester, only a few months old, to others three score and ten or more.

The business meeting was called to order by the president, Frank Mills of North Uxbridge. Under the election of officers Frank Mills was again elected president, George W. Mills was elected vice president and Foster L. Burgess secretary-treasurer for another year. A sports committee was appointed for the next reunion, Raymond Mills, Kenneth Wetherbee and Charles Pike.

During the day a bountiful basket lunch was enjoyed by all, served in a delightfully informal way. Sports were enjoyed, principally horse shoe pitching in which men and women both joined, keeping two courts busy. Target shooting gave an opportunity for some of the sharp shooters to do their stuff and of course all hands enjoyed the swings, the slide, etc.

Those present included Mr. and Mrs. George Mills, Miss Lila Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Pike and two children, Mrs. R. L. Wiggins, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Randlette and daughters Barbara and Helen, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Hopkins, George Corbin, Mr. and Mrs. John Scranton, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wetherbee and children Phyllis, Wallace and David. There were also Charles Pike, Misses Dorothy and Winifred Pike, Miss Alice Pike, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Mills, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Vogel, Mrs. George Corbin, Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis and son Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd E. Pike and two children Goodwin and Donald, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Carlson, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Lyon and daughters Miss Pearl Lyon and Miss Ruth Lyon. Others present included Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Bickford and son John Warren Barteau, Melvin Bickford, Mr. and Mrs. Foster L. Burgess and children Priscilla, Warren, Leslie and Warren, Mrs. Belcher, "Aunt Laura," Mrs. Cora Talbot.

An interesting event at the business meeting was the presentation of a gold ring to each of two babies born into the Mills family during the past year, David Wetherbee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wetherbee and to Helen June Mills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mills of Maine; the latter's ring was taken in charge by the little lady's grandfather, President Frank J. Mills, who has sent it to her. The party broke up early in the evening after a most enjoyable time together.

RETAIL MERCHANTS BUREAU AFFILIATES WITH CHAMBER

The Norwich Retail Merchants bureau held a dinner meeting at 6:15 Thursday evening at the Wauregan hotel, which was the first meeting of the season since the summer vacation period and was well attended. President Abner Schwartz conducted the business session at which several matters of importance were transacted. J. B. Caron reported that arrangements had been made for the members of the bureau to participate in the parade on the opening day of the New London county fair. The stores will close at noon of that day, the bureau will have a float in the parade and the members will march.

The dates of Nov. 23 and Nov. 24 were selected as the time for the community fall opening and a committee was appointed to make arrangements for that event.

Walter H. Pilcher, the new secretary of the chamber of commerce, was present at the meeting and was introduced by President Schwartz. Secretary Pilcher responded by giving a brief synopsis of the plans of the chamber of commerce for the current year and asked the co-operation of the members of the bureau to make these plans a success.

Secretary Pilcher invited the merchants bureau to become a part of the chamber of commerce. Up to this time it has been a separate organization working in conjunction with the chamber. At the conclusion of his remarks the bureau voted unanimously to become affiliated as an organization with the chamber of commerce.

DOCTOR'S BILL DENIED IN COMPENSATION CASE

Finding that Dr. Alfred Labensky of New London, failed to sustain the burden of proof in proving a claim of $175 for medical services rendered by him to the late Frank Foster, an employe of the Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospitals, Compensation Commissioner Albert J. Bailey has disallowed the physician's bill.

A hearing on the claim was held August 29, before Commissioner Bailey and the only question in dispute was whether the employe, Foster, suffered an injury arising out of and in the course of his employment. Dr. Labensky contended at the hearing that the disability suffered by Foster and his subsequent death was attributable to his employment at the hospital. The hospital and the Aetna Life Insurance Co., of Hartford respondent, denied that Foster died as a result of any injury which could be found to be compensable under the act.

Foster was an employe of the hospital in the capacity of chauffeur or ambulance driver and at times when not so employed he did odd jobs around the hospital. On Nov. 2, 1926, Dr. Labensky was called to attend Foster, who claims that he had been duck hunting for a few days before and got damp, had dry cough for about a week and complained of pains in the back of his left leg in the sciatic region. Upon examination the doctor found a doubtful heart murmur which he did not, however, consider of any great consequence.

Foster was treated by Dr. Labensky until Nov. 8, 1926, at which time there was a call for beds at the hospital and Foster was discharged with instructions to go to his quarters but not to go to work for a few days.

After Foster's discharge as a patient there was a call for the hospital ambulance to go to Niantic and as the regular ambulance and driver were out on another call at the time, Foster volunteered to take the extra ambulance and answer the call, which he did, going a distance in all of about 15 miles.

It was a rainy day and it was claimed that Foster was more or less exposed to the weather. Foster took sick again and died March 11, 1927, being treated during his illness by Dr. Labensky.

"This case is peculiar in one way as the only claim which has been made at any time is that of the attending physician," Compensation Commissioner Bailey says, "who seeks reimbursement for medical services rendered Foster."

"It is not claimed that the decedent's condition on or before Nov. 8, 1926," Commissioner Bailey says, "was caused by his employment and in view of the evidence given by the medical expert at the hearing, it is impossible for me to conclude that this man's death resulted from anything but the natural progress of the heart disease."

WAS FOUND ASLEEP ON SETTEE IN TOWN HALL

One of the most unusual arrests that the police have made in some time occurred Thursday evening when a young man from East Hampton was found stretched out asleep on one of the settees in the town hall at the court house. Superintendent Joseph J. Fields found the man there as he was closing the hall for the night. Officer P. Shahan was called to escort the sleeper downstairs to police headquarters where he was locked up on an intoxication charge. The young man explained that he thought he was in a club room and had come there for security.

A Man's Drink

MANY a man who doesn't care what kind of fruit is served for breakfast, or what kind of cereal, does want two breakfast items 100 per cent right—eggs and coffee.

One of these items can always be right if it is,—YUBAN.

Take home a can of YUBAN tonight and have a real cup of coffee tomorrow morning—clear, golden brown, deliciously fragrant and invigorating.

Coffee Making Pointers

Do not pour fresh water over the grounds that have been previously used. Used coffee grounds are of no value in making coffee. The flavor and aroma have been steeped out of the coffee in the first brewing.

ACTION APLENTY IS ANTICIPATED IN DUWELL A. A. AMATEUR BOUTS TONIGHT

HAPPY BONTEMPO

Plenty of new blood will feature the Duwell amateur boxing show to be held over at the Duwell field tonight. The entry list which has mounted close to forty includes the names of several new comers from Colchester, South Manchester, New London and Westerly, all anxious to take a crack at the top-notchers of the past two shows who are also entered. The card of ten bouts, will be featured by a scrap in every class including the heavy division.

The favorites of last week, Koziol, Bontempo, Vic Darr, Young Salinski, and Young Chape, all will be on deck and will be bracketed with as tough opposition as can be secured. In the heavyweight division, two men both close to the two hundred mark, Big Boy Burlap of Westerly, and Pete Tombari of the West Side section of the city will swap blows.

Burlap in his last appearance here about a month ago, layed out his opponent in less than a round, and on last night passed remarks to the effect that he would repeat tonight.

Tombari, fighting his first scrap, has trained faithfully since he first saw the Westerly man in action, about a month ago and feels confident of beating him if matched against him.

The list of entries is as follows:

110 pound class—Kid Savage of Norwich; Young Comfort of Westerly.

Heavyweights—Big Boy Burlap of Westerly; Pete Tombari of Norwich.

Provided that the weather is fair, a crowd close to 2500 people, the largest ever to witness a boxing show in eastern Conn. or western R. I. should be on hand for tonight's bouts. The arena has been enlarged and the seating capacity increased, so that everyone will be made comfortable regardless of the size of the crowd.

The officials for the show are as follows: Referees, Frankie Bush and Jackie Wilson; judges, Jack Sweeney and Mike Keeley; timer, Mr. Adams of Taftville; announcer, John Riley and examining physician, Dr. David Susler. The weighing in will start at 6:30 o'clock and probably be completed by 7:30 so that the show can start on time at 8:15 o'clock. (d. s. t.).

PAULINO AND HEENEY FIGHT TO A DRAW

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—(AP)—Paulino Uzcudun, Spanish heavyweight, and Tom Heeney, champion of New Zealand, fought 15 rounds to a draw tonight at Madison Square garden.

The slugging match was called a draw after Referee Patsy Healey decided in favor of Paulino and Judge Flynn voted for Heeney and Judge Barnes considered it a draw.

Paulino, slightly the heavier, forced the fighting all the way, taking crushing blows without wincing for the privilege of smashing Heeney's midsection with alternate rights and lefts and his jaw with hard-driven uppercuts. The New Zealander stood back when possible and drove straight lefts to the iron jaw of the on-coming Spaniard.

George Manley, Denver light heavyweight, outpointed Paul Cavalier, Paterson, N. J., former sparring partner of Jack Sharkey, in a ten-round preliminary. Manley weighed 172 1-2 pounds, Cavalier 180 3-4.

RICHMONDS CLINCH TITLE IN DUSTY LEAGUE

The Richmond Radiators made sure of the Industrial league's first pennant last night at the Academy campus when the Werman Shoers went under from a spirited attack by the score of 10 to 3. The red-hosed gang of Ironmen found themselves last night after two previous mediocre performances and in impressive fashion they proceeded to clinch the title before over 1500 fans.

Eli Segal went out in the sixth inning from a mixture of wildness and base hits and Pascouche, who relieved him, did little in the way of holding the opposition safe. Tim Coughlin was credited with a home run off the latter with two abroad although any kind of fielding would have held the blow to a single. It eluded Smith and rolled to the road in left field.

Lloyd Jarvis pitched three hit ball for the Richmonds and two of these came in the last inning when the Shoemen scored their runs. One was a double by Anso Tombari and which had it traveled but a foot more would have bounded over the centerfield fence. It was the longest and hardest hit ball of the night.

The Richmonds scored in the second when Marra was hit, took second on a passed ball and scored when Ciesluk threw into left field attempting to get him at third. Three more came in the third on doubles by Burke and Jarvis, Coughlin's single and a passed ball and infield error.

The Richmond's six runs in the sixth came on singles by Kampf, Savage and McCrum, two hit batsmen, two errors, a sacrifice and Coughlin's homer.

The Wermans scored on Pheno Tombari's single, his brother's double, a pass, infield out and error.

Tonight's Game

The Wermans and J. B. Martin clash tonight in the Industrial league at the Academy campus, starting at 6 o'clock. It should be an interesting encounter.

The Wermans will have to show their strongest batting order to repulse the scrappy Martin bunch which holds the distinction of being the only one to defeat the new champs, Richmond Radiators and with Lefty Lucier on the mound they did it twice. Lucier, who has gained a lot of admirers in the league by his mound work, will toe the slab tonight for the Velvetmen while Boots Greene or Nip Rankin will pitch for the Shoers. This game was originally scheduled for Saturday but was changed at the request of the managers and the Atlantic Carton and Richmond game that was down for tonight will be played Saturday as the first game of the triple-header.

CUBS POUND FOUR PITCHERS TO BEAT CARDS

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 8—(AP)—Slamming four pitchers for sixteen hits, the Chicago Cubs took the final game of the series from the St. Louis Cardinals, today, 11 to 7, and went back into third place in the tight National league pennant race.

The Cubs are now leading the Cards by one percentage point. The two teams got an even break on the series. This was the twenty-fifth victory of the season for Charley Root who kept the Cardinal hits well scattered except in the fifth and seventh. Schuble hit a homer with one on in the fifth. Nehf relived Root in the 9th after he had allowed a single and a walk.

Nehf allowed another walk, filling the bases with none out. The rally was cut short with two runs, however, when Bottomley forced Holm who had batted for Orsatti. Frisch sacrificed and Douthit struck out. Every Cub got at least one hit while seven got two hits each. Both of Hack Wilson's safeties were triples. The Cubs' big inning was the sixth when they got five runs and sent Sherdel and H. Bell to the showers. They garnered four singles and a double, together with two bases on balls in that frame. HAGEN LEADS FIELD IN WESTERN OPEN

CHICAGO, Sept. 8—(AP)—Walter Hagen today duplicated his practice round of par 70 and took the lead at the end of the first round in defense of his title as western open golf champion.

Hagen was exact par on both nines of No. 4 course of Olympia Fields club, which was one stroke better than the next best score, shared by Frank Walsh of Appleton, Wisc., Dick Grout of Okmulgee and Eddie Murphy of Chicago.

There were two other perfect scores, however, Tommy Armour of Washington, American and Canadian open champion, and Al Watrous, of Grand Rapids scoring 72 each on No. 1 course, whose par is two strokes higher than that of No. 4. Hagen and the others who played No. 4 today will take their turn on the first links tomorrow.

Plans for a merger of at least seven chain stores are reported to be making headway, with the J. G. McCrory 5 and 10 cent stores as the nucleur.

RED SOX TAKE SEE-SAW GAME FROM INDIANS

BOSTON, Sept. 8—(AP)—Boston defeated Cleveland in a see-saw game today 10 to 8, the result being due largely to the hitting of Rothrock and Tobin. Pitchers Shaute and Underhill experinced difficulties in the sixth and seventh innings, mainly because of the wildness, and the Red Sox piled up seven runs to overcome the Indians' early lead. TRIPLE-HEADER AT CAMPUS ON SATURDAY

A monster program is down for the Industrial league Saturday afternoon at the Academy campus as a sort of semi-final windup to the season. A triple-header, the presentation of prizes by probably Mayor Milo R. Waters and various other features are scheduled for the afternoon and from present indications it will be a time long to be remembered. The final game comes Monday when the Insilcos and Richmonds play.

All factories connected with the league will be fully represented and those that are not in the custom of doing so, will close for the afternoon. Arrangements are being made for a banner crowd

In the first game of the afternoon starting at 1:30 the champion Richmond Radiators will meet the Atlantic Cartons, who battled them to a tie this week and in the second game the Atlantic Cartons will joust with the Y. M. C. A. and in the twilight affair the Werman Shoers and Thermos Bottlers meet. Between the first and second games the prizes will be awarded, both for the league and the playground season, both projects being sponsored by the Norwich recreation commission. The second game should start about 2 o'clock and the third about 4:30.

KAPLAN KNOCKS OUT CLARK IN THE FIFTH

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 8—(AP)—Louis (Kid) Kaplan, former featherweight champion of the world, knocked out "Chicky" Clark, of Holyoke, in the fifth round of a scheduled 12 round bout here tonight. Kaplan weighed 134 and Clark 136. The Meriden "buzz saw" had a wide margin in every round and put the Holyoke boy away after a quick succession of rights and lefts to the jaw and body. Early in the fifth round Kaplan knocked Clark to the canvas for a count of nine.

The bout was slated for the lightweight championship of New England but at weighing-in time Kaplan was awarded this honor, Clark being one pound over the lightweight limit.

Clark started to rise just as Referee McAuliffe counted ten and although protesting, was ruled out. The Holyoke lad was no match for the "Kid" who flailed away with both hands continuously from the start of the bout and punished Clark severely with lightning-like punches during the in-fighting.

In the semi-final bout, Nando Tassi, of New Haven, won on a technical knockout over Prince Tooms, Springfield, in the first round of a scheduled six round bout. They are light heavyweights.

Murray Gitlitz, New Haven, won on a technical knockout over Al Walker, New Haven, in the seventh round of what was to have been an eight round affair.

Red Garren, of Waterbury, received the decision over Bobby Wagner, of Philadelphia, at the end of six rounds. They are lightweights.

Jimmy Clinch, of New Britain, was given the referee's decision over Frankie Genaro, of Waterbury at the end of a four round go. They are lightwights.

GOLF CLUB NOTES

As a result of the first round matches of the club championship Sam Wilcox and Dave Morton meet in the upper half of the semi-finals today and John Moulton will meet John Dick in the lower half.

Dave Morton enters the semi-finals through his victory over William G. Park whom he defeated Thursday afternoon 3 and 2. Park was two up on Morton at the end of the first nine but Morton steadied on the inward journey and easily overcame Park's advantage.

John Moulton had little difficulty in winning his first round match from Dr. Vincent Eldred, 6 and 5.

In a first round match of the Labor day tournament J. Ralph Howe beat Jock Hunter one up in a close match that ended on the eighteenth green when Howe halved the hole after laying Hunter a dead stymie.

The luck of the draw in the club championship eliminates one of the two favorites to win the title in the semi-finals. Sam Wilcox and Dave Morton were the favorites to meet in the finals but both landed in the upper half of the draw.

Those who have first round matches to play in the sixteens of the Labor day tournament should bear in mind that if these matches are not played by Sunday the players will be disqualified.

Massie B. Miller played a brilliant round of golf Thursday morning getting a 73 after taking two penalty strokes for out-of-bounds. Massie is playing his short approaches a la Quimet—running them up with a putter.

RIVERVIEW TO PLAY ROSSIE VELVET TEAM ON SATURDAY

The Riverview club will clash with the Rossie Velvet club of Mystic on Saturday in a tune-up game for the third game of the series with Moosup on Sunday. The Rossie club is a strong club having beaten some of the fast teams in New London and Rhode Island, including the Newport Training station team. Lefty Dugas or Tony West will pitch for Riverview.

Rossi Kayos Lyons

In the scheduled four-round curtain raiser, Jimmy Rossi of Westerly, R. I., 153 1-2, won a technical knockout victory over Tony Lyons, New York, 154, after two minutes 17 seconds of the third round. A two-handed bombardment to the jaw floored Lyons in the second and he was saved by the bell. In the third round he was helpless and the referree stopped the bout.

Wichita baseball fans are enthusiastic over the success of their team under the new owners. From a tail-end outfit Messrs. Griggs and Crandall have pulled the Witch a up to within sight of the Western league pennant.

TILDEN BEATS COCHET AFTER JOHNTSON LOST TO LA COSTE IN STRAIGHT SETS

(By Alan Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor)

GERMANTOWN CRICKET CLUB, Philadelphia, Sept. 8—(AP)—Wielding as potent a racquet as he has ever flashed in international tennis competition, "Big Bill" Tilden turned the tables on his tennis competitor, Henri Cochet, today and enabled America to break even with France in the first two matches of the Davis cup challenge round.

Tilden, with an attack of dazzling brilliancy, outstroked and outplayed Cochet in four thrilling sets, decided by scores of 6-4, 1-6, 6-2, 8-6, after the machine-like game of Rene LaCoste had crushed "Little Bill" Johnston by a decisive count of 6-3, 6-2, 6-2.

Johnston's rout was as tragic and complete as Tilden's triumph was spectacular. The little Californian lacked control as never in a vain fight against the flawless defense and tactics of LaCoste. Tilden, in contrast, seldom has reached such astonishing heights of stroking genius. Slumping now and then, especially in the second set, he always was able to lift his game to brilliant heights to outvolley, outdrive and outmaneuver France's most brilliant performer.

Hence Tilden, tonight is the rock upon which rests America's hope of successfully defending the Davis cup in the face of the most formidable challenge to this country's team supremacy in eight years.

So convinced were America's strategists of this, as well as of Johnston's decline, that they switched their plans suddenly after today's play, announcing that Francis T. Hunter, instead of "Little Bill" will pair with Tilden in the doubles tomorrow against Jacques Brugnon and Jean Borotra. Four hours previously it had been declared Johnston and Tilden would carry the entire burden.

To keep the Davis cup, the Americans will need a triumph in the doubles tomorrow, as well as a victory by Tilden over LaCoste in Saturday's singles, for Johnston, on his form today, probably will have a slim chance of upsetting Cochet in the remaining singles battle.

Disappointing as was Johnston's exhibition today, apparently marking a definite decline in the gallant little Californian's game, it was more than offset for the colorful crowd of 10,000 spectators by Tilden's triumph over the youth who has been more of a nemesis to the American ace than any other player in the past year. It was Cochet who put "Big Bill" out of

WILSON D. MAIN'S SERVICE APPRECIATED BY RAILROAD

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 8—Wilson D. Main of Westerly, an assistant signal maintenance man on the New Haven railroad, received this morning a New Haven Railroad Distinguished Service button. In the accompanying letter it was stated that the award was made on recommendation of Supt. R. M. Smith of the Shore Line division for service rendered the railroad on the night of Sunday August 21st last.

About 9 o'clock on the Sunday evening mentioned, Main, in company with New Haven Road Electrician Joseph Frechette was at work on signal trouble in the railroad cut, under the High street dry bridge. A westbound freight was approaching when Main noticed that timber loaded on a freight car had shifted so that the ends of the lumber projected over the east-bound tracks. He immediately signalled the engineer to stop the freight and the car was taken from the train and placed on a siding. There was danger that a train passing in the opposite direction might have at any time fouled the freight car load. Near the Westerly waiting station an iron fence also separates the two main line tracks and was in danger of being hooked by the timber as the car passed.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

The Cellar Doors Are Closed

When e'er you close a door beware
You are not shutting in a bear.
—Farmer Brown.

Farmer Brown's Boy came out of the barn at once and looked up in Cubby's favorite tree. The little Bear wasn't there. Farmer Brown's Boy gave one more hasty look to make sure, and then started to hunt, for he knew all too well that if he didn't find that little Bear very quickly there was bound to be more trouble of some kind. Where could the scamp have gone to? It was useless to try to track him, because his tracks were everywhere and it was impossible to tell which ones were the freshest. The only thing to do was to hunt for him.

So Farmer Brown's Boy started out. Remembering that he had left the barn door open while he was in the barn, he returned at once to search through the big barn. He knew that Cubby was quite capable of following him without making a sound. So he searched that barn from one end to the other and from top to bottom, but nowhere did he find that little Bear. He looked into everything and under everything and tramped all around through the hay, all the time calling "Cubby". But there was no reply and no sign to show that Cubby was anywhere about.

Then Farmer Brown's Boy began to search outside. He even looked under the barn. He hunted through the shed. He went over to the henhouse, although he was sure Cubby hadn't been there, for the hens would have made a great racket if he had. He remembered the beehives and Cubby's love of honey. He hurried over to the Old Orchard, where the beehives were. All was peaceful there. He went to the house. The doors were closed, so Cubby couldn't have gotten in there. He went around the house, but he could see no place where Cubby could have gotten in, or hidden.

Farmer Brown's Boy was sorely puzzled. "The little scamp!" he kept saying over and over. "The little scamp! I don't believe he has gone back to the Green Forest. Of course he may have, but I don't believe it. I don't believe he wants to run away. He must be around somewhere. And wherever he is, he probably is in mischief. I wasn't in that barn but a few minutes and he was up in that favorite tree of his when I went in. Perhaps he is up in some other tree."

So Farmer Brown's Boy began looking through the tops of other trees. But all his looking was in vain. Not a single glimpse of a little black coat did he have. It certainly was mysterious. He went into the house to see if by any chance Mother Brown had taken Cubby into the house. Once in a great while she would do that. But Mother Brown didn't know anything about Cubby. She hadn't seen him. She hadn't heard him. Presently she, too, joined the search. She went to the cookie jar and with a couple of cookies in her hand went all around the house and out around the barn calling Cubby. She knew that if he saw those cookies he wouldn't be able to resist them; he would promptly come out of hiding. But no little Bear came to meet her. No little Bear came to tease for those cookies.

"I declare," said Mother Brown. "I don't see where he could have gone. I guess there is nothing to do but wait until something happens."

"What do you mean by that?" asked Farmer Brown's Boy.

Mother Brown began to chuckle. "Something will happen, Son," said she. "Something always happens when that Bear's loose. I dread to think what it may be, but you may be sure that something will happen, and then we'll find out where that little scamp is."

Of course you know where Cubby was all this time. He was down in the cellar of the house. He had found the cellar door open and had slipped inside. Just afterward Farmer Brown had come along and closed the cellar doors, not knowing that Cubby was inside. Then Farmer Brown had gone down to the cornfield to work.

The next story—Cubby is Supremely Happy.

AN EARLY RUN OF FISH SAID TO DENOTE COLD WINTER

Rollin Rathbun went over to the railroad bridge Wednesday morning at 5 o'clock to try his luck at fishing for snapper blues and smelts. Around 8 o'clock 40 fishermen lined the bridge but young Rathbun was pulling in fish right and left, while his buddies had fishermen's luck catching nothing. After five hours of fishing he had made a catch of 50 blue fish and 27 smelts. For so early in the season, Capt. Rathbun led them all. One old salt water fisherman said, "Get in your winter coal early, for it is to be a hard winter, mostly cold weather and not many snow storms, for when blue fish and smelts come around so early, look out!"

The fire company called a special meeting Wednesday evening at the rooms on Cedar street to take action on a gift given by Mr. Rice of Cedar Crest, a check of $50 to give the smokeeaters a turkey supper. Last summer the woods caught fire near his house and a call was sent to the fire company for help. The gong sounded with 25 fire fighters on the fire truck. After working one and one-half hours battling the blaze and smoke, they saved his house. Mr. Rice did not forget the smoke eaters for their brave work. The chairman to arrange for the supper is Walter Palmer, with Edward Schoomaker and Alvin Meister. It is to be held the week of the 12th. The Woman's auxiliary members will be guests of their brother firemen at the meeting. Walter Palmer was in the chair as Foreman A. Banks was out of town. Fifteen members were in attendance.

GROWNG POTATOES

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

Up in my bishopric the promise of a potato crop has gone glimmering.

I hope it isn't so on Preston Plains or other big centers of potato production.

But there's no doubt about it, up here. It all happened in three days, last week. Wednesday the vines were rank and green and upstanding, fairly radiating hope. Then the rain set in again. It was not a series of showers, but a steady, monotonous warm drizzle out of a sky so low hung with clouds that one involuntarily stooped to avoid running his head into them.

It was the kind of weather that seemed to sort o' stupefy all nature. We should have been sleepy—if we hadn't been so blamed sticky all over. Even the flies hadn't energy enough left to be scared. If you brushed one off that particularly irritable spot on the top of your bald head, he dropped right back on it as soon as your hand had stopped waving. He couldn't be said to fly back, for flying presupposes some sort of active movement. He just slumped back in a slushy sort of way and flattened down, too lazy to drill for oil and too indifferent to care whether he tickled or not.

In the meantime it kept right on raining; mornings, noons, and nights for three consecutive intolerale days. All Wednesday, all Thursday, all Friday and, whenever a sodden-wilted sleeper woke, he heard it raining every one of the appertaining nights.

All of us who had potato patches groaned as we thought of them while it was still too drenching wet to approach them. Saturday, when clearing skies made investigation possible, we all found practically the same state of affairs. The whilom green upstanding vines were black and drooping in slimy deliquescence on the soaking dirt. There was no question of blight and rot. One neighbor who had an acre or so planted said to me: "Wednesday every vine was as green as in June; Saturday there wasn't a vine to be seen above the weeds and you could smell the rot if you pointed your nose towards the field from a quarter of a mile away."

I went out and looked at my little patch. There was no doubt that the vines had gone. But was there any chance for even a part of the tubers? What to do? What to do? The earth was saturated so that it seemed more like mud than soil. The tops were slimy, not only with the soakings from the rain but with the rot which was rapidly decomposing them. You couldn't pull them, for they came apart in your grasp. To dig the potatoes under such conditions was a violation of all the traditions of potato-farming in this neighborhood. On the other hand, to leave them was to expose them to almost certain and complete rot.

What to do?

Let 'em lie and take their chances? Or dig 'em out, caked in mud, and take another line of chances? I decided, so far as I was concerned, to dig 'em.

Spading them out and worrying off enough of the clinging mud to see what they looked like, I found them practically fully grown but not quite mature, as indicated by the tenderness of the skins which even a touch served to break. Nor did I discover, in my main patch, a single certain case of rot. But I don't know how many such were hidden under the coat of wet dirt which covered most of them. Anyway, I didn't dare cellar them. Instead, I spread them out on the barn floor, where it is too dark for them to run any danger of being sun-greened yet airy enough to dry them off. There they will lie till the situation developes, and I know whether my prompt action saved them or whether it was too late, after all.

You see, I had only a small garden plat, intended merely to supply my personal needs, with no expectation of having any to sell. So I could dig them out in a comparatively short time. But my neighbors who were raising from one to 20 acres apiece for the market, could hardly do the same. And when, as in the case of the one I've quoted, the odor of decay was so strong as to be offensive even before a hill was opened, what was the use? Potatoes don't stink before they're rotten. And what's the sense of digging them after they are rotten?

After I had planted my regular crop, last spring, one friend who had the season before had rather notable luck with a new variety, gave me a single tuber of that new variety to try. I had a vacant bit of garden left for just such last minute chances. So I cut his one potato into nine pieces and planted them in a drill, at least 24 and in a couple of cases 30 inches apart, making nine hills. When I had finished barn-floring my main crop, I took a look at these. The tops were plainly blighting, though nowhere near as far gone as the others. So I forked them out, too.

I think you'll credit me with having given them a good place and having treated them judgmatically during their growth, when I tell you that, from one seed tuber, I dug out 123 potatoes, large and small, but mostly large, making an overflowing half-bushel.

But whether I could prove it to you, tomorrow, if you should drop in and want to be shown, is another question.

Every single one of the 123 which showed a bit of skin through the adhering dirt was speckled with those tiny white spots which are generally regarded as almost certain symptoms of imminent rot. I've spread them, also, on the barn floor and shall give them "the once over" every day till I know what they're going to do. But I'd be willing to bet, from present appearances, that there won't be a dozen solid ones left in a week.

And there you have the history of farming epitomized for you. The farmer, after years of experience, picks out a suitable bit of land for his potatoes, gives them the fertilization which that same long experience has shown him is most promising, tills them with pernickety care, fights off the bugs,—and then, after he's exhausted all the resources of his skill and labor, a "spell of weather" sets in and his hopes blight into evil-smelling rot.

Suppose an average business man has a profitable "deal" in mind. He works over it and fingers on it and nurses it along for four months; he holds conferences with everybody concerned, so far as he can find them out, he lays careful plans involving the most delicate adjustments, he foresees and forestalls every possible contingency he can imagine, and then, just as he is about to pull off a business triumph and salt down a few hundred or thousand dollars of comfortable profit, there breezes in from the ranches of Texas or the sands of Bobi desert or some other remote place a never-heard-of or suspected chap who knocks the whole gallery into the hell-box, and calmly asks Mr. Business Man what he's going to do about it?

Such things, I am told, sometimes happen in the business world. Such things, I happen to know, rather frequently happen in the farming world. They are not calculated to increase the hilarity of nations or the good nature of the persons most immediately involved.

There used to be one city woman my customers who was won't, on occasion, to express her disapproval of the extent to which farmers grumbled about their "bad luck." "There's no such thing as luck," she used to say; "it's more likely shiftlessness for bad management."—I only wish that otherwise estimable lady had had the care and control of Neighbor Sherman's potato-field, this season. I can just see how her delicate nose would have twitched as she approached the malodorous lot last Saturday or Sunday. And I can imagine that, possibly, she might have felt a little different about the manoeuverings of "luck".

It makes a big difference in one's outlook on the universe whether the sty is on his own eyelid or someone else's.

Writing of potatoes reminds me of something my father used to tell me about potato-growing conditions in this same valley, more than a hundred years ago. Now-a-days, it's a chance-y business. "You pays your money and you does your work and you takes what you gets". But in 1818, when the pater first saw it as a sturdy lad of 16 years, potato-growing was about as exact a science as astronomy. Every farmer expected, as a matter of course, an average yield of a peck to the hill. Did he want to raise a 100 bushels? He didn't measure out his land. He just counted the hills. 400 of them, and went about his other work indubitably assured that they would turn out the 100 bushels he wanted. Some, of course, would yield less than the peck, but others would over-run enough to keep the average good. I have many times dug 50 hills to get a full bushel on the same land.

What do you s'pose is the explanation? We fertilize more generously and do much more and harder work, now, to get smaller crops. Have the seasons changed? Or has the soil been exhausted of some element the potato-crop needs and, which none of our fertilizers replaces? Or is it the bugs, which were unheard of, 100 years ago? I give it up. But I wish some wiser man would find out and tell potato-bugs and potato-blights and peach-yellows and various sick things are good for the farmer. They certainly insure him against getting fat and lazy and rich.

Interesting thought for the day: I never knew but one really fat farmer. And he did most of his farming by proxy.

How many can you count up on your fingers? Fat ones that you actually know, I mean; not distant ones that you may have "heer'n tell of?"

THE FARMER.

Stomach Ulcers

THE FOLLY OF NEGLECT

Stomach troubles are progressive. They seldom cure themselves, but instead get constantly worse. It is the worst of dangerous folly to neglect the first simple signs of after eating distress—gas, heartburn, sourness, etc. that in nearly every case are caused by "too much acid" in the stomach. These first symptoms may for a time be relieved by soda which helps to neutralize the acid or by pepsin pills which relieve pain by artificially digesting the sour fermenting food. But they offer only a false security and soon lose effect. The occasional after-eating distress becomes chronic dyspepsia. The dyspeptic is particularly liable to gastritis, and gastric ulcers in the stomach are only too often the forerunners of stomach cancers and death.

For this reason, physicians place much importance upon keeping the stomach free from harmful excess acid. An ideal method of treatment is by the regular daily use of pure Bisurated Magnesia—either powder or tablets—which taken after meals in a little water neutralizes acidity, prevents its formation, keeps the stomach clean, strong and healthy, and digestion perfect. Any drug store can supply Bisurated Magnesia and stomach sufferers are advised to give it a trial.

Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin and Patrolman George Perkins were detailed to go to the Mercer street house. They found Pankratus loitering there and taking him before Mrs. Cady she identified him as the fellow who had caused her annoyance by his actions. The funeral of James D. Charles B. Forner, 592 Salem avenue, York, Pa., may or may not be a member of the Pennsylvania state constabulary, but if he is a state officer he caused the New London police considerable investigation last night, something not ordinary in police circles. A cab driver on the outskirts of the city was held up by the officer and directed to drive with Forner to the nearest hospital. He said that he had been searching for a fugitive and finding his man, the latter turned on the officer and shot him. The taxi driver speeded Forner to Lawrence-Memorial hospital and then communicated with the police, for he believed that if Forner had been shot and had lost his prisoner, it was a matter with which the police should be acquainted. Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin was speeded to the hospital to ascertain the facts connected with the alleged shooting and to his surprise when he interviewed Forner, he decided that Forner's statement to the cab driver was false—that Forner had made that excuse in order to secure emergency treatment at the hospital, not for any bullet wounds but for relief from an operation which he underwent recently. After receiving the treatment, Forner was taken to police headquarters and later boarded the New London line steamer, New Hampshire for New York. At police headquarters, Forner did not have any credentials, not even a badge, to show that he was a Pennsylvania state officer, but as there was no charge to be levied against him he was allowed to go, with a caution to use some other excuse in the event of another emergency arising. He explained his statement to the taxicab driver by saying that he had suffered such great pain from the operation a physician in another city had administered a narcotic and that he was not responsible for his statement. That may also have applied for his statement to the taxicab driver.

Raymond Austin, of North Haven, was arrested on School street, Groton, last night. This morning in the Groton town court he was fined the costs of the court, $4.32. Austin paid and was ordered out of town by Judge Cornelius C. Costello.

Broadway Theater

A look into the heart of a child—a glimpse of the mother-instinct of every woman—and, beyond this, as a gigantic background, the surge and thunder of battle as civilization presses westward—these are the elements that make The Bugle Call, great.

The new picture, now playing at the Broadway theater, is a starring vehicle for Jackie Coogan—but it is more than that. It is the triumph of a Jackie Coogan new to the screen—Jackie Coogan in a new role that establishes him as not only one of the greatest child actors in history, but as one of the greatest actors regardless of age or time.

The story is laid in the thunderous days when the United States cavalry hammered back the Indian hordes from the Bozeman trail in 1870 to open a gateway to the west for settlers; one of historic struggles to aid the onset of civilization. Jackie plays a bugle boy—son of a cavalry captain, on the frontier.

His adventure, in which his bugle saves the fort, is a thrill; the Indian battles are spectacular settings for the story—but—after all—the real story is not in the mighty march of civilization.

It is the story of the heart of a motherless child—and a stepmother who tried to win his love and supplant the mother who lived in his memory. This is a poignant touch to the story that Jackie handles with consummate skill—in fact, in which he achieves one of the acting triumphs of screen history.

Claire Windsor is charming as the unwelcome stepmother—and one can't blame Jackie for capitulating in the end—and Herbert Rawlinson gives a splendidly balanced performance as the father. Henry Todd, Bodil Rosing and Sarah Padden add a great deal of clever character work.

The surrounding program, all that could be desired to complete a real entertainment. Bill Dooley in Row, Sailor Row, Paramount latest news topics and Krazy Kat cartoon. The Broadway concert orchestra a clever corps of artists furnish instrumental music.

Palace Theater

The hit of all shows was seen at the Palace yesterday at the opening of the new bill, which will continue today and tomorrow. Five big acts of vaudeville were presented and we wish to go on record as saying that the entire performance is 100 per cent. Rodriguez and Lilia and their orchestra is one of the few big acts that have a perfect combination. The music is good and the performers are great. The Temple trio, three comedians had the audience in laughter from the start to finish of their act. Nick and Gladys Verga presented a comedy skit on domestic troubles, very funny and was greatly appreciated. Eddie Cassidy of minstrel fame told some very funny stories and sings well. Art and Lucille Davids offered a very neat wire act and their work is very daring and interesting. A very good stage show and was accepted as such, if applause is any criterian.

A tense story of swiftly-moving drama in a New England village,—birth, death, suicide, fire, blizzard—these are the ingredients of the theme developed in Rupert Julian's fine production for De Mille pictures, The Country Doctor, which was shown with great success at the Palace theater yesterday. Featuring Rudolph Schildkraut, Junior Coghlan, Sam De Grasse, Gladys Brockwell, Virginia Bradford and Louis Natheaux in exceptionally strong roles, the photoplay created a profound impression.

The story tells of a self-sacrificing country physician in rural New England who is on duty day and night and whose efforts frequently are rewarded with the gift of a sack of potatoes or turnips. There is a charming love theme, between the daughter of a "scarlet" woman and the son of a small town tyrant, which leads to a pathetic tragedy, yet through the efforts of the doctor, all ends happily. There are thrills and laughs aplenty, so that for admixture of comedy and drama, few pictures produced this season surpass in heart interest and appeal this delightful saga of the unsung heroes of the rural districts—the trusty small town physicians.

The character interpretations are unusually artistic. Mr. Schildkraut as the doctor who is loved by all who know him and who is a slave to duty, is admirable. Junior Coghlan is seen to fine advantage in a featured role of signal strength. Gladys Brockwell as the loving mother with a past, the exposure of which drives her to suicide, evinces artistry of high calibre, while Mr. De Grasse as the small town tyrant, Virginia Bradford as the young wife and Frank Marion as the husband, contribute much to the enjoyableness of the picture. Those who like dramatic pictures, relieved by wholesome laughs, will find The Country Doctor well worth seeing.

Breed Theatre.

Ken Maynard rides to new honors as a western star in his latest picture, "The Land Beyond the Law," which comes to the Breed theatre today and Saturday. One is always assured of plenty of action and thrills in a Maynard film, but this one brings with it a stirring story of western history screened in such a manner that it cannot fail to command interest.

Prior to the admission of New Mexico to the Union, gun-play ruled the land. For several years after it became officially one of the United States, there was great difficulty in bringing law and order to a territory ruled by wealthy and arrogant cattle barons who ruled with absolute power. Maynard appears here as a deputy marshal, assigned to bring to justice one particular baron and his band of cattle rustlers and gun-men who had been terrorizing New Mexico and making it unsafe for pioneer settlers.

Then there is Tarzan, the white steed who is a veritable marvel among horses. He is a vital part of "The Land Beyond the Law." Don't miss this marvelous production.

The boy suffered a fractured frontal bone and other injuries.

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—(AP)—Advancing sensationally the full limit of $10 a bale permitted under the rules, cotton furnished the most conspicuous feature in today's financial markets. Various cross currents ran across the stock market when realizing and professional offerings depressed various shares, while others mounted rapidly to new high territory.

The rise in cotton prices followed publication of the government's September crop estimate, showing a decrease of about 800,000 bales from the estimate for August 1. A sharp setback followed the rise, and was in turn succeeded by a rally on reports of increased foreign trade demand. The trade had been prepared for an estimate of around 13,000,000 bales and the publication of the government's figure 12,692,000 started an immediate rush of buying when the market reopened after noon.

The flurry in the cotton market had no particular effect on stock prices. There was little change in the money situation, call money holding fast all day at the renewal rate of 3 1-2 per cent, and the outlook for fall business was encouraging to operators for the advance, especially in many of the pivotal issues. U. S. Steel was an outstanding leader, closing with a net gain of 2 points after having attained a new peak of 152 1-4. American Smelting, Postum, Consolidated Gas, Bethlehem, Kresge and several others were bid up sharply and all crossed into new high ground.

Meanwhile, heavy pressure was directed against other prominent issues. General Motors dropped below the 250 mark and General Electric, Dupont, Woolworth and Case Threshing Machine were in the rather long list of stocks which lost ground on extensive selling.

The market was unusually broad and the volume of trading was heavy, total sales running above 2,700,000 shares. Various usually inactive issues were brought into prominence, notably some of the insurance stocks, Reassia, Fidelity Phoenix and Continental all touching new top prices.

Among the conspicuous weak spots were Gulf States Steel, which went down to 44, off 5, and Penic & Ford, which sold as low as 20 3-4. Both issues were weak on omissions by the respective directorates of quarterly dividends.

Houston Oil, which had a sensational rise of 20 points late yesterday, continued to be bid up sharply at the expense of the short interest, climbing nearly 10 points more to a new high of 156, and closing above 151, with a net gain of more than 5 points. Some other oil shares also moved forward early, only to fall off sharply in late dealings. Atlantic Refining and General Asphalt were among the issues which showed net declines after earlier advances.

Railroad shares continued to reflect the outlook for increased traffic toward the end of the year. Chesapeake & Ohio touched 198 1-2, and was followed upward by New York Central, Pennsylvania, Atchison preferred and various others.

Several of the automobile issues moved against the lead of General Motors, especially Studebaker and Jordan. Accessory shares were strong, including Mullins Body, which jumped 4 points to a new top price.

Aside from cotton, the principal commodity markets showed only minor changes. Coffee prices showed slight improvement, and sugar was virtually unchanged. Grains were generally higher, influenced no doubt, by the sensational upturn in cotton.

A rise of 10 points to 47.14 cents by Japanese yen and a 7-point drop to 4.93 in Portuguese Escudo were the contrasting features of the irregular foreign exchange market. Demand sterling ruled slightly higher around $4.85 7-8, the year's high, and French francs just below 3.92 cents.

No change was recorded in the money market, time money and commercial paper holdings being steady at yesterday's levels.

PROFESSIONAL WOMEN'S CLUB TO BACK AMERICANIZATION

The first fall meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club was held Thursday noon at Gregory's on Broadway with the president, Miss Lucy B. Abbott in the chair. A very interesting talk on Foreign Born was given by Miss Bernice Willey, supervisor of the local evening schools. During her talk Miss Willey stated that there are 5,000,000 illiterates in the United States, placing this country tenth in the illiterate list. Of the number four and a half million are illiterate voters, enough to swing a national election. In Connecticut in 1920 there were over 67,000 illiterates.

The club voted to cooperate in every way with the local Americanization committee. Miss Betsy Mitchell has been appointed chairman of the program committee in place of Miss Willey whose resignation becomes effective October 1st. Mrs. Edward A. Rich was appointed to carry out the work of publicity chairman in place of Miss Gladys Peckham who has removed from the city. Miss Abbott stated that the club cared for ten of the New York tenement children who were entertained in and around Norwich for two weeks this summer.

The next meeting is to be an evening meeting at the Norwich Golf club.

NEW LAW WILL SPEED UP PAYMENT OF PERSONAL TAXES IN THIS STATE

Collection of personal taxes in the state is to be speeded up by certain changes made by the 1927 general assembly in the personal tax law, notice of which has just been sent to all rate makers and personal tax collectors by William H. Blodgett, state tax commissioner.

The change that will result in more speedy payment of the personal taxes is the provision for a 60-day period of grace, after which a penalty of $1 is imposed for failure to pay within the time limit. This is the first time that such a penalty has been provided. Heretofore, the collection of personal taxes has dragged along through the year, dependent upon the complaisance of the collector, until finally the list of delinquents has been handed over to police authorities to hale the slow payers into court, where they were obliged to pay the tax with something extra. Now all who defer payment of the tax beyond the 60-day limit will have $1 added to it automotically when they eventually come to pay up.

The personal tax is levied only by the 169 towns, consolidated towns and cities, and consolidated town and borough. In 168 of these municipalities the next enrollment is as of Oct. 1, 1927. In New Haven it is as of Sept. 1, 1927. By the 1927 legislation the personal tax based on the enrollment of October 1, 1927, or in the case of New Haven on Sept. 1, 1927, will become due and payable on the following days:

In New Haven on January 1, 1928.

In the following 23 towns on February 1, 1928: Ansonia, Bridgeport, Bristol, Danbury, Derby, East Hartford, Enfield, Fairfield, Greenwich, Hamden, Hartford, Meriden, Middletown, Milford, Naugatuck, New Britain, New London, Norwalk, Norwich, Stamford, Stonington, Stratford, Torrington, Wallingford, Waterbury, West Hartford, West Haven, and Windham.

In Manchester on April 1, 1928.

In the remaining 139 towns, and consolidated towns and cities on November 15, 1927.

In each of these 169 municipalities 60 days from the above due date will be allowed in which to pay the personal tax without penalty. If the personal tax is not paid at the expiry of that 60-day period of grace, a penalty of noe dollar must be added to the tax, which penalty becomes a part of the tax and is collectible in the same manner as the tax itself. The penalty is added automotically and is to be added in every case. The collector has no discretionary powers. This means that $1 must be collected from the delinquent if the tax based on the enrollment of Oct. 1, 1927 or in the case of New Haven on Sept. 1, 1927, is not paid by the following days:

March 1, 1928 in New Haven;

April 1, 1928 in each of the following 23 towns: Ansonia, Bridgeport, Bristol, Danbury, Derby, East Hartford, Enfield, Fairfield, Greenwich, Hamden, Hartford, Meriden, Middletown, Milford, Naugatuck, New Britain, New London, Norwalk, Norwich, Stamford, Stonington, Stratford, Torrington, Wallingford, Waterbury, West Hartford, West Haven, and Windham;

May 31, 1928 in Manchester;

January 14, 1928, in each of the remaining 139 towns and consolidated towns and cities.

The new act is not retroactive. The penalty of $1 is not to be added to unpaid personal taxes based on enrollments preceding 1927.

The new act further provides that the collector shall keep an accurate account of all penalties collected and shall pay over such penalties, together with the tax, at the time he makes payment to the treasurer.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS NOT EPIDEMIC SAYS OSBORN

Although seventy-three cases of infantile paralysis have been reported in the state of Connecticut since August 1, as compared with only twelve cases reported in the entire state during the first seven months of 1927, "such an increase in the number of sporadic cases is not looked upon as constituting an outbreak of the disease," says a circular letter to be sent out by the state department of health to all physicians in the state. Although New London has had nine of those cases since August 1 and East Hartford and Enfield each six and Bridgeport five, the state health officials call attention to the fact that the disease is not concentrated in any one place in the state but generally distributed.

It is not known exactly what causes this disease but it is carried not only in the blood but often in secretions of the nose and throat. It is a general infection, health officials explained, which is sometimes accompanied by the complication of paralysis. Until actual paralysis develops, which it does not always do, it is difficult to diagnose a case. Furthermore, it is difficult to identify a "carrier" of the disease. In which class are many adults although they do not become visibly ill with the disease. The best precaution against this disease is to keep children away from personal contact with crowds and even relatives, for they may be carriers. The department urges immediate isolation of a case or suspected case.

Of the seventy-three cases in Connecticut since August 1, fifty two were reported in August and twenty-one so far this month. Hartford county leads the others with thirty-two cases.

New London county has the second largest number, thirteen, as follows: New London, nine; Norwich two; and East Lyme and Groton one each.

New Haven county comes third with twelve cases.

Ten cases are in Fairfield county. Litchfield county has three cases and Middlesex and Windham counties each have two cases, East Haddam, Haddam, Plainfield and Pomfret each having one.

PITCHER SUIT HEARING PUT OVER TO MONDAY

A legal tilt between George E. Pitcher, agent for the Bailey property at Burnham square, owned by Howell S. Bailey, New York, and the Norwich Gas and Electric department, scheduled to take place in the court of common pleas Thursday, was continued until Monday morning next. At that time it is expected that Judge Charles B. Waller will hear the parties at issue on a motion for modification of judgment. Last March Mr. Pitcher obtained a judgment in the common pleas court for damages of $620 against the city of Norwich and a court order directing the city to remove certain guy wires and other obstructions from in front of and over the Bailey property before September 1st.

September 1st the guy wires had not been removed and Mr. Pitcher threatened to cut them at midnight that night unless they were removed. The city secured a continuance of a week in which to remove the obstructions but as Mr. Pitcher threatened to cut the guy wires anyway, the city took precautions against the poles carrying the main light and power wires from the electric plant, from falling by propping them.

It is understood that Mr. Pitcher will take the case to the supreme court of errors if necessary. Mr. Pitcher now has a $20,000 suit against the city pending. Mr. Bailey is Mr. Pitcher's son-in-law.

MOTORCYCLE RIDER PAYS FINE AND RIDES AWAY

Almon J. Dennis, 29, of New York city, who was arrested here Monday night when he was found operating a motorcycle with side-car under the influence of liquor, was able to leave his cell at police headquarters Thursday morning when his employer in New York sent on the money to pay Dennis' fine and costs amounting to $211.50.

The motorcycle has been standing in Broadway outside police headquarters ever since Dennis was arrested. His wife, who was with him in the sidecar when he was arrested, has remained here. When he was released Thursday, they rode away together on the motorcycle.

Among the recent appointments made by Bishop Nilan was that of Anthony J. Murphy as prefect of discipline and assistant instructor at St. Thomas seminary, Hartford, for the year 1927-28.

Mr. Murphy is a graduate of the Norwich Free Academy, class of 1920 and of St. Thomas' seminary, class of 1922. He has been pursuing his studies for the past five years at the Sulpician seminary, Catholic university, Washington, D. C. He is the son of Mrs. Abbie Murphy of Taftville.

NORWICH BOY SCOUTS EXHIBIT AT STATE FAIR

An interesting exhibit of craftwork is being shown at the Boy Scout section of the Connecticut state fair at Hartford by the Norwich council of the Boy Scouts. The exhibit shows a fine collection of witch hazel brushes dyed in blue, red, orange and green, with the materials from which the brushes are made and partly finished work showing the methods used in the making. A collection of plaster casts with impressions of tree leaves, painted in natural colors, showing the leaves of trees which are common in this part of the state, makes up another part of the exhibit, while another section is devoted to an assembly of leashes, belts and lashes made of leather. A number of bird houses and flower stakes of birds and butterflies completes the exhibit of the Norwich Scouts.

In attendance at the fair representing the Boy Scouts of Norwich are Cecil Wetherbee of Troop 1 of the United Congregational church, and Henry Reardon of Troop 5 of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic church. One of the boys is in attendance at the Scout booth at all times during the day and evening, ready to answer questions concerning Scout work and to demonstrate the making of any of the materials in their exhibit. Considerable interest is being shown in the exhibit by people in attendance at the fair, and the boys find it is difficult to successfully explain to people that their materials were there for exhibition only and that the articles were not for sale.

The exhibit of the Norwich Scouts is a part of the exhibition of Boy Scout work of the Scout councils of the state of Connecticut. Scouting work takes up entirely one of the large fair buildings, the building being used only for exhibit booths. At one side of this building the Scouts in attendance have set up the pioneer encampment. This encampment consists of five large sleeping tents, three Indian tepees, signal towers, bridges and other Scout construction projects.

Exhibiting with Norwich Council Scouts are Scouts from Stamford council, mining merit badge work; New Haven council, leatherwork; Waterbury council, nature study work; Housatonic council, butterflies; Meriden council, blacksmithing; Bristol council, conservation; Hartford council, archery, blacksmithing, fire building, snakes. Scouts are also conducting a free checking booth and an information booth at their headquarters.

The Boy Scout Pioneer encampment at the state fair this year is the largest exhibit of Boy Scout work in Connecticut, and rivals the work shown by Scouts at the Eastern States exposition.

In charge of the scouts at the fair and director of the Boy Scouts work at the pioneer encampment is Assistant Executive Charles J. Morse of the Hartford Scout council.

JAIL AND FINE FOR LIQUOR LAW VIOLATION

Ten days in jail with a $200 fine plus costs was given aul Salamucha of No. 161 North Main street, when he pleaded guilty to violation of the liquor laws at the Thursday morning session of the city court. He was arrested Tuesday night by the local police who raided his place of business on a warrant. When he was presented Wednesday morning he insisted that the beer seized as evidence be analyzed and the case was continued until Thursday morning. The analysis showed the beer to be of 4 1-2 alcoholic strength.

RETAIL EXPERT IS TO ADDRESS NORWICH CONGRESS

Abner Schwartz, chairman of the special committee appointed by President James L. Case of the chamber of commerce, to arrange the program for the one-day congress, announces the acceptance of Frank Stockdale to address the mass meeting of sales people from all the stores, at the

FRANK STOCKDALE

Wauregan hotel Monday morning Sept. 26th at a breakfast meeting on the subject, "How to Build Sales and Grow With Your Store." This meeting will be absolutely free to the people attending and the merchants are to be asked to bear the expense of the meal for the number of employes attending from each store.

It is also planned to have a merchants' luncheon at noon of the same day, and Mr. Stockdale has agreed to address this meeting on the subject, "Today's Competition and How to Meet It."

Mr. Stockdale has had a wide experience in dealing with the complicated subjects of retail store management for over 22 years. His ambition to become an authority on retail management has never left his vision and is responsible for his ability to correct error where it exists and unfold the interesting facts of his subject in an influential way. There is probably no other man in America today who has spent so much time and effort as Frank Stockdale in a serious and determined effort to master the problems of retailing. As a result, Mr. Stockdale is a proved power and a recognized authority. He writes clearly and his messages and his analysis of business problems give lasting, helpful service to retail merchants. Retailers in every part of America, in towns big and little, respect and solicit his counsel.

Nelson Mills, president of the Mills Hardware Co., Hamilton, Ontario, says "We have reduced our stock 25 per cent and increased our sales 10 per cent in the last year."

"This statement reveals the condition of our business after exactly one year's experience with the merchandising plan introduced by Frank Stockdale. It reads almost like a fairy tale under prevailing conditions, but it is an established fact. Even the casual visitor to the store cannot but be impressed with the startling change which has come over the system of merchandising and the crowd of buyers who respond to the appeal of the advertisements and the show windows give obvious indication of the success of the plan."

The July number of the "Live Storekeeper," Youngstown, Ohio, says:

"Frank Stockdale certainly scored a hit at the Third Merchants' convention, June 20th. Pencils fairly raced in the effort to make records of all the inspiration and data he gave out. Himself the son of a country storekeeper and receiving his first retail experience behind the counter in his father's store, he has fundamentally an understanding of the small-town storekeeper's needs. We believe he knows more about not only the problems of the small storekeeper, but the solutions as well, than any other one man in America. Frank Stockdale calls himself a "clearing house." He travels all over the United States, investigating successful methods in stores everywhere, correlates this data and then gives it out to retail assemblies such as our convention. His data is all authoritative."

An opportunity will be afforded any business man in Norwich to have a private conference "absolutely free" with Mr. Stockdale, by appointment, during the afternoon of September 2[illegible] or to consult with him about any special problems which they may care to secure his counsel on. Also, a round table conference of open question and answers will follow the talk which Mr. Stockdale will give at the noon luncheon.

In the movement of naval craft it is noted that the S-3 and S-11 are at New London.

PRIDE OF DETROIT IS NOW IN FLIGHT FOR SHANGHAI

Hopped Off From Hongkong at 6:25 A. M. Yesterday—Three Royal Air Force Planes Accompanied the Pride of Detroit—May Decide Uon Arrival at Shanghai to Fly to Tokyo, 1200 Miles, Mostly Over Water—The Old Glory and the Sir John Carling Are Now Definitely Listed as "Lost."

HONGKONG, Sept. 10—(AP)—With her nose pointed in the direction of Shanghai, the Pride of Detroit took the air at 6.25 o'clock this morning, her pilots, W. S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee, in high hope that they would soon reach the halfway point of their round the world journey.

The American aviators came through to Hongkong from Hanoi, in French Indo-China, at 3.20 p. m., yesterday. They had made the long flight from Rangoon to Hanoi over treacherous territory, without their scheduled stop at Bangkok, Siam. In this way they saved some time, and also avoided the danger of either a forced landing or a descend to difficult ground.

Three planes of the Royal Air force accompanied the Pride of Detroit at the start for Shanghai, which is something under 800 miles distant from Hongkong. If this Chinese city is reached in safety the aviators will have covered virtually 11,100 miles, more than half their routed distance around the world.

Both men appeared to be in good condition, and as their plane has been functioning satisfactorily their original intention to fly to Tokyo is to be followed. It is possible that their stay in Shanghai will be short and that they will make as speedy a hop as possible for the Japanese capital.

OLD GLORY AND CARLING NOW LABELLED AS "LOST"

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP)—Old Glory and Sir John Carling, the most recent planes to try the Atlantic crossing, were definitely labelled "lost" today and their disappearance marked a sharp break in public enthusiasm for long distance ocean flying.

Plain indications multiplied during the day that the public had had its fill of this type of adventure and public opinion was mirrored in numerous ways.

The navy recalled Lieut. Lawrence Curtin from his leave of absence to fly with Rene Fonck and Fonck acknowledged that his flight probably would not be made this year without Curtin.

The Canadian committee in charge of the proposed flight of the Royal Windsor notified Phil Wood and Duke Schiller to abandon the flight. A rising tide of public opinion against the flight was given as the reason for the cancellation.

"Doc" Kinkade, Wright motor expert, left London to sail for America saying he had refused to give Charles A. Levine a certificate of airworthiness and that a westward flight at this season "would be suicide to attempt." Levine and his pilot, however, insisted they would make the attempt if they got favorable weather.

In Germany, Captain Herman Koehl pilot of the Junkers plane Bremen, was fighting what seemed to be a lone battle with the strong tide of public opinion against making a trans-Atlantic attempt.

London newspapers carried caustic comment on "fool flights" and opposition to further Atlantic flights was expressed in an interview in the London Evening News with Lord Thomson, former British air secretary.

The Kobe representative of Edward F. Schlee and William S. Brock, world gadding fliers on the way there from Hong Kong, announced that he was arranging to charter a boat to take them to the Midway Islands, the most difficult ocean hop on their flight. Mrs. Schlee had previously requested government intervention, expressing the belief that her husband and Brock would be killed if they should attempt the long Pacific flight.

Besides the effect rising public opinion had on immediately pending flights there also was action to forestall others not so imminent. The $25,000 Boston airport trans-Atlantic purse for the first flier from Europe to land in Boston, was withdrawn for the season.

Officials of the Cleveland chamber of commerce, however, announced that a similar prize it had offered for the first Atlantic flier to land in Cleveland still stood.

The Philadelphia bulletin and the Philadelphia chamber of commerce's aviation committee today voted to withdraw the $25,000 prize offered for the first non-stop flight from Europe to Philadelphia, which the missing British plane St. Raphael had hoped to capture.

Ships at sea continued during the day to keep close watch for any sign of Old Glory or Sir John Carling, but no trace was found of either.

OLD GLORY REPORTED AS SIGHTED ABOUT 400 MILES E. N. E. OF ST. JOHNS

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 9—(AP)—C. H. Harvey, local agent for the marine and fisheries department, received a message tonight from Ottawaw stating the airplane Old Glory had been sighted approximately 400 miles east-northeast of St. John's.

The origin of the message was not stated but Mr. Harvey at once had it broadcast, through the government radio stations. The text of the message as given out by Mr. Harvey was:

"The airplane Old Glory reported sighted 49.55 north 40.30 west, approximately 400 miles east-northeast of St. Johns. All Canadian vessells in vicinity requested to render every assistance possible."

Report Lacks Confirmation

OTTAWA, Sept. 9—(AP)—Officials of the department of marine and fisheries could not be reached tonight for comment on the message received in Halifax, N. S., by their local agent reporting the sighting of the airplane Old Glory, but the view is held here that the Halifax report is based on a routine message, sent out to arrange for Canadian participation in the search for the lost plane. There was apparently no confirmation here of the report that the missing plane had been sighted.

PASSENGER KILLED IN AN AIRPLANE CRASH

STANFORD, N. Y., Sept. 3—(AP)—An airplane crash today on Mount Jefferson, near here, resulted in the death of Floyd Wardell, 31, of Stanford, passenger and shock and bruises to Howard F. Behr of Brooklyn, pilot. Eye witnesses said the engine stalled and started again, but too late for the plane to avoid diving nose first in a clearing on the high wooded hill.

NO CRUISERS IN PACIFIC FOR PRIDE OF DETROIT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—(AP)—The navy department today declined to place cruisers along the route across the Pacific to be taken by the aviators Brock and Schlee in the Pride of Detroit, as requested by Harold E. Hartley, president of the General Airways corporation of New York.

"The department has no ships available to comply with your suggestion," acting Secretary Robinson wired.

ROYAL WINDSOR FLIGHT HAS BEEN CANCELLED

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 9—(AP)—C. A. (Duke) Schiller and Phil Wood, pilots of the Royal Windsor, were specifically notified by the Windsor flight committee today to return home and abandon their proposed flight to England.

NAVY REVOKES LEAVES FOR ATLANTIC FLIGHTS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—(AP)—Leave granted to Lieut. L. W. Curtin and Ensign S. V. Edwards, who were to accompany Rene Fonck on his proposed flight across the Atlantic, was revoked today by the navy department.

WITHDRAWS $25,000 OFFER FOR NON-STOP OCEAN FLIGHT

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9—The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin and the aviation committee of the Philadelphia chamber of commerce late today decided to withdraw the offer of a $25,000 award for the first non-top trans-Atlantic flight from Europe to Philadelphia.

This decision was reached because of hazardous flying conditions now existing and on account of the loss of life in recent efforts.

TO PURGE DRY SERVICE OF DISHONEST AGENTS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—(AP)—Determination to rid the federal prohibition service of dishonest and incompetent agents was expressed today by Assistant Secretary Lowman of the treasury in a formal statement in which he also declared that "if America can be made sober and temperate in 50 years, a good job will have been done."

Lowman, who has been in active charge of prohibition enforcement for six weeks, asserted that while there were "a lot of splendid, fearless men," in the service, "there are many incompetent and crooked men," and "bribery is rampant."

"There are many wolves in sheep's clothing," said the assistant secretary's statement. "We are after them. A lot of them have lately been let out all over the country. The government intelligence service has been very helpful.

"I want to say, however, that there are a lot of splendid, fearless men in the service. Fortunately they greatly outnumber the crooks.

"Customs and the coast guard are well organized. Some crooks show up in these bureaus. They go out as fast as we locate them."

DETROIT-TAMPA FLIGHT MADE BY A FEMALE

TAMPA, Fla., Sept. 9—(AP)—Completing a non-tsop flight from Detroit, Miss Ruth Elder landed her monoplane "American Girl" here this afternoon at 5:45 o'clock eastern standard time.

With George Haldeman, Lakeland aviator, who will be her navigator on a projected flight to Europe soon, she left Detroit at 5:56 a. m. eastern time, making the 1,100 miles voyage in little less than 12 hours.

Passing over Lakeland, 32 miles east of here, en route, the youn gaviatrix circled the giant Stinson-Detroiter plane over the city, then zoomed off to the westward to descend at the municipal airport 15 minutes later.

Miss Elder and Haldeman plan to leave here Sunday for Wheeling, W. Va., and Roosevelt field, New York, preparatory to their proposed trans-Atlantic hop, which tentatively has been set for late next week.

PREPARING BALLOONS FOR INTERNATIONAL RACE

DETROIT, Sept. 9—(AP)—Fifteen silk bags, each capable of holding 80,000 cubic feet of gas, were spread out in a corner of the landing field at the Ford airport today, awaiting the start of inflation at 3 a. m., tomorrow in preparation for the sixteenth international balloon race for the Gordon Bennett trophy.

Twelve of the 15 bags which will be released at five minute intervals beginning at 4 p. m., are foreign entrants representing seven nations.

The Spanish balloon Hispania, named by Major Enrique Maldanado, pilot and Major Benito Molas, aid, occupies the first position at the airport, and will be the first to ascend. The last to leave will be the U. S. army balloon manned by Captain W. E. Kepner, pilot and Lieut. W. O. Eareckson, aid, one of three teams defending the United States' possession of the trophy.

Still Lack Two Jurors For Cline Murder Trial

Judge Yeomans Narrows Grounds for the Excuse of Veniremen.

(Special to The Bulletin)

ROCKVILLE, Sept. 9—But one juror was added today to the [illegible] which will sit in on the Cline murder case at the Tolland county superior court in Rockville next week, making the present total of ten.

Having exhausted, through examination, 150 prospective veniremen summoned to the witness stand during the first two days of court, the third-day session adjourned at 4:30 o'clock today until next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock D. S. T.

It again becomes the duty of Sheriff Vinton and his deputies to summon additional talesmen in order to secure the qualification of two more to complete the panel of 12. Sheriff Vinton said that he expected that 30 talesmen could be summoned for Tuesday. The number of summons already breaks the county record.

Tolland has not witnessed a murder trial in 20 years. John Goodman of Andover, a farmer, was the tenth juror accepted. He was the 122nd examined since the opening of court and the 28th brought to the stand today. Henry J. Boyer of Stafford, excused, was the 90th to be examined. A total of 37 were examined today.

The issue being forced, Attorney W. L. King, head defense counsel, took the pains to illustrate by verbal example, what he could define as circumstantial evidence. Carmine Kemp of Stafford was on the stand at the time. The former attorney general explained that finding a footprint was circumstantial evidence that someone had passed. He asked Mr. Kemp if he saw the footprint of a cow if he would not be convinced that a cow had been over the spot. "True," replied the jury prospect, "but how would I know which cow it was?"

The boiling pot of legal collision which will be dumped into the trial by State's Attorney Noone and Defense Counsel King bubbled over a little today. The arduous task of selecting a jury began to have its effect after three days of the grind.

Attorney King found occasion to make suggestions to the prosecutor in the hope of speeding up the examinations, and again, he accused the state's attorney of putting questions that tended to disqualify rather than qualify. To this comment Judge Yeomans struck a medium note by stating that the purpose of the examination was merely to test the prospect.

To several previous proofs of Cline's strong backing by friends was added today the support of Mayor John W. Smith of Detroit, Mich., Judge Ira Wayne, of the circuit court of Wayne County, Mich., and Dr. Leo Dretzka of Detroit. A letter received by a friend of Cline attending the trial as a newspaper man, from Mayor Smith, spoke in glowing terms of Cline's ability as a writer of news and novels and commended the man's character. It is understood that the noted politician, the judiciary and the physician have offered to come to Rockville for the trial and stand ready to take the witness chair to testify in behalf of Cline's character. These acquaintances were made while Cline was connected with the Detroit Free Press. A telegram accepting the offer has been sent to Mayor Smith.

Although not spectacular in nature, the battle of wits between the defense and state attorneys is already on. It exists at this time in guarding the peremptory challenges allowed each side in excusing talesmen. Judge Yeomans, having been somewhat free on this issue during the first two days, showed strong disinclination today of excusing from jury duty unless absolutely convinced of disqualification. It remained for the state and defense to lay the great American game of "passing the buck" and clever questioning resulted. With so many Tolland men against capital punishment because of conscientious objection or probably because there is work on the farm that should be done at this time, the state took the short end of the score. Neither side have as yet, however, exhausted their allotment.

Mrs. Leonard Cline of New York and Mrs. John Weirengo of Grand Rapids, Mich., sister of Cline, attended court again today. Cline remained quiet, unspoken and unsmiling, characteristics which have now become associated as typical of him. The spectator's gallery gained in attendance today in anticipation that the trial would probably get underway.

MARINES SKIRMISH WITH BANDITS IN NICARAQUA

MANAQUA, Nicaragua, Sept. 9—(AP)—American marines engaged in another skirmish with bandits northeast of Somoto, near the Honduran border, yesterday morning, it was learned today, four bandits were killed and six wounded, two seriously. The marines, who captured considerable ammunition, arms and supplies suffered no casualties.

Germany Working For Peace Policy

First [illegible] Power to Take [illegible] a Step at L. of N. [illegible]embly.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 9—(AP)—Peace as the future guiding policy of mankind received a big impetus today in that great world forum into which the assembly of the league of nations is developing.

Germany, first among the great powers to take such a step, announced through Dr. Gustav Stresemann, foreign minister, to the accompaniment of great applause of the delegates and public, that the Reich would accept the compulsory arbitration clause of the world court of justice. He assured the assembly that Germany would seek to be a pioneer in everything that pertained to peace.

M. Briand, the French foreign minister, with Dr. Stresemann and Sir Austen Chamberlain, one of the chief artisans of the Locarno agreement, in an address to the international newspapermen which electrified everybody, declared his conviction that peace possessed that mystic force which insured its permanency on earth.

The Polish delegation, after negotiations with the statesmen of the great powers which disappointed earlier hopes, tonight introduced in the assembly a resolution bringing all wars of aggression international crimes, and committing all the signatory nations to settle disputes of whatever nature by pacific means.

Owing to apprehension that their original demand for pacts of non-aggression might be interpreted as an attempt to revise the Geneva protocol, which expired after opposition emanating particularly from Great Britain, the Polish delegates eliminated this feature from their proposal.

Declaring that the post-war period has brought a spiritual upheaval, as well as economic and social changes, Dr. Stresemann advocated closer economic collaboration between all nations, with just wages and fair conditions for workers, and then affirmed that war can no longer be a creative force that opens paths to better destinies.

Germany today achieved its ambition of membership on the league of nations mandate commission, when the council of the league appointed on the commission Ludwig Kastl, German representative, who henceforth will have a voice in the administration of the former German colonies, lost to Germany through the war.

MAKE AIRPLANE TRIP ON HER 101ST BIRTHDAY

OLD ORCHARD, Me., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Almatia Bennett, variously characterized as the "Grand Old Woman" of Chicopee Falls, Mass., "flying centenarian," "world record breaker," and "speed demon," returned to her native state today in observance of her birthday. She was born in Freedom 101 years ago yesterday.

Accompanied by Charles W. Bradley, 99, of Rochester, N. H., as he had promised recently when he read of plans for her flight from Boston and declared "these flapers are altogehter too fly," she arrived shortly after three o'clock in the biplane of Robert P. Hazzard and landed in front of his cottage in the Grand Beach section.

GOV. JACKSON OF INDIANA INDICTED FOR CONSPIRACY

To Commit a Felony and Attempted Bribery—Others Indicted With the Governor are George V. Coffin, Chairman Republican Committee, and Robert I. Marsh, Formerly a Law Partner of Counsel for Klan During the Stephenson Trial—Mayor Duvall of Indianapolis is Charged With Violation of the Corrupt Practices Act.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 9—(AP)—Governor Ed Jackson, who took office a little more than two years ago, today was indicted by the Marion county grand jury on a charge of attempting to bribe Warren T. McCray, his predecessor.

Another indictment was returned against John L. Duvall, mayor of Indianapolis. It charged violation of the corrupt practices act.

The Jackson indictment charged conspiracy to commit a felony; attempt to bribe, and grew out of the alleged offer by Jackson of $10,000 to McCray if he would name James E. McDonald as Marion county prosecutor. The purported offer came at a time when Jackson was secretary of state and McCray was inder indictment on forgery charges. Immunity from conviction also was alleged to have been promised McCray.

Robert I. Marsh, Indianapolis, formerly a law partner of Gov. Jackson and counsel for the Marion county chapter of the Ku Klux Klan also was named in the same indictment, as was George V. Coffin, republican county chairman.

D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Indiana Ku Klux Klan, and now serving a life sentence at the Michigan City, Ind., prison, conspired with Jackson, Coffin and Marsh in the effort to bribe McCray, the indictment set forth.

Stephenson testified before the grand jury several weeks ago after he had issued a statement from his prison cell saying that he had been "double crossed" for the last time and was ready to tell "all."

The statute of limitations does not apply, the grand jury held, for the reason that the men concealed the facts concerning the purported bribe.

All those indicted today were under bond tonight, having surrendered themselves to the sheriff within a few hours after they had been informed of the grand jury's action.

"I want to be arrested," Governor Jackson told Sheriff Omer Hawkins as he entered his office. A bond of $2,500 was provided immediately. The governor, as well as the others declined to make a statement.

McCray was tried in the county court but not convicted. He later was convicted in federal court of conspiracy to use the mails to defraud and sentenced to ten years imprisonment. He was paroled from Atlanta federal prison several days ago.

The true bill alleged that Jackson, Coffin and Marsh intimidated McCray into not revealing the fact than an attempt had been made to bribe him through fear that they might interfere with McCray's obtaining a parole.

Mayor Duvall was indicted on virtually the same charge as contained in an affidavit filed against him by the prosecuting attorney several weeks ago and on which he is scheduled to go to trial next Monday. The indictment alleged the mayor promised William H. Armitage, Indianapolis politician, the right to name men to city positions for his political support in the primary and election of 1925.

Today's report was the result of an investigation into the political situation in Indiana that started nearly a year ago.

The grand jury has not completed its work, it was indicated.

ILLINOIS WON ATLANTIC CITY BEAUTY CONTEST

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 9—(AP)—The crown of "Miss America of 1927" was tonight placed upon the fair brow of a 16-year-old girl from the middle west—Miss Lois Delander, 11 Blackman avenue, Joliet, Ills., who was entered in the Atlantic City beauty pageant as "Miss Illinois." Before a crowd of 10,000 persons that crowded the million dollar pier she was chosen as America's new beauty queen, receiving eight of the judges' votes. The second choice and her closest rival was Miss Dallas, who is Miss Mozelle Ransom of Dallas, Texas. She received five votes.

The new "Miss America" is a junior in the Gloria township high school in Joliet. She has unbobbed brown hair, blue eyes and fair complexion.

Speaking in a trembling voice just a minute after the last vote had given her the coveted title, she said: "I am so excited that I can't say much. I am so thrilled. I want to thank the pageant committee for the kindness they have shown me. I shall try all through the year to do honor to the title which I bear. I shall hurry home now."

Miss New York (Freda Mierse) won the grand prize in the parade held in connection with the beauty contest.

Unfolding a panorama, the brilliance of which was perhaps unsurpassed in the history of pageantry, the rolling chair parade took place during the afternoon beneath smiling skies.

Floats representing weeks of work in art studios gave the display added impressiveness. Flowers were evident in profusion throughout the line and their bright colors danced and gleamed in the sunlight.

STATUS OF STRIKE OF NEW YORK TRUCK DRIVERS

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—(AP)—Striking truck drivers today claimed a partial victory while the employers made a determined effort to break the strike by sending out 200 vehicles manned by substitute workers.

Some 200 employers, said Vice President Cashell of the Union, had signed a tentative agreement granting nearly 2,000 of the 7,000 strikers they demanded $45 a week wage and eight hour day and the drivers affected returned to work. The drivers had been working nine hours a day for $40 a week.

Mail, ordinarily handled by a private contractor, was moved from the Jay street post office to the docks of the Columbian line, Brooklyn, in a U. S. mail truck, after requested instructions were received from the attorney general's department in Washington.

COOLIDGE TO CONSIDER FRENCH LOAN IN U. S.

RAPID CITY, S. D., Sept. 9—(AP)—An attempt by France to float a loan in this country from private parties will receive the consideration of President Coolidge, and government sanction of such a loan will be decided upon the merits of the case.

Although the administration had pursued a policy of withholding sanction of private loans here to countries which have not settled their war debts with America, Mr. Coolidge will not decide in advance on the proposed plea of France.

France, it is understood here, seeks $100,000,000 to refund a previous loan floated in America. However, it has not formally informed this government of its intention.

France has not acted on the war debt settlement arranged a year ago by its ambassador at that time, M. Berenger, with the American debt commission. As a result opposition has arisen in some congressional quarters against this government giving permission for France to obtain another private loan here.

PRESIDENTIAL PARTY TO LEAVE BLACK HILLS TODAY

RAPID CITY, S. D., Sept. 9—(AP)—The Black Hills, having demonstrated an old time hospitality, planned to send President Coolidge back to Washington tonight with his own assurance that he has had a "very pleasant, a very wonderful time."

After three months in the west during which he has come into closer contact with the people of this area than any president before him, Mr. Coolidge turned back to the nation's capital hopeful that hereafter it will be increasingly practicable for presidents to see at first hand the needs and requirements of the country's various sections.

The people of the Black Hills said goodbye to him in a truly western fashion, gathering for a monster demonstration that seemed even more enthusiastic than their welcome many week ago. They closed every shop, office, Milland factory, hung out flags and brought out their band and they heard in return from the president the longest informal speech he had made since entering the white house.

He provoked considerable discussion when he spoke of Senator Peter Norbeck, of South Dakota as "one of the great men of this nation who you may well honor in any way."

Within a few hours after the president had complimented Senator Norbeck a group launched a boom to nominate Mr. Norbeck for vice president, declaring that the president's words were sufficient assurance of his qualifications.

Dinner over tonight, the white house attaches rushed the last of the packing and made ready for the departure which was set in time to bring Mr. Coolidge into Brookings, S. D., early tomorrow where he will dedicate the Lincoln Memorial library of the state agricultural college. Several appearances will be made by the president when his train stops for operating purposes at various cities in South Dakota, Minnesota and Wisconsin. Washington will be reached Sunday night.

The front headlight of the motorcycle which was overturned in the crash, was damaged. Officer Marotte was turning into Jackson street from Union street while the sedan was passing the intersection after coming down Jackson street. After testimony had been given by the officer, the accused and the latter's wife, an understanding was reached whereby the charge was changed to violation of a city ordinance. Then a nolle upon payment of costs was entered by Judge Frank H. Foss at the suggestion of Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher, amounting to $5.45. Gentlemen:—

A word of appreciation for your Lucky Strike cigarettes.

On May 29th last, I was operated upon for gastric ulcer and appendicitis. The day after I wantod a smoke real badly and asked my doctor. He advised strongly against it stating that even a slight cough would "rip me open" and cause additional pain, and if you've had the experience you know that to be so. However, I had a package of "Luckies" in my coat pocket and persuaded my nurse to get them. She did and I smoked eight that day. To make it short I smoked all the two weeks at the hospital with nary a cough or throat irritation or the least discomfort, and by the way, smoking was prohibited at the hospital but nurse kept my door closed and window open so I enjoyed my smokes to the full extent.

I am just a school teacher in a small town and not setting a good example to my pupils because I smoke, I suppose, but there is certainly "pep" in Lucky Strikes.

Sincerely yours,

J. A. McPherson

COUNTY SEALER INSTRUCTED REGARDING IRREGULARITIES

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 9—County Sealer Gaston A. Maindon has received instructions from the state police department relative to a number of irregularities in the sale and distribution of lubricating oil from glass containers. To remedy the situation rules and regulatons have been made, with particular reference to the use of bottles in the sale of lubricating oil.

Mr. Maindon's instructions state that as a number of reputable companies are now using bottles that do not comply with the rules, it has been considered advisable to postpone the enforcement of them until the first of the new year. However all the companies are to be notified at once of the pendency of the enforcement, that they may have time to make changes where changes are necessary. In this county recently Mr. Maindon has confiscated jars and other odd types of glass containers that have been in use at some filling stations for supplying oil to purchasers. Soda and other soft drink bottles have been taken by the sealer and use of such containers is not permitted even now.

The new regulations specify that bottles used for the sale of lubricating oil shall be made of clear, uncolored glass and only in sizes specified in the department's liquid capacity measures. Each bottle is to have its capacity clearly blown or otherwise clearly and permanently marked in or on the side of the bottle, and in or on the side or bottom the name, initials or trade mark of the bottle manufacturer.

Bottles must be provided with clearly defined graduation line blown or otherwise clearly and permanently marked in or on the side and extending at least half way around it to indicate the correct capacity and with the words "Fill to the Line" or a similar suitable inscription clearly marked.

When a bottle is equipped with a spout, this shall be so constructed as to allow of free and unobstructed drainage. This means that there shall be an effective air vent in the spout and no shoulder or other obstruction to result in a trapping of the liquid. The spout must be over 6 inches in length, measured from the point of contact with the bottle to the tip of the spout. All bottles should drain empty in not more than 10 seconds.

Today A. P. Woodward completed another petition signed by an adequate number of electors to have included in the warning for the annual town meeting on the first Monday in October a clause to see whether the town will adopt the use of voting machines in all elections and to purchase the machines. This proposal recently was turned down at a special town meeting, but the proponents of it felt that with a more wide-spread expression of opinion by the voters—only 199 votes being cast out of a possible 2,750—that the result may be different. Also, in justice to all the voters, it is felt by those sponsoring the purchase of the machines that the matter should be allowed to come up for debate and not laid on the table without discussion as was the case in the special meeting. Mr. Woodward obtained the necessary signatures to the petition within a few minutes this morning.

EXTRA SESSION OF SENATE

One of the matters that will probably get early attention after the president gets back to Washington is the question of an extra session of the senate. It is fully understood that there will be much business before the next congress which opens in December and it is known that there has been strong pressure brought to bear for a special session of congress. That has not been regarded with great favor for much of that pressure has been for political purposes. But there are matters which the senate must dispose of and it is possible that they will require considerable time, especially if it is felt that political advantage will result therefrom.

There are those contests relative to the seating of Senator-elect Smith of Illinois and Senator-elect Vare of Pennsylvania. Inasmuch as these concern only the senate it has been figured that if that body were called into a special session some time in October it could get those matters out of the way and not have them delaying legislative matters.

Such could unquestionably be done. It would be a good solution of the situation, but there's no certainty that the senate would get down to business and do what was expected of it. Should it be called into extra session and given about six weeks to deal with these cases there's no assurance that a decision would be reached before next spring. The probability is that that would be just about the time disposition could be expected if political advantage would go with such delay.

Both elections are contested because of alleged irregularities and if delay is going to be the policy there would be no advantage obtained by getting the senate into special session only to have it used for political purposes and make no headway toward an actual determination of the questions at stake. For that reason it seems probable that the decision to call an extra session of the senate or not to call one will hinge upon whether indications point to a disposition to get down to business and deal with the real object for the special gathering.

REMOVE THE DEFECTS

Only by keeping everlastingly at it does the registrar of motor vehicles of Massachusetts believe that due respect for the law and greater safety in the highway can be obtained.

The large loss of life and the many accidents justify whatever steps have been taken in the neighboring state to create better conditions. They have not been taken without considerable criticism, and there can be no question but what it has helped. What the situation might be today but for such efforts one hates to think.

For the purpose of eliminating conditions which are conducive to accidents, Registrar Goodwin of Massachusetts has obtained the cooperation of various organizations for a two weeks campaign starting next week during which it is hoped to make the highways safe, not solely for those two weeks but for the future.

It is fully understood that many accidents are due to bad brakes and defective mechanism. During the inspection of cars for the next two weeks, those which are not up to requirements will be required to have repairs made and in addition arrangements have been made for free inspection of cars at 2800 garages and repair stations throughout the state. Cars which receive such testing will be given stickers showing that the car is in good order and it is to be expected that owners will avail themselves of the free service and in case the inspection shows the need of it will have brakes tightened, lights put in shape and steering gear overhauled. If Massachusetts can get 1,000,000 cars up to requirements for safety in the next two weeks it will be reasonable to suppose that it will decrease one element of highway danger. It is certainly much better to anticipate any trouble through defective cars than to wait until some accident takes place and then holler about what ought to have been done. If it isn't done during the campaign there will be little excuse in case of accidents from defects henceforth.

THE LEAGUE'S TROUBLES

All hasn't gone smoothly since the league of nations was created. There have been occasions when certain nations balked, when some showed dissatisfaction, when some even withdrew because they were peeved.

Just at the present time there has been additional evidence of lack of harmony at Geneva and the end is not yet. In this instance the small nations are pitted against the big ones. There were the days when England and France were the leading nations. With the admission of Germany the number has been increased to three but without any indications that matters are going more smoothly.

It has bothered the small nations not a little to realize that the big nations were getting together and deciding what was to be done without calling into consultation the representatives of the small nations. The little fellows feel that they have been ignored. They do not like to be told what they must do without having a chance to express themselves and they have not been backward in letting their feelings be known.

There is furthermore a desire on the part of certain of the small nations for further steps in behalf of disarmament. They do not like the idea of permitting the effort for the outlawing of war to go to sleep. They urge action and yet they are conscious of the fact that both France and England have persistently stood against it. This was clearly evident during the recent tripartite conference at Geneva when the British attitude made an agreement impossible. It has since been shown in the recent resignation of Lord Cecil from the British cabinet while France would not participate in that conference and Senator de Jouvenel, the leading French representative in the league, has also handed in his resignation.

Because of their attitude both England and France are being severely criticized. The little nations are making the most of their opportunities to get some attention or know the reason why, and the league is experiencing a strain.

COOLIDGE WANTED

Leaders throughout the country are being asked for their opinion concerning possible republican standard bearers in case President Coolidge does not permit his name to be used as a candidate to succeed himself. It is to be noted, however, that sentiment runs strongly to the effect that it is believed that the president means just what he says when he declared he did not "choose" to be a candidate for president in 1928, but while that indicates his preference it does not mean that he has declined to accept a nomination.

When Congressman Tilson of this state expresses his belief that the republican party and the country will want Mr. Coolidge for president in 1928 he unquestionably voices a widespread sentiment regardless of the efforts that seem to be underway to put to the front candidates in case the situation develops where the president actually declines to permit the use of his name.

The congressman is of course right when he says there is nothing in the word "choose" to keep the president from being a candidate for another term if he finds his party is behind him and want to put him up again. There is no reason to look at it otherwise. Most of those who have been mentioned as possibilities in case Mr. Coolidge is not renominated look at it in the same light. Mr. Hughes even expects Mr. Coolidge to be renominated and reelected and nationwide disappointment that will be felt in case Mr. Coolidge is not renominated is reflected in the expressions of leaders and voters made public since his famous ten words.

RACING WITH DEATH

With very few exceptions the demand is for the stopping of those long distance ocean flights such as have resulted in the deaths of so many fliers within the past few weeks. It is a natural demand. The idea that pioneers must expect to take chances and to meet with reverses is proper, but it is not to be expected that they will engage in a race with death when the chances are against them.

Every flier who has gone across the ocean, and many who have not, have taken chances, but when there are so many repeated instances of setting out to cross the ocean only to completely disappear because something failed it is time to set about checking up and restricting other flights until it can be shown that there is a reasonable chance that success will follow.

Those who have set out for Hawaii, South America or Europe and never been heard from have contributed nothing to aviation by their flights. They have placed emphasis upon the danger and apparently the weakness in some part of the equipment. Their loss makes it difficult to determine just what that was but there is soundness in the argument that no such flights ought to be attempted with single engined planes for once that goes wrong there's certain to be a contest with the seas which none of those who have been lost have been able to meet successfully.

The further throwing away of life in such an undertaking is not justified. Let there be a delay until planes or engines are provided that will carry the loads required without straining and that will be sure of functioning until a crossing can be effected. The protest against the throwing away of life just because the individuals are willing is proper.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

Everyone who was born and spent his early years amid rural surroundings knows how easily problems that baffled the English parliament and the United States congress were settled in the country grocery store. It was done with that grim assurance that excluded all possibility of error. A more self-satisfied body of diplomatists never met at any time on the face of the earth. Unconsciously these bodies had a most perfect organization. There were no annual meetings at which presidents, secretaries and treasurers were elected because there were no records to be kept nor money to be handled. There was always some one outstanding person who naturally assumed the leadership either because of his natural talents or recognized position in town affairs. He was apt to be a man of some legal ability and well versed in politics. Usually deference was given to his opinions, and sometimes they were as rational as the deliverencies of the United States senate.

Is an individual competent to judge of his own ability? At what point does it become egotism? The Apostle Paul in the Epistle to the Romans gives this warning "to every man that is among you, not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think." That seems perfectly reasonable, and yet the question remains just how highly ought that thinking to be? We will all readily admit that a man is under the same moral obligation to treat himself justly as he is to be just toward others. Were some of the former New England divines, now recognized among the great thinkers of the world, justified in referring to themselves as nothing but "bits of clay," "grovelling worms," "full of vileness" and similar expressions? Is not a man under obligation to treat himself justly? Of course he ought to avoid the other extreme.

Do we make as we ought a careful discrimination between sympathy and sentimentality? Sympathy or friendly feeling is one of the richer emotions of the human heart, but it ought always to be under the firm control of the human intellect, if not it will become mere mawkish feeling. We have recently been having a pronounced illustration of this. This sickly sentiment is generally expressed in its attitude toward criminals. It is the feeling that all prison doors ought to be thrown wide open and let "the poor unfortunates who couldn't help doing what they did" be turned loose upon unprotected human society and do the same thing over again. It virtually says these unfortunates are the victims of environment and heredity and are not responsible for their deeds. Now we know perfectly that if such men were turned loose upon society that they will do the same things again and this will be the end of constituted authority. At all hazards the law must be obeyed.

Friendship rightly considered is a matter of personality. We can easily understand why friendship does not exist between certain types of mind. For practical purposes we may divide human beings into three general classes: First those who reach the summit of worldly distinction. These are the top-notchers who stand solitary on mountain peaks. They are not closely bound to others by the ties of friendship. They constitute classes by themselves. One of the greatest and most unhappy men who ever lived was Napoleon. He made no close friends, and most of those whom he raised to power deserted him when the stroke fell. Going to the other extreme we never find friendship between unfortunate idiots. They may have the emotion but not the guiding power of intellect. It is those who fill in this gap between the two extremes wherein we find the great friendships: Those who feel and know.

True friendship is always a matter of strict honesty. If two persons are friends in the strict sense they will never try to deceive one another. It is not always the person who is always saying nice things to our face and who is moving heaven and earth not to offend us—such a person is not a real friend. The real friend sometimes finds that he has an unpleasant duty to perform; he finds it necessary to tell us some things that are unpleasant to hear, but they are the things we ought to hear. Is the drunkard's best friend the one who pats him on the back and says, "Poor fellow, you can't help it; your environment is against you; you've inherited your taste for liquor from your maternal grandfather; you're not responsible for your hasty temper which you get from your father." Now this and lots of other drivel just like it often passes for friendship, but it is as far from true friendship as midnight is from noonday.

One can hardly overestimate the value of an historical pageant, because it brings clearly to our vision a clear representation of the past. The eye is the greatest of all educators, and the impressions it makes are apt to be lasting. We may get a general impression of historical events by reading books, and we say that those histories are the best that make the past vivid, that means that they are made so clear that we see them. Many a person will find much interest in an Indian pageant who would find a book on Indian history exceedingly dull. No one will be disposed to question this statement who had the opportunity of seeing the pageant that was set forth on the fair grounds Labor day. It must be admitted that it had a great educational value for school children who are being taught the beginning of our American life. Their books on history will have a new interest this fall.

The subject of zoology, not only as anthropology, the study of man, which is its highest expression, but in the lower animal kingdom is both instructive and interesting. One is clearly amazed at the vast amount of scientific truth which recent zoology has furnished us. It makes the lay reader wonder just how they arrive at such exact knowledge. For instance, authoritative statement has been made that along the Connecticut coast this summer—and probably the statement holds good forthe entire New England coast—that 20 different varieties of mosquitoes have been plying their nefarious trade this summer. No doubt all these varieties have been licensed by the proper authorities. We do not complain at this because they must get their living in some legitimate way. But on some other grounds we do raise objections. We do object to all these 20 varieties working on the first piece of naked humanity they find, and working it until it is good for nothing else.

A movement has been started—and we believe it is a wise one—to discourage the offering of big prizes for trans-oceanic flights, at least at this stage of the game. It seems to me that a word ought to be said in regard to its moral aspects. Thus far the air has not been sufficiently conquered to make these flights economically profitable, and hence criticism is along ethical lines. There are two main reasons why such great risks are taken, first, is the financial reward that is offered, and certainly this means very much to the young aviator of limited means. Virtually he is pitting his valuable life against a few thousand dollars. Secondly, if he makes the goal he will receive the plaudits of the entire civilized world, and this is something that our weak nature loves. But do we not pay too great a price?

MASSASOIT CO. BIG USER OF WASTE MATERIAL

Figuratively, the creating of silk purses out of sows' ears has been commercialized. Waste, instead of breaking, has made an industry.

Last year the Massasoit Manufacturing company, Fall River, Mass., and Oakdale, Conn., shipped 31 million pounds of goods which it had made from the waste materials of textile mills throughout the world.

Utilizes the Useless

Since 1882, the company has been tapping this vast supply of material, useless to the mills producing it and, to all outward appearances, without value in the commodity markets of the world, for its raw materials in an enterprise which has expanded with the introduction of new cotton uses until it now connects the textile mills of New England with virtually every industry and every household in this and other countries. In the discovery and development of new uses for the increasing supply of cotton waste, i. e., in the search for new usable things to be made from useless things, the company has been a leader ever since its inception.

What the company has discovered in its half century of existence, what it makes, what it makes it from, and how it distributes its products, this article purposes to set forth.

Cotton Mill Wastage

Between 15 and 40 per cent of a cotton mill's production is waste. The rate increases with the fineness of the company's staple product, the manufacture of fine goods creating more waste than coarse goods. Few mills make any attempt to utilize this waste. The great majority sell it to waste brokers and to companies such as the Massasoit. It is marketed in many forms, since each mill department produces waste peculiar to its processes. Thus, there becomes available picker waste, comber waste, card strippings, thread waste, fly waste, and numerous other varieties, each with its own characteristics, making it suitable for certain uses and unsuitable for others.

Picker waste, for example, is suitable for certain kinds of spinning. It is also used by the mattress and upholstery trade. Comber waste, which is naturally very fine, when spun, is made into high grade mops, polishing clothes and clotheslines, to enumerate but a few of its uses. Card strippings, card room waste, become mops and caulking cotton. The residue of spinning and weaving, fly and thread waste, has a host of uses after it has been processed by the Fall River concern.

Waste from Whole World

The Massasoit Manufacturing company, purchasing its supply direct from the mills, finds in its warehouse waste from India, Japan, England and all parts of the United States. By truck, rail and boat it comes, arriving in bags and in bales. As this is being written, ships are on the high seas bound from the Orient for New York with bales of waste in their holds consigned to the Fall River firm. Strangely enough, none of the waste in the company's warehouse, where 25,000 bales at least are always on hand, comes direct from New Bedford mills. It arrives by way in that city have been doing business of packers with whom the corporations ever since their earliest days as going concerns.

Masco Products

This huge stream of cotton waste flowing into the Massasoit company's warehouse is diverted into the various departments of its several plants and emerges upon the market in the shape of waste, for cleaning, wiping and journal box packing; motor waste in one pound and one-half pound cloth bags; mops, in 11 grades designed for practically every use to which mops may be put; cleaning, wiping and polishing cloths; seven grades of cotton wicking for valve packing and miners' lamps; tufting wick for mattress tufts and weather strips; caulking cotton in four grades for boat builders' use; twisted and braided clotheslines; bleached cottons for batts and pads; and chemical cottons for rayon, film, explosives and artificial leather. All of these products bear the company's registered trade mark "Masco Products," set in the base of a small triangle, in the upper half of which there is a small Indian head.

Wiping Waste Oldest Product

Masco cotton wiping waste is the oldest of the company's products. Most of it is made from cotton threads collected in the company's trucks from the mills in Fall River, many of which have been under contract to supply the Massasoit for the past 30 years. The material is brought to the company's sorting plant where it is inspected and all foreign material is removed. The sorting is done by hand as well as by machine.

The sorted threads are later graded and then blended into large batches, the constant supply of standardized raw stock making possible uniformity in these batches year after year. Two machinings shake out all short fibers, insure an even mixing, and deliver the stock in laps ready for baling. Hydraulic presses bale the finished waste for shipment, forming extremely compact packages for export or storage. The company also packs a certain grade of this waste in strong cloth bags holding a pound or half a pound and bearing the Masco trade mark. It is then compressed in bales of 50 or 100 bags each. This waste and package was created for the use of automobilists, motor boat users and for home engines and workshops.

Pioneers in Waste Spinning

The late Wendell E. Turner, treasurer of the company for many years, was one of the pioneers in this country in the spinning of yarns from cotton mill waste. Today there are more than a million mops, made by the company by processes instigated by Mr. Turner, in use every morning to keep the world clean.

Wiping and Polishing Cloths

The world must have wiping and polishing cloths. Radio and cooking school-trained housekeepers realize it is the better part of domestic economy not to depend upon worn out underclothing for these instruments of their trade. Hotels and industries never could depend upon the cast-off shirts of their employes for cleaning rags. So there has been, and probably always will be, a huge demand for soft, inexpensive fabrics prepared especially for household and industrial use. Rare, indeed, is the woman today who has not in her housekeeping equipment a set of cloths designed for wiping and polishing and for no other purpose. Moreover, America's greatest industry consumes huge quantities of these cloths annually in the production of automobiles.

By weaving cloths in one of its Fall River plants with yarn spun from cotton waste, the Massasoit Manufacturing company has undertaken to supply a part of this demand. Annually the firm produces thousands upon thousands of these soft-textured squares of selected cotton yarn, sewn on each edge and packed in individual glassine envelopes. It also produces in large quantities a strongly woven cotton cleaning cloth, which it packs in pressed bundles of a dozen, and bales. These are for floors, scrubbing and machine wiping.

Caulking Cotton and Wicking

To meet the demand of the great ship and yacht building industry of New England, the company many years ago evolved several standard grades of caulking cotton, created from mill waste. During the World war the company supplied quantities of this commodity to the Emergency Fleet corporation for its wooden ship building program. The steel-hulled ship has practically done away with the demand for caulking cotton. Along the Atlantic seaboard, few save pleasure craft have need of it. The Massasoit Manufacturing company, however, still finds a good market for this line on the Pacific coast, where many wooden ships are still in use.

A line supplementary originally to the caulking cotton but now playing a major role is that of cotton wicking. The greater and greater use of machinery and the amplification of modern plumbing is creating a better and better demand for this material used in packing machine valves and plumbing fittings. The Massasoit makes seven grades of wicking, which is but another example of the uses to which the millions of pounds of cotton wasted by the mills can be put. High grade Masco wicking is also used by rug manufacturers. Some is converted into weather strips, while even more is used for mattress tufts.

It must be remembered that all of these many products are made of cotton mill waste. In this connection, it is interesting to note that this company whose raw stock is waste, creates no waste in its own manufacturing operations. The waste produced in each process is diverted to another department where it will be made use of in that department's production. The very little waste that remains—and it is not really cotton waste but chiefly trash—goes into the company's boilers to do its bit in generating power for the plant.

Operates Five Plants

This company that last year shipped 31,000,000 pounds of goods made of cotton mill waste is not the only plant of its kind in the United States. It is, however, the only plant manufacturing all the things which have been enumerated here. Further, it is one of the largest in the field. In Fall River it has three mills, one, a sorting or preparation plant; another, a wiping waste and willowing (cleaning) unit; and another, a spinning and weaving mill. Because of the nature of its operations, the company cannot be rated, like a cotton mill, on the basis of its spindleage or loomage.

In addition to its offices and three manufacturing units in Fall River, the company has plants at Oakdale, Conn., and Lake Charles, La., the nature and scope of whose operations will be described farther on.

Sells Own Products

The company has its own sales force and markets its large and varied production among jobbers and syndicate stores.

War Plays Influential Part.

More than 20 years ago, the Massasoit Manufacturing company was asked by government representatives to co-operate with them in securing a specially prepared cotton. Out of this invitation there has grown the firm's Oakdale, Conn., plant and an innumerable series of additions to the company's line. So diversified has this line become in the past 30 years, both in the nature of the products it entails and in the markets towards which they are directed that it may be safely said so long as there are railroads, factories, motor cars, boats and homes, there will be a demand for the company's products. In this respect, the firm is much like a public utility.

To provide the cotton Washington was looking for, it was necessary to meet strict chemical and physical tests. Success brought a large initial order from the government, followed by many others. It was not long before company officials perceived the larger possibilities, for specially prepared cotton for a variety of commercial uses. Their insight had been fostered by guncotton research in co-operation with Washington officials and powder manufacturers. At the same time, other nitro-cellulose industries were springing up, and the company was in close touch with their development and discoveries. This experience resulted in the company's being, at the outbreak of the World war, one of the few in the United States equipped to supply cotton suitable for the manufacture of gun cotton. During the war, the Massasoit interests operated three plants producing this type of material, with a yearly production in the neighborhood of 15,000,000 pounds.

The Oakdale Business.

When the war ended, this market was cut off. The company, however, was prepared for the turn of affairs and was obliged to cease operations in but one of the three plants. The remaining two went on to make bleached cottons for batts and pads and chemical cottons, which are the raw material out of which rayon, film, explosives, artificial leather, lacquers and many other things are made.

Today the Oakdale plant is taking care of this end of the company's business. The Massasoit Manufacturing owns the village in which the plant is located, the movies, school, restaurant, runs a welfare department, fire and police department, and provides dormitories for its employes.

Cellulose From Rice Hulls.

Possessing great faith in the future of cellulose, the company has recently built a plant at Lake Charles, La., where, following processes developed in the company's laboratories, it is manufacturing cellulose out of rice hulls. Officials of the company assert there has been a greater development in the cellulose field during the last 10 years than had been experienced during the previous 25. At the present time there is a greater consumption of cellulose for domestic purposes than there was for explosives at any time during the war, they add. As one of them remarked: "It's a case of beating cotton bolls and rice hulls into plowshares—and finding you've made a Fordson tractor."

Many of the products of the company are developments of the last 10 years. Others date back to the foundation of the company by Wendell E. and William H. Turner, Elisha L. Edward A. and Frank L. Palmer, in 1882. It had its roots in a small factory by Elder Reuben Palmer at Palmertown, Conn., in 1792.

A Brief History.

Realization of the possibilities in utilizing cotton mill waste gave birth to the Massasoit, which was located at Fall River, since availability of cotton mill waste, in very large quantities, and accessible at first hand without transportation charges, was the basic consideration in establishing the industry. The textile manufacturing center of the United States was at Fall River. Therefore, the company located in that city.

Frank L. Palmer was chosen president and continued in office until his death in 1917. Wendell E. Turner, whose ingenuity in developing new uses for waste and who, as has been said, pioneered the spinning of mill waste into yarns, was elected treasurer, and general manager. Today, John T. Swift is president, Percy S. Palmer, treasurer, and John Foley, assistant treasurer. L. G. Littleton supervises the laboratory research and chemical departments. In addition to offices and mills in Fall River, Oakdale, Conn., and Lake Charles, La., the company now has offices in New York, Chicago and Charlotte, N. C. Cotton mill waste and the ingenious handling of it have made of a local business with one small factory and $50,000 capital a nationally known industry whose products cover the United States, Canada and countries farther afield. —New Bedford Standard.

Sunday Morning Talk

The mind grows by exercise, just as the body does. Each lesson learned adds a new fact to the measure of knowledge, but there is besides an effort to learn. It grows by exercise. The farmer is cultivating the soil, but this is not all he is doing. At the same time he is making character of some kind, building up the fabric of his own manhood. The carpenter is working in wood, but he is also working on life, his life. The mason is hewing stones and setting them in the wall, but he is also quarrying out blocks for the temple of character, which he himself is building in himself. Men in all callings and employments are producing a double set of results, in that on which they work and in themselves. We are in this world to make character, and every hour we leave some mark, some impression on the life within us, an impression which shall endure when all the work of our hands have perished.

In this manner all life's experiences have their places, the character. All sunshine would not make good fruit, nor would all joy and gladness yield the richest character. We need the dark as well as the light, cold, rough winter as well as warm and gentle summer. We should not be afraid of life whatever it may bring us.

We have much to do with the ripening of our character. God gives us His grace, but we must receive it, and we may reject it. It is only when we abide in Christ that our lives grow Christlike. The same sun brings out the beauty of the living branch, and mothers the branch that is torn from the tree. Sorrow and pain may blight the life that is not hid with Christ.

The smallest things have their influence upon character, and upon the beauty and helpfulness of a life. It was related recently of an English oculist that he had given up cricket purely in the interest of his profession. He was very fond of the game, but he found that playing affected the delicacy of his touch, and made him less ready for the work he was required to do every day upon the eyes of his patients.

There are occupations which in like manner affect the life and character injuriously, hinder the growth of spirituality or make one less effective in work upon the life and character of others. We need to deal with ourselves firmly and very heroically. Anything that unfits us for doing our work in the best way possible we should sedulously avoid.

We live but one life, we pass but once through this world. We should seek to gather good and help from every experience, making our progress ever from more to more. Wherever we go we should try to leave a blessing, smething which will sweeten another life or start a new song or an impulse of cheer or help fulness in another heart. Then our very memory when we are gone will be an abiding blessing in the world.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Mention of Senator Lawrence D. Tyson of Tennessee as a possible running mate with Governor Al Smith on the Democratic national ticket next year recalls the fact that Senator Tyson was a candidate for nomination for the vice presidency at the San Francisco Democratic national convention in 1920. Senator Tyson has been prominent in Tennessee politics for over 30 years. He is a man of large wealth and has been an influential factor in bringing the South to the fore as a textile manufacturing center. He is also largely interested in coal and iron development. Senator Tyson is a graduate of the United States Military academy. In the Spanish-American war he was colonel of the Sixth U. S. Volunteers and in the World war he served overseas as commander of an infantry brigade of the Thirtieth, or Old Hickory Division.

Stories That Recall Others

His Idea

Little Donald's visits to his grandmother came once a year and during his stay he was her constant companion, whether she went to market or on a shopping tour. At the end of his first week's visit, his grandmother arrayed herself one afternoon to attend a meeting of her club. Donald expected to accompany her as usual.

"No, sonny," said grandmother, "I'm sorry, but you cannot go this time. This is a board meeting and will last too long, you'll have to stay home today. You'd not like to go to a board meeting, they're so tiresome."

"But grandma," protested Donald. "You won't just saw and saw beards all after noon, will you?"

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Cubby Is Supremely Happy

The happiness that doth depend Upon the stomach soon will end.
—Old Mother Nature.

Now, while all the search for Cubby was being made by Farmer Brown's Boy and by Mother Brown, Cubby was supremely happy. Probably there never was a happier small Bear than was Cubby down there in the cellar of Farmer Brown's house. He hadn't at all minded having Farmer Brown shut the bulkhead doors. You see, it wasn't wholly dark down there even with the doors shut. There were some small windows that let in a little light. In fact, Cubby was rather glad to have the doors shut. You see, with the doors open he would all the time have been expecting some one to come looking for him.

As soon as the sound of Farmer Brown's footsteps had died away Cubby made right straight for a certain place. He made as straight for it as if he had known all the time all about that cellar and where everything was. There was a reason for his going right straight to this particular place. That trusty little nose of his led him there. A Bear can always trust his nose. He will trust his nose before he will trust his eyes or his ears. He knows that what his nose tells him is true. He cannot always believe his eyes. He cannot always believe his ears. But he can always believe his nose, and does.

So Cubby's little nose led him right straight across the cellar to—what do you think? A barrel! Yes, sir, a great big barrel! Can you guess what was in that barrel? What do you think? It was molasses. Yes, sir, it was a molasses barrel! Cubby's mouth was watering all the way across that cellar floor, and it watered still more when he got to that barrel.

Now, the molasses is drawn out of the barrel by what is called a spigot. A spigot is a sort of wooden faucet. Underneath this spigot was a dish to catch the drip from the spigot. There was just a bit of molasses in this dish. You should have seen Cubby lick that up. He licked that dish until it was polished. Then he licked the spigot. He knew that that molasses was inside that barrel, but how to get it out he didn't know. He climbed up on the barrel. He climbed down again. Then he went back to licking the spigot. It was tantalizing.

He had just enough taste to make him crazy for more

He had had just enough of a taste to make him crazy for more.

Now the tempers of little Bears are rather short. He began to blame that spigot for not giving him more molasses. Presently he quite lost his temper and struck at it with one of his little black paws. He happened to hit it just right to turn it. Immediately the molasses began to run. All Cubby's bad temper disappeared. He just lay right down on his back underneath that spigot, held onto it with both paws, and let that molasses run into his mouth. You know molasses runs slowly. This was as good as honey, and that is saying a great deal.

So, while Mother Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy were hunting high and low, that little black rascal was having the time of his short life. Now and then he would turn his head aside to get his breath, and when he did that of course the molasses ran all over him. But he didn't mind that. No, indeed, he didn't mind that. He didn't care how sticky he got. This was the most wonderful experience he had ever had. Here was sweetness without any smarting stings such as he received when he upset the beehive. There was nothing at all to take away from his enjoyment. Cubby hadn't a trouble in the world just then.

AUTOMOBILE DEATH TOLL 3,200 IN 17 YEARS

"Thirty-two hundred persons, as many as all the residents of nine towns—Bethany, Hartland, Marlboro, Morris, Roxbury, Salem, Scotland, Union and Warren—have lost their lives in automobile accidents in Connecticut since 1910. At least 65,000, a number equal to the population of 63 other towns, have been more or less injured, and twelve million dollars of property destroyed."

The above figures have been determined by Professor Richard Shelton Kirby of the Department of Civil Engineering, Yale university, who finds, notwithstanding these appalling losses, that the attitude of the public, for the most part, is confined to "pious expressions of hope that in some way the situation may soon improve."

"If our state of Connecticut," he says "had been visited by a mysterious and malignant disease, which in seventeen years had entirely wiped out the population of nine of its towns and more or less severely injured every man, woman and child in at least 63 other towns, and if, as a minor feature of the same strange visitation, 12 million dollars of our property had been destroyed, we should not treat the matter lightly, nor content ourselves with pious expressions of hope that in some way the situation might soon improve."

Professor Kirby's estimates are arrived at after several months of study of motor vehicle statistics in co-operation with the state motor vehicle department and under subscription of the Hartley corporation of which Mrs. Helen Hartley Jenkins of Norfolk is patron and founder. The results have been published in a booklet, "A Study of Motor Vehicle Accidents in Connecticut." It supplements earlier printed studies of a similar nature. While primarily concerned with accidents during 1926 the work has been extended to include every accident of which there is authentic record.

"In 1926 alone," Professor Kirby finds "there were killed in automobile accidents in Connecticut four times as many as died from diphtheria, and 12 times as many as died from typhoid fever, or three times as many as died from both diseases combined." By means of a chart he illustrates the declining death rate from the two diseases, at the same time picturing the rapid advance in the rate because of accidents. In progression the rates for 1916 and 1926 are shown, while that for 1936 is left to the imagination. A grave stone mutely asks: "In 1936, What?"

The Connecticut accident death rate, which has increased ten-fold in 15 years, is now 6 per cent higher than that for the whole of the United States the study shows. The ratio of injured to killed was slightly less than 30 to 1 last year.

In giving consideration to the economics loss, Professor Kirby says that motor vehicle accidents will shortly be causing property damage at the rate of two and a half million dollars annually. He compares this with the original cost of the state capitol, $2,532,524.

"Inattention" is found as an overwhelmingly preponderant cause of accidents in 1926. "Failure to grant right of way" is also listed as a cause of many accidents as well as intoxication on the part of the drivers. "Single drinks," Professor Kirby adds "may well have caused thousands of accidents; unfortunately statistics do not cover single drinks."

Five favorable and five unfavorable aspects are found under a summary of Connecticut conditions at the close of 1926. Under favorable are: Slightly lower rate of increase in the number of accidents; fewer deaths, especially in smaller towns; fewer children and youths killed than in 1925; decrease in ratio of number of accidents to number of cars registered; slightly lower accident rate for commercial cars.

Unfavorable conditions include: Total number of accidents increasing; more older persons killed each year; many more persons reported injured; property damage increasing; accident rates for busses and taxicabs increasing rapidly.

The final report of the dance committee of the mid-summer night's frolic held at Hilltop in July, Miss Loretta Gadie, chairman, was read. The chairman of the candy booth at the recent K. of C. lawn fete made a few remarks expressing that their efforts were most gratifying to both the workers and the council.

During the summer one of the active members, Mary T. Driscoll, of Chestnut street, passed on to the land of perpetual reunion and during the meeting everyone reverently stood a moment in silent meditation for her.

The next meeting will be one of a social character and the committee in charge will be announced at a later date.

It was voted to hold the 1928 convention in New London. Officers were elected as follows:

Mr. Gleeson had just returned from a three months' trip abroad, and gave a fine description of the countries he had seen, especially Ireland, where he visited the place where Rev. Father Mathew the Apostle of Temperance, lies at rest.

MOOSEHEART LEGION

Women of Mooseheart legion held their regular meeting Thursday evening with Senior Regent Vera Sterry, presiding. Routine business was transacted. Senior Regent Mrs. Geer, Past Regents Mrs. Keenan and Mrs. McCaffrey from New London chapter were present. The senior regent appointed Past Regent Teresa Watters chairman of the entertainment committee for one month. An invitation to take part in celebrating Mooseheart day was extended by New London chapter and was accepted by Norwich chapter. Past Regent Teresa Watters, who went to Philadelphia as a representative of Norwich chapter, and while there received the Friendship degree, the highest honor a past regent can have, and also the first past regent of Norwich chapter to receive this degree, read the following report:

We arrived in Philadelphia Monday at 5:30, registered at Belleveau-Stratford hotel and attended a meeting of the Philadelphia chapter at which 200 candidates were initiated. The meeting was held in the ballroom of the hotel which was beautifully decorated. Tuesday, attended a meeting in the Academy of Music, where for the first time in the history of this organization men and women held their meeting together. There were about 3000 men and women present from all parts of the United States and Great Britain. Tuesday afternoon we witnessed a wonderful pageant by 10,000 children of the Junior legions from every state and which was under the direction of Mrs. Josphine Ramsay, who was also conductress of the orchestra which played for the pageant. There were as guests at the Philadelphia lodge, 12 busses full of orphans from every orphans home in the city. Wednesday, attended a meeting at the Academy of music, in charge of Rodney H. Brandon, who requested the co-operation of all the Women of Mooseheart legion helping to abolish undernourishment of children in schools. Every woman present pledged her support and the support of her chapter. Wednesday evening, attended the alumni banquet for Past regents and received the Degree of Friendship from our Director General James J. Davis. Thursday, attended the contest in fancy drills and ritualistic work by the different chapters. Friday we went on a sight seeing tour to all the points of interest in the city, one of the places we visited and in which I was very much interested, was Independence Hall where we saw the Liberty bell, Washington's sofa and a facsimile of the Declaration of Independence, also Betsy Ross' house, the home of Old Glory. We met Mrs. James J. Davis, Miss Catherine Smith, grand recorder, Mrs. Josephine Ramsay and all the deputy grand regents at large and I received this information about our director general and Mooseheart:

"James J. Davis joined the Loyal Order of Moose on Oct. 27, 1906, in Crawfordsville, Ind. The order at that time was 18 years old, having been founded in St. Louis as chartered in Louisville, Ky. At the time Mr. Davis joined there were only two lodges with a total membership of 246. He was elected to the office of director general and in 1910, four years after his election, there were 233 lodges, with a membership of 80,000. It was resolved to start the actual work of founding an educational institution. A tax of two cents a week was laid on each member and later increased to four cents. Land was bought, a building erected, and in 1913 the school was dedicated by Thomas R. Marshall, vice president of the United States. There were eleven children established in the home. Today the city of Mooseheart in the Fox river valley, 37 miles west of Chicago, is the home of more than 2,500 children and 115 mothers who are with their children. Mooseheart is an agricultural school. It occupies more than 1,000 acres in the richest farming region of Illinois. The school has over 2,000 students, boys and girls of various ages. When a boy gets old enough to start in primary school he mixes agricultural studies with his books. First he plants and tends to a small garden. Then he is taught to raise chickens. Next he learns swing husbandry, then dairying and the handling of horses. The girls learn poultry raising, butter making, gardening, cooking, dressmaking and millinery. After the boy has had a general course in all the branches of agriculture, he is permitted to specialize in any one of them he wishes. After the course of agriculture, which every boy must have, the student gets an introduction in mechanical trades. Then he may select a particular trade and specialize in it. They are also taught swimming, dancing and music, both vocal and instrumental. Many fine musicians have been graduated from Mooseheart and every one of them knew a mechanical trade as well and on top of it all he knew how to run a farm. Such a boy can serve his country in peace and war." We arrived home Saturday night, tired but happy to have been one one chosen to attend this wonderful convention.

The Norwich Mooseheart legion is to have its outing next Wednesday, going to Atlantic beach by bus at 10 in the morning. Rose Carter is chairman of the committee of arrangements.

MOOSE

The regular meeting of Moose lodge, No. 950, was held Friday evening with Dictator Bernard Wunderlich in the chair. Regular business was transacted in which the enlarging of the home was discussed. A special meeting is to be held for consideration of this plan. As the Moose has been browsing all summer in the forest he is about to battle the elements for the next three months. The charter will be open from Oct. 1, to Dec. 31 on a special dispensation. Dictator Wunderlich reported that the Philadelphia convention was the largest ever held. A membership of 674,630 is now in good standing in the order.

CITY COURT FINES FOUR ON INTOXICATION CHARGES

Four men were fined at the city court session Friday morning on charges of intoxication, three going to jail and the other paying his bill. A fifth man, charged with intoxication, had his case continued six months.

One of the four men wandered into the court house Thursday evening, under the impression that it was a local club of which he is a member, and went to sleep on a bench in the town hall. He was found there by Supt. J. J. Fields and was arrested. His

FIVE TECHNICAL KNOCKOUTS IN DUWELL AMATEUR BOUTS LAST NIGHT

Another excellent card of amateur bouts was staged at the Duwell field last night and again the crowd of 1600 fans was treated to some real slugging bees in practically every bout. The return match between the fighting Jewett City favorite Vic Darr and the tough Westerly boy, Young Chappe, was another whirlwind affair, a little slower perhaps than the last fight between the two and one round less than the last, as Chappe was given the decision after the third round.

The bouts started off with a bang with Young Paradis 114 pounds of Putnam outpointing Kid Slavinsky, a tough boy from Colchester, weighing the same. The Putnam boy kept Slavinsky away with a left jab making the lad from Colchester swing wildly. Both boys were quite tired at the bell. This is the third fight that Paradis has won here and is a pleasing little fighter.

Young Lawrence, 110 pounds of Westerly, who whipped his man at the last card was not as fortunate tonight and met a tartar in Young Wakely 113 pounds of Putnam. Lawrence has a mean straight right hand punch to the body but it did not keep Wakely from outboxing him to win the verdict.

Young Switch of Jewett City won over Pat Colli of Westerly in the third bout. They started off cautiously, Switch assuming a Dave Shade pose; and the first round was rather slow. But they opened up in the second, both boys taking lots of punishment. The third was also fast with Young Switch gaining the decision.

The fourth bout brought together Young Matty of Westerly, a tall fast lightweight, who outslugged Young Koulas of Jewett City and won the first technical knockout of the evening in the second round of their affair. They both started off at a fast clip Koulas slugging along with Matty. In the second, however, Matty sent home some hard smashes to the jaw that had the Jewett City boy rather tired and the towel came into the ring to save him from further punishment. Matty looked very good in his first performance here and no doubt will be matched on the next card. He weighed 130 to Koulas' 133.

The referee stopped the next go in the third round between Patsy Cafone, 129 pounds of Westerly and Young McClure of New London of the same weight, on account of the goriness of the affair. Cafone sailed into McClure who elected to box and who had a pretty good defense for the Westerly boy's swings. Some landed however, and on several occasions they slugged toe to toe. Mac was down for a no count in the first, and in the ensuing mixup Cafone's nose which bled during the fight and which bothered him. Jackie Wilson waved him to his corner and although apparently unhurt he was of a crimson hue and the fight went to the New London boy on a technical knockout.

The next bout was between Young Salinsky of Jewett City who is a big favorite with the fans and another newcomer Peter Christina of Westerly. At the bell both boys met in the center of the ring and Salinsky started a hard right that caught Pete on the jaw sending him back on his heels, with Salinsky right on top of him to make it short and sweet. But Christina came out of it and during the rest of the fight took all that Benny handed and although he was cut about the face was still in there trying at the final bell. It was a good fight but Salinsky was too good for the Westerly lad. Pete weighed 126 and Benny 124.

The fans settled down in their chairs to witness what they figured would be the feature go of the night between Al Koziol, Barney Keenan's protege and Happy Bontempo, another Jewett City fighter. Bontempo was supposed to left-hand Koziol to a decision, but Al would not let him and kept on top of his man knocking him down twice in the second round, and was about ready to finish it when the towel came into the ring. Both weighed 130 pounds.

The next fight between Ben Dempsky of Norwich, 152 pounds and Edgar Royster of Westerly, 153 pounds, ended in the first when Dempsky outpunched the colored boy, and had him ready to finish when the towel was tossed in. They started like featherweights standing toe to toe and slugging, and it was just a case of the survival of the fittest and who would drop first. Ben landed a hard right to Edgar's midsection, which started his downfall and he stood there helpless as Dempsky shot over a right to the jaw which was enough punishment as the seconds figured and they tossed in the towel as token of defeat thus giving Ben the fight on a technical knockout.

After a taking a few falls out of each other during the fight, Young Besade of Norwich 139 pounds won all the way from Anthony Polanski, same weight, of Colchester in the ninth bout of the evening. Besade cut his man up and had him bleeding from the nose in the first round and kept his left in his face throughout.

Pete Tombari of the Smoke Shop lost on a technical knockout to Big Boy Burlap of Westerly when he was obliged to quit in the third round when he dislocated his shoulder. It was a fast fight while it lasted both boys sending home hard blows. The big boy can hit hard with either hand but Pete shot in a few that he didn't like which made him fight back all the harder. He caught Pete with a hard right to the jaw in the second that made Pete's knees sag but the bell prevented any further damage. Pete had Burlap tired at times and in the last round played for his wind but the end came in a mixup when the West Side lad was hurt. Pete weighed 130 and Burlap 135.

The next card was announced to be held Sept. 20.

TAFTVILLE CLASHES WITH MANTON TOWNERS SUNDAY

Dan Costigan's Manton Town Team, Rhode Island's fastest road club, will furnish the opposition for the Martiffs at the J. B. Martin diamond on Sunday afternoon. The Manton club is a fast bunch with a crafty manager at the helm. Costigan never turned out a poor ball club since he has been connected with baseball and the Towners are no exception to this rule. Last Saturday Costigan's club nearly took over the state champion's, Riverview, at the State Hospital, the Manton team losing out by a single run.

Costigan's club includes a large number of heavy hitters and boys who give any pitcher plenty of trouble. His lineup for Sunday will be: Potter ss; Pearce 3b; Doyle 2b; Agnew rf; Enright lf; Rylander cf; Davis 1b; Lalley c; Anatol p.

Manager Troland after seeing the Manton's in action will send Russ Fisher against the heavy stickers, believing that at the rate Fisher has been traveling this season he will be able to hold them. Eccleston will do the catching and Rabbit Gauthier will take Kendrick's place at second while Kendrick will go to right field. The remainder of the lineup will see Murphy at first, Yerrington at third, Carlie Krauss at short, Gley lf, Jarvis cf.

SHOCKER PITCHES YANKS TO WIN; NO HOMERS

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—(AP)—The New York Yankees again ran their steam roller over the St. Louis Browns here today, winning for the twentieth time in 26 attempts this season. The score was 9 to 3.

Urban Shocker, pitching for the Yanks, allowed only three hits and but for an error by Gehrig and a lapse of control on his own part in the fourth inning, might have had a shutout as only one hit went into the scoring of the Browns' three runs in that inning. The Yanks scored five runs off Elam Van Gilder in the fifth and he was replaced by Nevers after three more were added in the sixth.

Although no home runs were made, Babe Ruth hit the ball in timely fashion, driving in four runs with two singles and a sacrifice fly. The score:

CARDINALS TAKE THIRD PLACE BEATING DODGERS

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 9—(AP)—The world champion Cardinals assumed third place from the Chicago Cubs today by a sensational 3 to 6 victory over the Robins in the opener of a four-game series while Chicago succumbed to the Giants.

With two out in the tenth, Lester Bell slammed a home run off Petty with two on base to settle the issue.

Brooklyn grasped a one run lead in the ninth on Babe Herman's second homer of the game but the Cards levelled the count in their half of the inning on Douthit's double and a single by Holm.

The Dodgers scored another run in the tenth on Statz's single, Hafey's fumble, a sacrifice and an infield grounder on which Statz beat Frisch's throw to the plate.

In the St. Louis tenth, Bottomley and Hafey walked and with two batters out, Bell lifted the ball close to the left field stands. The score:

ALDRIDGE PITCHES PIRATES TO VICTORY TO HOLD LEAD

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 9—(AP)—Vic Aldridge won a pitchers' battle over Herb Pruett and Pittsburgh clung to its lead in the National league pennant chase today by defeating Philadelphia 3 to 2, in the first of a three-game series.

The Pirates got to Pruett in the fourth inning for five of their total of eight hits and scored all three of their runs. Aldridge allowed the Phils but six hits, and they were unable to bunch them effectively to overcome the Pirates' lead.

Except for their big fourth inning, the Pirates were helpless before Pruett. In that inning Traynor hit the only extra base clout of the game, a triple, and later scored Pittsburgh's first run, four singles driving in the other two runs.

Cy Williams was out of the Philadelphia lineup due to an injury sustained in batting practice when he was struck on the foot by a ball.

GIANTS BEAT CUBS TO HOLD SECOND PLACE

CHICAGO, Sept. 9—(AP)—The New York Giants kept pace with the league leading Pirates today by defeating Chicago 7 to 2 in the first game of a series here while the Pirates downed the Phillies. The Giants are trailing the Corsairs by half a contest.

Approximately 35,000 fans saw the opening of the east-west tussle. Solid hitting combined with a lethargic play by "Sparky" Adams and steady hurling by Grimes, was responsible for the New York triumph.

The McGrawmen put the game away in the second inning. Hornsby started a rally with a walk and scored when Jackson drove the ball over the left field wall for a home run. Harper followed with a triple and crossed the plate on Taylor's safety.

Three more runs were put over by the invaders in the fourth, when Weinert was replaced by Jones. The other New York run came in the eighth on Mann's walk and singles by Lindstrom and Roush.

Grimes pitched fine ball and fanned Hack Wilson with the bases loaded in the fourth after which he walked Grimm to force in a run. The score:

HARRIS HOLDS INDIANS AND RED SOX WIN

BOSTON, Sept. 9—(AP)—Slim Harris held Cleveland to five hits today, enabling Boston to take its second straight victory from the Indians 8 to 1. Three bases on balls and a hit batter gave the visitors their only run in the third.

Hartley's hitting was timely. John Wesley Ferrell, a young pitcher from Oak Ridge academy, Guilford, N. C., made his big league bow by pitching for Cleveland in the eighth inning. The score:

RIVERVIEW CLASHES WITH ROSSIE TEAM THIS AFTERNOON

Rossie Velvet A. A. will furnish the opposition for the Riverview club this afternoon at the State Hospital diamond in what is expected to be a tune-up game for the Riverview club for their tussle with the Moosup club on Sunday. The Rossie team has been clamoring for a game all season and will bring up their strongest lineup in hopes of taking a fall out of the state champions. The visitors realize that this game is without doubt their hardest game of the season. Manager Ballesiracci will use either Maine or Walsh in the box in hopes of turning back the Riverview team. The remainder of his lineup will be: Dabrowski 2b; Brewer ss; Scheller cf; Gregory 3b; Barraclough lf; Wilson 1b; Santin or Walsh rf; Kellers c; Maine or Walsh p; L. Brewer, Ellis and Tedford utility.

Manager Hamel will use his regular lineup with Lefty Dugas doing the pitching. The game will start at 3 o'clock.

West Ends to Play E. Glastonbury

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 9—The West Ends of Willimantic will have one of the best baseball attractions in Connecticut this coming Sunday when the speedy East Glastonbury outfit perform here at Recreation park. The visitors come here with a record which cannot be equalled by any semi-pro outfit in New England, for they have annexed twenty straight wins without a single defeat. The East Glastonbury outfit already holds two victories this season over the West Ends, both games being won by a 3-2 margin. The Willimantic aggregation will be out to avenge these defeats and will also strive to be the first to break the long winning streak of the visitors.

RIVERVIEW TO PLAY MOOSUP IN THIRD GAME ON SUNDAY

The third game of the series between the Moosup club and the Riverview team for the New England semi-pro title will be played at Moosup on Sunday. That Moosup is out to win this encounter is evident by the announcement that six players from the New England league will appear in the upstate lineup.

The management announced the lineup for Sunday as follows: Obrec of Salem 2b; Hendrickson ss; Kierman cf; Haddard cf; Werre 1b; Buster Cox of Salem 3b; O'Connor of Salem lf; Cole of Lewiston c; Cummings of Lewiston p.

The above lineup is one of the strongest yet to oppose the State Hospital team. Manager Hamel is undecided as to who will be on the mound for his club as he is uncertain about Groy at the present time. He has been in communication with a number of prominent hurlers in the east and promises that he will have a pitcher equal to anything that Moosup can put on. The remainder of his lineup will be the same as last week.

Stars to Play Rossie

(Special to The Bulletin)

MYSTIC, Sept. 9—On Sunday the Stars will come here with some of the best players in the city league of New London. Johnson who beat the All Coast Guards twice will be on the mound for the Stars and by looking at the City league's averages the players that the Stars have in their lineup will prove what a hard team the Rossians will stack up against Sunday.

The management wishes to announce to the fans that the second game of the series with Scoony, instead of being played in New London as originally scheduled will be played in Rossie's park Sunday, Sept. 25th.

TILDEN AND HUNTER BEAT FRENCH PAIR IN HARD FOUGHT MATCH

(By Alan J. Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor)

GERMANTOWN CRICKET CLUB, Philadelphia, Sept. 9—(AP)—"Big Bill" Tilden again rose to dramatic heights today to check France's Davis cup challenge and give America a 2 to 1 lead in the most stirring battle in years for the famous international tennis trophy.

"Big Bill" didn't do it single-handed this time, but his racquet, always flashing in the thickest of the fight, was the dynamic, deciding factor in a sensational five-set doubles triumph that he and his stocky partner, Francis T. Hunter scored over Jacques Brugnon and Jean Borotra.

The scores were 3-6, 6-3, 6-3, 4-6, 6-0.

As a result, America needs only one more victory in tomorrow's two singles matches to clinch possession of the Davis cup for the eighth successive year. France must take both contests to emerge the winner.

With Tilden as rampant as he was yesterday in conquering Henri Cochet and in playing the leading role in the doubles today, the American ace may clinch the cup in the first match tomorrow against Rene LaCoste. In fact, it seems certain he must do so if the cup defenders are to win at all, for "Little Bill" Johnston, on the poor form he displayed against LaCoste yesterday, was conceded little chance of beating Cochet.

Today's doubles match was a hard fought, see-saw struggle for four sets, with little to choose in the sparkling duels that found Tilden, on one side, and Borotra, on the other, bearing the brunt of battle. But it was turned into a rout in the final set, largely because the French wilted under the terrific pace, yielding to the superior stamina of their opponents, but also partly because of a sporting but costly point-throwing gesture by the "bounding basque," Borotra.

This gesture came in the fourth game of the deciding set at a time when Tilden and Hunter, although leading 3-0, appeared a bit shaky.

On his own service, Borotra was leading 30-15 when he served a ball to Tilden that was called "in" by the linesman as "Big Bill" barely got his racquet on it. But to the Basque it appeared out—by at least four inches he said afterward. The score was called at 40-15 but Borotra then deliberately double-faulted.

The crowd cheered the Frenchman. It appeared a magnificent gesture but it also proved costly. Upset, Boretra missed an easy return and in a prolonged deuce battle the Americans captured the game to assume a lead of 4-0 that virtually settled the match.

The Americans, although taking full advantage of this "break", earned their victory by superior team-work, better generalship and a craftily executed attack that combined terrific speed with soft lobs, tricky trap shots with well-placed lobs. Hunter, a bit uncertain at several stages, gave Tilden brilliant support on the whole, but it was "Big Bill" who directed the strategy and brought off the greatest as well as decisive shots.

Tildens service was never more invincible. Back-court, or at the net, he was virtually impassabl bringing off amazing back-hand recoveries, or some sharply angled volleys that left the crowd of 12,000 spectators gasping. Hunter himself, although losing control occasionally, had the stuff to withstand all the pressure the challengers brought to bear.

Borotra was the more brilliant but also the more erratic of the French stars. Brugnon, holding his own at first and making marvelous block volleys, tired perceptibly as the match went on.

TIGERS EVEN SERIES WITH THE ATHLETICS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers evened the series with the Athletics today by taking the second game by a score of 5 to 2. Howard Ehmke was hit hard from the start but lasted for six innings. Bob Fothergill got two doubles and a triple in four times up. Whitehill held the Athletics to four hits. The score:

HAGEN BREAKS COURSE RECORD IN WESTERN OPEN

CHICAGO, Sept. 9—(AP)—Far outshining a whole firmament of stars, Walter Hagen today increased his lead in the western open golf championship from one to six strokes, by breaking the old course record of 70 on the No. 1 course at Olympia fields by three strokes for a total of 137, just after it had been reduced to 69 by Eddie Held of St. Louis, second in the list at the end of the first two rounds with 42.

Later, Bill Mehlhorn scored a 69 on this links to go into a tie for third place at 144 with Tommy Armour, American and Canadian open champion, Chick Evans, formerly national open and amateur titleholder, and Frank Walsh of Appleton, Wis. Frank Kennett of Kamazoo stood next with 145, followed by Craig Wood of Long Branch, N. J., Mike Patten, and Harry Hampton of Memphis, and Harry Cooper of Los Angeles, at 146.

Gene Sarazen, paired with Hagen, was tied at 147 with Laurie Ayton and Al Espinosa of Chicago. Leo Diegel of Washington, D. C., Leonard Schmutte of Lima, Ohio, and R. W. Treacy of Milwaukee.

It took 154 or better to get into the final two rounds tomorrow with the 64 low scorers and tie for sixty-fourth place.

Seldom has Hagen's total for 36 holes been beaten, possibly never equalled on courses of so much difficulty. His par 70 on No. 4 course yesterday was a splendid performance, although he holds the record of 67 for that links. But never before today had 70 been broken on the even more difficult first course.

GOLF CLUB NOTES

Smith and Howe waited too long before taking their bisques so that when Miller struck his stride on the inward journey they were just naturally out of luck. Miller and Boss were two up going up and two up coming in.

In a special foursome at the club Friday afternoon Massie B. Miller paired with C. Royce Boss won from Budge Smith and Ralph Howe four up. To make the match more interesting Miller and Boss gave their opponents eight bisques but at the end of the match Smith and Howe had a number of the bisques left over. Massie turned in low score a 73, the second he has shot in two days. His card was:

Out:
Par 4 3 4 4 4 4 5 4 4—36
Miller 4 4 4 5 4 5 5 4 4—39
In:
Par 4 3 4 5 3 5 3 3 4—35—71
Miller 5 2 4 3 5 2 5 2 5—34—73

Sam Wilcox became a finalist in the club championship on Friday when he beat Dave Morton 3 and 2. Wilcox was one up at the end of the first nine and then won two more holes. Wilcox had a 74 and Morton a 76.

In a first round match in the first sixteen of the Labor day tournament John D. Moulton defeated A. H. Chase 2 and 1 in a close match, Moulton shooting a 76.

C. A. Gager won from P. A. Johnson 1 up in a first round match in the second sixteen.

Harry Ford went to the second round in the third sixteen when H. A. Tirrell defaulted.

Another warning is issued that all first round matches must be played by Sunday night or the players will be disqualified.

The usual week end tournament will be conducted this week and with a continuance of good weather there should be a record entry list.

Eben Learned who won the president's cup at Harwichport earlier in the summer is burning up the local courses and turning in some mighty fine scores.

On Friday the cups on the greens were re-located which met with the hearty aprovalof the club members.

LENYON IS BOUND OVER IN DIAMOND RING THEFT CASE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 9—Trial and continuance of the case for the alleged theft of a $1,000 diamond ring, the property of Isabelle H. Dauchy of Charlestown, R. I., began a week ago, occupied the morning session today of the Third District court before Judge Oliver H. Williams. The case was for State Corp. James E. Norman, department of Rhode Island state police, complainant vs. Alonzo D. Lenyon, 28, colored, formerly employed by Miss Dauchy in Charleston, with other addresses, 22 Perkins street, Providence and 74 Martin street, Hartford and up to the present time employed in Middletown Haddam. The trial continued, with the state's rebuttal of evidence given on a week ago by the defendant that the state's identifying witness, Pawnbroker Charles Colitz of Providence had been unduly influenced by Herbert B. Caffrey, superintendent of the Rhode Island Bureau of Criminal Detection.

Assistant Attorney General Sigmund W. Fischer, Jr., of Providence, for the state, called Frederick W. Goff of Edgewood, R. I., loan clerk of the Colitz Hardware and Pawn shop in Providence up to a week before July 4th, as the first witness, in the state's rebuttal.

Superintendent Caffrey testified that he had been an inspector for the Providence police department for 25 years previous to his retirement and taking up his duties with the criminal identification bureau. Called into the case, he accompanied Lenyon with State Trooper Norman to the Colitz store, on Westminster street where a short time later Colitz arrived and while seven or eight feet from the auto in which Lenyon sat, immediately said, "That's him" as the man to whom he had loaned $50 on a diamond ring. Caffrey had not urged Colitz to identify the man and did not say that he would care for any expenses that Colitz would be put to by making his identification.

Mrs. Lenyon, wife of the accused, produced a gray chauffeur's suit worn by her husband when in Providence, before his going to Hartford July 6th; besides the suit in hock he had only the black and white striped suit which was taken to him in Hartford, not even owning a suit of blue clothes testified to as worn to the pawn shop by the man who hocked Miss Dauchy's ring. Miss Dauchy had sent a telegram to Lenyon in answer to a special delivery letter to his wife, asking her to forward him money.

Judge Williams found the defendant probably guilty and bound him over in the sum of $2,000 bail to await the action of the grand jury in the September session of superior court for Washington county. He was taken back to jail by Deputy Sheriff Fred Bull.

NOANK

Schooner Reliance came from Nantucket shoals, had only fished two days but had made a large catch of 27,000 pounds of cod. Capt. Grover Eldreigh said it is the first time since following the water, 25 years, that he made such a quick catch and trip. The fish was unloaded at Fulton market where they brought a high price. Thursday morning 10 tons of ice were put on board with supplies. The schooner will leave for the fishing ground again at the end of this week.

Miss Mollie Deane after spending two months at Groton Long Point returned Thursday to her home in Holyoke, Mass.

George Main Jr., oiler of steamer Richard Peck, is spending a few days at his home in the village.

Noank's baseball expert in picking winning teams of the National and American league is Lyle Chesebro, who has not made a mistake in five years. He was asked about the National league—it is the best race in years, but Pittsburgh will win he claims, by two games, with the Giants in second place. In the American league, nothing but the Yankees—with Ruth's home runs and Gehrig's long drives out of the parks and pitchers going strong makes it a runaway race for the Yankees. Mr. Chesebro told his friends about the winners long before the season opened. The week of the big fight between Dempsey and Tunney he will tell the fight fans in the village who is going to win the battle.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Farr and children after spending the summer at Groton Long Point have returned to Holyoke, Mass.

Over at Poquonoc in the big brick building where the town of Groton selectmen meet for business Thursday night, the republican caucus nominated officers for the coming year. Charles W. Gildersleeve was chosen to run for second selectman. Clark B. Whaley is the present first selectman. The hall was crowded, 450 people being present. Chairman Warren Burrows said "Are you ready to ballot on these two men?" so a long line was formed and it was 25 minutes before the last man cast his vote. The counters got busy and after ten minutes of counting Chairman Burrows announced that Whaley had 246 ballots, while Gildersleeve had 120. The hall was in an uproar and cheered Mr. Whaley who told the crowd he was glad to be renominated and thanked them for their support. A Noank man was put on the ticket for constable of the village by day, George D. Carpenter. Seventy voters went from Noank to the caucus.

Hubert Ellis, who goes to Bulkeley high school, New London is in his last year and when Coach Canty called for football players to start practice, Ellis was one of the volunteers. He is out for right end, is a fast runner and knows the gridiron game well. Young Ellis played for Noank All-Stars for three years. He is called Swift Ellis, following his brother Speed (Walter) Ellis, who made a name at this school and reached the hall of fame out west in his college days.

The lobster cars of Chesebro fish market have been hauled out on his ways and have received a coat of copper paint.

Mr. and Mrs. David Wells and family after spending six weeks with Edgar Ashly have returned to their home in Jamesport, L. I.

Miss Sarah Ellis after a visit in Lenox, Mass., has returned to the village.

Mrs. Ira Baker is confined to her home by illness.

James D. Latham who died in Wallingford, was a former resident of the village. He was manager of the Palmer Shoe store for years, moving later to New London where he made his home for a long time. He leaves two half-brothers, of Noank, Hiram Latham of Elm street and William Latham of Pearl street.

Chief H. H. Park spent a day in Niantic this week.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Graham Brothers Trucks

Unfilled orders for Graham Brothers trucks since the company introduced its new line of 3-4, 1, 1 1-2 and 2-ton units August 23 are substantially greater than at any time this year, according to an official announcement. All Graham Brothers plants are running at full capacity and shipments to dealers are going forward as fast as possible, the statement says.

Headed by a six cylinder 2-ton truck with four-speed transmission and four wheel Lockheed hydraulic brakes, the new line has met with enthusiastic response from truck buyers throughout the country, orders show. The six cylinder truck is particularly powerful and fast, the four-speed transmission making possible moderate engine speeds even at relatively high road speeds with consequent gasoline economy and longer life. The engine in these trucks is unusually rugged in construction with a seven-bearing crankshaft, machined all over and weighing 65 pounds, heavy duty transmission and large single plate clutch. These trucks are equipped with air cleaner, oil strainer and oil filter and gasoline filter. Marked advances in power and economy of fuel consumption are said to result from the new hot-spot manifold and unique combustion chamber design.

The 1 1-2 ton model, equipped with the new four cylinder engine introduced this summer also shows a number of improvements calculated to increase its strength, speed and utility. This model embodies the same four-wheel brakes, four-speed transmission and heavier front and rear axles as the 2-ton model.

On the 1-ton and 3-4 ton models important changes includes the adoption of cam and lever steering gear for easier control and heavier front axles for greater strength. Eight-ply tires are now furnished on the one ton model instead of the six-ply formerly standard equipment.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

The month of August held up to the normal average in the number of building permits issued and exceeded the same period in 1926 in the amount estimated as the cost of the new construction. There were 21 permits issued by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton during August and the total valuation as placed by the owners is approximately $101,506. The permits issued for the following construction work:

New frame houses	3
New frame garages	12
New frame barn	1
New structural steel building	1
New brick filling station	1
Alterations to frame buildings	1
Alteration to brick buildings	2
Total	21

During the past week there were six building permits issued including two for new dwelling houses.

The permits issued during the week were as follows:

To F. F. Sweeney to alter brick building at 67 West Main street for Samuel Goldberg. The building will be altered and brick addition 6x50 feet built.

To Peck McWilliams Co., to alter front of building at 85-87 Water street for T. H. Eldredge estate.

To Ivar Johnson to erect a 2-story house on Goldberg avenue for Benjamin Mandell. The building will be 24x28 feet and of frame construction. There will be six rooms and bath.

To Frank Bronejko to erect a frame garage on Boswell avenue. The garage will be 20x20.

To Joseph Stankiewicz to build a one car garage, 12x18 feet on North Main street.

To Frank Garrison to erect a frame dwelling house on Avery street for Joseph Gruler. The house will be 32x32 feet and will contain six rooms and bath.

Bids are being received by Lieberman Sharaf for the apartment house he plans to have built in Sharaf street. The building will be arranged for four apartments of four rooms each with janitor's quarters in the basement. The building will be of frame construction.

Work has been started on the construction of a new dwelling to be built in Fuller street for A. H. Beckman. From private plans the structure will be 24 by 24 feet, of frame construction and arranged for one family occupancy. The cost is estimated at about $6,000.

Work has been started on the construction of a storehouse in McDonald street for Mrs. John Turello. The new building will be of concrete block construction 30 by 40 feet with an ell 14 by 18 feet.

A local builder has the contract for a bungalow in Warren street for J. A. Verga. The new structure will be of frame construction 42 by 28 feet and will have all modern improvements and conveniences.

Work is nearly completed on the construction of sidewalks in Walbach street in connection with the extensive improvements made in the approach to the Coast Guard academy.

Excavation work is nearly completed for the new residence being built for Theodore Bodenweln in Pequot avenue.

The residence will be of brick construction 74 by 86 feet with slate roof and the latest equipment and appliances in the heating, pluming, and electrical installations.

The frame work is up for a two family house being built for Andrew Gannon in Colman street. The new house is 24 by 46 feet of modern design with the usual straight peak roof. Plans specify all modern improvements.

Work is nearing completion on a pretty little cottage being built for Henry Coogan in Fitch avenue. The new structure is enhanced by being shingled on the sides with a grayish stained shingle and of the bungalow design; is in good proportion with its dimensions of 24 by 39 feet.

Six buildings of the city have been condemned as unsafe and beyond repair and steps have been taken to have them removed. They are: Two story frame building at 35 Pearl street owned by Abraham Bronstein, frame buildings at 166-172 Banw street owned by Schwartz Bros., one story frame buildings at 166-172 Bank street, owned Max Abrams, two story frame building at 92 Truman street owned by August Vogt, one story frame structure at the foot of Hallam street owned by the New London Northern railroad, frame structure at 92-98 Water street, owned by Gager-Crawford company.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

Real estate sales in Norwich during the past week numbered seven as compared to six sales during the corresponding week in 1926. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $26,650 and $4,525.

In New London there were 9 sales of real estate during the past week, seven more than during the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $50,950 and $19,500.

New London

The weather continued to interfere with building operations throughout the city during the past week. Contractors agree that the past month has been one in which work has been greatly handicapped. With no meeting of the city council again this week there were accordingly no building permits issued. Several applications have been filed with Building Inspector William Gunn and at the next Tuesday it is expected that a large number of permits will be issued.

Present indications are that the total amount of new building in the city will fall short of that of last year. While residential building has kept pace with the figures of last year industrial and commercial construction has fallen off. To date there have been 73 permits issued this year for new houses as compared with a little more than 100 permits issued for 1926. If the present trend of new home construction continues for the rest of the year it is probable that the figures of last year will be equalled if not exceeded in the residential class of construction.

Of interest is the fact that there has been an appreciable increase in the number of two family and apartment house started under construction during the past two months. Of the 16 permits issued for new houses in these two months seven were for two family or apartment houses. These figures indicate a different trend in residential construction in that previous to the past two months and for past year the construction of two family houses and apartments were in the extreme minority.

Plans have been prepared for extensive alterations to the front of the store in State street occupied by Rockwell and company and owned by H. D. Barrows estate. A new front entrance will extend back 32 feet with elaborate display window space on either side of the entrance to the upstair offices. The show windows will have marble base and tile floors with plate glass windows in copper trim.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

The Norwich Reform club, at a meeting 50 years ago this week in Breed hall, elected as its president Dr. Charles Jewett. At that time the membership numbered 200 with 250 other names on lists which had not reached the hands of the secretary. Thieves were at work in Norwich Town and on the Preston side. Interesting extracts taken from the files of the Norwich Bulletin of September, 1877, are as follows:

Monday, Sept. 3, 1877—The Ella continues her seaside trips for the present. The remainder of the season is short. You should avail yourselves of a few more opportunities to enjoy the sea breezes.

A large number of people viewed the improvements to the steamer City of Norwich, Saturday, as it was her first arrival in the city since she has been under the workmen's hammer.

A temperance meeting is to be held in Owaneco hall, Greeneville, Monday evening for the formation of a reform club and all persons who are favorable to the movement are cordially invited to attend.

Tuesday, Sept. 4, 1877—Mr. John W. Osborn, who has been located in this city forthe past year as agent for Singer Manufacturing company, leaves today to take charge of their Hartford agency. He has made many friends while here and will be missed by those who have enjoyed his personal acquaintance.

The Misses Corbin's house of Norwich Town was entered on the subsequent night but the burglars were frightened away.

The ladies of the Mohegan sewing society welcome their friends to their wigwam tomorrow. Arrangements have been made for a conveyance from the city.

The clothing dealers, merchant tailors, and hatters were so well pleased with the temporary agreement to close their stores on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, which was to last until the first of September, that the time has been extended to next April. Nearly all the boot and shoe dealers have also extended their original agreement indefinitely.

The Otis library will open at 10 o'clock mornings instead of nine. The other hours as usual.

Wednesday, Sept. 5, 1877—A meeting of the Norwich Reform club was held at Breed hall Monday evening for the election of officers for the ensuing year. About 100 persons were present, including Messrs. Montgomery, Palmer, Parks and Bidwell. The meeting was called to order by President Jewett and prayer was offered by the Rev. Mr. Montgomery. G. A. Jones, Jr., as secretary, reported that 200 names were on the list and 250 more had signed but their names had not been handed to him. The following were unanimously elected: President, Dr. Charles Jewett; vice presidents, J. L. Dennison, Henry Griswold, N. S. Wentworth, H. W. Leach, C. J. King, George H. Martin, Rufus Ladd, Nathan Standish, R. C. Sherman, Aaron Dick; treasurer, U. S. Gardner; secretary, A. F. Park.

The position held by Mr. Walter F. Parker as agent of the New York line of steamers has been taken by Mr. William Turner, lately connected with the Boston and New York air line. Mr. Parker has been in the employ of the company as agent or clerk, for 20 years and has been a very popular official.

Repairs are going on at the Central M. E. church and a new organ is to be placed therein. The choir will occupy the front instead of the side of the pulpit.

Thursday, Sept. 6, 1877—The office of the Adams Express company, in this city was closed between half-past 2 and 4 o'clock yesterday, in respect to the memory of Mr. Alvin Adams, founder of the company, whose funeral took place at Watertown, Mass.

Mrs. Anna Clarke, the singing evangelist, has at the request of the request of the reform leaders, consented to be present in this city the whole of next week, speaking in Breed hall every night, beginning Sunday when she speaks at 5 in the afternoon.

The dealers pay $6.50 a barrel for ordinary quality of peaches now, which is $2 more than they cost only a week ago. It looks as though the price had put a stop to the loud-mouthed street venders crying "pea ches" any more.

Friday, Sept. 7, 1877—A man beating his wife was the cause of some excitement on Church street last evening, but he took to his heels when a policeman approached.

Mr. C. D. Hine, formerly superintendent of schools here, is enroute to Iowa City, where he intends to spend the ensuing year in the study of law.

The oyster dealers report the oysters opening this season remarkably fine.

Saturday, Sept. 8, 1877—Thieves have been at work again on the Preston side and E. N. Roath's potato patch and Thomas Phillips' hen roost were depredated a few nights ago.

There is to be a special communication of Somerset lodge, F. and A. M., this evening, to make arrangements to attend the funeral of their late brother, William S. Cooley, which takes place tomorrow afternoon.

Another of the popular band concerts will be given by the Caledonian society at Greeneville on Tuesday evening next. The moral character is such that these entertainments should be well patronized.

Breed Theater

Corrine Griffith at her best, in an emotional dramatic role of the type that has made her famous, will head the bill at the Breed theater Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Supporting her in her newest picture, Three Hours, is a cast of prominent screen players, including John Bowers, Hobart Bosworth, Paul Ellis, Ann Schaefer and Mary Louise Miller. Bowers, who plays opposite the star, was recently "discovered" by Gloria Swanson, who made him her leading man in Sunya.

Adapted from May Edginton's story by Paul Bern, famous director and scenarist, the picture, directed by James Flood, deals with a modern society matron who is the victim of the wrath of an insanely jealous husband.

Miss Griffith's work in this picture is said to be the greatest dramatic performance that she has ever given for the screen, calling as it does for a portrayal of the most tense type of emotionalism. The picture will pull at the heart strings of those who see it and picture-goers in Norwich who enjoy a melodramatic tinge to their screen fare will be more than satisfied with the Breed's next week's feature.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY

A September Secret

The stage is all set and nobody knows it.
The actors are waiting and nobody sees
How the pots of rich gold and pots of vermilion,
And russet are hidden behind all the trees,
How purple and crimson and yellow and silver
And tawny-brown pots in color and stain
Are hidden by pumpkin and corn-row and flower
Are tucked in the shocks of the gathered-up grain.

The play will begin soon but nobody knows it
Lush are the hollows—the hills and the fields,
And nobody sees what the vine leaves are hiding
And nobody knows what the heavy hedge shields.
But the hills and the hollows are in on the secret,
The fields, woods and meadows know well what is near,
With the stage now already in fullness and greeness
The vines and the grasses know well who'll appear.

They know that the trailers all tattered with summer
Are waiting to change to new garments again,
That new costumes for all are piled up for the seamstress
To sew to new beauty with needles of rain,
Down highway and byway in valley and highland
In woods and by paths, like a thread from a spool,
Unwinding to lead to the depths of a wonder
That lives in some refuge all watery and cool.

The leaves and the tendrils, the stalks and the branches
The mosses that cling where the creeks water fumes
Know well why the thistle is putting a crown on
And know why the stately tall goldenrod blooms,
The stage is all ready, and nobody
knows it,
But those who are ready to play
each their part,
As soon as the artist comes by with her brushes
And paints all the scenery, the first act will start.

And she'll come on some morning in blazing September
And hunt out the paint pots and hastily steal
From each hidden richness a bit of its color,
The searing of summers old props to conceal.
And then when the light frost has rimmed it with glitter
And the costumes are ready all sewn with the rain,
The curtain will rise on the sad-happy pageant
The time will have come for the play then again.

The play that is old as the dawn of creation,
Yet new every season that comes to us all,
When the passing of summer grows old in her stardom
Steps down for the new star — The first day of fall.

The Calf-Path

One day through the primeval wood
A calf walked home, as good calves should;
But made a trail all bent askew,
A crooked trail, as all calves do.
Since then three hundred years have fled,
And, I infer, the calf is dead.

But still he left behind his trail.
And thereby hangs my moral tale.
The trail was taken up next day
By a lone dog that passed that way
And then a wise bell-wether sheep
Pursued the trail o'er vale and steep,
And drew the flock behind him, too,
As good bell-wethers always do.
And from that day, o'er hill and glade,
Through those old woods a path was made.

And many men wound in and out,
And dodged and turned and bent about,
And uttered words of righteous wrath,
Because 'twas such a crooked path:
But still they followed—do not laugh—
The first migrations of that calf.
And through this winding wood-way
stalked,
Because he wobbled when he walked.

This forest path became a lane,
That bent and turned and turned again;
This crooked lane became a road
Where many a poor horse with his load
Toiled on beneath the burning sun
And traveled three miles in one;
And thus a century and a half
They trod the footsteps of that calf.

The years passed on in swiftness fleet.
The road became a village street;
And this, before men were aware,
A city's crowded thoroughfare.
And soon the central street was this
Of a renowned metropolis;
And men two centuries and a half
Trod in the footsteps of that calf.

Each day a hundred thousand rout
Followed this zigzag calf about,
And o'er his crooked journey went
The traffic of a continent.
A hundred thousand men were led
By one calf near three centuries dead:
They followed still his crooked way,
And lost one hundred years a day;
To well-established precedent.

A moral lesson this might teach
Were it ordained and called to preach:
For men are prone to go it blind
Along the calf-paths of the mind,
And work away from sun to sun
To do what other men have done.
They follow in the beaten track,
And out and in, and forth and back,
And still their devious course pursue
To keep the path that others do.
They keep the path a sacred groove
Along which all their lives they move.
But how the wise old wood-gods laugh
Who saw the first primeval calf!
Ah, many things this tale might teach,
But I am not ordained to preach!
—Walter Foss, in Whittier from Wild Meadows.

KEEPING UP THE CLOTHES

Dear Editor and Sisters of the Corner: Am I departing from the straight and narrow path which leads to the kitchen if I give you a few useful helps on "How to keep your men of the family, or the family man, well dressed," on a small income. Of course, I don't think you can accomplish this feat with ready made clothes, but if you have a tailor select the goods be sure you get a goods that is alike on both sides and when the sleeves wear shiny, have the sleeves turned, (if the cloth is alike on both sides you can do this nicely). If the sleeve is worn around the hand I cut the facing off and turn the facing around and take in just a tiny seam. If lining gets worn around the armseye just put new facings around that. If sleeve linings get soiled and not worn, launder them and put them back, but it is really money saved in the end to have new sleeve linings. If the collar gets to looking shabby have a new collar on the coat. If the front edges of the coat get worn rip down from where the collar turns back (rip carefully so as not to stretch it), then you will have to move the canvas back with the tiny braid about 1-4 of an inch, press smoothly and you will be surprised to see the difference when you turn the coat edges in. If the buttons look old put new buttons on the sleeve and the coat proper. I have just fixed a coat that was made three years ago by a good tailor here in town, and it looks as good almost as new. Of course when your suit is made have two pair of pants to a suit. The pants when they get too soiled to take spots off with any cleaner, I put them in the tubs and wash them, hand them over to the tailor (the shiny surface is again eliminated) and he presses them. There is more satisfaction thus than sending them to a cleaner. I have a cleaner that cleans a man's hat or cap to look like new, also their collars or if there is a spot on the clothes it will take it off. If any of the sisters wish to know about it if they will write me I can help them to do the same if they are interested. Shirts I have made to order. The price is very low for the material and the length of time they last. They outwear five shirts ready made. I wont quote the price here it looks too much like advertising but will be glad to help any of you. The sleeves are made just the right length and the flaps too. The shirts are so long when the top or the shirt around the neck is worn you can cut off a piece from the back flap and mend it so it looks new again. There is an extra pair of cuffs that comes with the shirt. I always turn the cuffs and then the new ones, all told, last quite a while.

RECIPES DESERVING TRIAL

Dear Social Corner Members: I trust these recipes will be found worthy of a trial:

Fruit Salad: 1-2 lb. Malaga grapes, 2 pears, 1 grape fruit, 1 orange, 1 head letter. Wash and peel grape fruit then remove the seeds, cut grapes into halves, pears into lengthwise pieces, grape fruit and oranges into sections. Allow the fruit to stand on ice. Serve on lettuce leaves with French dressing. Alligator pears, melons or other fruit may be substituted for these.

This will serve six people. If you want fruit salad for 25 2 lbs. of grapes, 8 pears, 4 grape fruit, 4 oranges, 3 heads of lettuce.

Hot Rolls: 2 cups of flour, 2 yeast, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 cups of milk or a little more, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons of sugar, 1 tablespoon of lard, scald milk then let cool, mix in, pour milk while hot over sugar and lard, when cool stir in yeast cakes melted. Then add flour with lard sifted in. This makes 2 dozen rolls. Make rolls and let rise 2 hours. Then knead over and let rise 2 hours more. Bake in moderate oven 30 minutes.

Novel Potatoes: 5 good sized potatoes 1-2 lb cheese. Slice potatoes 1-4 inch thick and boil until done. Chop cheese into very small pieces, turn into source pan, add potatoes and stir until cheese is melted and it looks like cream potatoes. Season to taste, serve hot.

This serves six people, to serve 25 you would want 15 potatoes and 1 1-2 lbs. of cheese or 2 lbs.

Chicken Yettrazina: 1 1-4 cups of shredded chicken, 3-4 cup of cooked ham, 3-4 pepper shredded, 1-2 red pimento, 2 tablespoons of butter, 3 chopped mushrooms, 2 egg yolks, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 cups cream, 1-2 teaspoon paprika, 3-4 cup cooked spaghetti.

Simmer mushroom, green pepper and butter very gently for 8 minutes. Add ham, chicken, paprika, cook 2 or three minutes, add spaghetti, pimento cream, and salt. Boil about 4 minutes. Mix yolks of eggs with three tablespoons of cream and stir into the mixture. Remove from the fire at once and fill pattie shells.

Croutons: Cut bread in about two inch squares and brown in the oven or put in corn popper and brown on top of the stove. One slice of home made bread will make 8 croutons.

Peas: 1 can peas, 2 tablespoons of butter, 1 cup of milk.

Wash peas by placing them in vegetable rinser, then mix milk, peas and butter, cook five minutes and serve hot with chicken.

Will serve three or four for a little side dish. For 25 it would take 4 cans of peas, 8 tablespoons of butter, 2 quarts of milk.

Cream of Potato Soup: 8 potatoes, 1 quart of milk, 4 slices of onion, 1 tablespoon of flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon celery, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons butter.

Method—Cook potatoes in boiling salted water, when soft rub through a sieve, scald the milk with onions, add seasonings. Stir the flour with this and when smooth add this mixture to the potatoes stirring briskly. Cook for 12 minutes over boiling water in double boiler.

This will serve 4 to 5 people. For 25—24 potatoes, 4 quarts milk, 12 slices of onion, 4 tablespoons flour, 2 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1 tea spoon pepper, 8 tablespoons of butter.

Simple Bridge Luncheon: Cream of potato soup, croutons, chicken yettrazina with peas, hot novel potatoes, hot buttered rolls, fruit salad with salt wafers, ice cream, coffee.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS, AND POEM

Dear Social Corner Members: I have been reading with considerable interest the questions and answers in The Bulletin each day concerning eastern Connecticut and the thought occurred to me that many members of the Corner might be able to add some worth while questions and answers to that list concerning the towns in this part of the state. I am sending a few with these which may be used if desired at any time they may be available.

I have noticed lately some of the sisters have been seeking poems. I would like to get the one entitled The House With a Broken Heart and would be grateful to any Corner member who would send it in for publication.

OLIVETTE.

A TOUR THROPGH NEW ENGLAND

Dear Corner Members: Some of the sisters have written very interesting letters about the trips they have taken which I have enjoyed reading.

I will try to tell of one hubby and I took a few weeks ago. We left Norwich by automobile on Saturday and joined others in Hartford. From there we drove to Northfield, Mass., and attended the C. E. conference both Saturday evening and Sunday morning, where we listened to some wonderful addresses. Sunday afternoon we started for the White mountains through Brattleboro and Bellows Falls, Vt., and on to Franklin, N. H., where we spent the night. In the morning we drove five miles to the Weirs and took a boat (Mt. Washington) for a five hour ride around Lake Winnipesaukee. There are 250 islands on the lake but we made only four stops. Some of the islands are just large enough for one cottage and lawn. Some contain several cottages—real summer resorts—while others are completely covered with pine trees. We stopped that night at North Woodstock at the foot hills of the mountains. In the morning we drove on to Franconia where some of the most impressive wonders are located.

First, we visited the flume. Twenty-five cents is charged at the entrance grounds. There are busses to carry tourists part way but we preferred walking so we might better have the benefit of the view. After walking one-half mile through dense woods of beech, birch and pine trees (many of them 50 or 60 feet tall) we reached the foot of the flume—a natural cut 15 or 20 feet wide with perpendicular rock on each side. There is a board walk against the ledge on one side, while the remainder of the cut is covered with smooth flat rock, with a stream of shallow water flowing down over it, from the mountains. At the terminal of the walk is a cave called the Cave of the Bears.

We then visited the Profile house. Many tourists from all over the United States were there to view the beautiful scenery which would be impossible to describe. The Old Man of the Mountain towers above on one side, while other mountains equally high form a great wall on the other side. The Old Man is a perfect profile of a man's face chiseled in the rock at the top of that immense peak. On some of the photographs for sale there was this motto.

Men hang out their signs indicative of their respective trades, shoemakers hang out a gigantic shoe; jewelers a gigantic watch; even the dentist hangs out a gold tooth; but up in the Franconia mountains God Almighty has hung out a sign to show that in New England He makes men.

D. WEBSTER.

The view from Mt. Washington whose height is 6,249 feet extends more than 100 miles in all directions and includes within the range of vision 23 other peaks whose elevation exceeds 4,000 feet. A short distance from the base of the mountain is the magnificent Mt. Washington hotel.

From there we drove to Crawford Notch, a New Hampshire state reservation, and down through the mountains where for 24 miles we enjoyed a wonderful scenic ride. The beauty and grandeur of the scenery was indescribable. That night we spent in Conway leaving the next morning for Fryeburg, Me., where we had breakfast. From there we started for Poland Springs. It was very interesting to watch the process of filling and capping the bottles of Poland Spring water that are sold at the rate of 10,000 per day. We left there for Augusta, a very beautiful structure. It poured all day but did not interfere with our plans. Our next stopping place was Falmouth. We spent the night at the Old Home house, a beautiful spot, right on the ocean. From there we drove down to Old Orchard and attended the Baptist conference at Ocean Grove spending that night at Newburyport.

In the morning we started for home by way of Boston and Providence after a delightful trip.

AUNTY NO. 1 TO HAVE PICNIC SEPT. 28

Dear Social Corner Members: After so long a time, I will try for a few words.

I have been asked by so many if I was going to have the picnic this year. I will answer by inviting you all to come here, the same place as last year, Wednesday, Sept. the 28th. If the day proves stormy come the next day. But we will hope for a pleasant day. All are invited to come Sisters bring your hubbys; brothers come and bring your better halves and your friends. Let us have all six clubs represented, and we'll have a good time.

AUNTY NO. 1

GOOD EGGLESS CAKE

Social Corner Editor and Sisters: Here is a good eggless cake recipe.

Good Eggless Cake: 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon cloves or allspice, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teapin tablespoon shortening, 5 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon vanilla or other flavoring if liked, or omit the spices in preference to flavoring.

Chocolate Frosting: 1 1-2 cup sugar, 3-4 cup milk, 2 squares unsweetened chocolate. Cook in small spider until quite thick then flavor with vanilla and cool both cake and frosting before putting together.

This cake and frosting are very good and help out when the hens are not laying enough eggs.

I wish all of the sisters good luck and a healthy winter.

Phuller Fun: Don't forget to write to me soon.

Good wishes to all.

TWILIGHT.

CLUB NO. 6 OMITS SEPTEMBER MEETING

Dear Social Corner Members: How lovely it has been to have a few pleasant days.

Blackeyed Susie: Congratulations.

Crimson Rambler: Suppose you have been entertaining a lot of company.

I will say here Club No. 6 will omit the September meeting as they did last year. There are so many fairs during the month, and the North Stonington Grange fair is the week our meeting would come in and a good many of our members will be busy there. In October we will start our indoor meetings again.

Dear Editor: Have been reading the Social Corner since it was first published and would like to join. Will sign my pen name as

A GOOD SCRUB SOAP

Dear Social Corner Members: A sister asked for a good scrub soap.

Take five pounds 2 ounces of clean grease or tallow, free from salt, melt in an ordinary pan or kettle and set aside to cool until lukewarm. While the grease is cooling dissolve the contents of a 1 pound can of soda, lye (sodium hydroxide, ordinary issue lye,) in 3 1-2 pints of cold water in an earthen vessel or pan; stir until all is dissolved. When the lye solution is cooled to about summer heat, pour it very slowly into the grease, not the grease into the lye, at the same time stirring until the lye and grease are thoroughly combined and become smooth and thick. (A period of five minutes is about the right time. If stirred for a longer period the ingredients will separate.) Now turn into a wooden box lined with calico. Cover up and set in a warm place, for a day or two, when it can be cut in any desired shape with thin twine.

After melting the grease or tallow over the fire, it must be allowed to cool until it is just warm to the hand. The solution of lye must be just luke warm. Be careful to stir the lye into the grease, and not the grease into the lye. If on examining the soap, it is streaky with greasy layers, it is not thoroughly combined with lye caused by improper stirring. Cut up, put all into a pan with one pint of water and boil until the soap is all melted and clear. Pour into a mound wrap it and set aside for 2 or 3 days. This formula will produce approximately 9 1-2 pounds of soap

Someone wanted to know how to "sweet pickle onions."

Here is a recipe that Halegonian's mother won first prize in gold in London, England for one jar. Take the smallest onions you can find, pour boiling water on them so they will peel easily. Make a brine of 2 quarts of water and 1 cup of salt, and pour over 6 quarts of onions Let them stand in this brine for three days and nights, making a fresh brine every morning and pouring off the old. On the fourth morning put them in fresh water and let them come to a boiling point, putting milk enough in the water to turn it white. (Do not let them boil.)

Drain and place them in a jar, pouring hot vinegar over them with sugar dissolved in it. I would have sent this in before, but I waited for some other sister to answer

CLUB NO. 5 OPENS SEASON

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Social Corner club No. 5's vacation days are over with much rain and some sunshine. The sports and pleasures of summertime have gone with the quickly passing days and we are now creeping into the early autumn time.

Our first Social Corner meeting was held September 7th at Buckingham Memorial. Entering the new year with backward glances, we reviewed the events of the past year and note with pleasure the well doing of Club No. 5 and look forward for the pleasures that await us in the coming months. The hearty greeting from those in attendance insured the success of the day.

Alta was in charge and with many willing helners proved the old saying "Many hands make light work." The dinner as usual was all that could be desired and with Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow ringing in our ears the midday meal was greatly enjoyed.

We missed the absent ones. Calamity Jane, entertainment director, was present.

The first on the programme was Duckey. In a very pleasing manner she presented a gift of money to Alta and with a few well chosen words of appreciation Alta thanked one and all for the thoughtful remembrance. After a social chat with much laughter and good humor the meeting was brought to a close. It had been an enjoyable day for all at Buckingham Memorial.

A GOOD CANNING HINT

Dear Social Corner Folks: The canning season is here again and many housewives are busy conserving fruits and vegetables for the winter season. If you have on hand more quart or half gallon jars, than pint ones when the latter are better suited to your present table needs, they may be utilized to good advantage in this way. When the jars are opened, use part of the contents, and recan the remaining half in an empty jar of smaller size. A few minutes. Reheating of canned fruits or tomatoes does not impair their quality in the least. As your pint jars get empty, fill them up again, and thus guard against waste of fruits canned in larger jars. This is a much better plan than to serve something too often and thus tire the appetites of your family.

Now, I must tell you that I attended the picnic on Thursday at the home of Moses and his wife. For a time it looked as though some of us who had planned to go would not get there but thanks to Mr. Buffalo, we arrived in time for dinner The weatherman did not see fit to give us a day to enjoy the beautiful out of doors, so we had a house party instead. The time passed pleasantly greeting old friends and new and a speaker for the afternoon instead of the usual roll call was a change enjoyed by all.

Twice Twenty: It didn't seem like a meeting of Club No. 4 not to see your smiling face.

Rural Aunty: How are you and have you made any johnny cakes lately?

PRIMROSE.

A GOOD SOAP

Dear Social Corner Members: What delightful weather we are having. Hope it will continue for a time. I am interested in the letters, but do not find it easy to write very often. In reply to a Corner Reader, will send a recipe for soap that I have used with good results. Take 5 pounds clean fat, put on back of stove and let warm, add 1 pint of water to 1 pound potash. In another vesse, mix 2 ounces borax with 1 pint water, when both are dissolved, put the borax water with the potash and stir together. When the fat is melted stir in the potash and borax water, stirring it all together about 15 or 20 minutes. Have ready a large dripping pan with a cloth or greased paper spread in it, than turn your soap into it, spread it out even, and when cool enough cut in cakes.

I recently heard of a novel way of using chewing gum. It often occurs in traveling that a cinder becomes embedded in the white of the eye. Take a stick of gum and chew until it is soft and smooth, then take the gum, first moistening the fingers to prevent its sticking and twist one end to a point and place it on the offending cinder. The eye being moist, the gum cannot stick or injure it, but it will collect and hold any foreign matter.

BUSY WITH QUILTS

Dear Social Corner Family: Don't we have rain aplenty? But I suppose it makes us appreciate all the more, the beautiful days we have in between.

I haven't taken any outings or vacation to write about, but had a delightful visit from children and grandchildren. I have tied five bedquilts this summer and next winter I expect to piece more.

Calla Lily: If you will tell me through the Corner, where to send a package, I will send a pair of dish towels to Club 2.

Aunt Susie: Guess I'll have to try making a clothespin doll.

Diana: I hope you are well as usual this summer.

Sympathy to the afflicted and best wishes to everybody from

A TRIP TO CAPE COD

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I am told that each new member is expected to write a letter, so that some might be interested in our trip to Cape Cod. Years ago, every summer I longed to go gipsying in a covered wagon, with tin pail and dish pan tied underneath, jogging along through quiet country janes. But times have changed and I'm quite content with the auto! But at last my dream came true and on a perfect morning, with congenial friends, we left home, our eats nicely packed in the carrier. Going to Saunderstown, across the ferries to Newport and on to Fall River. At South Mattapoiset we stopped to eat our dinner in a lovely spot under the trees. The hot clam chowder in our thermos jug was much enjoyed. The scenery all along was beatiful. At Monument beach we stopped beside the road, spread our blankets on the pine needles and all lay down to relax, which, by the way, is a good thing to do on a trip, as it helps to keep one fresh. There are acres and acres of pine woods on the cape, Falmouth was a place I had hoped to visit. They call it "down on the heel." At Mashpee we saw many Indians, and their cabins and wondered if it was a reservation. As we passed through Hyannis, Yarmouth and other places of course we pictured Joseph Lincoln and his interesting characters. Spent the first night at South Harwich and next morning drove down to the beach and never will I forget that breakfast, or that lovely beach, on a perfect morning. We spread our table cloth on and upturned boat, and with our canned heat we made coffee, cooked bacon and eggs, had fruit, cereal, bread and butter and the men even finished up on pie and cake! No breakfast ever tasted like that one! And as we ate we watched the few bathers, listened to the surf and thought what a wonderful world we have to live in, and how many blessings we have to enjoy. We all fell in love with Chatham, where we spent some time buying post cards, etc. Such lovely quaint old houses, shining in white paint, with dear little windows and old fashioned doors with lovely brass knockers. At Pleasant Bay we stopped to enjoy the scenery which is very beautiful with its old wind mills, then on to Provincetown. Such quaint, narrow streets, and little old houses! But the Portuguese have spoiled it. The tower of course is wonderful and the wonderful sand dunes a sight I shall never forget. We spent the night near Truro and some of the party went in bathing. Also visited Pilgrim heights, where the Pilgrims first landed—a very sightly place. Next morning started on the homeward journey, crossing the cape at Sagamore, beautiful scenery all the way. Stayed that night at Manemet. Next day visited Pymouth, the national monument, old cemetery, Pilgrims hall, so many interesting things to see, but had to get back that night, so reluctantly turned our backs upon a spot I hope the sister sisters will be able to visit some day.

We had perfect weather all the time until this side of Providence it rained a very little, but not enough to speak of. The trip was as near perfect as anything could be and we shall all live it over many, many times, and laugh over funny things that happened as they always do. That helps to make things interesting.

Was sorry to miss the picnic at Green Hill—forgot all about it till too late! Best wishes to all.

SOMETHING FOR THE COOKS

Dear Sisters: These recipes should interest many cooks.

Eggs on Surprise: Drain syrup from 1 can of apricots. To 2 cups of syrup add the juice of 2 oranges, 1 lemon and 1-2 cup of sugar. Set over a slow fire until hot. Put 2 level teaspoons of granulated gelatin in 1 cup cold water until gelatin is dissolved, strain through a cloth and combine with the hot mixture. Thoroughly blend them and set in cold water. While the mixture cools beat whites of three eggs until stiff and dry. When the syrup mixture is cool and begins to thicken add the egg whites and beat with the egg beater. Continue beating until the entire mass will hold its shape, as the white of the egg does when well beaten.

Macaroons: 1-2 pound almond paste, 3-8 pound confectioners sugar, 3 egg whites.

Work the almond paste with the sugar, then add gradually the egg whites, beaten stiff.

Drop on buttered pan and bake in slow oven from 15 to 20 minutes. Buy the almond paste at a confectioner's store.

Blackberry Jelly: Take equal parts of blackberries and tart apples, extract juice, by boiling, put through jelly bag boil 20 to 25 minutes. Add an equal amount of sugar, boil until its sets.

Blackberry Jam: Place 4 cups of whole blackberries in a preserving dish with the juice and grated rind of 2 lemons, and 3 1-4 cups, of sugar. Let set over n ight. The next day simmer slowly until thick, stirring as little as possible.

To Can Clams: Fill the glass jars with clams and run them over with the liquid. Put on rubber and top with only one clamp down. Then place jars in boiler with rack in bottom and cover an inch above the top of the jars with water. Let boil two hours and seal under water. I used a stick to put the second clamp down. Then take your cans out and place where no cold air can blow on them.

Salmon Tuba: 1 can salmon, 1-2 cup cream, 3 1-2 cups hot mashed potatoes. Season with 1-4 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs.

Mix salmon with 2 eggs and hot mashed potato. Now place in baking dish and brown in the oven. Crease top in squares and serve with white sauce or tomato sauce. I sometime serve this with sliced cucumbers and lemon juice.

ROUND ROBIN.

A MEMORABLE DAY

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: Wait till I tell you what happened to me yesterday (Sept. 1) as I was waiting at the home four corners. Along came a bus and stopped right beside us. Three ladies got off with arms full of bundles and came right up to me and wanted a ride without any fees. I took pity on them as it was in a pouring rain and drove them one mile to the end of the lane. They all got out, every one alive and stayed to dinner. Anything to eat? I should say we did have. There were beans from Buffalo which could not be beat, with three kinds of salads, meat loaf and cakes galore and pies, with coffee made by the hostess. The noise they made with laughing and talking was far reaching. There was a talk by Miss Stratten from Storrs and the things she said we will long remember.

After music and singing we all said good by and I propose three cheers for Social Corner No. 4. After having one of the best times of my life.

Will take for my pen nam.

FARMING IN INDIANA

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: In my last letter I referred to the many fields of shocked wheat and oats I saw in Indiana and Ohio. The work of the threshing machine was most interesting and illustrates how quickly the grain and the chaff are separated. As each bundle is dropped into the machine and through its own mechanical process from one side the wheat or oats falls into an open bag, which is secured into a fixed position, and when filled is removed and replaced by an empty bag. At the same time, the ground up waste substance is carried off through a long pipe or blower, as it is called, and drops into a big heap on the field some distance from the machine. My interest was attracted to large fields of growing red clover which is raised for the seed. It was very pretty to see the red blossoms just atop of their green stems and leaves, which made the two colors blend so perfectly, and over such large surfaces. I went into a dairy building, which was close to the railroad; here the farmers bring their cans of fresh milk, and after the process of testing and other requirements, it is poured into specially built tanks, into socalled milk cans, which are provided with their own refrigerator system. From this station of Akron, Indiana, the milk is shipped into Chicago, 80 mile distant and is one of the many sources from which the great metropolis of the west is supplied with milk. I enjoyed several nice auto rides and the roads are especially good, mostly straight for a long distance, and generally level surface Most of the farmers, have their names painted on their barns, and the year, (probably when it was built) also a name for the farm homestead. One home where I visited with friends, was called. The Box Alder farm and the house was built in 1860, which is spoken of with special interest, and is widely known as the "oldest" house anywhere in that vicinity. I was amused, but with due courtesy, I mentioned some of the "real" old houses, here in the east. One old gentleman 83 years old, who has lived his entire life, in northern Indiana, asked me how much wheat and oats were raised and shipped out of Connecticut. I told him that to my knowledge there was little or none. Then he wanted to know what we did with all our land, or what use it was put to. I explained that some of it was covered with many large buildings, such as factories and houses, that make up many of our cities and towns, which are located not far apart; on the other hand, there are certain parts of our state, where the land is so covered with rocks and boulders, above and below the surface, there is no practical use for it. However, I did explain, that the farming industry in Connecticut was carried on, but very small, compared to Indiana. The rocks and boulders are not known in that section, where I was a visitor, and those people have never seen them.

There was one beautiful lake, a few miles from there, and many pretty summer cottages built around it. Small boats, such as row boats, were the only water craft I saw. There were irrigation ditches, few and far between, with a little trickling brook, but aside from that, no rivers nor ponds. The hospitality of the people, as well as well as friends with whom I was visiting, was very noticeable to me, as a stranger, and much courtesy and respect shown to me I enjoyed every minute of my visit for the friends did so much for my pleasure and just before I came away, a special farewell dinner party was given in my honor. It was a beautiful day and the tables were set out under the big maple trees. We had 19 who partook of that bountiful supply, and nine more had been invited, but were unable to be present. We had our picture taken in a group and this is a pleasant reminder to me of the close of a perfect day.

MY TRIP TO QUEBEC

Dear Social Corner: Another recent trip I took was to Quebec, Canada. On a Saturday in July we started and went to Lowell, Mass., on a business trip, after which we decided to go on to the Wiers, N. H., staying in Franklin, Mass., for the night. On Sunday morning we stopped at the Weirs a short time, then started for the border, where we arrived about 5 p. m. After getting the necessary papers we went on stopping for the night at a hotel in Robertson, Canada. We were certainly glad to get indoors as the last hour was all thunder and lightning and it rained so hard that we could hardly see the road, and were both wishing we were back in Norwich. In the morning it was clear and colder and we went on past beautiful fields, with but a few trees and villages. The houses were mostly one story and a half with stoops running across the front, but no railing up. They had double windows, which they probably will need in the near future, as it must be very cold there. Finally we arrived in Levis, then took the ferry across to Quebec, where we took some sight-seeing trips. Had our dinner there also and then started on the return trip, stopping at Skowhegan, Me., over night on Monday. Then in the morning we started back having beautiful weather with so much to see, arriving home late Tuesday night and thinking that I had been away enough for one summer. The trip was a fine one, but we had too short a time to go so far. From Brunswick, Maine, we took Route 201 all the way up to Levis. It is mostly through the woods and so rather a lonely way, but the scenery is fine and would be lovely in the fall.

I will perhaps tell you about my other two trips a little later.

Wishing all the Social Corner sisters health and happiness.

RAIN

Dear Editor and Cornerites: This is the first day of September (my birthday,) so while it rains outside I'll be content and stay in and write to the dear old Corner page, (one of my chief delights), although no doubt many are complaining who are anticipating so much pleasure on this particular day. But what is the use of complaining, it does no good. The rain was a great mystery to the ancients. They could not understand how the water should get into the cloud, and getting there how it should come down in drops. If you cannot understand so minute a thing as a rain drop, how can you expect to understand God's dealings? Why question everything divine? It was not intended that we should understand it. If it were the All Wise Father would have furnished a key to it, and supplied us with the necessary intellect.

There is nothing more annoying than to have corn just planted rot in the ground, because of too much moisture, or hay just ready to be mowed, dashed by a shower, or wheat almost ready for the sickle spoiled by the rust. How hard it is to hear the agricultural disappointments! Sometimes it is too wet or too cold, too wet or too dry, too early or too late. They forget that He who promised seed time and harvest, summer and winter, cold and heat, also ordained all the climatic changes. Ah, my readers, there is only one Being that knows enough to provide the right kind of weather for his world. There is one question that ought to be written on every barn, on every fence, on every hay stack, and on every farmhouse, "Hath the rain no father?" This question is not asked by a scientist, but by the head of the universe.

Kenah Doolittle: I used to be acquainted with John Underwood a long time ago. He used to live in Andover, Mass.

Queen Marie: What has become of you? Why can't you write a little oftener? You know you are a good little writer, and can talk at the rate of a mile a minute.

SEEKING BOOZE AT A CLUB-ROOM LEADS TO TROUBLE AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 9—John Lorenz, United States Coast Guard, state pier, was presented on a charge of intoxication and breach of the peace. He was not penalized for judgment was suspended. Lorenz claimed to have gone to a Golden street club room for the purpose of purchasing a small flask of liquor. He said that when he entered the clubroom he tendered an employe a $2 bill for the whiskey, but instead of being given the liquor, Lorenz said that his money was retained by the man in charge. Lorenz was aggrieved, so went to police headquarters and made a complaint against the alleged liquor dispenser. Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolman William Riordan were sent to the club room with Lorenz, but there Lorenz was unable to identify the man who took his money. Lorenz left the building in advance of the officers and went to Bank street where he was accosted by a young man, said to be interested in the club room, who administered a beating to the sailor. The officers arrived at the corner of Bank and Golden street and observed the crowd gathered around the battlers. Lorenz was arrested, but his adversary had retreated when he caught sight of the officers approaching.

Brown went to the residence of Laura Fulford, colored, of North Bank street last night and there engaged in an altercation with the woman relative to a suit of clothes. The row ended when the Fulford woman induced Brown to accompany her to police headquarters that the controversy might be ended. Fulford was so noisy there that he was arrested. When Patrolman Riordan was taking Brown to the cell room, it is claimed, that Brown attacked the officer, who dealt Brown several blows on the head with his blackjack. Several lacerations of the scalp were dressed by a physician.

Two boys, one 16 and the other 17, one of them a student at Bulkeley high school, were arrested today by Sergeant John Cavanaugh, charged with the theft of five tires and tubes. The boys, however, will escape prosecution for the tire and tubes were taken from an automobile owned by the city of New London and City Manager William A. ANNOUNCEMENTS

Three more times today will be your chances of seeing one of the best shows that we have witnessed in many a day. If you miss seeing it, you will have yourself to blame. It is one of those shows that will leave an everlasting impression, you simply wont forget it for some time. The stage attractions are all that you could wish for. Lack of space makes it impossible to enumerate, but we will say a few words about the big feature act, Roderquez and Lilia and their Russian band. This act alone is worth twice the price of admission. A gorgeously set flash, with five remarkable string players and the dancing team is wonderful. Four other big acts are also featured. And now the big feature of the program, that of Rudolph Schildkraut in The Country Doctor, one of the most appealing pictures ever shown. It is bigger than Over the Hill, and you will love every minute of it. Pathos, heart interest, laughs, just the picture you've wanted to see for a long time, and you will want to see it over again. Remember today will be the last time you can see it. Don't miss it. For tomorrow night only a double feature program has been arranged with a variety of entertainment. Marie Prevost in Almost a Lady, is a farce comedy of a young girl who is a modiste's model posing as a celebrated authoress gets herself into all kinds of difficulties, even as far as meeting a supposed Duke, who in reality is a millionaire. There are lots of funny situations, just the kind we all enjoy. The added attraction Bob Custer in Terror of the Bar X is a real he man picture of the open spaces. The story of a cowboy hero battling against tremendous odds and unseen influences to win life and safety for the girl he loved.

Commencing Monday for three days another big combination show of five acts of vaudeville featuring Dance Maniacs; a cast of six dancing fools with a surrounding bill of hokum, novelty and what not. The feature screen attraction Reginald Denny in Fast and Furious, is a star Denny picture. A million laughs, hair raising speed and clean all the way through. You'll thoroughly enjoy this program.

Broadway Theater

Today ends the three day engagement of the supreme feature attraction of Jackie Coogan's career. The doors of the theater will be open at one o'clock and the performance will start at 1:30 and will run continuously from then on until 10:30.

Just as The Big Parade took the love of a boy and a girl, and surrounded it with the surge and thunder of war to achieve one of the epic dramas of the day, so has The Bugle Call, taken the problem of a child's life—of motherhood and stepmotherhood—and, with battle and spectacle surrounding it, gives an audience a glimpse into the heart of America's childhood.

This is what Jackie Coogan's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer vehicle has done—he has voiced the plea of the thousands of children with step-parents—and has given a solution to one of the nation's gravest problems.

It is all done in a sort of fairy story—a romatic tale of Indians and adventure now playing at the Broadway theater—but underneath the thrills, the spectacle, the adventure—and a great deal of comedy—there is a mighty lesson to American parents. It is a picture every father and mother should see.

Commencing tomorrow for three days the third big program since the opening of the beautiful new Broadway theater, will be ushered in big style Lillian Gish in Annie Laurie is a huge and compelling drama of the Highland clans. This picture was the featured hit at the Embassy theater, New York for 12 weeks during which time the theater did capacity business at all performances at a $2.20 admission. This picture will be presented to the Norwich public at regular prices.

Strand Theater

Sunday night, Bebe Daniels in Miss Brewster's Millions comes to the Strand. She had to squander a million in three months. Come and watch bewitching Bebe burn up the town. The biggest, fastest and funniest comedy Bebe has ever had.

Leo Maloney in Don Desperado. A western packed with punches. $57,000 has been stolen. Catch the black bandit.

Christ Episcopal Church

On Sunday at Christ Episcopal church J. H. Knecht's noted processional hymn, "O Jesus Thou art Standing," will be sung by the two vested choirs, with other special music which the organist, Mr. Pierce, has arranged for. The sermon will dwell upon the gospel for the 13th Sunday after Pentecost, "What Shall I Do to Inherit Eternal Life?" The vestments for the altar and priest will be a rich green embroidered in white and gold.

Christian Science Meeting

At Christian Science chapel, 215 Thayer building, Wednesday evening, 7:45. The reading room, 216 Thayer building is open every day except Sundays and legal holidays from 3 to 4:30 p. m.

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—(AP)—The stock market, having developed a top heavy speculative position as a result of the recent sustained advance, broke sharply today on selling believed to have been inspired largely by stiffer call money rates. Final quotations disclosed a rather long list of net declines of 1 to nearly 5 points, interspersed with a few substantial gains. Total sales ran well over two and one half million shares.

Banks called about $25,000,000 in loans, with the result that the call money rate was marked up to 4 per cent for the first time since the first week in August. There was no change in the other monetary accommodations, although the supplies available were not as large, probably due to expanding commercial demands and the increase of $22,241,000 in brokers' loans reported by the New York federal reserve bank, which are now at the record breaking total of $3,206,000,000.

Cotton broke $1.50 to $2 a bale, following yesterday's sensational advance as a result of the bullish government crop report. Wheat futures advanced about a cent a bushel on an improved export demand.

U. S. Steel common was again one of the individual features in the stock market, touching a new high record at 137 in the early afternoon, falling back to 153 in the selling wave which swept over the market in the last hour, and then snapping back to 154 1-4 for a net gain of 2 3-8 points on the day. General Motors issues each closed about a point lower, the old stock at 248 1-2 and the new at 124 5-8. Sharp recessions took place, however, in a number of other recent favorites such as Allied Chemical, Baldwin, International Harvester, Pittsburgh Coal, Timken Roller Bearing and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe.

While today's reaction was generally expected, some of the selling also was believed to have been stimulated by the disappointing showing made by the final July compilation of railroad returns and the decrease in steel production, compared with the corresponding period last year. However, an increase in the unfilled orders of the United States Steel corporation is looked for in the August tonnage statement to be made public at noon tomorrow.

The weekly mercantile reviews saw evidences of improvement in various lines of trade and industry. "Thus far," says Dun's, "trade gains have come gradually and irregularly, but no rapid expansion was anticipated, nor was it expected that all lines would go forward simultaneously." Bradstreet's reports that "receipt of a number of measures of movement for August seem to prove, as regards both wholesale and retail trade, that buying in both lines in August was in much greater volume than July."

There was little interest in the commodity markets, outside of cotton and grain. Coffee futures advanced moderately, but sugar prices were practically unchanged.

Profit-taking cut down part of the recent gain in Norwegian kroner, but the other foreign exchanges held fairly steady. Sterling Cables were quoted around $4.86 3-16 and the rate on Paris held steady just under 3.92 cents.

COUNTY BOYS AND GIRLS WIN PRIZES AT HARTFORD STATE FAIR

With the closing of the state fair at Hartford comes the anouncements of the winners in the various branches.

The 4-H club boys and girls of this county did especially well this year. Arnold Manning of the Lebanon Dairy club was placed second among the boys of the state in dairy judging. This entitles Arnold to a trip to the National Dairy show to be held at Memphis, Tenn. It also shows what can be accomplished by having the necessary sticktoativeness and an honest desire to win. Arnold has been trying for four years to make the trip to the National Dairy show and it has been only after much time and hard work that he has accomplished the goal. New London county wants more 4-H club members like Arnold Manning. He not only knows how to pick good dairy animals, but he owns one as is evidenced by the fact that his heifer won second money at Middlesex County fair and followed this by winning first place at the state fair. Arnold will show his animal at the Norwich fair this year.

Tryon Lathrop, a club boy from Montville, also has good dairy animals. Tryon showed at Middlesex County fair and took a first and a second on his two Jersey heifers. He followed this by doing the same thing at the state fair in Hartford. Tryon will also show at Norwich fair this year.

Stuart Babcock of Norwich displayed an outstanding exhibit of honey at the state fair and won nearly every prize offered.

Stuart won first prizes for the best ten jars of light amber colored honey, for the best ten jars of dark amber colored honey, for the best single section of amber comb honey, for the best exhibit of five sections light amber honey and for the best exhibit of five sections of amber colored honey. He also received one second prize for the best single section of light comb honey.

The Franklin Thimble Wearers Clothing club placed fourth with their exhibit of clothing; they were, however, competing with third and fourth year clubs.

Rose Narcross of Gales Ferry exhibited one of the ten best sewing kits for first year sewing club members.

Myrtice Coeman and Dorothy Baudro represented the Jolly Cookies and 50-ers at the state fair with a clothing demonstration. Ruth Henson and Mae Richmond of the Five Industrial canners from Stonington give a canning demonstration at the state fair.

Edna Lamb from the Franklin Thimble Wearers showed the interested people how to take stains out of and launder fabrics. Edna stayed and worked four days on this demonstration. The New London County 4-H club boys and girls will put on many exhibits and demonstrations at the Norwich fair.

TELLS NORWICH LIONS OF COMMERCE CHAMBER DEEDS

With the usual large attendance the Norwich Lions club held its weekly meeting Thursday noon at the Wauregan hotel with President William R. Frisbie in the chair. Louis M. Crandall was the speaker and he gave a very interesting account of the accomplishments of the Norwich chamber of commerce during the past few years. In his talk Mr. Crandall said:

One who takes the time to read the daily papers, or shows enough interest in his home town to attend chamber of commerce meetings or help in any of the many activities in which the chamber has been engaged, will know of many, many worthwhile things the chamber of commerce has accomplished. We all ought to feel sorry for the man living in our community who reads so little and knows so little about what is going on in our midst that he is constantly asking someone that question instead of wisely asking "What haven't they done?" It surely does show that the man who won't read is no better off than the one who can't read.

It would take a book to tell the complete story of the good work done by our chamber of commerce. I am for this reason naming just a few of the many things that I feel every wide-awake, intelligent person ought to know. Tell the story to the next person you meet if he happens to be broadcasting the idea that he, through lack of interest in community projects, does not know what is going on.

Here are a few of the hundreds of splendid things that your little band of public-spirited men have accomplished through the chamber of commerce during the history of this civic organization, and no one knows what the chamber may be called upon to do at almost any minute in the future. The special activities fund inaugurated this year will give all a chance to help this splendid work on as their means and desires may dictate.

It has secured industries and helped to hold many already here. Only recently through chamber of commerce efforts $50,000 was raised for the locating of a new machine shop in our community, which is now doing a nice business and another sum of money raised for the locating of another industry employing about 200 people. Its members helped to raise $75,000 which was required to build the Thermos Bottle plant and this organization contributed $750 in this subscription. This company has paid several million dollars to pay rolls into the city of Norwich.

Time and again it has brought speakers of national repute to address us upon perplexing problems.

The Building and Loan Association was established by the chamber and has always used the rooms of the chamber as its headquarters. The association's assets are now over $300,000 and it has done wonders in helping build homes and in encouraging thrift.

The chamber of commerce has supported worthwhile campaigns such as the Y. M. C. A. building fund, the New Nurses' Home building fund of the Backus hospital and the Boy Scouts, etc., and other worthy funds too numerous to mention. It inaugurated and raised the cash necessary to carry on the New London County Farm bureau and is helping New London county to save the New London County Fair grounds. Its committees after many meetings secured the deepening and widening of the Thames river, and the installing of the Great White Way, and a special radio broadcasting station for a few weeks. Last summer it arranged for a two weeks' outing in our city for 63 poor children from New York and other similar charities.

Through its efforts the Military Highway was built and later on $2,000 was raised by the chamber to purchase a right of way for improving this highway. It encouraged the program for better streets in our city, and helped in creating of sentiment that resulted in improving the roads leading into and out of Norwich. It helped in the forming of the Playground Association and in securing funds for that association. It has arranged for putting up Christmas trees and having band concerts. It assisted in securing a new boat line to New York, and bus lines to Mohegan park, helped in getting West Thames street widened, and cement roads put in, and assisted in the establishing of the credit rating bureau and in putting welcome signs at the entrance of our city.

Hundreds of times chamber delegates have been sent to state and national legislatures to prevent the passing of laws detrimental to our citizens. And on one occasion a whole train load of citizens was sent to Hartford and saved our fine town from being divided. It put on the Mohegan day celebration and put the Mohegan trail on the National Highway maps. It brought to us the U. S. Marine band which was greatly enjoyed by our citizens.

Its rooms are always open for committee meetings that have as their object the betterment of our fair city and is constantly distributing literature about our fair city and sending speakers to conventions to tell of Norwich.

When telephone conversation was opened up across the country, it secured 250 receivers at an evening dinner, when the leaders in the community were given an opportunity to listen in for over an hour to conversations, speeches and music all the way from Norwich to San Francisco. It put on a merchants' institute and secured wonderful speakers of broad experience in merchandising to help the merchants in their work. It encouraged the establishment of waiting rooms for buses and has put up road signs and advertised the city in many ways. It was this band of workers that put on the 250th anniversary, celebrating the founding of Norwich.

It helped in creating sentiment that resulted in securing tax map and zoning regulations and in erecting school and other fine buildings. It has kept fake advertising schemes and fake solicition out of our community and saved many thousands of dollars for our citizens.

It encouraged and helped secure the Fort Shantok park as a state park. Its war activities in home gardening and in money raising alone justify its entire existence—where could the individual live, except inside his own shell of indifference that he would be willing to advertise his ignorance of what is going on about him, by saying, "Tell me of one thing the chamber of commerce ever did?" or, "What are they doing?" The question asked, should be "What am I doing and what have I done for my home town that gives me all I have—why should I expect much of my home town and give little?"

These are only a few of the many things to be considered by the man that doesn't know of one thing that the chamber has ever done for his home town. If these facts save him the embarrassment of admitting that he might have been more interesting in his home town and more public spirited or more willing to be helpful in the community and in helping others or if it helps others to consider with charity his position, these thoughts will not have been expressed in vain.

NORWICH TOWN

All local organizations doing good in our town should be encouraged more, as they strive to do better—suppose we all try to help more and more and to criticise less—that is the real thing to do. That we may give no one cause to think or say that we have conscientiously desired to block the wheels of progress is one reason why these brief ideas should receive careful consideration.

Only a few days ago a leading citizen in a nearby city made this statement—to one of our real fellow workers. Was he talking about you—

"Norwich has more real earnest workers who are giving of their time and effort to its civic advancement than has any city in Connecticut. I congratulate you on your splendid civic spirit. No town can help feeling the effects of such united team work along its industrial, educational, commercial, spiritual lines."

This year's plan of the chamber will let you be one of those about which this statement was made—you can be known as a public spirited citizen, working for others, without the thought of "what do I get out of it." If you want to know what real happiness is learn to serve with patriotic enthusiasm and pride the city that gives you all you have. If anyone must be a sponge he ought to have someone encourage him to give little for his own good and for the good of the community.

Mr. Crandall was given a rising vote of thanks for his splendid talk. T club adopted a motion that copies the report be printed and distribu through the courtesy of the Lions cl

The club appointed Abner Schwa a delegate to the Lions club confere which is to be held in Boston, Se tember 15th. The international pre dent of the Lions clubs is to be speaker. An impromptu talk on w has been accomplished in the town Sprague with preventive dentisty the schools, there was given by Charles Solomon. The meeting clo in the usual form.

THUNDER STORM CAUSED THE PRIDE OF DETROIT TO LAND

Storm Prevented the Tokyo-Bound Fliers Seeing Across Bungo Channel, a 20-Mile Strait—Plane Was Forced Down at Omura Naval Airdrome at 5.45 p. m., Yesterday—Police Are Investigating the Landing Because the Fliers Landed Near the Fortified Zone—It is Now Believed the Flight Will End at Tokyo, as the Aviators Have Been Advised to Refrain From Attempting the Flight Across the Pacific.

TOKYO, Sept. 11—(AP)—Caught in a thunderstorm which prevented their seeing across Bungo channel, a 20-mile strait separating the island of Kiushiu from the province of Shikoku, on the island of the same name, the pilots of the Pride of Detroit, attempting a round-the-world flight, were forced to halt her scheduled Shanghai to Tokyo hop, and land at Omura naval airdrome near Nagasaki, at 5.45 p. m., today.

Dispatches received from Omura stated that the police had begun investigation of the landing, because the flyers landed near the fortified zone.

The flyers, Edward F. Schlee and William S. Brock, however, hoped when they landed that they would be able to resume the flight tomorrow. What effect the police investigation would have on their plans had not been learned here.

The plane landed at 5.45 p. m., about 100 miles from Kagoshima, which had reported it as passing over at 1.35 p. m., the course from Kagoshima to Tokyo would have necessitated flying northeast, but maneuvering during the storm evidently swept the plane far off its course, for Nagasaki is slightly west of north from Kagoshima.

In a statement to the press, Schlee, said the storm came up while they were crossing the prefecture of Mayazaki. Nevertheless they continued on the course until they approached the Bungo channel, which connects the Japanese inland sea with the Pacific, when they discovered that the weather was so thick that they could not see the opposite shore.

Rather than attempt a blind passage they determined to land at Tachiarai, but with their gasoline supply getting low from the struggle with the storm, they finally were obliged to find refuge at the naval airdrome.

J. V. Walker, Tokyo representative of the pair, and others have advised the aviators to refrain from attempting the flight across the Pacific. Consequently it is believed the flight will end at Tokyo although no indication to that effect has been made by the flyers.

COUPLE TO START OCEAN FLIGHT FROM TAMPA

TAMPA, Fla., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Still firm in their determination to span the Atlantic by air, Miss Ruth Elder and George Haldeman announced tonight that they would hop off at from here at dawn tomorrow in their Stinson-Detroiter monoplane, "American Girl," for Wheeling, W. Va., the last stop before Roosevelt field, N. Y., from which they expect to leave for Paris some time this month.

Criticism of trans-Atlantic flight attempts arising from recent disasters apparently had no effect on the pretty young aviatrix and her companion. she is determined to be the first woman to cross the Atlantic by air and says it will take "more than a few editorials" to discourage her. In fact, she made it plain that she will not be discouraged under any circumstances once the weather forecaster at Roosevelt field indicates favorable flying weather conditions.

Her companion, Handeman, co-pilot and navigator of the big monoplane, is equally optimistic and emphatically echoed the statements of the girl whom he taught to fly two years ago. He has confidence in her ability as a pilot, he said, and believes the trip from New York to Paris can be achieved in 34 hours by alternating at the control sticks with Miss Elder.

L. of N. Assembly Had Impressive Week

Has Established Faith in Its Future Serviceableness and Greatness.

GENEVA, Sept. 11—(AP)—The league of nations is in the process of evolution, but is far from being on the verge of a mortal malady—such is the view prevailing among the delegates of nearly 50 nations foregathered for the eighth assembly of the league, which has just concluded one of the most impressive weeks in its history.

In the various delegations men were heard to say that the addresses of Gustav Stresemann, M. Briand and Sir Austen Chamberlain had given the league just what it wanted—the breath of confidence, and what M. Briand termed a profession of faith in its future serviceableness and greatness.

It was remarked tonight that even Sir Austen Chamberlain, who has been accused of coldness towards the league as possibly taking on the attributes of a superstate, in a frank address telling of the international obligations of Great Britain could and could not undertake, had committed his country to a policy which would be ever in consonance with league ideas and had declared his conviction that no country could possibly withstand any moral adverse judgment which the league delivered against its policies.

The opinion heard generally is that the development of arbitration as a means of settling disputes will probably form the main channel of the league's immediate evolution.

Another impression created in the minds of observers is that the league, while legally an association of governments, is really an organization of world peoples and that public opinion which holds the league as a sacred, inviolate instrument of peace, will never allow their rulers to abandon the league.

The assembly commissions will, beginning tomorrow, take up in detail the problems of disarmament and arbitration, and later recommend resolutions. Present indications are that disarmament plans will be vigorously pushed on, with the United States collaborating in an eventual league preliminary conference.

UPPER CLASSES DYING OUT, LOWER CLASSES INCREASING

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 11—(AP)—The upper classes are rapidly dying out in the United States and the lower classes rapidly increasing, Dr. Ellsworth Huntington, research associate at Yale university, says in an article in the October Yale Review entitled "our biological future."

"In the past, at many periods, the upper classes have had at least as high a birth rate as the lower classes, and a lower death rate. Hence they have increased more rapidly than the lower classes. This appears to be the only healthful state of society," says Dr. Huntington. "Under such conditions the more competent parts of the community may not increase with any startling rapidity, and the lower classes may not die off, but the general balance is in favor of some gain, however slight, from one generation to another."

SEVEN WOMEN RESCUED BY A MOUNTED POLICEMAN

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(AP)—A mounted patrolman and his horse today were sharing the credit for a spectacular surf rescue, off Manhattan Beach in which seven women were brought ashore from a motorboat, stranded on a sand bar.

Members of a church club had chartered the powerboat for a "moonlight ride," last night and the craft was returning when it ran aground. Distress signals, sounded on the powerboat's siren brought police to the beach and a marine patrol boat.

When it was apparent that the patrol boat could not approach close enough to take the passengers off the stranded pleasure craft, Patrolman Howard McDonough, of the mounted division, spurred his horse through the surf, swam the animal alongside the boat, making seven trips and taking one of the women passengers each time.

BODY OF FORMER CONVICT FOUND FLOATING IN POND

MIDDLEBORO, Mass., Sept. 11—(AP)—The body of Charles Giovenetti, former convict for whom the police had been searching since he stabbed a 14 year old girl and her grandmother here last Wednesday, was found floating in Nevertouch pond today.

From the condition of the body found by boys today he apparently had run immediately to the pond and leaped in after stabbing Mrs. Beals' mother, Mrs. Carrie Pasquerelle and her daughter, Eleanor, 14, in an effort to make good his threat.

Mrs. Pasquerelle and the girl are still in a local hospital suffering from the knife wounds he inflicted.

C., in the heart of the Great Smoky mountains, reported that two balloons had been seen, but could not be identified. One was traveling toward Marion, N. C., it was said. Two hours later two bags passed over Marion, traveling south.

The United States army entry, piloted by Capt. W. E. Kepner, dropped low over Lenoir and landed his radio set with a parachute. A balloon, thought not to be one of those reporting in the western part of the state, passed over Durham, N. C., about six o'clock, traveling southward. Durham is 150 miles from any of the other points reporting and somewhat to the north.

SKILLFUL SAFE BURGLARS GOT ABOUT $2,000 IN DANBURY

DANBURY, Sept. 11—(AP)—Exhibiting every evidence of superior skill at the profession of "safe-cracking," burglars last night opened the safe of the Howorth, Snyder company on Main street and got away with between $1,500 and $2,000.

Entrance was through a second story window. One of the iron bars protecting the window was sawed off, as the men stood on the roof of an adjoining building, and two other bars were bent to permit passage of the men.

The bolts of the safe were drilled with an electric drill and the door then forced open with a large wrench. The wrench, drill and a pair of gloves were found beside the safe this morning.

The store, one of the largest here, is in almost the exact center of the business district, in a well-lighted and continually travelled section. The safe was at the rear of the main floor.

The remaining two-thirds of the cost and the maintenance will be by the state in connection with the normal school. The balance is applied to the floating indebtedness of the town. The bonds are issued in denominations of $1,000 each and are to be paid off at the rate of $10,000 a year for 27 years. The balance of $30,000 remaining at the end of that period will be paid at the rate of $15,000 on the 28th and 29th years. The first payment is due July 1, 1930. LAST SCENE FINISHED IN MOVING PICTURE "COMRADES"

The last scene for the movie picture "Comrades" was taken in Center Groton where an old church was used. Roswell Sawyer took the part of the minister dressed in an old style suit. With his white hair and book he played the part well. The women had hoop skirts as in 1860, with old time hats, etc. Bradley Barker made them put action into their parts. Miss Florence Fitzpatrick is also in the church scene; she did some good acting for the first time before a movie camera. The love scene was taken while about 25 autos with 125 people were looking on to see the movie people do their stuff. They received a big hand. The love scene was on an island one-fourth of a mile from the village, where Capt. Fred. Fitzpatrick, in his good ship Catherine, provided transportation to the island. He said it was a real love act. Now the picture part around the village is finished the actors and actresses have left for New York and to Boston. Keen Eyed Smith missed some hard shots, but Scorer William Crowell gave him 90 out of 100 shots. Then came Steady Aim Deveau, the small man from High street, looking over the rifles, taking the best one over the rifles. Taking the best one and holding it in his left hand. When Referee Harold C. Brown said start firing the small man with the steady aim was making the clay pigeons do the Charleston. The way they were falling on the ground he was doing some nice shooting and many times brought the crowd to their feet with the hard shots he was pulling off. The score was read 92 out of 100 shots, beating his rival Keen Eye Smith of the West Shore and winning the championship. His friends carried Deveau around the field for winning the match. He received a large loving cup given by the West View Rifle club. G. Smith received a sport sweater from the Golden Rod club, of which he is a member.

A. E. HALL IS DEFEATED IN DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 11—Selectman A. E. Hall, South Killingly, democratic member of the present board of selectmen, will not appear as a candidate for office as a regular nominee of his party at the annual town meeting on the first Monday in October. In a contest in the democratic caucus in the town hall Saturday afternoon he lost out to A. D. Sayles of East Killingly by a vote of 156 to 53. Mr. Sayles, though not a selectman of the town at present, has served in that capacity in the past for many years.

Mr. Hall's defeat for renomination has been forecast for some time by observers of things political. Mr. Sayles has been working for months to win a nomination and his success in interesting people in his candidacy was indicated some time ago by the number of applications to be enrolled on the democratic caucus list from the third district of the town, where he is a resident. Mr. Hall during his one year as a member of the board of selectmen has been an able official and his supporters, as well as many others, have only praise for him.

The caucus brought out an attendance in excess of 200 and was presided over by Patrick Riley as chairman and Albert J. Cavanagh of Dayville as clerk. Aside from the Sayles-Hall contest the caucus proceeded with no occurrences of special interest, and the complete ticket named is as follows: Assessor, for three years, James P. Aldrich; board of relief, Joseph Halle; selectmen, A. D. Sayles, J. H. Ryan, Dayville; agent town deposit fund, John W. Gallup, town clerk and treasurer, Frederick E. Bitgood; auditor, Miss Marguerite E. Dunn; collector of taxes, James R. Walsh; constables, Albert Moulin, Peter J. Stone, John H. Higgins, Charles H. Lambert; registrars, George Foster, A. J. Cavanagh, James P. Aldrich; town school committee, William A. Reddy, James Corcoran.

In view of the fact that James R. Walsh, now filling the office of tax collector, also has the nomination from the republican party as well as from his own party, he is assured of re-election. His splendid record in office has eliminated opposition to his candicay.

PLANE WRECKED IN TAKE-OFF AT DANIELSON

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 11—A combination of untoward circumstances practically ruined the program arranged for the aerial circus scheduled for Saturday and Sunday in Danielson. A few hours after the two planes that were to figure in the event circled over the central sections of the borough, shortly before 11 a. m. their silver wings gleaming in the brilliant sunlight and their motors purring perfectly, one of them was a wreck under a shed up on the Kimball farm at Wood's Hill, where the takeoffs were being made, and the other had hurried away with its pilot and owner, Alanson Colvin, to find another machine to take the place of the one that had met with misfortune. Then came rain today to utterly eliminate the final day's program.

In the early afternoon a brand new Curtis-motored Swallow plane owned and piloted by Charles Descomb of Hartford came to grief when its landing gear failed to clear a wall on the border of the aviation field. The wheels were ripped off and the plane nose-dived into the turf as a take-off was being attempted. A wing of the plane was crushed and the plane generally mussed up in the accident, which resulted in no injury of any consequence to either the pilot, Mr. Descomb, who sustained only a minor cut on one hand, or to Everett Kimball of Franklin street, Danielson, who happened to be a passenger in the plane at the time. The crowd assembled to watch the fliers rushed across the fields to the wrecked plane fearful that either pilot or passenger might be seriously injured, but this, happily, did not prove to be the case.

The accident, however, put a damper on the enthusiasm of the crowd for flying, at least for the time being. A little later in the afternoon the circus was called off for the day, and rain today made it impossible to continue it. Nevertheless arrangements will go forward for another similar demonstration to interest the people of Danielson and vicinity in aviation and in the development of a landing field. The Kimball farm offers one of the best locations in all southern New England for the development of an airport, and it is notw holly out of the realm of possibilities that it will be in the not distant future.

George H. Kimball, owner of the farm that includes the magnificent field, said Saturday that he has had conferences with borough officials relative to the development of an airport on his place and mentioned that Harry Generous of Hartford, as a state inspector, had gone over the field that very morning and approved it for use at the demonstration intended for Saturday and Sunday and declared its possibilities to be wonderful. The field is onyl four miles by road from the center of Danielson and but two miles away, slightly to the northwest, as planes fly cross country.

Of those who went to the field Saturday—and they were many—numbers had planned to have their first ride in a plane, but the accident upset all these plans. They will get their chance later.

A co-incidence relative to the wrecking of the Descomb plane was that two brothers of Everett Kimball, who was flying with Mr. Descomb—Arthur and Harvey—were in the air at the time flying with Lieut. "Bill" Wheatley, of the army service, in the Alanson Colvin plane.

Walter Anderson, former warden of Danielson, just returned from a trip through New York, New Jersey and into Pennsylvania, as a representative of the Jacobs Mfg. company of Danielson, reports that the textile business is improving through that territory, but more slowly than is the case in New England, where a revival seems well on its way. Mr. Anderson is much encouraged over the improvement in New England and anticipated that it will continue, which view is in accordance with what has been said in the past year by many prominent residents of this section of the country who are familiar with the great industry—"You can't drive New England with its wealth, experience, adaptability and its highly skilled executives and operatives out of the textile field."

Relatives and friends to the number of nearly 300 assembled at the Dayville hotel this afternoon for the wedding of Miss Bessie Evergates of Danielson, sister of the owners of the hotel and of the Puritan restaurant here, and James Skouras, proprietor of a chain of restaurants and with his headquarters in Providence. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. Stefanos, pastor of the Greek Orthodox church in Danielson. S. C. BURDICK FALLS DEAD WHILE SITTING ON THE PORCH

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 11—While on the front, 29 Mechanic street, Pawcatuck, about noon time and during the severest part of the thunderstorm, Stephen C. Burdick, an aged Civil war veteran fell dead to the piazza floor from the chair in which he was seated. He is survived by his wife and a son, now away on a vacation.

Medical Examiner Dr. William H. Gray was called from Mystic and pronounced death due to heart trouble and cardiac asthma. The body was taken to an undertaker's in Westerly.

Rain fell in torrents in Westerly Sunday and water courses and gutters became raging torrents. Saturday night just before 11 rain began falling and continued until morning when there was some let-up but shortly before noon the frequent showers resembled cloudbursts. Some of the rain was accompanied by thunder and lightning. Shortly before 2 p. m. the sky cleared and the sun shone forth.

A portion of the storm clouds returned about 5 p. m. with thunder and lightning but only for a few minutes for the sun again shone through the rain and a wide-banded rainbow appeared in the black clouds to the east. During some of the dark shower periods auto headlights were glowing and railroad signal lights were lighted.

The proposed new fire alarm siren, operated by compressed air, was given a tryout Sunday morning by Fire Chief George E. Egger at the Coduri stone cutting plant on Oak street. Under unfavorable weather conditions the whistle could barely be heard in some parts of the town and it is thought that a larger whistle may be necessary.

Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown and Fire Chief George E. Egger investigated a fire of suspicious origin which started about 3.30 p. m. in the basement of the barn at the rear of the residence of Albert H. Langworthy, junction of Elm and School streets. It was their opinion that the fires which started in three different places were the work of children. William S. Maggs, landscape gardener, who keeps some of his tools in the barn discovered smoke coming from the barn and sent Hiram Tarbox for a pail of water, with which the blaze was extinguished. He then notified the authorities.

Albert H. Langworthy and family, occupants of the house, are at their summer home at Weekapaug.

The Interrupted Supper

Where'er a little eBar you see Where'er a little Bear you see
—Old Mother Nature.

Farmer Brown's Boy, Farmer Brown and Mother Brown were eating supper. Farmer Brown was listening to the story of how Cubby, the little pet Bear, had disappeared. You know, early that afternoon Farmer Brown's Boy had left him up in his favorite tree for a few minutes. He was gone only a few minutes, but in that few minutes Cubby had disappeared.

"I don't see where he could have gone to," said Farmer Brown's Boy. "I've hunted everywhere I can think of."

"Did you look all through the barn?" inquired Farmer Brown.

"From top to bottom and even underneath it," replied Farmer Brown's Boy. "I've looked into and under everything a Bear could get into or under. I don't believe there's a hiding place in or around these buildings that I haven't looked into. It looks to me as if Cubby has left us."

"Probably he got tired of our society and has gone back to the Green Forest to join his mother," said Farmer Brown.

"I don't believe it," declared Mother Brown. "You mark my words, that Bear will turn up yet. And when he does, he'll be in mischief. My land, think of all the mischief he's been in already, and we've had him only a little while! I feel it in my bones that he isn't far away."

Farmer Brown's Boy began to chuckle. "Considering the length of time he was with us, he did keep us fairly busy," said he. "I can see him now, covered with sour milk and flour, and I can see the look on Mother's face when he dodged out of the pantry door."

"Yes, and I can see the look on your face as you came in from the barn after the cow kicked the pail of milk all over you because that Cub had given her a scare," replied Mother Brown. "It is because of those very scrapes that I have the feeling that we haven't heard the last of that Cub yet. It wouldn't surprise me a bit, not a bit, to have him drop right down through the ceiling. Living with a Bear cub is a good deal like living on the edge of a volcano that may erupt any minute; it is interesting, but uncertain. Hark!"

"I don't hear anything," said Farmer Brown's Boy after a minute. "I guess that Cub has got on your nerves."

"I guess he has," admitted Mother Brown. "Just the same, I'm sure I heard a noise somewhere. I couldn't quite make out where it was."

"In your imagination, I guess, Mother," said Farmer Brown. "Please pass"

What Farmer Brown wanted passed, Mother Brown never did find out, for just at that very instant there was a crash and a sound of broken glass. It brought all three to their feet.

"It's that Cub! I know it! It's that Cub!" exclaimed Mother Brown. "He's in my preserves down cellar."

Meanwhile Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy had started for the cellar door

Meanwhile, Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy had started for the cellar door, for there was no doubt but that crash had come from down in that cellar.

CROSSING REMOVALS

Not so long ago the state of New York was rushed into the authorization of a $300,000,000 bond issue for the purpose of eliminating grade crossings. It was considered that the right solution had been obtained and that crossing deaths would be quickly stopped, but the scheme hasn't worked and now New York's governor is much exercised to know the reason why. He sponsored the scheme for putting a large financial burden upon the state, small towns and railroads and now finds it hasn't worked.

One of the explanations is that the small towns have not been able to stand the one quarter of the expense of crossing eliminations as provided for and their participation was necessary before any headway could be made. Now it is proposed that this burden be shifted from the towns to the county and it is not improbable that this will result.

But in all of the schemes for relieving the conditions at the railroad crossings New York's governor apparently ignored the fact that most of the crossing accidents are needless. They can and should be prevented by those who participate in them, and that protection is to be had without burdening the small towns, the counties, the state or the railroad companies with outlays of hundreds of millions which will in no degree increase the care that is used in the highways by the heedless drivers.

Crossing deaths which run into large numbers each year are preventable. No driver is required to put himself in front of a locomotive or to crash into a train. Each and every one gets warning that there is a railroad crossing ahead. That is reason enough to be cautious, but in addition there are signals, signs and obstructions established to encourage safety and it is through the inclination to ignore such and to invite trouble by tempting fate that most of the crossing accidents occur.

Unquestionably there are many of the much used crossings that ought to go. Some may not be getting as good protection as they should, but just as long as there is that recklessness on the highways that is responsible for crossing accidents it can be expected that fatalities will occur. Crossing elimination will not make drivers any more careful, while it will mean just one less reason to be careful.

THE SOUTH DAKOTA VISIT

From the statement which he made to the people of South Dakota, President Coolidge showed that he had thoroughly enjoyed his vacation and he received plenty of evidence to the effect that the South Dakotans had enjoyed having him and his family there.

It was the first time that a president, in recent years at least, had selected a summer capital in the west and yet it was deemed entirely feasible under present day conditions for a president to be located at such a distance from Washington and there has been no indication but what the arrangement came up to all expectations.

The president has had a chance to see a part of the country with which he was not particularly acquainted, to come in contact with those who seldom see a president and to get in touch with conditions and sentiment prevalent in that section. South Dakota has recognized the honor conferred upon it by the president and has repeatedly demonstrated its enthusiasm; it has found that the president is a real man conscientiously filling a highly responsible office and it has had a chance to realize in some degree the character of his duties even during a vacation period.

The west has shown that it was as proud to entertain as the east has ever been, and it has undoubtedly been much encouraged by the opportunity given to it to present its problems and to seek to bring about a better understanding through a closer contact and personal presentation. The summer the president spent in the Black Hills will be a date by which events will be figured in that region while back in Washington the president is certain to have keen appreciation of the beneficial visit in the northwest and feel better fitted to face the arduous tasks connected with his office. The visit in the west indicates that it may be the first of many presidential vacations in that part of the country.

A HAZY OUTLOOK

No good reason has been disclosed of late as to why there is ground for thinking an adjustment of the Tacna-Arica situation is possible, but a Washington report gives that impression and indicates that the chance of Chile and Peru coming to a satisfactory understanding is such that there is a plan underway to ask President Coolidge to withdraw as arbitrator.

It is realized, of course, that no success attended the efforts of this country which was interested only to the extent of seeing a long standing dispute brought to an end and seeing neighboring countries in a peaceful attitude instead of being ready to fly at each other's throats. It was hoped that there would be sufficient cooperation on the part of the respective nations to permit of a satisfactory adjustment, and that they would realize the advantage to be gained by healing the age old strife.

Such failed to result. What was favorable to one country was unfavorable to the other. Each was constantly mindful of how the other was going to benefit without regard for the sacrifices that were necessary in order to reach an agreement. This country expected nothing for its efforts. It was mindful of the difficulties involved and it has since been made aware of the lack of gratitude for the conscientious and disinterested efforts it made. Its experience has been such that it has been frequently wished no attempt was made to replace strife with harmony, for instead of getting cooperation and assistance it experienced only handicaps and opposition.

The indication has been given that the two countries do not want to come to an understanding, that they don't want to shake hands and be friends but prefer to maintain an old quarrel over some territory which doesn't appear to be worth a fight, but which really ought to be divided and a part of it sold or given to Bolivia that it might have access to the sea. If they do come to an agreement between themselves, the outlook for which seems hazy, the work of the United States must have had some good effects.

TONIGHT'S CAUCUS

Tonight the republicans of Norwich will assemble in town hall for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates for town offices to be voted upon next month.

Because of the excellent manner in which the town affairs have been administered for a number of years it has not only given the republicans pleasure in placing their candidates in nomination but the voters of the town have felt grateful for the opportunity of supporting them. Good government cannot fail to win a gracious response from the people.

For that reason there should be an enthusiastic gathering of republicans at tonight's caucus. There is no contest to encourage attendance but there is a chance for showing appreciation of the fact that the town affairs have been capably administered and as a slight manifestation of appreciation it is time to let it be known that its continuance is desired and that there is a determination to see that such a continuance will be assured on election day.

The caucus marks the beginning of the campaign. It is a responsible preliminary and those directly or indirectly concerned in the town government should be eager to give it the proper send off.

Norwich has realized the desirability of maintaining efficient public servants in town offices for many years. It is none the less cognizant of that need. The demand for it is as great as ever and the republicans can be relied upon to meet such a demand by their action tonight, when most of the candidates promise to be renominations. Such being a desirable object, it should be done by as large a number as possible.

FINGERPRINTING

Cases are constantly developing of persons who cannot be identified because they have been stricken by disease or death and there is nothing to reveal their names or their places of residence. Within a few days a man who has been suffering from amnesia was found to belong in Philadelphia, but it required a long time to establish the fact and then only because he was recognized by a Philadelphia hospital nurse whose attention had been attracted by the widespread efforts to find out his name.

If it were so that all persons were fingerprinted there would be little chance of a person not being identified. It provides a positive means of disclosing identity, whether it is a case of a sick person or an impersonator. It is a method which prevents the distressing mixup of children in hospitals.

It is unfortunate that so much opposition to fingerprinting has arisen just because it is used in running down and identifying criminals. There is nothing objectionable to it in itself. There is no reflection on a person because his safety, his identity or his signature are insured through fingerprinting. It is a protection which he may well seek against the many uncertainties of life and there can be no question but what much trouble would be avoided if there was a general practice of fingerprinting. The advantages of it ought to break down the baseless prejudice against it.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Wash plants thoroughly to drive away red spiders.

Corn and peas should be strictly fresh for canning.

Turn rugs around often to make them wear evenly.

Porcelain kettles are the best to use for preserving.

To clean bone knife handles rub with salt and lemon.

Flowers will keep well if the stems are placed in wet sand.

A piece of fine chain will clean narrow necked bottles.

Day-old bread makes the best toast.

Soak a ham over night before boiling it.

Too much shortening will make bread heavy.

Sprinkle shredded cocoanut over cup custards.

Sour milk, or cream, makes delicious biscuits.

Cauliflower is delicious served with a little curry powder in the cream dressing.

Instead of brushing velvet, wipe it with a slightly damp cloth and it will look like new.

In the summer, dropped cookies are easy to make and are more tender than rolled ones.

Hardwood ashes are good for violets and roses.

As odors rise to the top keep butter, milk and eggs on the bottom shelf of the refrigerator.

Dip black lace in black tea to give it a new look.

Cook enough potatoes for two meals and escallop the left-overs, or serve them au gratin.

Rugs in constant use should be turned around every six months, so they will wear evenly.

GREEN CASINGS

Painting window casings and gables of a gray cottage green is the suggestion of one who did. Moss green was the color used, and it was said that it blended nicely with the curtains and shades, eliminated the usual black sash tracing and produced a pleasing color contrast.

SAVES TIME AND STEPS

Time and steps may be saved by keeping a large aluminum salt shaker in a convenient place. This is very handy in making any of the dishes that require these three articles.

NEW APPLE PIE

It is usually such a chore to prepare the early, small apples that any method of preparing them which is easier is welcomed. In the making of pies one can simply quarter, core and, of course, remove any spots in the early apples. Then slice the quarters very thinly as this helps to disguise the fact that the skins are all left on. Complete the pie in your family's favored way and they will not be disappointed in the result.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

If the invalid dislikes the flavor of beef extract, add a teaspoon or more to a cup of hot milk. The extract will be disguised by the milk and yet the strength will be imported to the sick person.

The belief that certain foods "stir up the liver" and are therefore beneficial, probably is due to the fact that when one eats spinach, onions, rhubarb, and similar foods, the effect is mildly laxative. Many ills ascribed to the liver really are de to intestinal disturbances which could be avoided if the diet were well chosen.

Milk, vegetables and fruit are most helpful in increasing what physicians call alkaline reserve in the human system. Most of these are acid when eaten, but this acid is in a form which is burned in the body and releases the alkaline substances held in combination. Bananas are especially valuable for increasing the alkaline reserve.

CLEAN GLASSES

Clean glasses mean a lot to the person with poor eyesight. A small bottle containing half ammonia and half water is a convenience, as a drop or two on a clean cloth will make them shine.

SHRUBS IN YARD SHOULD HARMONIZE WITH HOME

In considering shrubs to be planted in the front yard, there is a very large variety to select from.

The purpose of such planting is first to "tie the house to the ground," and next to mark the boundaries of the lot. Not all houses need planting about the foundation to make them look as though they grew there, but most do.

This planting must be adapted to the architecture. It may be continuous, that is, unbroken, so that the foundation is nowhere visible, or it may consist of groups of shrubs at the corners and angles. The problem is very much like that of designing a lady's hat. The idea is to produce a decoration which will harmonize with and set off the lines of the house, as a hat harmonizes with the face and emphasizes its wearer's beauty.

The planting must be considered for its contour or elevation and its plan or area occupied on the ground. Since one cannot change plantings with the season as one changes hats, the effect in all seasons of the year should be considered. This will require chiefly a study of flowering seasons, and fruit, bark and foliage effects.

OLD STOCKINGS

If you expect to move, save your old stockings to wrap the legs of the prized chairs and tables. They will not tear like paper and yet are easily manipulated.

FRESH VEGETABLES

Spinach, cabbage, beans, peas, and other fresh vegetables lose much of their vitamine value if cooked too long. A few minutes suffices for them all.

DICTATES OF FASHION

The most natural looking pond lilies are now worn on the shoulder of frocks, and sport clothes and coats.

An orange velvet coat worn over a light amber crepe de chine dress has much to command it in the way of chic.

Such a saucy little hat is a new imported felt that has a seam down the middle, a divided brim, and a circular pin to give a finishing touch.

A most attractive bath robe seen recently was made of French flannel with wide stripes that blended into each other. The coloring was particularly soft.

An exquisite shade of violet crepe de chine is used in some of the new underwear that is trimmed with bands of the same material covered with hand-made openwork dots.

No evening coat is as new as the redingote. One interpreted in green velvet takes gold braid for its tiny standing collar and outlining the flare.

A stunning black kasha dress with a touch of cream at the throat takes the pin-tucked road to chic by having almost an all-over geometric design made by pin tucks.

Each autumn there is a revival of interest in brown and this year is no exception to the general rule. Several beautiful shades are shown, one called "Buddha brown" and another "leafwood brown."

FOR THE SMART JACKET

The fashionable loose fit of the cardigan jacket should never be allowed to degenerate into a slouch. To guard against this, a rhinestone shoulder-pin clasps it firmly to the blouse beneath it, keeping the set of the shoulders square and preventing sagging around the bottom.

ONE OF THE NEWEST

The heavy rich yellow gold suggestive of the precious metals and stones of the jungles is still holding its own. A golden bracelet designed by Worth is one of the newest of the golden pieces. It is formed of metal squares joined by wire in a slightly diagonal line. There are four rows of these squares, making the bracelet almost two inches wide.

MAKE IT MATCH ALL FROCKS

If you hand your natural ballbunt hat with four tiny ribbon bands, all different pastel shades, it will match any and all of your summer frocks. Harmonizing cool shades of blue, yellow, green and pink are not too many different ones. If the hat has a black band on it now, it can be freshened for the rest of the season by a change to the multicolored bands.

VOGUE FOR PEARLS CONTINUES

If you are wondering whether the vogue for pearls is diminishing—let the new 90-inch strands tell the story. They reach nearly to the bottom of the hemline when worn in single loop as they were when introduced in Paris. They are more often looped three or four times around the throat.

LAUNDRY HINTS

Stockings should be hung by the toes for drying, in order to prevent their being pulled out of shape. Light shades should be dried in the shade.

Stockings washed immediately upon being removed from the feet will give better service than if the perspiration is allowed to remain in them, rotting the fabric. White shockings should be dried in the dark to avoid turning yellow.

Stains on washable materials from tomato vines sometimes can be removed by rubbing with lemon juice and exposing to the sun for several days. Wood alcohol may be used on wool or silk.

Bluing water should be made just before it is used. If allowed to stand, it is likely to streak the clothes. Shade tests are made by dipping a small garment and then holding it to the light, or by holding a little of the water in the hollow of the hand. Heavy fabrics require more bluing than thin ones. All bluing should be stirred occasionally while in use. Only a few pieces are blued at a time, and are not left to soak in the bluing water.

REMOVING MILDEW

Mildew spots are growths of molds on fabrics that have remained damp for at time. If allowed to continue, the fibres of the material will be attacked and destroyed. The spots must be treated when fresh if injury is to be avoided. Soap and water, followed by drying in the sun, often will be sufficient. Sour milk, lemon juice, and javelle water sometimes may be used on white, washable materials, but the last never should be used on silk or wool.

BETTER LIGHT

Don't forget to wipe off the electric light bulbs carefully every so often with a damp cloth. You will get all the light you are paying for if the globes are clean.

INDIVIDUAL SHORTCAKES

Pancakes and waffles make lovely individual shortcakes. Use layers of cake with crushed berries or fruits between and on top. Garnish with whipped cream.

A NEW CARROT DISH

The entire food value of fresh carrots may be preserved by serving them raw, grated and covered with a hot cream sauce.

BATH FOR SOILED JEWELRY

How often we see soiled neckchains and bracelets, resulting in ugly marks on necks and arms. Give them a bath occasionally in baking soda and water, rinsing and drying carefully after the bath.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Approximately one-fifth of the gainfully employed population of the United States is made up of women.

The first Christian college for women in Asia was founded by Isabella Thoburn of the Methodist mission at Lucknow.

Telephone girls in Holland are to be instructed in elocution, on the theory that clear enunciations will render their work lighter.

Madame Frances Alda, the celebrated operatic soprano, has sailed for a tour of Australia, whence she left as an unknown music student in 1905.

Besides taking care of her household duties, Mrs. James Harkin, of Clarksburg, Mich., walks 12 miles a day to serve as a school house janitoress.

It is estimated that people in British Columbia marry at a high age than in any other part of the world, the average being 32 for men and 27 for women.

Miss Pattie Field, of Denver, Col., was the first American woman to hold a vice consulate position. She has been located at Amsterdam, Holland, for the past two years.

REMOVE FISH BONES

If the bones of a fish are removed before it is cooked, it will be well worth the extra work when one eats it. Fish should be served at least once a week.

STAINED ASH TRAYS

Apply a little denatured alcohol with a brush to the dark stains which cigarettes make on copper and brass ash trays and the stains will disappear immediately.

RECIPES

Ice Cream Cake: Cream half a cup of butter. Add gradually one cup of fine granulated sugar, then alternately half a cup of milk and one cup of flour and half a cup of cornstarch sifted with four level teaspoons of baking powder. Lastly, add the stiffly beaten whites of four eggs. Bake in a sheet, cover with confectioner's or boiled frosting and sprinkle with chopped pistachio nuts.

Pineapple Mousse: Two cups crushed pineapple, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 tablespoons gelatin, 1-4 cup water, 1 cup sugar, 1 pint evaporated milk, 1 pint whipping cream, a few grains salt.

Soften gelatin in the cold water for about five minutes, then dissolve in crushed pineapple that has been heated. Add sugar, lemon juice and salt. Combine evaporated milk and cream and chill thoroughly. Whip until stiff, then fold into the pineapple-gelatin mixture. Pour into molds and bury in equal parts of salt and ice. Let stand three hours. This amount will make 2 1-2 quarts mousse.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Picking Town Officials

Mr. Editor: Now that the open season is on for shooting at local politics and politicians the more or less hectic season of caucuses and elections, I would like to offer a few mild and maybe more or less sarcastic ideas depending on how seriously you take your yearly dose of political bunk. We have a literary and intelligence test for would-be emigrants from abroad, we have a similar test for would-be citizens and then another for would-be voters. We test our auto drivers and applicants for hunting and fishing licenses, or should do so. (I know one holder of a hunting license that claimed it gave him permission and a right to hunt and go on any man's land.) We test 'em for almost everything but the intelligence and education" to hold public office. I know of a case where a man was nominated for town clerk who could not read or write, but he was a good party worker and a member of a secret society. Assessors of taxes are often men who never did, never will and never ought to own an inch of property, unless they get it as they get automobiles. A little deposit and a few payments and then let them take it back and get another one from another dealer. Auditors are sometimes chosen, or chose themselves because they want political prestige or because they are good fellows in their own crowd and will sign or do anything the bosses tell them to and as a result we have town reports that are a joke.

I know of one town report that even stretched the calendar, according to the best authorities on the subject, including the Farmers Almanac, "Old Moore," and quite a few others there are 52 weeks in one year. This town report as compiled by the town clerk and acceded to by the selectmen and auditors clamis there are 53 and in some cases 54 weeks in one year, at least they report paying a weekly salary to a man 53 times and showing 5 and even six quarters to the year, whereas the best minds concede that you can't divide anything into more than four equal quarters.

Old Cap Collier wrote some good stories and Hans Anderson wrote some good fairy tales, but they missed out in their life work, they should have had the job of compiling town reports and other political stuff. But I still insist that town officers should be able to count up to more than ten and that auditors should audit and at least see that their figures tally, and that assessors of taxes should know something of the values of properties and not just tax them according to what they are (politically, nationally, religiously or the color of their wife's hair). But I suppose it always was so and always will be so what's the use? But I really can't see the use of having a town full of schools if the men running the town can't, or won't figure according to the books on mathematics.

A Lucky Break

The dinner menu of the family included corn on the cob, considered a delicacy by the younger member, a husky ten year old. As luck would have it sister was going out for dinner, and so when the call to "come and get it" was sounded, she was upstairs dressing.

"Hey, Sis, come down," the youngster said as he gave his contrary hair a pat in front of the mirror.

"No. I'm having dinner downtown," she answered.

"Are you? Hot dog! Can I have part of your corn?" he asked excitedly.

Height of Self-Complacency

Self conplacency, to a marked degree, was shown by a woman who, when asked whether her child was more like his father or mother, replied, "Oh, he's more like me. But I rather think it's a pretty good thing, for I don't see that I can complain of myself any."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, who "would be glad to accept the republican nomination for the presidency in 1928," has been active in republican politics for 35 years. In 1894 he entered congress, then skipped a term, and in 1898 returned to stay in the house until 1906, during which time he was a member of important committees and a staunch adherent of the party of the "Old Guard," when it was under fire from the "progressive" republicans. In 1916 he reappeared as a prominent figure in Indiana politics, the wave of radicalism which he had opposed having receded; he won the republican nomination for United States senator and was elected. Senator Watson is known in Washington as a man of positive opinions, bold utterance of them, and a partisan with little sympathy for independents.

YOUR HEALTH

REGULAR MEDICINE AND THE PUBLIC

By Caryl Potter, M. D., St. Joseph, Mo. Member Gorgas Memorial

Medicine is a combined science and art. As a science it is classified medical knowledge. Anatomy, physiology and pathology are the three fundamental medical sciences. The first investigates and describes accurately the component parts of the body. The second deals with the normal function of these parts, and the third shows their abnormal deviation under the ravages of disease.

Through years of research and study by trained minds it has been found that the human body in health and disease has so many structural and functional complications that these three fundamental sciences have undergone subdivisions; anatomy thereby falling into gross anatomy, or the structure revealed to the naked eye, and histology, that observed by means of the microscope. In physiology the body not only has normal functions that can be investigated by instruments of precision, but the building up and breaking down of the cell in the various metabolic processes involves the secretion and excretion of so many solids, liquids and gases that chemistry is the predisposing factor in all normal physiological action. Therefore, physiology has been separated into physiology and physiological chemistry. Just as anatomy deals with bodily structure in health, so pathology deals with it in disease. Under the attack of bacteria and diseases of unknown origin such invasions and inroads are made unon normal cell life and gross anatomical structure that an entirely new picture presents itself in the gross and microscopic appearance of the organ or organs attacked. Therefore, this science naturally falls into three groups; bacteriology, and gross and microscopic pathology.

That these fundamental sciences and the higher medical branches may be properly studied, a trained mind is required since it easily grasps known truths and investigates the unknown. A preliminary education is absolutely essential for the medical student because there is no other science in which the truths are more complicated or the unsolved problems more numerous. First, there should be a grammar and high school course, then at least two years in a college or university, or, if possible, a scientific degree.

A preliminary preparation and mastery of the three fundamental branches are necessary before commencing the study of higher branches of medicine and surgery with the practical application of medical and surgical treatment. This leads to my second topic, the art of medicine, which is nothing but the every day use of methods of study and training in diagnosing and treating disease, in order that human ailments with their attending disabilities and distress may be relieved.

Owing to the various forms of drugless healing, confusion has arisen in the administration of the medical practice laws, through misconceptions of what is meant by this simple term, practice of medicine.

It is evident that anyone who is to treat human disorders, regardless of the method used, should have a knowledge of the fundamental sciences by which he can make an accurate diagnosis. It follows also that the educational qualifications required of one, the physician, should be required equally of all who profess to treat the sick.

Modern scientific medicine and surgery have been developed and are undergoing daily improvement by their own efforts, out of proportion, to any they are receiving from outside sources and often in the face of opposition from the very public they are endeavoring to serve.

The conscientious surgeon prevents as many operations as he performs. The conscientious practitioner advises necessary surgery and does not treat as medical cases those he recognizes to be surgical, and does not treat any form of disease he feels himself incompetent to handle. Every physician is not a surgeon and every surgeon is not versed in many of the intricacies of laboratory technique and instruments of precision for making an obscure diagnosis. The conscientious surgeon summons competent consultants when he feels they are necessary for a correct diagnosis, but does not burden the patient with unnecessary expense for such aid when his own armamentarium is sufficient.

THIS WOMAN FOUND RELIEF

After Long Suffering by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In a little town of the Middle West, was a discouraged woman. For four months she had been in such poor health that she could not stoop to put on her own shoes. Unable to do her work, unable to go out of doors or enjoy a friendly chat with her neighbors, life seemed dark indeed to Mrs. Daugherty.

Then one day, a booklet was left at her front door. Idly she turned the pages. Soon she was reading with quickened interest. The little booklet was filled with letters from women in conditions similar to hers who had found better health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I began taking the Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Daugherty writes, "and after I took the third bottle, I found relief. I am on my eleventh bottle and I don't have that trouble any more, and feel like a different woman. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to everyone I see who has trouble like mine. I am willing to answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—MRS. ED. DAUGHERTY, 1308 Orchard Ave., Muscatine, Iowa.

EGG PRODUCTION OFF IN STORRS CONTEST

Egg production fell off three more points in the Storrs laying contest during the forty-fourth week, the contest flock laying 4,784 eggs or 48.9 per cent. This is 244 eggs less than last week, but 727 eggs more than for the corresponding week a year ago. Up to last Sunday night the contest flock had produced a grand total of 228,558 eggs, or an average of 1,632 eggs for each of the 140 competing pens, or approximately 163 eggs per bird.

Rhode Island Redsand White Leghorns seemed to monopolize the honor roll for the forty-fourth week, with three pens tying for first, second, and fourth positions. High score for the week was made by Broadview Farm from Winsted, Conn., with a lay of 51 eggs, tying with another pen of Leghorns owned by Steelman Poultry Farm from Lansdale, Penn., and a pen of Rhode Island Reds entered by Harold G. Colt from West Hartford, Conn. Three Rhode Island Red pens tied for second place for the week with a lay of 50 eggs. They are owned by Donald I. Goodenough, from Burrville, Conn., Wallceton Farm in Westford, Mass., and Naacook Farm located at Tyngsboro, Mass. Hollywood Poultry Farm's pen of White Leghorns who are leading the contest stood third place with a lay of 49 eggs, tying with F. M. Johnson's Leghorns from Waldoboro, Maine. Three pens of White Leghorns captured fourth place with a lay of 48 eggs. They were the entries of Imperial Poultry Farms, Bera, Ohio, Roselawn Poultry Farm from Joplin, Mo., and W. S. UNION CHURCH MEETING ADDRESSED BY PROFESSOR FROM NEWTON

Preliminary to a series of talks which he is to give this week at the Central Baptist church to Sunday school teachers, workers and parents, Professor James P. Berkeley of Newton Theological Institution addressed a union meeting for the churches Sunday evening at the Central Baptist church. Professor Berkeley spoke upon the topic "Know Thyself" and declared that only in God can one know himself and reach the highest expression of life.

Rev. Dr. David A. Pitt, pastor of the church, presided at the service, Rev. C. H. Ricketts of Greeneville Congregational church led the responsive reading, Rev. E. C. Dunbar of the First Baptist church offered prayer and Rev. G. F. Bailey of the First Congregational church pronounced the benediction.

We have to face facts in life and not in fancies, said the speaker in opening his interesting address. Know thyself. But that is the last thing that man does. The last of the sciences is that which has to do with ourselves, but psychology today is a means of giving us new views of life. Some people like psychology because it sounds highbrow while others dislike it for the same reason. Psychology is merely trying to understand ourselves and our neighbors. It is gossip reduced to a science.

What are you? Primarily you are a machine, a most complicated machine, but subject to certain definite laws. There are three things that make personality. First, there is the bloodstream, which may be good or bad. Then there are the glands of the internal secretions whose correct functioning or failure to function rightly may account for differences in the personality. But as these glands most often function rightly most people are normal human beings. And thirdly there is the nervous system, a most marvelous mechanism of individual cells al so perfectly coordinated that they work together. That machine has definite laws, one of which is that you never forget anything. Not that you can recall everything, that is quite different, but the record once made in your nerve cells is there forever and may be recalled years afterwards, you cannot break any of these laws. Go against them and they may break you, follow them and they may make you.

Psychology tells us about the law of habit formation, which is just as definite as the law of gravitation, and it also tells us about our motives. In one thing our human machine differs from all other machinery. No other machine can start itself, but our machine starts and runs itself. Human nature is a craving, urgent impulse, a self-assertive impulse, wanting to be somebody. Psychology is telling us a great deal of the inner secrets of life and showing us that we are a bundle of habits and a bundle of impulses. We hear much these days about self-expression, but which self are you to express? There are so many voices from the past speaking in your soul. Are we going to suppress a part of ourselves? You can't do it. That which we attempt to suppress becomes more assertive, but you can turn from that part of your life to an other. Then you can organize your life to give expression to the highest and the noblest.

To do this there are three things you need. You need friendships and the supreme friend is Jesus Christ. You need a task also. Get a big task. The one task that will do this for you is the kingdom of God. Have a great ideal. This is given to you in Jesus Christ. He is the only one who enables human life to reach its highest expression. God made the human machine and only in God can you know yourself.

Dr. Pitt announced the topics upon which Professor Berkeley will speak on the evenings of the week at the church as follows:

Monday, The Pupil's Idea of God. What is Teaching?; Tuesday, Religious Awakening. Planning the Lesson; Wednesday, Religious Questions, Planning the Lesson; Thursday, Self-Assertiveness and Self-Control, Planning the Lesson; Friday, Learning How to Get Along With One Another, Memorization.

BIG FIELD DAY PROMISED FOR TAFTVILLE NEXT SATURDAY

Next Saturday will be the day of the year at Taftville when the Taftville A. A. puts on its annual field day. This year the committee plans to make this day's program the biggest of any previous year. The committee is hard at work arranging for the field day and a very attractive program has been proposed.

The program will include the various athletic and novelty events at the Providence street grounds, a parade and band concert and a dance in the evening. John Henry Murphy who is chairman of the athletic program announces that his card includes the 100 yard dash, a closed event; Paul Revere's ride, a novelty; centipede race, a novelty; 100 yard open; ladies' 50 yard dash; shoe race, a novelty; 20 yard open; pipe race, a novelty; ladies relay race; 220 yard open; pipe race, a novelty; ladies relay race; 220 yard open; sack race for the ladies; boys sack race; open relay race; pie-eating contest; doughnut on strings, a novelty; closed relay race; three-legged race; battle royal; tug of war; and climbing the greased pole. His program will include 22 events and will furnish a fine afternoon of entertainment.

Besides the athletic program there will be an exhibition by the Maennerchor turning section. As everyone knows there is no better turning section in the state than the local one. Many new stunts are being worked out and will be shown to the public for the first time next Saturday.

The committee has purchased prizes for the events valued at about $300 and these will be shown this week in the show window of George W. Welstore. The cup which will be donated to the turning section is on display at Bliss' jewelry store. The band concert will be furnished by St. Johns band of Baltic.

The parade is to be a unqiue feature of the day's program as there will be numerous novelties in costume and other unusual parade features.

Anyone desiring to enter the athletic events should notify Chairman Murphy either by phone or writing him at Box 61, Taftville, Conn. The phone number is 2014-3.

RIVERVIEW WINS EASY GAME FROM ROSSIE A. A.

Tony West held the Rossie A. A. team to four hits and two runs Saturday at the State Hospital diamond while his Riverview teammates pounded out 16 hits for 11 runs. The Rossie batsmen could do little with the offerings of the big southpaw and it was easy sailing for the eight innings he was in the box. Lefty Dugas pitched the last inning. Tommy Sipples who played first base for the Riverview club led the hitting with two triples and a single in five times at bat. Normandin also starred at the bat getting four singles in as many times at bat. The fielding of Bob Christy was one of the sensations of the day.

Owing to the rain the game between Moosup and Riverview at Moosup was called off and will be played next Sunday. The score:

CALL FOR ACADEMY FOOTBALL CANDIDATES THIS WEEK

Before the sun has set on the week the first call for Academy football candidates will have been sounded and before Old Sol has crossed the horizon at the end of two weeks the Red and White gridsters will be hard at work for a stiff season's program.

School opens Wednesday and soon after that it is expected that Courtland Whitney, who returns as coach this year, after one season's absence, will have called for candidates for the team. From then on things will, of necessity, hum to get ready for the opening tussle of the season, Oct. 1 at the campus against Chapman Tech.

Little can be predicted as yet regarding this year's eleven but from present indications it would seem that another great season is in store for N. F. A. Although only three regular return, namely, Capt. Johnny Marks, back, Johnny Greene, end, and Kahn, tackle, nevertheless there seems to be a wealth of valuable material now on edge for the opening announcement.

Nothing definite is expected in the way of work for the candidates this week but by Monday it is expected that things will begin to get busy for there will then remain but two weeks before the initial tussle.

TILDEN WAS BIGGEST SCORER IN MATCHES

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Figure hounds, delving into the statistics of America's defeat by France in the Davis cup battle, find that "Big Bill" Tilden was the outstanding figure, from a scoring viewpoint, in spite of defeat in his most important match by Rene Lacoste.

Tilden's earned points in three matches more than doubled the total of any rival. They were nearly five times as many as Lacoste tallied, the totals being 127 aces and placements for Tilden, 29 for Lacoste in two contests.

On the other hand, "Big Bill" also was the most erratic, making 224 errors as compared with Lacoste's 87, a low figure that testified to the success of Rene's defense skill and steadiness.

REDS TAKE BOTH GAMES OF DOUBLE WITH BRAVES

CINCINNATI, Sept. 11—(AP)—The Redswon both ends of a double header with Boston today, 8 to 4 and 16 to 5. The first game was comparatively easy for Pete Donohue, while the second was a complete walkover for Jakie May.

The shades of a once-famous team crept into the closing innings of the second game when Dick Rudolph essayed to pitch for Boston after Hugh McQuillan was given an unmerciful pounding by the home club. The only active member left of the famous Braves of 1914 is Rabbit Maranville, now playing with St. Louis, while Rudolph acts as coach for the bean eaters. The same old stance was there and the same old pitching motion, but the speed was woefully lacking and the curves also, although he was only scored on once.

Cincinnati hit hard in both contests, getting 12 in the first game and 18 in the second. Pitenger led the hitting attack in the second game with four out of five, one of them a home run, one a double and two singles. Purdy also hit hard in both games, getting two out of four in the first and four out of five in the second. Score:

SENATORS TAKE EXTRA INNING GAME FROM CHICAGO

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—(AP)—Bluege's double followed by Hayes' single today gave the Senators a 6 to 5 victory over the Chicago White Sox in the twelfth inning.

Immediately preceding Bluege's crossing the plate, the fans thought Washington had won the game and left the stands. Judge had opened the inning with a triple and scored on a fly by Stewart. Lyons, pitching for Chicago, protested and was sustained by Umpire Hildebrand that Judge had left third before the ball had been caught.

Flaskamper took the throw from the outfield, touched third and made it two out on Washington. Bluege's hit then paved the way for the winning count. Score:

NEW RIFLE RECORD MADE AT CAMP PERRY

CAMP PERRY, Ohio, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The United States Rifle team of 20 shooting members won the International small bore match here today, piling up a total of 7,807 points out of a possible 8,000, which is four points more than England scored when they fired on their home ranges in August. The score today is a new world's record, which is taken from the British team. Great Britain won this match in 1926, when they took the Dewar trophy, which the United States held since 1913.

The United States team scored a total of 3,939 at fifty yards and 3,868 at 100 yards, totaling 7,807.

The British team scored 3,919 at 50 yards and 3,884 at 100 yards, totaling 7,803.

The individual scores of team members included Joe Rivers, Greenwich, Conn., 387; and F. W. Rogers, Connecticut 392.

HAGEN TAKES WESTERN TITLE FOR FOURTH YEAR

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Never relinquishing a lead he obtained with a par 70 on the first round, Walter Hagen Saturday won the western golf championship for the fourth time with a score of 281 for 72 holes over the course of the Olympia fields club, four strokes ahead of his nearest competitors, Al Espinosa of Chicago and William Mehlhorn of New York.

The champion, defending the title he won last year, with 297, increased his lead from the stroke on the first day to six on the second by setting a course record of 67 for the No. 1 links and to nine strokes on the third round today with a 69 on No. 4 course. The titleholder slipped for the first time on the final circuit, taking 75, while some of the pack in pursuit shot spectacular golf in vain endeavor to overhaul the leader.

CUBS RALLY IN SIXTH TO BEAT OUT GIANTS

CHICAGO, Sept 11.—(AP)—A six run rally in the fifth inning gave Chicago a 7 to 5 victory over the Giants today, before the largest crowd of the season, estimated at 45,000. The crowd was banked around the outfield, making hits into the overflow good for two bases. During the sixth inning rally a storm of straw hats showered on to the field, delaying the game until the players, ushers and park attendants gathered in the discarded summer head gear.

Hack Wilson started the scoring in the second inning by cracking out his 26th home run of the season, a drive over the right field wall with none on base. That put him in a tie with Cy Williams of the Phillies for the National league leadership.

The Giants replied with three runs in the fifth. Terry's single and Jackson's walk produced one tally when Harper doubled into the crowd. Jackson came home on Taylor's sacrifice fly. Two more singles by Barnes and Mueller sent Harper home but the Cubs cut off further scoring with a lightning double play.

A barrage of hits, and two passed sent Barnes to the showers in the sixth, but the Cubs got two more off Henry before the rally was ended. The Giants ninth inning rally could not produce a win.

The victory brought the Cubs to within 2 1-2 games of the league leading Pirates who were idle today. The Cubs now are but half a game behind the Giants. Score:

BROWNS WIN FIRST GAME OF SEASON FROM YANKS

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns averted a season's whitewashing from the Yanks today by droping the New Yorkers for a 6 to 2 count in the final game of the year between the clubs before 35,000 fans. The Hugmen lost a chance of establishing a new major league record by making a clean sweep of 22 games However they tied the Cubs mark of 21 victories out of 22 against the Braves in 1909.

Babe Ruth turned in home run No. 59 in the fourth inning, one of five hits yielded by Milt Gaston. That helped the Yanks make baseball history as it gave their club a total of 141 homers, replacing the old record of 140 made by the Chicago White Stockings in 1884.

Joe Dugan Day was observed at the stadium. Before the contest, the New York third baseman was presented with a floral horseshoe and a life membership by White Plains Elks. Score:

CHAPMAN AND BASS READY FOR THEIR BOUT TONIGHT

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 11—(AP)—Each satisfied that he has reached the peak of condition for the world's featherweight championship bout here tomorrow night, Red Chapman, of Boston, and Benny Bass, of Philadelphia, closed their training camps tonight and planned to take things easy until they step into the ring.

TRIPLE HEADER AND AWARD OF PRIZES MARKS CLOSING OF PLAYGROUNDS

Close to 1,500 men, women and children were present Saturday afternoon at the Academy campus when the recreation commission officially closed its summer program. A seven-hour program starting at 1:30 with a triple header of Industrial league baseball, presentation of prizes for the league and playgrounds, both being sponsored by the commission, speeches and other features was the order of the day and under the bright skies the day proved one of great pleasure.

James L. Case, president of the Norwich chamber of commerce, awarded the cups and trophies for the occasion between the first and second games. Speaking in the center of the field he briefly stated that he was glad to be present for such a memorable event. He congratulated the recreation commission for the splendid work they have done and explained that the chamber was with them at all times. "They have had a vision and now are putting this vision into a reality" and the Industrial league is one of the many parts of this vision. He stated that Norwich had been noted as being backward in sports mainly because of a lack of athletic facilities in previous years but with the development of the new central athletic field at Hollyhock Island this condition will bee materially benefited.

He then presented the prizes and the first, the Thos. E. Wilson trophy, went to the Richmond Radiators, champions of the Norwich Industrial league. Manager Reed McCrum, in accepting, told in few words how his club had enjoyed playing in the league and of the clean sportsmanship shown practically at all times bl all teams. He said that the commission had met the teams more than half-way and that he thought that everyone was satisfied with the season's efforts.

The playground prizes for the season were then awarded by Mr. Case. Children from each play-center came forth to receive the cups and banner and some gave impromptu acknowledgements. They were awarded as follows:

Playground Girls' Field Hockey—William J. Fitzgerald trophy, won by Elizabeth Street.

Playground Swimming and Diving—Mayor Milo R. Waters trophy, won by Greeneville.

Playground Volley Ball—John M Lee trophy, won by Greeneville.

Playground Baseball (American league)—Alling Rubber trophy, won by Thamesville.

Playground Baseball championship—Thomas E. Wilson trophy, won by Jail Hill.

Playground Track and Field—Jack's Sport Shop, won by Elizabeth Street.

Playground Champions—Banner to Jail Hill.

The first two games of the afternoon were listless affairs, especially the second tilt between the champion Richmond Radiators and Atlantic Cartons, when both clubs played poor with the Ironmen gaining a 12 to 7 decision. The Radiators had several substitutes in the fray more than half the time which probably accounted for many of the misplays. The second tilt went only six innings but that was enough. This game closed the Atlantics season with 3 wins and 11 defeats.

In the first game of the afternoon Couture, pitching for the Y. M. C. A. let the Atlantic Cartons down with three widely separated bingles and, with his mates hitting Marra and Baker hard, gained an impressive 12 to 0 win. The Y. Star flinger was immense all the way and not a man got past second on him. Pete Tombari, his batterymate, clouted his fourth home run of the season in the third with Brown on base. It was a solid smash and carried well over the center field fence, landing against the fence in the next lot. He also secured a single and caught a fine game. The Y. closed their season with this game with 9 wins and 5 losses.

But, it remained for the final game of the day to provide the most fireworks when the Werman Shoers and J. B. Martins went 11 scorching innings to a 3-3 tie, darkness interfering. Lefty Lucier and Eli Segal hooked up in about the neatest flinging duel that has been seen hereabouts.

Segal allowed ten hits and fanned 13 while Lucier allowed one more hit and fanned two less.

The Wermans took the lead with one run in the first but were tied in the fourth, only to score twice in their half of this frame. However, the Martins put two runs across with two out in the sixth and there it remained until Bill McKnight separated the contestants after 11 sessions. Both teams had chances during the overtime frames but nothing came of them as sparkling defense work cut them off entirely. The game was originally slated for six innings by agreement. The game will be played off tonight at 6 p. m. Score:

Tonight's Game

The Werman Shoers and J. B. Martins continue their feud tonight in the Industrial league at the Academy campus starting at 6 p. m. These two outfits who have played two ties in three starts this season are now on edge for this meeting and a lively tussle should result. Their 3-3 draw Saturday in the last game of the triple-header will long be remembered by local fandom and there is every reason to believe that tonight's tilt will be just a continuation of that affair.

NEW LONDON ELECTION CANDIDATE TAKES SHOT AT COMMERCE CHAMBER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 11—Tomorrow will be election day in New London, but one would hardly suspect it from the apathy of voters for there is but slight interest being shown in the election of members to the city council and members of the board of school visitors. The candidates, however, are making an effort by eliciting the aid of a few of their acquaintances to attempt to secure election, while two or three of the candidates have circulated literature in the hope of obtaining votes. The candidates for members of council are the retiring members, Mayor William C. Fox, Lucius E. Whiton and James A. May and Michael Rollo, Mrs. Robert Bitgood, Thomas J. Balahan, Thomas Kakeen and Cornelius D. Twomey. The members seeking a return to office on the board of school visitors are Philip Z. Hankey, Rosemary O. Anderson and Ellen C. Kelley. Of the literature sent out by the candidates for office of member of the council, Rollo has caused to be circulated a statement in which he attacks the New London chamber of commerce. In part Rolle's statement sets forth: "Think of all these wonderful advantages referring to New London's possibilities for manufacturies) and yet what position does New London hold in the industrial and commercial world today? She has no manufacturing. There is no commerce in this locality worth mentioning. We have a wonderful million dollar pier just rotting away. A lumber boat comes in about once a month.

"Comparing this city with your neighboring city of Norwich—14 miles up there in the hills, with no harbor, no main trunk line and with no nationally known highway passing through it. With practically nothing to induce industries and manufactures yet Norwich boasts of more factories and a larger population than does New London. What is the reason? Ever try to figure it out?

"Did it ever occur to you that the New London chamber of commerce plays an important part in New London's stagnant condition. What has that organization done in the last 10 years to promote industry and commerce?

"Do you know that the wage scale in New London is the lowest of any city in the state?"

Tomorrow's election will be the first time that voters have used voting machines to select the nominees who will be the representatives of the taxpayers in the council for another year.

CALLED A STRIKE-BREAKER ORFALE APPEALS TO POLICE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 11—V. Orfale of 7 Huntington street, has made complaint to the police that he is being annoyed by a sympathizer of former employes of the Bloom Silk company, Garfield avenue and that he has even been threatened with bodily injury. Orfale was eating in the Firemen's Lunch room, Friday night when he was accosted by the sympathizer and abused. The sympathizer said that Orfale, who is a weaver at the silk company's plant had been responsible for the breaking of a strike there several months ago, when Orfale and a few of his acquaintances returned to work while an effort was being made to obtain an increase in wages. He called Orfale a strike breaker. When Orfale was threatened he left the restaurant, went to police headquarters and asked for the arrest of the man who had annoyed him. Two officers were assigned to arrest the man complained against, but he could not be found for he had left the restaurant and has since remained under cover.

Frank Harding, a member of the crew of the yacht "Cythera," at anchor in the harbor lost through a thief Saturday for while the crew was on shore the yacht was boarded and $80 and a gold Waltham hunting case watch and chain, belonging to Harding were stolen. The watch has the numerals "1895" on one side of the case and the initials "F. H." on the other. Attached to the chain is a keystone charm. Harding went to police headquarters and made a complaint. The police are inclined to believe that some one employed aboard the yacht committed the theft.

Jaremiah McCarthy, 10 Konomoc street was in the police court Saturday charged with reckless driving. He was fined $10 and costs. McCarthy was driving his automobile on Broad street Friday night and in such a manner that the safety of Lawrence Packer, 56 Fort street, Groton, was endangered. McCarthy was complained against by Packer and Patrolman Henry Sylvia arrested him.

John Moriarty of Groton, who has resided in New London and Westerly 15 years or more, was presented on a charge of intoxication, together with Joseph Ryan, laborer. Both pleaded guilty, but a penalty for them was given in a suspension of judgment. Moriarty and Ryan were arrested on John street Friday by Patrolman Clarence Wells.

Seven cases at police headquarters tonight await hearings in the police court tomorrow, all being charged with infractions of the law, although not serious ones. William Johnson, 217 Huntington street, a laborer, was arrested on that street Saturday by Patrolmen Clarence Wells and Dennis Murphy charged with intoxication. He was in a helpless condition and complaint was made to the police because Johnson was unable to take care of himself. Philip Somers, 20, single, of Quaker Hill and Patrick Harris, 21, married and residing in the same town were at Ocean Beach Saturday night and intoxicated. Somers was arrested by Patrolman Dennis Murphy charged with being drunk and committing a nuisance, while Somers was arrested charged with intoxication and resisting an officer. Both were released when Carrie F. Mulcahey went to police headquarters and furnished a bond of $50 for Somers and Mulcahey to assure their presentation in the police. When the pair were arrested, Harris showed signs of fight, but these symptoms quickly vanished. This afternoon Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Motorcycle Officer Elwood Bailey arrested a man on Pequot avenue charged with intoxication. He was too drunk to reveal his name. Patrolmen John Sullivan and Clarence Wells this afternoon arrested two strangers on State street charged with intoxication and vagrancy.

The police received a complaint at 11.15 o'clock Saturday night that the neighborhood was being disturbed by the continual yelping of a dog and as the barking annoyed those desiring to sleep, it was requested that the nuisance be stopped. Patrolman Thomas Lyden was assigned to make an investigation and he found the yelping dog in the yard of a man named Albano, residing at 91 Truman street. Albano was ordered to have the dog removed from the yard that the barking might cease. He placed the dog in the cellar of his home.

Bathers declare that the water at Ocean beach is of ideal temperature at present being warmer than at any time during the summer. As a result of this condition bathing is being enjoyed by large numbers. Even today with unfavorable weather until the middle of the afternoon there was a large number of men and women enjoying the diversion.

Patrolman John Clifford in making his rounds through Golden street this morning found a window of the store at No. 58 open and providing a means of easy access for would-be thieves. The officer succeeded in securing the window and making the place safe against intrusion.

Mrs. William Devine and infant daughter of 259 Huntington street, Mrs. Nellie Smith, 36 Blinman street; Mrs. Antoinette Preston; Mrs. Felix Lyle, 621 Main street; Virginia Johnson, Mrs. Dennis Wrenn and Samuel Pettini, Groton; William Brown, Waterford and Mrs. Vivian York, North Stonington, patients at Lawrence Memorial hospital, were discharged Saturday.

John P. Moore of Waterford and Miss Emma Y. Mendoza, of this city, were married Saturday morning at the parsonage of the First Church of Christ by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth.

A WOMAN AND CHILD DAZED BY LIGHTNING

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 11—Another electrical storm broke over the city this morning, but little, if any damage resulted. The storm was preceded by a deluge of rain and after it had ended, it was resumed a half hour later and with lightning. The lightning was sharp while it lasted and one bolt struck a telephone pole on Mahan street. The shock was felt by residents of that street, for Mrs. John Bates, wife of Motorman Bates, Connecticut company and a child were thrown to the floor of their home and left in a dazed condition. Mrs. Bates was attended by a physician, but no serious results are anticipated.

The police tonight began a crusade against violators of one of the city's parking ordinances. The action is the result of numerous complaints that have been received of late because of the apparent indifference of some drivers for the convenience and accommodation of others. As a result of the police action, Patrolmen Lawrence Fardy and William Riordan summoned a dozen or more drivers to present themselves in the police court tomorrow. All furnished a bond of $2 for appearance. The complaining drivers have driven their automobiles to the rear of the Soldiers' and Sailor's monument, State street and have parked them in such a manner as when they are started that they will leave their parking space and enter traffic, which is in conformity with the ordinance prescribing parking in that particular place. But instead of being able to drive the autos into traffic, the complainants have been unable to do so owing to the fact that other drivers, who desire to park there and cannot because of the absence of space, have driven the autos so that they are headed east and west and by so doing the latter cars prevent the other autos from leaving parking, which is a violation of the ordinance. Most of the drivers who were summoned tonight to present themselves in court are New Londoners, having full knowledge of the provisions of the ordinance.

A colored woman, residing at the corner of John and Potter streets, made complaint to the police tonight that a locker at her residence had been forced and $26 stolen. Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin was assigned to the case and as the woman said she had knowledge of the identity of the thief, he accompanied her to a Green street club room, but the fellow sought was not found there. The woman also said that she did not desire the man arrested, but simply wanted him to refund the money, no further action was taken, as the police do not take kindly to the idea of being a collection agency.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Mallon, Jr., 284 Pequot avenue and Mr. and Mrs. William H. Thompson of Brooklyn, N. Y., left Saturday afternoon for a week end trip over the Mohawk trail.

Several cases are scheduled to be presented in the Waterford town court Monday afternoon, most of them being violations of the state motor vehicle law in one form or another.

The first concert to be given since the National guardsmen went to camp will be Monday night in Williams memorial park, Hempstead and Broad streets, by the 192nd Field Artillery band, under the direction of Warrant Officer Charles C. Perkins.

ADD ORFALE

Tonight Patrolman Harry Watterson arrested John Burgess, 41, laborer of North Bank street, as the man complained against. Burgess was held in bail of $50 for his appearance in the police court tomorrow.

A girl of about 13 whose identity was not established, in walking along the north side of Atlantic street and in front of No. 15, stepped upon a wooden hatchway, which had become unsafe because of its condition of decay and was precipitated partially through the wooden covering. She escaped injury except for bruises and abrasions. Patrolman Leboue, who was nearby, had a barrel placed over the opening as a protection to other pedestrians and reported at police headquarters the existence of the defective hatchway. The matter will be turned over to the department on public safety tomorrow.

The work of repairing the municipal pier is nearing completion and by the middle of the week the entire surface of the pier will have received new timber.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Light Socket Operation Is Radio Marvel

Radio dealers everywhere report an amazing trend toward electrical operation of radio sets from the light socket. It is conceded to be radio's biggest sensation and the prediction is that this season will mark the biggest year in radio history for radio socket powers that operate sets from the electric lighting current.

"Although the radio power is demanding a power unit that will run his radio set from the electric current," says an announcement from the Philadelphia Storage Battery company, manufacturers of Philco Socket Powers, "nevertheless he does insist that the radio set he buys has the tone and hook up he prefers—the selectivity and distance range he desires. He is not willing to sacrifice these features merely to get electrical operation. Neither does he want to experiment with any new devices.

"That's why there is such an amazing demand for the Philco Socket Power that runs any battery operated set from the electric current. That's why we manufactured 500,000 socket powers last year and were 200,000 short at the close of the season. And that's why this season our factory is working night and day turning out more than 1,000,000 Socket Powers to meet the widespread demand everywhere for light socket operation."

Palace Theater

The management of the Palace announces a tremendous all star combination of five acts of vaudeville and a supreme feature screen attraction for three days commencing this afternoon. The headline stage feature, Flo Carol, Eddie Riley, and The Courtiers a peppy jazz band with speed all through. Seven talented artists comprise this big flash. Edwards and Morris a man and woman comedy team will entertain with funny stories and gags. Harry Bernard and company a cast of four people in a skit called The Black Cat. Bento Bros. two handsome examples of physical care will open the bill.

All the ingredients that go to make up a rib-cracking farce comedy plentifully interlarded with fast actions, thrills, suspense and an appealing love theme are embodied in Fast and Furious, Reginald Denny's latest Universal-Jewel picture which comes to the Palace picture theater today for a three day run.

Fast and Furious is the screen version of an original short story by the star himself, filmed under the direction of Mel Brown from an adaptation by Raymond Cannon.

The picture certainly does not belie its name. There isn't a dull moment in it. The action is fast, and the fun is furious. The irrepressible Denny comes to grips with a situation that calls for an exhibition of nerve, finesse and adroitness and he comes out on top with his customary sang froid.

Playing the leading feminine role opposite dashing Denny is pert and vivacious Barbara Worth, whose beauty, charm and personality make her a worthwhile prize for the winner of the thrilling auto race, staged at one of the largest racing tracks on the West Coast.

A sterling cast of players support.

Broadway Theater

The Broadway management advertised that the most select photoplays are shown in a palace of luxury. This we absolutely agree, the pictures are the latest releases and all proven successes. The theater is beautiful, very comfortable and cool. The Broadway orchestra of talented musicians are experienced in the art of photoplay incidental music and furnish the proper atmosphere.

The feature attraction for today and tomorrow, Lillian Gish in Annie Laurie is the same production shown at the Embassy theater in New York city at an admission of $2.20. At the Broadway the regular prices will prevail.

Annie Laurie, is a tremendous drama of history. It deals with the gigantic ferment and struggle in Scotland that culminated in the Glencoe Massacre. It is all laid on actual fact.

Miss Gish, as the historic daughter of Sir Robert Laurie, chief of Clan Campbell, approaches the genius of Bernhardt, but always coupled with her own ethereal charm, in the mighty drama, in which she enacts the Scottish Joan of Arc. Norman Kerry plays the hero as Ian, chieftain of the enemy clan of MacDonald.

The great battle scenes, with hordes of six-foot warriors in tartans and plaids, battling with shield and claymore—the majesty of the ancient Scotch castles—these all add glamor. But the charm of Lillian Gish pervades it all.

Hobart Bosworth is majestic as The Wolf of Glencoe, and Greighton Hale ideal as the sinister Donald. David Torrence plays the dignified Sir Robert, and Russell Simpson, Brandon Hurst, Patricia Aver, Joseph Striker and others are ideally cast. John S. Robertson's direction of the huge spectacle is superb.

"My wife had a strong accident the other day. As she was walking along, a man's hat blew off and struck her eye. It cost me $5 for the doctor's bill."

"That's nothing. My wife was on the street the other day and a hat in a window struck her eye and it cost me $10."—Ideas.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theater

Corinne Griffith, always one of the most dependable of all screen stars, be it in a dramatic or comedy vehicle, again scores in Three Hours, the First National picture, which opened at the Breed theater last night for three days.

Of a decidedly melodramatic tinge, Three Hours, gives to Miss Griffith, perhaps, one of the greatest opportunities that she has had in a long time for the portrayal of a tensely dramatic role of the fine emotional quality, and as usual, the star gives a most creditable performance.

The scene to which we refer is the incident where Miss Griffith, separated from her child for years, goes to her former home in anticipation of a happy reunion, there to find the child dead. The enactment of this scene, the key situation on which the whole plot of the piece is based, called for convincing acting of the sincerest kind, and Miss Griffith was not found wanting. Her performance was magnificent and to find a dry eye in the Breed theater last night during the running of this section of the film would have, indeed, been an almost impossible task.

A capable supporting cast includes John Bowers, Hobart Bosworth, Paul Ellis, Ann Schaefer and Baby Mary Louise Miller.

The picture was adapted by Paul Bern from a story written by May Edginton.

JEWETT CITY

DEMOCRATS IN CAUCUS NOMINATE TOWN TICKET

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 11—The town democratic caucus was held Saturday night. T. E. Shea was chairman and John Welsh clerk. The names put in nomination were assessors Edward Blanchard, Hugh Nelson; board of relief, Maxcy Seymour, Byron Young; selectmen, Daniel F. Finn, Arba Browning; town clerk and treasurer, John Welsh; auditor, Louis Morey; constables, Peter Bryant, Dennis Griffin, Leslie Hyde, Harvey Maynard, registrar of voters in the first district, T. E. Shea; second district, J. Frank Gardiner; school committee, James E. Shea, Richard Dudkowski; tax collector, Ulderic Jodoin.

At eleven Friday night Wilfred Daigneault, of Wauregan accompanied by Albert Senecal and two married women of Danielson drove down Main street in a sort of zigzag style and ran into two machines, finally landing with a crash against the building formerly known as the Roller Shop, just north of the Railroad crossing. The first machine struck was driven by Sidney Zoogen, Jr., of Plainfield, and the second was driven by Alfred Jauret of Moosup. Both machines had smashed running boards and fenders. There is a seven foot bank wall near the windup of the smash, and the Daigneault machine all but went overboard. It is said one of the men fell off the wall, in his effort to locate the whereabouts of his passengers. The Daigneault machine fenders, lights, windshield and various other parts were wrecked. He was fined $150 and costs amounting to $170.32 in Judge Barry's town court Monday morning, which fine was paid by his father.

NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

Items of interest taken from the files of The Norwich Evening Courier of 75 years ago are as follows:

Thursday, Sept. 2, 1852—A fire occurred in the basement of Uncas hall building, on Water street, Tuesday night, the alarm of which was given about half past eleven o'clock. It originated in a coal vault which had recently been replenished with coal fresh from the pit and which is presumed to have been on fire at the time it was put in the vault. The fire was discovered before it had made much progress beyond the basement story which was occupied by Henry Rathbone as a restaurant and bowling alley. His loss, we understand, is probably about $300—no insurance.

Uncas Bank—We learn that this new banking institution has purchased a vacant lot on the east side of Shetucket street, directly facing Water street, for the purpose of erecting thereon a suitable banking house. The site is a most eligible one and we understand the building will be commenced forthwith.

Tomorrow evening the friends of Scott and Graham, in Norwich, are summoned to rally at the town hall and we hope they will rally in their strength. Only eight weeks intervene between now and the presidential election.

Saturday, Sept. 4, 1852—The Scott and Graham meeting which took place at the town hall last evening was of the right sort, and considering that it was the first in the regular campaign the attendance was large. The committee on the organization of a Scott and Graham club, reported a constitution, by-laws, etc., which was adopted and the club fully organized by the election of the following officers; W. A. Buckingham, president; vice presidents, Daniel Tyler, George Perkins, Charles Osgood, Gurdon Chapman, Thomas Robinson, Jedediah Spalding, W. R. Potter, Z. L. Smith; corresponding secretary, G. M. Eaton; treasurer, H. H. Osgood.

Tuesday, Sept. 7, 1852—A fire occurred at Greeneville on Sunday night about 11 o'clock. It commenced in the paper mill building, formerly occupied by Messrs. Culver and Mickie, but for some time shut up and the machinery mostly removed. From the paper mill it spread to the adjoining mill known as the Green Mill, in which the manufacture of cotton twine was carried on by Mr. W. H. Glover; thence it extended to Thayer's Dyeing establishment. All three of the buildings were destroyed. The total amount of property destroyed was perhaps about $4,000 or $5,000. The origin of the fire is not known. The presumption is that it was fired by an incendiary.

Letters by Telephone

In one great mercantile establishment all correspondence is dictated through the telephone. Ten stenographers are employed in the conduct of the store's correspondence. They perform their duties in one large room. In this room an especially designed table has been installed which is provided with five typewriting positions about 8 inches below the surface of the table. A 10-inch panel extends down the center of the table and on this panel, immediately in front of each stenographer's position, an annunciator and a spring jack are installed. Each of the 10 typewriting positions is eulpped with a breast transmitter and a head receiver terminating in a plug. The spring jack circuits connect to a 40-line standard sub-switchboard, which is located at the head of the stenographers' table.

With the equipment now installed, when the services of a stenographer are desired the party wishing to give dictation merely lifts his receiver and says, "Stenographer, please." His extension station to the main house switchboard is immediately connected by a tie line to the sub-switchboard in the stenographers' room. The operator answering the sub-switchboard glances down the stenographers' position, observes which girl is least busy and then connects her with the person wishing to dictate.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

WEEKLY BUSINESS REVIEW

NEW YORK, Sept. 11—(AP)—The pulse of American business quickened last week as preparations for autumn trade began in earnest following the Labor Day recess. Gains in most lines were gradual, and of a seasonal character but with them arose a new feeling of confidence in the commercial outlook for the remaining weeks of 1927.

One of the outstanding developments was the report on revenue freight loadings for the week ended August 27, which established a new high mark for the year, although yet considerably under the figure for 1926. This turn for the better, was regarded in most quarters as of no little significance, as the movement of freight is taken as one of the most reliable barometers of industry. Car loadings, which declined early in April, began to ascend the grade again around the middle of the summer, although the total for the year showed gradual recessions from last year's aggregate until the week last reported, when a beginning was made toward closing the gap.

Steel operations showed a gradual improvement. Buying appeared to gather force slowly, but with a confidence that stimulated some hope that material acceleration would develop as the season advanced. The conservative hand-to-mouth policy still ruled purchases, and there is little expectation that any change from such a policy will be adopted to any extensive degree. Prices in the steel trade showed little change, with the exception of further slight easing off of pig iron quotations.

The report of unfilled orders of the United States Steel as of August 31, showed an increase of more than 54,000 tons. This occasioned no surprise, as preliminary estimates in Wall street had indicated a gain over the July 31 figures, although earlier in August there had been some expectation that loss would be shown.

The automotive industry moved calmly in practically the same channel it has been following for several weeks. While some companies were speeding up a little, others dropped off. Several models were announced during the week, and the uncertainty surrounding other new cars which have been announced, but have not yet made their appearance on the market, continued to be a factor.

Development of plans to curtail production in West Texas was a significant development in the petroleum trade, but hope thereby engendered was tempered somewhat by cautious remarks by Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey on his return from Europe, regarding the price outlook.

The crops displayed a spotty appearance. The government cotton report indicated a yield about 800,000 bales less than had been predicted on August 1, and resulted in a sharp jump in cotton prices.

The government's estimate on wheat, which had been expected to show a decline, indicated a yield about 10,000,000 bushels greater than had been forecast in August. Corn had a rapid growth during the week, and prices were depressed to the lowest level in months.

The credit situation shoew little change other than some tightening of call money rates at the end of the week. Bank clearings fell behind the totals for the preceding week, but lined around 17 per cent from the corresponding five days of last year.

GREENEVILLE

After having closed their active season in June, for a two months' vacation during July and August, the Community Workers met again on Thursday afternoon, at the home of their president, Mrs. Charles F. Sears of Prospect street. The June meeting, which was a basket picnic affair, after the election of officers and other business was disposed of, was held on the grounds of Mrs. R. S. Stephenson of Boswell avenue and she was ably assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Britten, in looking after the pleasure of the Workers. A group picture was taken during the afternoon, and Mrs. Charles Levitsky invited the ladies to her cottage at the draw bridge for a picnic during July. This invitation was accepted, and the Workers spent a very enjoyable day there. During August, while the Workers did not have any special meeting, they were not "off-the-job" altogether, as a number of them dressed dolls which were sold, and a plant was bought and sent to a very sick friend. The September meeting was a work meeting, as the ladies cut and sewed patch-work for a quilt, that has been ordered. They are also planning to dress more dolls. A special meeting is to be held soon to pack a sunshine box, for a sick friend and also to sew. Mrs. John McNeely, the secretary and treasurer reported the treasury in a flourishing condition and so the Community Workers of Greeneville are looking forward to a busy season of Helpfulness.

A number of the young ladies of the Third Baptist church were week-end visitors at Storrs college. The World Wide Guilds of the state held an assembly there from Friday until Sunday afternoon. Those who went were Miss Edna Miner, Miss Jennie Sebastian, Miss Elinor Howard, Miss Dorothy Concklin, Miss Doris Lund and they were chaperoned by Mrs. Henry Sebastian, the leader of their Guild.

Mrs. Herbert I. Peckham of Margerie street has returned home, after having spent part of last week with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Johnson at Groton Long Point.

Miss Doris Lund has returned from Boston, where she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Duberger. She also visited in Washington, R. I., with Mrs. Susan Matherson.

Miss Gertrude Clark of Niantic has returned to her home after visiting her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Howard of Central avenue.

Miss Mary Shea of Central avenue is home again after visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Blackford of Danielson for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Sweet were recent visitors in Hartford and Springfield.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST STICKERS ON AUTOMOBILE WINDSHIELDS

Chiefs of police in Connecticut have been asked by Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel to order prompt enforcement in their jurisdictions of the law which prohibits the attaching of "stickers" to windshields and car windows. The request was made in a letter which calls attention to the growing practice of using these articles and thus obstructing the view of the operators.

The law referred to, for violation of which a maximum fine of $50 may be imposed, provides that "no article shall be attached to any motor vehicle in such manner as to interfere with an unobstructed view of the highway upon which any person shall be operating such motor vehicle."

In asking for strict enforcement, the commissioner points out that there should be special consideration for persons from other states, who may not be aware of the intent of the law.

WILL SHOW HOW TO BURN BUCKWHEAT COAL

L. Goffe Briggs, in charge of the coal department of the Edward Chappell company, and John J. O'Rourke, sales manager, attended the New Haven machine tool exhibit in New Haven recently which was held at Yale college to learn the possibilities of the use of electric blowers for steam boilers and hot air furnaces in the burning of buckwheat and small sizes of anthracite coal. There are at the present time quite a number of types of electric blowers already installed in a number of large buildings in Norwich. The school department has equipped all its schools with one these types which has resulted in a saving of over $3,000 in last year's coal cost.

It is the intention of the Edward Chappell company to have on display in their offices the various types of blowers and fire-box grates for burning buckwheat coal, which are installed and operated at a small cost, for the purpose of acquainting the public with this economical method for burning the smaller sizes of coal. It is an undisputed fact that the burning of small size coals is economical and cannot be excelled by any other method, for economy, in fuel heating purposes. It is a well known fact that for years the Chappell company has advocated the burning of smaller sizes of coal in order that the most efficient results at a minimum cost can be obtained for heating purposes.

PAST COMMANDER JACQUES REPRESENTED NAVAL BRANCH

The 28th national encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States opened on Sunday afternoon Sept. 4th at Providence, R. I., with memorial exercises at the Commercial High School auditorium, in honor of the memory of the heroic dead.

These ceremonies were conducted by the national officers, and were both inspiring and impressive. Chaplains of all denominations lauded the hero dead, and set forth inspiring ideals, for which the nation should strive.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars ritual ceremonies for the dead impressed all who witnessed them profoundly, and will never be forgotten.

The comrades of R. E. Hourigan post, No. 594 of this city can feel justly proud and honored that their past commander, Leo L. Jacques, district deputy for Connecticut was selected, from among thousands to represent the naval branch of the service, in the memorial ceremonies at the national encampment.

NOTED INDUSTRIAL ENGINEER TO ADDRESS ONE DAY CONGRESS

Abner Schwarz, chairman of the One Day Congress committee appointed by President Case, announces the acceptance of Campbell Scott to address the chamber dinner to be held at the close of the One Day Congress program scheduled for Monday, September 2, 1927. Mr. Scott is president of the Technical Advisory corporation of New York city.

The officers are particularly pleased with Mr. Scott's acceptance as they believe that he, more than any other man in America, can intelligently talk to the Chamber on a subject which is uppermost in the minds of the average businessman today—"The Development of Trade and Industry."

Mr. Scott is an industrial engineer. According to "Who's who in America", he was born in Louisville, Ky., April 14, 1869; was manager of the Edison General Electrical Co., Cincinnati, O., 1890-92; president Southern Engineering Co., Louisville, 1892-94; general manager C. & C. Electric Co., New York city, 1897-1905; works manager Otis Elevator company 1905-1916.

Mr. Scott is also a director of the Graphite Metallizing Corp., of New York. He has been commissioner of police in Yonkers, N. Y., chairman of the joint water supply commission, member of the war department, claims board, and chairman of the technical advisory board of the war department, having in charge the settlement of over $1,000,000,000 in war claims. He is a republican, Episcopalian, and a member of the Montclair Golf club.

Mr. Scott will deal primarily with business development with special reference to industry. The answer is considered obvious to the average citizen—to develop trade we need more factories—more payrolls—more families spending money—so the average city today puts the "getting of new industries" as of prime importance and as a result Chambers of Commerce throughout the country are putting "Industrial development" down as of first importance on their programs of work and Chamber secretaries are being directed to "go out and bring in new industries"—that is easy; but the country has a surplus of industrial plants. Few industries are considering relocation. Cities are in keen competition for those few. Under circumstances like these the utter futility and high cost of any extensive campaign for bringing in new industries is obvious, particularly when the present local industries seem to be struggling against mysterious obstacles in the effort to make ends meet.

The first thing to do seems to be to find out what is wrong with our present industries and what we may do to aid their expansion. When existing conditions are correct, transportation, power, labor supply, nearness to market, nearness to raw material supply, taxation, housing conditions, cost of living, water supply, city government, fire protection, etc., etc. Industries are attracted, publicity stimulated and the problem becomes simpler.

The industrial survey does just this thing. It is an examination into and report on all matters and factors which have to do directly or indirectly with the trade and industry of a city.

The purpose of a survey is the formulation of a comprehensive plan for correcting unfavorable conditions and eliminating handicaps; for more fully and widely capitalizing present advantages; for developing favorable resources; and for co-ordinating effort so that with a minimum expenditure of time and money existing trade and industry will be fostered, new industries encouraged to come in and the whole economic operation of the community balanced, stimulated, expanded and improved. The work of conducting such a survey is distinctly an engineering job. The Chamber of Commerce is usually the proper body to further such a movement. It has the industrial survey point of view. But the actual work involved must be done by experienced technical men.

Dayton, Ohio says "The industrial survey gave our Chamber of Commerce a definite, tangible and practical program of work, the members became enthusiastic in helping the various projects developed by the survey". Fitchburg, Mass.; Cincinnati, Ohio; Schenectady and Utica, N. Y.; Mobile, Ala.; Richmond and Roanoke, Va.; and Edgewater, N. J., all join in proclaiming the value of the survey.

The directors of the Chamber of Commerce realizing the need of such a program in Norwich early in the year authorized President Case to appoint a committee on "Industrial Surveys" with the hope that something tangible might develop.

This committee was appointed and its personnel includes H. D. Larrabee, chairman; S. B. Palmer; C. W. Taggart and G. E. Johnson. It considered the problem carefully and finally made its recommendation to the board "That we appropriate at least one thousand dollars in the coming year's budget for an Industrial Survey of Norwich". In adopting the recommendations of this committee and presenting the Industrial Survey program to the citizens of Norwich the Board of Directors feel that they have taken a forward step in what is destined to be the most important undertaking ever advanced by the Chamber. Provision for this special fund is being made in the Chamber's budget for 1927-28 for which campaign plans are going forward for September 30-October 5th, inclusive. Subscriptions will be made through the medium of a special activities fund, which can be subscribed to by any citizen or firm interested in forwarding the project.

ST. PATRICK'S FOUR MASSES INCREASE IN ATTENDANCE

With the return of parish families from the beach or the mountains, the four congregations at St. Patrick's church Sunday showed an increase in numbers. It was announced that, beginning next Sunday the 10:30 mass would be a high mass, resuming the winter schedule; that is, instead of being read, the mass will be sung by the priest. The choirs will resume singing, also there will be the resumption of regular preaching, instead of the simple announcements and reading of the gospel, as throughout hot weather.

Yesterday was the fourteenth Sunday after Pentecost; the epistle was Galatians 5.16-24 and the gospel Mathew 6. 24-33, the futility of trying to serve two masters. It was stated that the missionary priest coming to preach during the novena in honor of St. Therese, Sept. 23-30, is Father Mark, of the Order of Passionists.

Children in the class preparing to receive the sacrament of confirmation are receiving regular instruction, those in the parish school daily from their teachers, while children attending other schools are instructed by the priests and Sisters after the 9 o'clock mass every Sunday, also at 4 p. m. each Tuesday and Friday.

At the 7:30 mass the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May needed assistance in giving holy communion to the large number of penitents; at 9, Rev. John J. Reilly was assisted by Rev. Myles P. Galvin in administering the Eucharist. The organist, Henry J. LaFontaine, who has returned from his vacation played at this mass, members of the Junior choir singing the hymns. Mr. LaFontaine sang "O, Salutaris" at the offertory with customary beauty of voice and finish of phrasing.

THE New Cadillac which is now being shown at the Cadillac-La Salle Style Salon, is the highest expression in motor car design and construction of an organization possessing artistic genius, engineering talent and the experience accumulated in 25 years of fine car manufacture.

This new Cadillac reveals outstanding style, striking beauty and remarkable performance, never before approached.

It is a more beautiful and luxurious car, because rare creative and designing ability have lavishly contributed to its building.

It is superior in performance, because Cadillac has developed and refined through fourteen years of practical use the kind of an engine which experience has proven best suited for fine motor cars—the 90-degree, V-type eight-cylinder—and has designed a chassis adapted to widest usefulness.

And it is a most completely satisfying car, because the splendid beauty and mechanical excellence of this New Cadillac are enriched by Fisher Custom creations, which are exclusively Cadillac.

SOLONS SEE NO NEED FOR EXTRA SESSION CONGRESS

Senator Curtis of Kansas and Representative Tilson of Connecticut, Republican Leaders of the Senate and House, Have so Informed President Coolidge—Both Leaders Had Been Summoned to the White House For Their Views.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12—(AP)—Summoned to the white house for their views on the necessity for a special session of congress both Senators Curtis of Kansas, and Representative Tilson of Connecticut, republican leaders of the senate and house emphatically informed President Coolidge, just back from his vacation in the Black Hills, that they saw no need for one.

Senator Curtis said also that he could see no advantage in calling the senate together ahead of the regular meeting time in December to take up the contests against the election of Senators-elect Smith of Illinois and Vare of Pennsylvania, both republicans. He was of the opinion that a month of discussion would dispose of them.

The view of both Senator Curtis and Mr. Tilson was at variance with that of some other administration leaders, among them Senators Smoot, of Utah, and Jones of Washington, both of whom during visits at the summer white house in South Dakota urged the president to call a special session.

Refreshed by his first night's rest in the remodeled white house after a two day journey from the Black Hills, Mr. Coolidge went to his desk a little late this morning, walking some 34 yards to the executive offices in place of the ride of 34 miles required in South Dakota.

Desiring to make some headway toward clearing up the special session question which has been hanging fire all summer, the president made it his first business to consult the two party leaders, whose views, naturally, are expected to have considerable weight with him.

While Mr. Tilson later declared he believed there was no question but that Mr. Coolidge had definitely eliminated himself from the republican presidential race in 1928, by his statement that he did not choose to run next year there were indications that Senator Curtis was not so clear about the meaning of the announcement. However, neither indicated that he had discussed this statement with the president.

Showing Representative Tilson a long list of increased appropriations asked for next year by the government departments, the president made it plain that congress must choose between increase expenditures and tax reduction. Mr. Tilson said he favored tax reduction, up to $300,000,000, but said that if this was to be accomplished congress would have to go light on the appropriations program.

Expecting Chairman Green to assemble the house ways and means committee the last of next month to frame a tax bill, Mr. Tilson said he favored giving this measure and the appropriations measures the first call of business in the house in December. He also is anxious to take up a flood relief program and to consider Boulder Canyon dam legislation and he will leave here tonight to inspect the flood area as well as the Colorado river dam site.

Farm relief also was expected to come up at this session by Mr. Tilson and he said this subject was mentioned at the white house conference but only in passing. He has no idea, however, whether Mr. Coolidge or the administration will put forward a relief bill.

The president spent the afternoon in conference with Secretary Kellogg, his first meeting with the head of the state department since he went to the Black Hills. Postmaster General New and Secretary Davis of the war department also called on the president.

SELECTION OF CLINE JURY WILL BE RESUMED TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 12—What was the motive in the shooting of Wilfred P. Irwin, erstwhile insurance agent and reporter who died from a gunshot wound received at the Leonard Cline farmhouse in the early morning hours of Monday, May 16? To those interested in the trial of Cline on a charge of first degree murder—and they are legion—the motive continues to be the nucleus of conjectural thoughts. That Irwin was a troublesome guest at the Cline farmhouse has been shown by word and action and information to that extent is implied in the coroner's report. Hardly a week before the shooting Irwin had been arrested for intoxication and a breach of the peace at the instigation of Cline. Irwin was fined in the Mansfield town court. Cline, still bearing convincing facial marks of having received the worst of a fistic encounter paid Irwin's fine. This incident gave an opening to believe that unusual conditions were existing at the little farmhouse, Mansfield. Mr. and Mrs. Cline had come there in December and apparently were enjoying unblemished pleasure in their peaceful surroundings. Early in the spring Irwin came, and testimony for the defense will tend to show that he was broken both physically and financially. His intrusion upset the domestic circle. Mrs. Cline left for New York and later came letters from her informing Cline that she was considering divorce proceedings. She later averred that talk of divorce was simply in the form of a threat in the hope that her husband would dispel Irwin's evil influence. With this outline of Irwin's character and stressing the fact that he became argumentative when drinking the defense could build its case on the basis of accidental shooting or self defense. How much of this pre-trial allegation to Irwin's n'er-do-well characteristics will be discredited by the state remains to be brought out in testimony which will probably be that of Mrs. Jane Helen Irwin, wife of the victim of the shooting and reputed to be star witness for the state.

The examination of talesmen to qualify two more jurors will be resumed at the Tolland county superior court in Rockville Tuesday. A new roster of 40 talesmen have been summoned to be examined. Of the 150 examined last week, 10 jurors were accepted, a ratio of 1 to 15. There is every hope on the part of attorneys that the selection of a jury will be completed Tuesday so that the case may be started not later than Wednesday morning.

THREE EARTH SHOCKS ON THE CRIMEAN COAST

MOSCOW, Sept. 12—(AP)—The Ukrainian, Crimean and north Caucasian coast of the Black sea were shaken last night by three separate earth shocks, the worst casualties being at Sebastopol and nearby health resorts.

Telegraphic communication has been interrupted, but fragmentary reports from Yalta said that many houses had collapsed in Sebastopol and that very few escaped some damage.

At Odessa three shocks also were felt, the last being at 5.20 a. m., today shattering windows and upsetting furniture. In some places the tremors lasted 20 seconds.

The inhabitants of Sebastopol, Simferopol and Novorossisk passed the night in the streets.

TO PILOT NAVAL PLANES IN NATIONAL AIR RACES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12—(AP)—Lieutenant Commander Gerald F. Bogan of Michigan, and Lieutenants Herbert E. Regan and Aaron P. Storrs of New York, all attached to the aircraft squadron of the Pacific fleet, were designated today as pilots of the three naval planes entered in the national air races at Spokane late this month.

They will participate in the free for all race and the special navy-marine corps pursuit plane race. They will fly Boeing pursuit ships equipped with Packard 1500 water-cooled motors.

MYSTERY OF RUM SHIP CAPTURED AT PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 12—(AP)—As much mystery tonight surrounds the identity of the rum ship captured here Saturday night and the destination of its reputed $2,000,000 cargo of alleged liquor as when the ship was seized.

Efforts to definitely identify the steamer and ascertain whence it came were frustrated today when the sixteen men arrested as the ship was taken over by the customs officers, failed to show up for a hearing before United States Commissioner Horace R. Manley, thus forfeiting $500 bail each which had been furnished in cash when the men were released yesterday.

On information furnished by customs officers, it has been recommended that the navy department be asked to protect the ship, now anchored in the Delaware river at the southern end of Philadelphia from raiding by hijackers.

The vessel, a tanker, which came into port under the name of "Bulko" placed over another name that is not plainly distinguishable, was seized late Saturday night. Elaborate arrangements to quickly unload the vessel defeated the suspicions of customs officers. A string of railroad box cars was at the pier and a force of stevedores was on hand to do the work. They said they were to receive $25 for the night's work. The cargo was said to consist of canned tomatoes.

Customs officers appeared and the stevedores, the captain and other officers disappeared. Only sixteen men were captured.

Close examination of the name "Bulko," by customs men today revealed what seemed to be the name "Lairg" beneath the fresh paint. Built in 1911, on the Great Lakes, the Lairg, if this is the same ship, was used in carrying coal by a French company, and was called the "Penobscot." It was bought two years ago by a Mrs. L. L. Mackay, Swansea, England. Whether Mrs. Mackay has since sold the vessel is not known.

LEGIONNAIRES' TRIBUTE TO ITALY'S UNKNOWN SOLDIER

ROME, Sept. 12—(AP)—Legionnaires from Massachusetts today paid tribute to Italy's unknown soldier.

A wreath was placed on the unknown soldier's tomb by Miss Harriet Kuemin, who served in the war as a nurse. Ambassador Fletcher, representatives of the American embassy, the Italian government and the city of Rome were present.

The Legionnaires paid their tribute to Italy's warrior dead after visiting the vatican, the pantheon and other historic spots in the Eternal city. Headed by their own band they marched up the steps of the Victor Emanual monument to the unknown soldier's tomb.

Before the wreath was placed Charles Flynn, who headed the delegation of 210 members of the American legion from Massachusetts, spoke in praise of the Italian people and their government. Ambassador Fletcher then expressed his pride at being able to participate in the ceremony.

AIRMEN SAVED BLIND MAN FROM BURNING

HOLYROOD, N. F., Sept. 12—(AP)—Phil Wood and A. C. (Duke) Schiller, who interrupted in Newfoundland their projected flight from Windsor, Ont., to Windsor, England, today risked their lives in rescuing a blind man from a burning house at Kelligrews, 12 miles from here. Four farm houses were destroyed when a forest fire swept a large area near that settlement.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Sept. 12—(AP)—Sean O'Kelly, De Valera's chief lieutenant and editor of his weekly paper, said in the course of a speech in Dublin that he welcomed President Cosgrove's "forgive and forget" gesture, and hoped to see within the next five years a reunion of the two sides of republicanism.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Sept. 12—(AP)—Charles E. Butters, owner of the San Albino mine, which has been practically ruined by the rebel general, Sandino, returned here from Ocotal yesterday in a marine airplane. As long as Sandino worked the mine by force of arms exacting gold to pay his soldiers and buy provisions, the mine was in fair condition, but when he departed he and his followers carried off or destroyed everything worth while.

MONETARY FEATURES OF GRASSELLI DIVORCE SUIT

CLEVELAND, Ohio., Sept. 12—(AP)—The romance of a blonde beauty, once employed as a ticket seller at a local motion picture theater, with her millionaire "prince", ended here today when common pleas court granted Mrs. Helen Long Grasselli a divorce from Edward Grasselli, heir to the Grasselli chemical fortune. Gross neglect of duty was given as grounds for the divorce.

Once a ticket seller drawing $6 a week, Mrs. Grasselli found herself today with property valued at more than $100,000 and an allowance of $24,000 a year from a trust fund provided by Grasselli.

While permitting her to retain her $24,000 annuity, the court decreed she must relinquish any interest in Grasselli's trust, the income from 1,200 shares of preferred stock in the Grasselli Chemical company, and she must pay $15,000 in debts outstanding against her.

Mrs. Grasselli, through her attorneys, had entered a motion to withdraw her divorce petition after weeks had been spent in taking depositions at notary hearings, but the court refused her motion.

The notary hearing bared Grasselli's relations with "another woman," whom he met in Miami, Fla., and who is now living in Washington, D. C. Grasselli admitted that as well as lavishing money on his wife and her relatives, he had lavished gifts on the "other woman", formerly a saleslady in a Miami shop. He admitted having made half a dozen trips to Washington to see her.

Grasselli admitted under questioning that he had a tentative agreement with the "other woman", whose name was never revealed, to consider marriage after the legal entanglements involving his present wife were cleared.

"For six years during our married life, every time the dinner bell rang at our home, it was Mrs. Grasselli's hungry sisters and their husbands who composed four-fifths of those who put their feet under our table," Grasselli said.

Early in the hearing Mrs. Grasselli complained that she was unable to live "adequately" on he $24,000 per year Grasselli had been giving her since their separation. Mrs. Grasselli testified that she had never been "skimped" for money, but that Grasselli had flatly refused to buy her a $4,000 speedboat, a $12,000 automobile and a $60,000 home on Long Island, which she wanted.

In granting the divorce today, the court ordered Mrs. Grasselli to return jewels that belonged to Grasselli's mother. Testimony revealed that Mrs. Grasselli had pawned the three pieces of jewelry to secure $5,000 cash.

MAY ATTEMPT FLIGHT FROM PARIS TO NEW YORK

PARIS, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Despite disasters which have befallen the latest attempts at trans-Atlantic flights, there is still a possibility that tre Farm Bluebird, piloted by Leon Givon, will attempt the crossing to New York within a fortnight.

The Farman company announced late this evening that the lane and pilot are ready to take off any time before September 25 and that the only question now is the weather until that date, which is considered the latest possible for a flight to the west this year.

Paul Tarascon, who has been preparing his plane, Tango Bird, has made no announcement as to whether he will hop off soon, but has made a statement to the French press that only adverse weather could stop the flight and that he expected favorable winds by way of the Azores.

COTTON DOWN $14 A BALE FROM YEAR'S HIGH MARK

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—(AP)—Reports of good weather in the south, giving indication of improved conditions for the cotton crop and the possibility of an increased yield, caused heavy selling and sent prices down $4 a bale in the New York cotton exchange today. The decline represents a net drop of $14 a bale from the high mark of last Thursday.

The downward trend, which is believed to have improved the technical position of the market, was accompanied by one of the heaviest selling movements the market has experienced in months. It evidently was based upon speculative liquidation by traders who had profited by the rise in prices resulting from the prediction of a short drop in Thursday's government report.

Still higher prices are seen as a real possibility.

DEBRIS MARKED "COLUMBIA" WERE WASHED ASHORE

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Five battered dories and a pair of oars marked "Columbia" were reported today washed up on Sable Island, the "graveyard of the Atlantic." It was believed that the dories may have belonged to one of three fishing vessels thought to have gone down with all hands in the hurricane of Aug. 24.

The American fishing schooner Columbia has been reported safe since the storm and it was thought oars marked with her name may have been lost from that vessel. The missing schooners are the Clayton Walters and Mahala, with their crews of 40 Nova Scotians, and the Hoyce C. Smith, with a crew of 21, mostly Newfoundlanders.

M. Loudon said that the governments should have time to reconcile their divergent views before meeting again to take final steps for an international disarmament conference.

American Balloon Probable Winner

Detroit B[illegible] Down the F[illegible] From Starting [illegible]

DETROIT, Sept. 12—(AP)—With all of the entrants in the annual Gordon Bennett balloon race landed safely tonight indications were that the United States entry Detroit, piloted by R. G. Hill of Detroit had won the race. Hill's balloon was brought down at Baxley, Ga., several miles farther from the starting point here than any of the other entries.

Although the winner of the race will not be officially named until a final checkup and inspection of the balloon barographs is made by the International Aeronautical association in Washington, there is little doubt that Hill and his co-pilot, A. G. Schlosser, have won a leg on the historical Bennett trophy.

The award is based alone on distance from the starting point, and the fact that the Detroit was in the air longer than the other entries does not enter into the compilations.

The distance traversed by the Detroit is approximately 800 miles by air line, far short of the distance record for the event. The record, 1,358 miles, was set up by Maurice Bennaime, French pilot in 1920 when he took his balloon from Stuttgart, Germany, to Moscow, Russia.

The victory of the United States entry marked the second consecutive year that America had won the event. W. T. Van Orman won a leg on the trophy last year at Antwerp when he distanced competitors by taking his bag from there to Solveberg, Sweden.

The trophy at present is held by Belgium and goes to the country which wins the event for three successive years. Hill's victory will give the United States two legs on the cup and an American victory next year permanent possession.

The race got under way here Saturday in a driving rainstorm.

L. OF N. HAS NO CONTROL OVER PANAMA ZONE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12— (AP) — Both state department officials and ranking members of the senate foreign relations committee declared flatly today that the league of nations had no jurisdiction whatever over American control of the Panama Canal zone.

Their declarations were evoked by a statement Saturday to the assembly of the league at Geneva by Dr. Enzebio Morale, Panamanian representative, that the sovereignty dispute over the zone might form a subject for arbitration.

At the state department it was declared that the question of the exercise by the United States of sovereignty over the canal zone was not in dispute with Panama and that the government of that country had not submitted any request for modification of the new treaty which still is before the Panamanian congress.

Chairman Borah, of the foreign relations committee, asserted that "whatever controversy there may be with regard to sovereignty over the zone will be settled by the United States and Panama."

"Neither the league of nations nor any outside influence has anything to do with the adjustment of that matter," he added.

"Nicky" Arnstein Is Sued For Divorce

Fannie Brice, Musical Comedy Star, Has Filed Suit in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12—(AP)—Fannie Brice, musical comedy star, who promised unending love for Jules "Nicky" Arnstein, her husband, when he went to prison, today filed suit for divorce here against Arnstein, recently released from Leavenworth penitentiary after serving a sentence for his connection with a $5,000,000 New York bond theft ring.

The comedienne charged her "Nicky" had been too friendly with a Chicago woman and had turned up his nose at her when she had her own nose repaired by a plastic surgery operation.

"After I had my nose fixed", she said, "he suffered an inferiority complex and said that since I had become beautiful, I was not the same Fannie he used to know".

Arnstein came here after his release from prison and had been reported about to engage in an electric display sign business with "Big Tim" Murphy, whom he met in prison while, Murphy, Chicago labor leader, was serving a term for mail robbery.

Miss Brice professed to know nothing of Arnstein's recent activities. They were married in Brooklyn in 1919.

They have two children, six and two years old, and the mother asks custody of both.

STOOD BY HER HUSBAND DURING HIS TROUBLES

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—(AP)—Fanny Brice, actress, who filed suit for divorce against Jules W. ("Nicky") Arnstein in Chicago today, has stood by her husband through his numerous difficulties with the law and lived with him after his release from the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., where he served a sentence in connection with a $5,000,000 Wall street theft in 1919.

Arnstein in 1923 was given a two year sentence for conspiracy in connection with the bond theft.

He was re-arrested as he left the prison in 1925 and is still awaiting trial on a charge of receiving part of the loot.

Arnstein was brought back to New York from Leavenworth to be questioned in connection with bankruptcy proceedings brought against him in 1920. At that time and since he steadfastly refused to reveal the hiding place of a million dollars in securities which represented a part of those stolen in the $5,000,000 coup.

In 1924 he was indicted by the Hudson County, N. J., grand jury for conspiracy to defraud a Weehawken contractor of $85,000, and in the same year he was charged in Youngstown, Ohio, with obtaining money under false pretenses.

SAYS GERMAN PLANES NEED BETTER ENGINES

BERLIN, Sept. 12 (AP)—Airplane engines constitute the chief problem confronting German aerial navigation today, in the opinion of Dr. Walther Huth, president of the German Airvehicle Manufacturers' association. German engines, he stated at the annual meeting of the association, are not big enough for trans-Atlantic flying. While airplane and airship construction is on a high level in all other respects, he observed, the question of more effective engines must be given special attention. Dr. Huth agrees with Clarence D. Chamberlin, who emphasized that trans-oceanic flights are simply a question of "bigger and better engines."

Director Otto J. Merkel of the Lufthansa, another speaker at the annual meeting, agreed with Dr. Huth as far as motors are concerned, but insisted that numerous instruments for night and fog flights must be added to the equipment of air pilots before flying will be perfectly safe.

GERMAN BISHOPS CENSURE ALCOHOLIC ABUSES

BERLIN, Sept. 12 (AP)—A scathing censure of prevailing alcoholic abuses is contained in a pastoral which the bishops at conference in Fulda caused to be read from the pulpits of all Catholic churches in Germany recently.

In strong language the letter sets forth that fabulous sums are daily being squandered for alcoholic debauches and that alcohol has come to dominate all public festivities, club meetings, family parties, and even simpler forms of amusement on the Sabbath, and has frequently led to violent excesses. It points out that "from all parts of Germany and all social spheres complaints are increasing about the rapid spread of the alcohol habit. In recently published statistics on the startling increase of alcoholism a forecast must be seen of a life of misery for the masses."

BELIEVE EFFORT TO FLY ACROSS PACIFIC SUICIDAL

Flight That Confronts World Fliers, 2,480 Miles, From Tokyo to Midway Islands, is Considered Foolhardy by Japanese Airmen—The Islands Are of Coral and Difficult For a Land Plane to Use in Alighting or Departing—Globe-Circlers Are at Omura—Expect to Fly to Tokyo Today.

TOKYO, Sept. 12—(AP)—Japanese fliers were extremely doubtful today that the American aviators, William S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee, now at Omura, Japan, would succeed in flying their monoplane, Pride of Detroit, across the Pacific to complete their air journey around the world.

When informed that Brock and Schlee had announced firm intention of flying across the 2,480 miles of ocean from Tokyo to the tiny Midway Islands, the Japanese airmen said the effort would be suicidal. The islands are of coral sand, difficult for a land plane to use in alighting or departing.

An attempt to reach America by way of the long line of Kurile islands of Japan and the Aleutian islands extending hundreds of miles from the Alaskan peninsula would be most hazardous, said the Japanese experts. The Kuriles and Aleutians, shrouded in fog, are storm swept, and although successfully negotiated by the United States army world fliers in 1924, the route is considered unsafe except under organized safeguards.

Meanwhile, Brock and Schlee were planning to resume their flight toward Tokyo tomorrow from Omura, after two failures due to storms, to reach their Japanese destination.

In their effort to break the world encircling record of 28 1-2 days, Brock and Schlee have been out seventeen days from Detroit and have covered less than 12,000 miles of the total of 22,067 miles.

STORMY WEATHER IS DELAYING WORLD FLIGHT

TOKYO, Sept. 13—(AP)—Dispatches from Omura said that stormy weather is holding up the flight of the American round-the-world monoplane, the Pride of Detroit, there. William S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee, co-pilots of the ship, had intended to hop off for Tokyo today but they are expected to wait now until tomorrow unless the weather improves.

REPORT THE FINDING O FOLD GLORY WRECKAGE

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—(AP)—The Daily Mirror tonight announced the receipt of the following bulletin from Douglas Muir, St. Johns, N. F., newspaperman aboard the S. S. Kyle, the vessel chartered by the Mirror to search for the missing monoplane Old Glory:

"Located wreckage of Old Glory latitude 51.17 nrth, longitude 39.23 west at 4.20 p. m. No signs of crew. Particulars follow."

"MUIR."

The position at which the Old Glory's wreckage was reported found is approximately two degrees both in latitude and longitude from the charted point to which the Anchor liner Transylvania sailed after receiving the plane's S. O. S.

"Transylvania proceeded towards estimated position in latitude 49.30 north, longitude 41.00 west," Captain David W. Bone of the liner radioed the Associated Press last Wednesday as he went to the rescue.

The Old Glory was manned by Pilots Lloyd W. Bertaud and James D. Hill and carried Philip A. Payne, managing editor of the Daily Mirror, as a passenger.

PLANE AMERICAN GIRL FORCED DOWN FOR FUEL

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 12—(AP)—The monoplane American girl, in which Miss Ruth Elder and George Haideman plan to attempt a trans-Atlantic flight and which was due here from Tampa, Fla., for formal christening ceremonies this afternoon has been forced down by lack of fuel at Portsmouth, Ohio, according to a telephone message received at Langin field, Moundsville, near here, at 3 o'clock tonight.

HARBOARD AND MACARTHUR ACCEPTABLE TO FILIPINOS

MANILA, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Major Generals James G. Harboard and Douglas MacArthur were named today by Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine senate, as acceptable to Filipinos for appointment as the next governor-general of the Philippines, as well as Major General Frank McIntyre, at present chief of the bureau of insular affairs of the war department.

Quezon's statement was made in the senate in discussing a successor to General Leonard Wood. He said that while still opposed to a military man in principle, he was willing to make an exception of Harbord, MacArthur and McIntyre.

A surprise was sprung by the senate president, hitherto regarded as also favorable to Eugene A. Gilmore, when Quezon said that Gilmore, who was vice governor-general, became acting governor general on the death of Wood, had not yet shown that he was acceptable or unacceptable to the legislature.

SETTLEMENT OF ILLINOIS COAL STRIKE PROBABLE

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Settlement in the near future of the coal strike in Illinois affecting 72,000 men and 420 mines, was foreseen today in the appointment of a committee of nine operators to consider the situation.

Appointed after the operators had heard a report of its sub-committee, consisting of H. C. Perry and George Harrington, the committee of nine will report tomorrow morning. Although no statement was made regarding the consideration, or what the sub-committee recommended, it was believed the operators were planning a counter-proposal to one offered by the miners.

It was understood the offer of the miners, made on suggestion of John L. Lewis, international president, after the joint committee of two miners and two opeators, had failed to reach an agreement, was for a return to work immediately on the Jacksonville agreement while a new commission of four took up the problem of settlement and reported not later than February 1.

30-FOOT LAUNCH BURNED TO THE WATER'S EDGE

GLEN COVE, N. Y., Sept. 12.—(AP)—The 30-foot launch Nana, valued at $10,000 and owned by W. A. W. Stewart, of Cold Spring Harbor, Long Island, was burned to the water's edge today when its engine backfired, igniting an accumulation of oil.

Persons on the shore, seeing a man dive from the blazing craft, but not seeing any small boat put out from it, at first thought that there was at least one casualty.

It developed later, however, that Captain Noker Nelson, the sole occupant of the launch, was the person seen diving overboard and that he had clambered into a rowboat attached to the Nana. Nelson was later picked up by an oyster boat and landed at Cold Spring Harbor.

WOOD AND SCHILLER TO HOP OFF FOR OLD ORCHARD

HARBOR GRACE, N. F., Sept. 12—(AP)—Phil Wood and C. A. "Duke" Schiller, navigator and pilot of the Canadian monoplane Royal Windsor, announced tonight that they would hop off at noon tomorrow for Old Orchard, Maine, weather permitting.

The fliers, who abandoned their attempt to fly from Windsor, Ontario, to Windsor, England, as a result of recent disastrous trans-Atlantic flights, arrived at Harbor Grace at 8 o'clock tonight, eastern standard time, from St. Johns, stopping en route to aid settlers at Kelligrews fight a forest fire.

On arrival here Wood and Schiller found messages telling that their plane had been entered in the Spokane air derby.

HILL MAINTAINS HIS INNOCENCE OF MATRICIDE

OTTAWA, Ill., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Rushed from the Pacific coast where he was arrested in connection with the death of his mother, questioned in the dim lit cellar at the edge of the shallow grave where her body was found, and then locked up in the county jail, Harry Hill steadfastdly maintained his innocence today.

He did not kill his mother, the divorced wife of a wealthy Streator, Ill., physician, he said, and could prove it when the time came.

"I felt badly when I stood there beside her grave," said the young man for whom a nationwide search was made and who was finally found in Seattle, Wash., after he had sold his automobile and been traced by its engine. "But I wasn't going to cry before the state's attorney."

His only opportunity to get out of jail is by a writ of habeas corpus, and whether such action would be taken his father, Dr. H. C. Hill, did not say. A new attorney, Arthur Shea of Streator, has been added to the Hill staff.

Russell O. Hanses, state's attorney, is busy with the trial of Ray Zarnek of Ottawa, who is accused of killing his uncle, and announced he would have nothing to say about the Hill case until the grand jury meets October 10. Harry is being held on a coroner's inquisitus and on compaint of William Robb, chief of police at Streator.

22 PERSONS INJURED IN ROCK ISLAND WRECK

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Twenty-four persons were injured, several seriously, when the Pullman, diner and observation cars on eastbound Rock Island passenger train No. 40, heavily laden with summer vacationists returning from Colorado Springs, left the track near Centaur, Mo., 33 miles west of here.

A number of the passengers narrowly escaped death when the Pullman car, breaking loose from the train rolled down a 20-foot embankment and turned over in 10 feet of water in the Missouri river.

Quick rescue work on the part of the train crew and assengers prevented any fatalities.

The observation car and diner also were disconnected from the train and rolled down the embankment, but stopped on the edge of the water.

W. E. Dunlop, 52, conductor, of Eldon, Mo., said the wrock was caused by a "sun kink" in the rails, due to expansion of the rails by the heat.

All the injured were brought to St. Louis in the baggage and chair cars of the train, and taken to hospitals.

ENCAMPMENT OF GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Sept. 12.—(AP)—The blue-clad members of the Grand Army of the Republic formally were welcomed to their annual encampment here tonight, when the city extended its official greeting with a civic parade in which local military, city, fraternal and patriotic organizations participated.

The grey-haired veterans, however, did not form part of the marching columns, whose steps were timed by the rhythm of nine bands and two fife and drum corps. Stopped by the weight of the advancing years, and with their last parade a thing of history, the wearers of the blue occupied places of honor on the reviewing stand while younger and stronger men, many veterans of more recent wars, marched before them.

COLONEL CHARLES A. LINDBERGH GIVES HIS VIEWS ON TRANSOCEANIC FLYING

SPOKANE, Sept. 12—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh has given to the Associated Press, in response to its request, the following statement in connection with recent developments in trans-oceanic flying:

"Trans-oceanic flights which have been accomplished demonstrate the feasibility of air transportation between continents. The trend of future development should be toward making such transportation practical under all conditions. The pioneering is over, but the perfecting is yet to be done.

"Regular trans-oceanic travel by air is no more practical today than trans-continental air lines were a decade and a half ago. Years of development and scientific research will be required before such regular inter-continental service can be successfully inaugurated. During this experimental period we may expect casualties. Yet to totally restrict hazardous flights would be placing a ban on scientific progress.

"Such restriction would have the same effect on the future of trans-oceanic flying as the air mail would have experienced had it been abandoned by the government during the heavy casualty period of its pioneering days.

"The result of total restriction might be compared to the effect on aviation in general had legislation been enacted against all flying during the first few years following the flight of the Wright brothers when, hour for hour, any flight was more dangerous than trans-oceanic flying is at present.

"The pioneering and development of almost every advance in the air is marked by the loss of its explorers or its scientists yet they would be the last to request that the advancement of the cause for which they gave their lives be retarded.

"Hazardous flights should not be prohibited, but they should be attempted only after careful study by experienced personnel with the best of modern equipment and for a definite purpose. In the future expeditions should be organized and prizes offered under conditions which promote the development of safer travel.

"Safety of travel does not rest alone in the perfection of plane and engine, but equally important is a highly trained personnel, accurate weather information, and other navigational aids, including a means of radio communication for use in case of forced landing."

PETITIONS FOR ACCEPTANCE OF STREETS RECEIVED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 12—Petitions from landowners seeking lines and grades on streets where their respective properties are located made up the bulk of the business at the September meeting of the common council held tonight. The spectators gallery was filled to capacity by disgruntled taxpayers representing Tingley street, Chapman street, Bain and Greystone streets, who are seeking improved conditions on those thoroughfares. None of these have as yet been accepted as city streets but resolutions adopted point toward favorable acceptance in the near future.

A resolution introduced last month providing for a small fine for pedestrians not observing stop and go signals at intersections which was vetoed by Mayor John C. Tracy was reworded tonight to apply only to motor vehicles. Although the veto of the mayor was sustained Corporation Counsel W. A. King pointed out that this fact did not eliminate the responsibilities of negligence on the part of pedestrians in crossing streets. A resolution introduced by Alderman Beebe provides for the reconstruction of the concrete sidewalk at the Amos Bill property on Lebanon avenue where the present sidewalk disfigures an ornamental wall installed by Mr. Bill.

The collector of taxes and assessments was instructed to conduct a campaign for the collection of sidewalk assessments in arrears. The finance committee was authorized to take with Manager Anderson of the Connecticut Co. the matter of securing an option on about nine acres of land on West Main street abutting the railroad tracks. The land desirably located for a city yard in preference to the one now maintained on Watson street is the site of the carbarn formerly used by the company for the Willimantic-South Coventry line.

The matter of removing a triangle of the high gravel bank which completely obstructs a view of the Providence division tracks of the New Haven road at the Ash street crossing was taken up by Alderman Dubrieul. Arrangements were made for the street superintendent to cart away the gravel.

JEWETT CITY

ASHLAND DIVERS FIGURE IN BIG AQUATIC EVENTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 12—Ashland divers scored well at the Connecticut Sportsmen's Field day held at Bristol. Mary Laframboise finished second in the women's diving event, being beaten by the State A. A. U. senior champion. Mildred Mondor finished fourth. Roland Guillet who was entered in the men's diving, did not compete owing to illness.

Mary Laframboise, 11 year old diving star of the Ashland club, placed fifth in the National A. A. U. junior diving championships, high board, held at Brookline, Mass., last Saturday.

Esther Morison of the Women's Swimming club of Brookline, won the event. Miss Morison is 17 and in addition to the new title also holds the New England A. A. U. Senior Championship. A year ago she finished second in the National Senior event.

Jewett City's own Mary made a strong bid for place among the prize winners in spite of the fact that she was competing against the best in the country for a national title, and that both she and her instructor were not familiar with the requirements of the A. A. U. in such a contest. No other contestant was less than 16 years of age.

In commenting on the result of the contest a Boston paper pays the following tribute to Jewett City's outstanding aquatic star:

"In a field of eight, Esther Morison won the dive handily. She is certainly the best diver in these parts, and with the exception of an 11-year old entrant, Mary Laframboise, from Jewett City, Conn., the competition for place was confined to the local entrants."

OLD LAND MARK GOES TO MAKE ROOM FOR NEW BLOCK

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 12—Arrangements were completed today that will result in the almost immediate disappearance of one of Danielson's old land marks and the erection, in its place, of a new business block for John M. Dowe. The new building will be of tile with a veneer of tapestry brick, two stories in height, with a frontage of 40.5 feet and a depth of 55 feet.

Tearing down of the old structure will start Tuesday and the new building work rushed so that occupancy of the two stores on the street level will be ready for occupancy not later than December 15. There are to be six offices on the second floor. Mr. Dowe said this afternoon that his business will be located in one of the stores and that the other is leased, as are four of the six offices, practically insuring that all available space in the new structure will be rented before it is completed.

The building that is to be torn down has stood for approximately 100 years. In it the Dowe business has been carried on since 1860. Mr. Dowe is of the fourth generation of his family to conduct the business he now has—his great-grandfather, Amasa, his grandfather, Marshall P., and his father, John, have preceded him in carrying it on. Mr. Dowe, a veteran of the World war, took over the property from his mother, Mrs. Helen S. Dowe, in 1922.

He recalled this afternoon that when the Dowe business came to the building it was in use as a sort of arcade, with several firms doing business there, including a saddler. As the Dowe business was expanded more and more of the space was taken over until the firm had the exclusive use of the building.

When telephones were introduced to Danielson, more than two score years ago, the first central office was located in the rear of the building and remained there for years. The old two story frame structure has served them well. That it may be preserved in memory, Mr. Dowe plans to have it photographed, this photograph to include his own family group. The new picture will be a companion one to another of the building showing Mr. Dowe's great-grandfather, grand father and father standing before it.

Mr. Dowe was seeking today for temporary quarters in which to carry on his business for the next three months. He made known that Henry Lague, whose place of business is in the building to be torn down, will have quarters on the second floor of the new building when it is completed.

HERD OF CATTLE ON STAMPEDE IN POMFRET

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Sept. 12—Somewhere in the wooded and rather wild section of southern Pomfret 20 head of cattle were at large today, and probably pondering over what sort of terrifying demon appeared to them last Saturday morning and set them off in a panicky stampede.

The missing cattle represent the major portion of a herd owned by N. A. Witter of Danielson and Michael Harrington of Brooklyn and they were pastured on the beautiful acres of the Kimball farm when their peace and comfort was rudely disturbed. The descent of two aeroplanes participating in the aerial circus, after swooping low over the fields where the cattle were, and the roar of the motors and hum of the propellers set the cattle into a frenzy. Mr. Witter said this morning that those bovines cleared walls with all the speed and efficiency of a steeplechaser. With tails on high and nostrils distended they broke all known records of cattle in a mad drive for the woods and into these they crashed—still going on high. "They may be going yet for all I know," said Mr. Witter this morning, "but they may come back some day." As an unannounced wild west, the stampede of the cattle was an amusing adjunct to the flying circus.

Herbert Hopkins, speaking in the interest of American legion members and other veterans of the World war today, said that it will be necessary for all former service men to bring their discharge papers to the office of the town clerk here and have them recorded if they wish to benefit by the $1,000 tax exemption to which they are entitled. Such discharges must be recorded prior to October 15, if they are to figure in any exemption to be made on the next grand list to be compiled. Failure to record a discharge means that the special exemption for service men will not be allowed.

For more than two hours this morning the Killingly town court, with Judge W. Fenner Woodward presiding, gave its attention to the consideration of a case in which G. Rene Caron was charged with reckless driving, and with the testimony complete Prosecuting Attorney A. G. Bill said he did not feel like requesting the court for a verdict of guilty on the strength of the evidence produced. The finding of the court was thereupon announced as not guilty. Attorney Harry E. Back represented Mr. Caron.

The case grew out of an accident in which an automobile driven by Mr. Caron and another machine driven by Mrs. Myrtice Barnett of North Main street were in collision on August 4, at Dayville Four Corners. Just after still another machine driven by Miss Felicia C. Terry of Danielson started to swing off the highway to enter a filling station. Mrs. Barnett and Mrs. George Caron, who was riding with her son, were injured in the accident and the Caron and Barnett cars were badly damaged.

After being given early attention at the office of Dr. F. P. Todd here, Joseph and Alfred Brand were taken to the Day Kimball hospital at Putnam for further treatment. The brothers were injured when hurled from the motorcycle they were riding along the state highway on North Main street, just north of the borough line. Joseph had a hole gouged in one thigh and both brothers were scratched and bruised. They came to grief when the machine was in collision with an automobile driven by Jesse Burgess of Putnam, and as the Burgess car was passing another automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. James Skouras, who were married at Dayville yesterday, as told in this morning's Bulletin, are now enroute to the middle west on an automobile tour that will be of a month's duration. They are to visit for a time in Detroit.

The bride was given in marriage by her brothers, Harry Evergates and Theodore Evergates.

There will not be much beyond the mere formality in the coming town election in Killingly, it would now appear. There will be a drive for places on the board of selectmen, but unless the democrats accomplish what would be a rather extraordinary achievement, considering the normal republican majority, they can win but one place on the board of selectmen, so the contest for that place will be largely between the two candidates of that party, A. D. Sayles of East Killingly and John H. Ryan of Dayville. There was direct evidence today that that contest already is underway.

Windham county's peach crop is reported as below normal this year, but of superior quality. The demand for the fruit, now being marketed, is reported as heavy.

PUTNAM

PUTNAM PEOPLE FAVOR NEW BATHING PLACE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 12—Several local people are interested in making a public bathing place just north of the new bridge across the Little River at Harrisville. At that point there is an ample flow of water and land nearby which might be flooded by excavation and a dam. Before the change in the highway on Woodstock avenue, there was quite a popular pool at just the point where the new bridge crosses the river but now there seem possibilities of a much better place next summer. In the winter time, it could be converted into a skating rink if the plans of the people backing the project go through.

The finishing touches have been put to the second floor of the new Seder block on Main street and are being occupied as rapidly as they are made ready. Charles Seder, himself, who for a number of years conducted a men's clothing store at the old Seder block now occupies one office and others who have already moved on the second floor are Dr. H. L. Pease, Benoit's Barber shop, Benoit's Beauty Parlors, the Joseph Plessis Insurance company and Dr. L. F. McKenna. On the ground floor the corner room is now occupied by the Grant store and the A. & P. store and the third one will soon be filled. The building is an attractive one and quite an addition to the business part of the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester C. Smith of Pomfret, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Gladys Luhrs Smith to Edson Lockwood Barlow, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Barlow of Ossining, N. Y. The date of the wedding has not yet been made public.

There is no insurance coverage on transportation of pupils from Eastford to Putnam and return. The state commissioner of public vehicles, Robbins B. Stoeckel, is of the opinion that such protection is advisable. In a communication regarding this question, he says that under a former ruling of his department no operator's credentials were required where a contract existed between the municipality sending children to another town and the owners or drivers of motor vehicles, but however, it is a wise thing to do as a matter of protection.

The town of Putnam carries liability insurance where children are residents but are transported to schools some distance from their homes. The inference drawn from the commissioner's letter is that no legal liability exists but that the Eastford authorities should consider the advisability of securing such protection.

He was chosen to succeed Edgar Auger, who was accidentally electrocuted a month ago at Abington while in the performance of his duties with the Putnam Light and Power company.

WESTERLY

ELMER LEWIS DROWNED IN THE PAWCATUCK RIVER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, Sept. 12—Elmer Lewis 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Lewis of 37 Moss street, was drowned in the Pawcatuck river near the Lorraine Manufacturing plant this evening about 7 o'clock. Up to a late hour this evening the body had not been found by the searching parties.

Elmer Lewis and his brother Richard, age 10, were floating down the river in a small flat bottom boat without oars, when the younger lad fell overboard about midstream. The other brother rushed to get help and his cry was heard by John Wucik of John street, Westerly, who was going up Main street and directly across the river from the Lorraine plant. Pulling off his outside clothing he jumped overboard, as did Clifford Collins and Herbert Smith, but their search until dark for the body proved unavailing.

Patrolman Sheldon of Pawcatuck directed the work of searching the river. The truck of the P. S. Barber Hose company with Engineer Francis McMahon also took part in the search. Their work was centered at the pontoon bridge, as it was at first thought the body had caught under the bridge. Search was continued by them until their electric search lights gave out.

When the boy's father reached the dock he jumped overboard, fully clothed as he was and continued in the search for his son's body until word came that his wife had collapsed at home. Grappling irons and other apparatus were put to use and search for the body was kept up. When darkness came on the South County electric light people erected flood lights and the search was continued.

The body was recovered at 9.50 p. m. by Joseph Parkinson of 66 Mechanic street, about ten yards from where the boy sank.

The police were called to a Summer street residence Sunday night when a report was received that a burglar was operating about the premises and that lights were seen flashed off and on in the house. With the exception of two brothers, aged 14 and 22, the other members of the household had visited New London relatives to remain overnight. It was when the younger of the brothers went home about 11 p. m. that things were found amiss and he again returned home, this time in company with Officer LeRoy H. Norman. The front door was found open, the key was on the inside of the back door and a wrist watch, usually in a bureau drawer was found on the table and a coat was across a chair and not in a bedroom where it was kept. A thorough search of the house failed to disclose any intruder and a search about the house also went unrewarded.

A solution was reached by the police an hour later when the younger brother saw the elder brother in an automobile. Questioning by the police brought forth the disclosure that the elder had been home and suddenly becoming hungry, had left for a few moments at a down town restaurant and did not think he would be gone long enough to close the house before his return. He added that he had moved the watch and coat.

TO GO, OR NOT TO GO

With nothing heard from the fliers who have disappeared in their attempts to fly across the Atlantic and with pressure being exerted to prevent any more flights at the present time interest naturally turns to the decision of Brock and Schlee relative to their projected flight across the Pacific. As mapped out the plan would be to do it in three hops. The first would be to Sand island in the Midway group, a distance of 2400 miles. Then would come the hope to Honolulu of 1400 miles and the third to California, a distance of 2100 miles.

These distances are not prohibitive if we can judge by what others have done, but there is a great hazard involved in so navigating a flying machine that a small island in the big Pacific can be located and a safe landing effected there, for provisions for receiving airplanes have not been brought to the stage of perfection there that exists on the mainland. The chance of a fog to handicap the search for the island itself must needs be taken into consideration in view of the experience of Commander Byrd over Paris.

Had those aviators who have attempted to get across the Atlantic been successful in most instances there would have been encouragement given to the projected flight over the Pacific, by a route which no one has as yet attempted. But the loss of three planes in the Atlantic, one in the Caribbean and two in the Pacific throws a damper on the plan to cross the Pacific, even though it does interfere with the effort to lower the time for a round the world flight.

Brock and Schlee have made good progress and experienced a minimum of trouble in their flight which has taken them to Japan. They could probably cross the Pacific if anyone could but there is a big element of chance involved which can hardly be considered justified. There have been enough lives needlessly sacrificed in quest for records without having the number increased when no particular advantage is to be gained by it. There is of course the distinction of being the first and it remains to be seen which way their judgment will carry them.

GETTING ENFORCEMENT

Perhaps none better than those directly concerned in the enforcement of prohibition know the difficulties involved. They are made aware of it from many angles. They understand the contempt for the law, the activities of the many who are unwilling to obey it, the work of those who plan on profiting by breaking it and they come to know how those who are employed to enforce the law fall prey to other influences diametrically opposed to prohibition.

Assistant Secretary Lowman is experiencing no greater difficulties in the enforcement of the dry law than have been faced by his predecessor. He is nevertheless encountering much the same, and being made aware of the many obstacles which cannot be removed and kept removed in a twinkling. He has not been directing the work for a great length of time but he has recently found time to express himself regarding it. He understands that there is much to be done, that the dry forces are honeycombed by those friendly to the wets and he gives recognition to the fact that there is considerable public demand for those beverages which are rated as intoxicating.

It cannot be said that he cowers before the situation. Rather does he look at it in much the same light that General Butler did the Philadelphia situation when he promised that the city would be cleaned up in 48 hours but later learned that there were obstacles in the way to which he had not given consideration and his statement bobbed up frequently to bother him. Mr. Lowman dwelt at considerable length upon the crookedness among prohibition agents and insured a housecleaning, all of which might be expected but perhaps there would be more to talk about if there was something really accomplished in that direction besides promises. He makes the statement that if prohibition can be made effective in 50 years a good job will have been done. Even that will call for more satisfactory results than have been obtained since prohibition went into effect.

FRANCE WINS

Probably a good many who cannot be regarded as tennis enthusiasts have followed with much interest the many contests that have been waged for the Davis cup quite the same as they would any other international contest.

Tennis stars who are regarded as representing the best in this country have been successful in recent years in retaining possession of this trophy, but there have been indications of the fact that the time was coming when there was the probability of its going elsewhere. It has been abroad before and been encouraging to British and Australian tennis players. It has been brought back only to be won in the past week by French stars who have been pushing their way to the front in a manner which made the victory less surprising than might otherwise have been the case.

The players of this country did not lay down to their opponents from overseas. They played high grade tennis but they were opposed by younger French players who must be regarded as being at the height of their game. We have been placing reliance in veteran players. It was in every way deserved but the game has not been bringing forth those who could equal, to say nothing of surpass, our stars and the result is that France gets the coveted cup.

The effect of this victory can be anticipated in regard to France. It should do for the game there what it did previously in Australia, but it must make the tennis players of this country aware that dependence cannot be placed upon Tilden and Johnston forever. Good as they are the time is coming, if it has not already arrived, when others must step into their shoes and while it is asking much to expect anyone to play a better game than they did in their prime it is a goal to be aimed at if there are hopes of returning the Davis cup to this side of the Atlantic. France is deserving of full credit for its success and it can be expected that it will strive to retain it as long as possible.

TIPPING

Appearing before the interstate commerce commission representatives of the porters brotherhood have urged a doubling of their salary and the abolition of tips. They represent that they are now receiving $72.50 a month as wages and in addition they are receiving about $7,000,000 in contributions from the patrons of Pullman cars and they want the arrangement changed so that their compensation for services will be a flat sum each month without tips.

Getting rid of tipping is an old story. If the porters should get an increase in wages as sought it is to be expected that the Pullman passengers would find their tickets advanced enough to meet that expense. In other words they would be paying what they are now handing out in tips in another way. Whether the amount would be the same might depend upon the liberality used in tipping. For some it might be less and for others a little more. Where tipping is forbidden the patron realizes that even he is better satisfied to pay in that manner than to participate in the system of tipping.

But the question arises as to whether the ending of tipping would actually terminate the practice, whether it wouldn't disappear for a time only to come back because certain ones resorted to it and others would be forced into it in order to get equivalent service. In spite of all the efforts to put an end to it tipping is quite as prevalent as ever and it bids fair to be quite as long as there's a willingness to accept such contributions.

REFORESTATION

From across the water comes the interesting statement that the great forest of Brecknock, once famous in England and extending to southern Wales, is being restored. This involves a large area in a wild and mountainous country where the growing of timber is the best suited to the conditions.

For a long time reforestation has been advocated in this country. This is being done in advance of the day when the woodlands have been all cut off but not too soon to properly prepare against the day when the new forests will be in demand. Had such a policy been followed in this great forest in England and a gradual replacement taken place of the woods as they were cut off, there would not be the stupendous job of replacing that forest today. It is a similar situation which it is desired to avoid in this country.

We have much land that is best adapted to growing trees. If we wait until our timber supply gets to the point of exhaustion it will be impossible to begin planting and still meet requirements, but if reforestation is commenced a sufficient time in advance of exhaustion to permit of the growth of new trees the supply will be continuous and economic conditions will be the best served.

Reforestation is of much importance to any country. It is simply applying good practice and foresight and anticipating needs which are certain to arise. It means the additional effort to bring about elimination of waste as far as land is concerned.

THE COST OF KIN

Crowds of people were pouring into the movie palace. Two tall criers were intoning their message:

"Plenty of good seats in the balcony. No waiting for seats in the balcony."

Inside the ticket sellers' kiosk fingers flew as the two cashiers made change and slid out tickets.

An hour passed. Then, the crowd disposed of, the two cashiers relaxed and resumed a conversation that had been interrupted by the surging mob of fans.

"And so," said the dark one, whose name was Susy, "it's as much as we can do to be nice to 'em, they being such close kin to us. I do wish a person didn't have to have cousins and aunts. But mom is so crazy about Uncle George—"

"Isn't it so?" said the fair Gwendolyne. "Sometimes a person likes their family, but not often."

"Well," pursued Susy, "mom does. If it's her family. It's the zebra's pyjamas; and I must say Uncle George isn't a bad old scout. If he only had some firmness with Aunt Kate and that awful child, Midge. I declare, that Midge—"

"How old's she?" asked Gwendolyne.

"Seventeen, goin' on; and o' course they think she hung the moon. Well, when grampa died he left mom and Uncle George a half apiece of his savin's, not that they amounted to much—"

"Wish I had a grampa to die and leave me something," interrupted Gwendolyne.

"And, of course, pop he invested mom's share so she gets her little old $75 every six months as regular as the alarm clock goin' off these dark mornings. But Aunt Kate, she made Uncle George do some fool get-rich-quick thing with his and so he lost it. And poor old Uncle George ain't got either a Rockefeller or a Morgan complex, so they plug along on not much of anything to speak of. But that perk little old Midge—"

"I get you. She sticks out her neck at everything but the best and has to have it, hey?"

"Yeh, and so this year me and pop and Jane we saved up our driblets until we got where we could say to mom she should have a fur coat, and a spiffy one at that, first one she ever had. So she gets it, last August, and sits and groans all summer, lest seeing a plague of moths marchin' by the ice chests where they insure 'em and all—"

"Then, what happened! Just this: Last Sunday afternoon, our Sunday off out of this cage, don't Uncle George and Aunt Kate and that Midge, that ought to be home learning her lessons—she runs out every night and how she's ever to crawl out of first-year high the heavens only knows—don't they come over to spend a pleasant time with all, and Midge in a baby-goat caracul coat. And mind you, that was the very exact kind I was going to buy me this next August, saving for it like mad, and mom saying we was both to have a fur coat as fast as ever we could go, now we gave her one and all!"

"Whoof!"

"Well!" said Susy, explosively. "We just looked at one another. And then with that foolish smirk on their faces, as good as to say, 'Look, will you, at our prize package we got, all rigged out like a million dollars.' It just made me boil!

"No one said nothing. Finally Jane she couldn't hold in any longer—says: 'Well, if my mother was wearing a $25 coat out of Blank's basement I'd be ashamed to prance all over the place in a coat must of cost $200 or $300 at the very least, Midge Peters!'"

"Then what did they say?"

"Oh, it was sickening. Aunt Kate she begins to blubber and sniffle and Midge she boo-hooes and Uncle George he looks as if his dinner was disagreeing with him pretty bad, and if you think a pleasant time was had, why—I tell you it was terrible. But what's killing me—how in the world am I goin' to get the kind of fur coat I want so bad I can taste it, when that awful Midge's got it first? Now I'll have to go and take a pony or something that won't look so good on me—I tell you, I wisht I lived in a desert island where I wouldn't have a relation on earth, but only friends with a quarter or at least a dime less than I have!"

"I'll say," agreed Gwendolyne.—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

HEMORRHAGES DURING PREGNANCY

By Joseph B. DeLee, M. D., Chicago
Member Gorgas Memorial

Nowhere in all medicine can so much be accomplished by preventive measures as in obstetrics, and this fact should bring great comfort to prospective mothers. By proper "prenatal care," which simply means supervision and treatment of pregnant women, nearly all grave accidents can be prevented, or at least mitigated. But the public must realize that all women should be constantly and intelligently watched over from the beginning until the baby is several months old.

Previous articles have dealt with the "toxemias" of pregnancy, the vomiting and the so-called kidney disease which may lead to convulsions. In this one I shall tell about the hemorrhages or bleedings which are every bit as important.

No woman should bleed while she is with child. If it does occur, the doctor should be called at once and, what is of the greatest importance, all the blood and everything that comes away must be saved so that he can examine them. The cause of the bleeding may vary but the danger is the same for both mother and baby, and great help can be given to both if competent medical aid is summoned immediately.

Sometimes the bleeding means that a miscarriage is threatening and, if the flow occurs in the later months, that the after-birth has loosened from its bed or perhaps this is lying in front of the baby, a condition which is called placenta previa. Another cause of both external and internal hemorrhage is the nesting of the baby outside the womb—extra-uterine pregnancy.

Miscarriage is so common that women have grown careless about it, but many hundreds of valuable lives are snuffed out unnecessarily every year because of this accident. If we include in this statement those women who die after going to a criminal abortionist, the number reaches into the thousands annually.

A criminal abortionist is a beastly person who is in the vile business of murdering innocent children, who does not care a straw for the women who go to him, and who robs them not only of their money but also of their health, if he does not kill them outright.

Readers, beware of such fiends, male or female! Besides those in the cemeteries, millions of women are dragging out a wretched existence because of such malpractice.

The other three causes of bleeding are very rare, and obstetric science can usually cope with them successfully.

As a rule the bleeding in miscarriage is preceded by pains in the back similar to those of the periods, and in such a case the woman should treat herself as told below. If there is severe pain in the abdomen with faintness, nausea, or vomiting, the bleeding may be going on internally. Most often there is external bleeding more or less severe.

In all cases, at the first sign of blood during pregnancy, or of severe abdominal pain or colic, go to bed at once, have your husband put some blocks or a pile of books under the bed posts so as to raise the foot of the bed 12 or 14 inches off the floor, and lie quiet while waiting for the doctor. Be prepared for proper care at home or for a trip to the hospital. Your booklet of instructions will tell what to do.

Don't get excited, don't accept the explanations of kindly but ignorant neighbors, don't fail to send for the doctor the very first thing, don't throw away anything that comes from you, but save it for the doctor's inspection.

unattractive bulbs, without thought of the beautiful flowers that come from them. And the sequence of thrift and personal advancement is just as true as the sequence of bulb and lily.

To maintain that one can go through life with absolute disregard for the fundamentals of rightful living and prudent habits, and still continue to thrive is as false a doctrine as would be the suggestion that the flowers could live and grow without the bulb.

There are varying standards of thrift, according to individual circumstances and conditions. But living beyond one's means, squandering one's time, energies and health, and thinking only of present moments without plan or preparation for the later years, are practices that cannot fail to bring unhappiness in the end.

Unless the flowers of your success and happiness are rooted in the plain brown bulbs of thrift, the day of their passing is sure to come.—American Society for Thrift.

One Cake Left

One cup cake was left on the breakfast table. "May I have that cake, mother?" inquired Winnifred, as she cast greedy eyes cakeward.

"No, you have had enough," repeated the mother for the third time.

"Oh, mother," exclaimed Winnifred suddenly, as she was getting ready for school, "there's a poor little girl in our room and I want to take her something for recess. May I take her that cake?"

"Certainly, darling. I'm glad you thought of it."

That evening mother happened to think of the cake. "Winnifred, how did the little girl like the cake?"

"Oh, I ate it myself. She said she didn't want it."

"There, I knew she would eat it herself," cried Jane.

Manners

A small boy with a violin case was seated in a street car idly studying the other occupants. As two ladies boarded the car, the boy glanced down the aisle for available seats. Seeing none, also that no one rose to accommodate the women, he started to get up. Then, seeming to remember something, he turned to his right hand neighbor, whom he had observed to be a man of about 55. This person was gazing placidly at the newcomers.

Puckering up his face a moment, and steeling himself to the ordeal, he gave the gentleman a none-to-gentle dig in the side, whereupon that person turned to the boy with a pained and gently reproving expression.

Looking him stolidly in the eye the boy gave him a meaning stare, rose, turned to the ladies, and offered his seat. The man frowned but could do nothing else: so he rose and did likewise while expressive smiles passed around the car.

Little Talks on Thrift

LOOKING TO THE FUTURE

"It doesn't pay to worry about the future. The things we dread seldom happen. It's better to take life as it comes and not burden ourselves with thoughts about the years ahead."

There are many whose creed of life is something like this and it leads them along a very treacherous and dangerous pathway. It doesn't pay to worry, perhaps, from the standpoint of conjuring up imaginary woes or misfortunes. But there is a great difference between worrying about the future and facing life's possibilities in a sensible manner.

The Japanese have a proverb which says: "Success and happiness are the beautiful flowers that spring from the plain brown bulbs of thrift and savings." The point of this talk on thrift is to point out the difference between planting the honest bulbs of thrift and neglecting entirely to make provision for the future.

Too many of us are apt to think of thrift only in terms of plain, brown,

Cubby Awakens

Of course you know the stolen sweet
Is very, very hard to beat.
—Cubby the Bear.

Never in his short life had Cubby enjoyed himself quite so much as he had down there in the cellar of Farmer Brown's house. You will remember he had found the molasses barrel and had managed to turn the spigot so the molasses ran. Of course he had done this by accident, but the result was the same. Then he had just laid down beneath that spigot and let that molasses run right down into his throat. He had a perfectly blissful sticky time of it. When his little stomach could hold no more molasses, he began to feel sleepy. A full stomach usually makes one feel sleepy, you know. So he looked around for a place for a nap. In one corner he found a pile of old potato sacks. What could be better for a bed? In three minutes Cubby was curled up and sound asleep.

Right in front of Cubby's inquisitive nose was a jar of peaches

Meanwhile the molasses was running out of the barrel, and it kept on running until there was no more to run. Of course it made a great puddle on the floor. But Chubby knew nothing of this and it wouldn't have made any difference if he had. He slept until just about supper time. Then he awoke. At first he couldn't think where he was. Then it came to him. He remembered that treat he had had, and straightway scrambled to his feet to get some more.

Of course he found the great puddle of molasses on the floor and he began to lap up some of it. Somehow it didn't taste as good as he had expected it to. You see, he had had so much sweet that his stomach couldn't stand any more. So after a few laps he turned away to see what else he could find. He didn't bother to walk around that molasses, but walked right through it.

Opening from the main part of the cellar was Mother Brown's preserve closet. There she kept jars of preserves, glasses of jelly, and bottles of catchup and jars of pickles. She was very proud of that preserve closet. There was shelf on shelf of goodies. Straight to this closet went Cubby. Now this was lighted by a small window, so there was light enough for Cubby to see. He stood up on his hind legs and gazed up at the shelves. He could see things that looked good to eat, but from where he was he couldn't reach them. So he promptly scrambled up to the first shelf.

Now this shelf contained jar after jar of preserved peaches and pears and plums. Right in front of Cubby's inquisitive little nose was a jar of peaches. He could see them through the glass, but he couldn't touch them and he didn't understand it. He poked at the jar. It moved again. This time it toppled off the shelf and fell on the floor and broke. That was the crash that had started the folk at the supper table upstairs.

Cubby promptly scrambled down, and those peaches didn't last long. He smacked his lips and looked up at these shelves. Then up he went again and knocked another jar off. Rather, this time he knocked two or three off. You see, knocking them off that way was the only way he could get them open. Then once more he scrambled down to feast on these new goodies. Never was there a happier little Bear! But in the midst of his feast he heard a door upstairs open. Something inside him told him that it would be best for him not to be found there. He grabbed one more plum and then darted back into the main cellar and squeezed in behind some barrels.

She is the "Ideal" of the Engineers

SHE is not an eight nor a four but a six—the ideal engine, say the engineers.

—She is not 116" long, nor 126", but exactly 121"—the ideal length, say the engineers.

—She does not have a valve-in-head motor nor a sleeve valve motor, but an L-Head motor—the ideal type, say the engineers.

—She does not have cantilever springs, neither worm gear nor hypoid gear final drive, nor a four-bearing crankshaft, but she does have half-elliptic springs, spiral bevel gear final drive and a seven-bearing crankshaft—all ideal, say the engineers.

—She has none of the old and the obsolete, she does not offer you in 1927 the features of 1925, but from stem to stern, from roof to road, she is entirely new.

—No other car in the world today even approaches the Flying Cloud in its identity with the Engineers' Ideal Car.

The Flying Cloud is a Pleasure Car

—She is a pleasure to see, to ride in, to drive, to own.

—She brings to motoring a thrill that mere passenger cars never had.

—She makes old cars obsolete and many of the newest dear at any price.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

Corinne Griffith, whose newest First National picture "Three Hours," is playing today at the Breed theatre, can trace her first public recognition of her pulchritude to a beauty contest.

While still at school in New Orleans, a schoolmate sent her picture to the Mardi Gras committee, the members of which were searching for a handsome girl to enact the "Queen of the Mardi Gras," in the annual parade, and Corinne was the unanimous choice of the judges.

Following the Mardi Gras carnival Miss Griffith went with her parents to California, where her beauty and inherent acting ability soon won her recognition in the original Vitagraph company. She first played extra and bit parts but within a year she was being featured in important pictures.

"Three Hours," which ends its local engagement at the Breed theater tonight, is a tensely dramatic film version of May Edginton's story and deals with the romance of a young woman who is forced to leave her home and all that is dear to her when falsely accused of infidelity. Supporting Miss Griffith in this highly emotional photo drama is an unusually strong cast, including John Bowers, Hobart Bosworth, Paul Ellis, Ann Schaefer and Mary Louise Miller.

There is a pronounced fad for ostrich feather trimmings for dresses and negligees. The demand has been stimulated by the Paris fashion showings, so that department stores and garment manufacturers are now buying the feathers and trimmings.

ENGLISH HOUSES NAMED INSTEAD OF NUMBERED

LONDON, Sept. 12 (AP)—One of the most picturesque aspects of England to American visitors lies in the fact that private homes bear names rather than numbers.

Four Chimneys, Five GGables, Hillcrest, Mapleleaf, and their cousins take the place of 324, 538, 844 and the like.

This is somewhat difficult for the person seeking a house for the first time, and particularly hard for a new letter carrier. But it does have its amenities. Over the doors and on the gates of English homes are their names, and the homes come to acquire characters in accordance with their names.

KING GEORGE'S LAGER SPECIALLY BREWED

LONDON, Sept. 12 (AP) King George V greatly prefers lager beer to any other form of alcoholic beverage. The king's lager is brewed by an Edinburgh firm, and is supplied to no other table, it is said.

The king is known for being remarkably abstemious in diet. Lager beer, which, after the war, was in considerable vogue in England as a summer beverage, is in less demand this year, probably because of the unseasonable coolness of the weather.

GIRL SPILLED CARBOLIC ACID INTO HER EYE

Lena Bosker, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bosker of Montville, is a patient at the William W. Backus hospital as a result of an accident at her home Sunday evening at 11 o'clock. Miss Bosker, who is blind in one eye and has poor vision in the other, was preparing her luggage for her expected departure Monday morning for the State School for the Blind at Hartford, where she is a pupil. She was reaching for her tooth paste, which was on a shelf and by accident got hold of a bottle of carbolic acid. In some manner the cork became unloosened and the contents of the bottle were poured upon her good eye and the surface of her face, burning them seriously. She was rushed to the Backus hospital, where she was treated by Dr. LaPierre of Norwich. It was reported at the hospital Monday that Miss Bosker was in great pain, but it was hoped that the sight of the eye can be saved.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE OPENS SEASON WITH SPIRITED MEETING

A look backward into the accomplishments of the Norwich chamber of commerce for the past seven years while John J. O'Rourke has been secretary and a look forward into the coming year when Walter H. Pilcher will be secretary were the features of the chamber's dinner meeting at 6:30 Monday evening at the Wauregan hotel, when opened the current season of activity. Added to this was the presence of Clark Belden of Hartford, executive vice-president of the Connecticut chamber of commerce, who spoke some inspiring and encouraging words to the Norwich men. There was a note of ringing enthusiasm at the meeting, which was attended by about 75 and at which Rev. Dr. David A. Pitt asked the divine blessing before the meal was served. Swahn's orchestra played during the evening and Earl Taggart officiated as song leader.

President James L. Case expressed a cordial welcome to the members at the opening of the season, and after complimentary references to John J. O'Rourke, secretary from 1920 to 1927, Walter H. Pilcher, who became secretary on the first of August and Clark Belden, executive vice-president of the state chamber of commerce, he presented Mr. O'Rourke to speak of past accomplishments of the chamber of commerce.

What Has Been Done

The gathering gave the popular former secretary a fine tribute, the men rising to their feet and applauding and ending with three cheers for John.

For one thing, said Mr. O'Rourke in opening his address, he refused to be farewelled for Norwich is his home. He went on to ask that the individual members of the chamber give their services in the work of the year and he extolled what had been accomplished by the organization before he became secretary.

Then Mr O'Rourke touched briefly upon what had been done in the past seven years by and through the chamber of commerce. Industrially, four new industries had been brought here, adding a total weekly payroll of $5,000 and valuable aid and support had been given to some of our largest industries. In mercantile lines, the day of the itinerant vendor in Norwich had been ended, and a credit rating bureau had been formed. In transportation lines there had been numberless conferences with railroad officials and Norwich now gets better service through buses than ever through the railroads. The State of Maine express has been routed through this city. Of outstanding importance has been the securing of a United States government appropriation for the deepening of the Thames river channel, which will keep us in the classification of a seaport city and be of incalculable benefit to every line of business.

To accomplish a step towards equitable taxation the appropriation of $20,000 has been secured for tax maps which will show how every piece of property is owned which has never been known before. This thing should be pursued, said Mr. O'Rourke, who paid a tribute to the work of Chandler & Palmer in preparing the maps. In public recreation, the recreation commission has been appointed and has done a great service with the limited means at its disposal. Fort Shantok has been made a state park reservation band concerts have been given, the U. S. Marine band brought here, the Colchester road and the Gardner lake route were advocated and appropriations secured for the care of trees on the city streets.

Speaking of school development in which the chamber of commerce had been interested, Mr. O'Rourke mentioned the building of the Elizabeth street, Bishop and Samuel Huntington schools and the decision of the town to appropriate money towards tuition in the Norwich Free Academy. Another building plan was the erection of the nurses home at the Backus hospital.

In advertising the city the White Way had been secured and the chamber had been the coordinating agency in securing the adoption of daylight saving time. Other points which Mr. O'Rourke mentioned were the dedication of the World war memorial, investigation of fire insurance rates, investigation of community chest, establishment of Boy Scout council, and securing of housing plans after the world war.

Taking all these things into consideration, Mr. O'Rourke asked if this work does not compare well with any city of the size of Norwich and does it not deserve loyal support for the future.

He concluded with commendation for the first issue of "Norwich Progress" under the direction of Secretary Pilcher for whom he wished every success in the future.

Gift to Mr. O'Rourke

President Case then presented Mr. O'Rourke a purse of about $150 as a testimonial of the warm personal regard held for the former secretary by the members of the chamber of commerce. Mr. O'Rourke was deeply touched by the gift but managed to express a few words of warm appreciation.

Secretary Pilcher Speaks of Plans

Secretary Pilcher was introduced by President Case to speak of the plans for the year and was hailed with applause and cheers as the members rose to greet him.

He spoke in part as follows:

I want to take this opportunity at the offset before I go into the main portion of my remarks this evening to express my appreciation of the fine reception accorded me as soon as my decision had been reached to come to Norwich. I was besieged with letters from members of the Chamber and Directors and it resulted in a very happy anticipation. At the time your committee was casting about for a new man to fill the post left vacant by the resignation of Mr. O'Rourke, opportunities were tendered me in one or two other locations, so that at the time the offer was made definite here, I was naturally forced to give the matter very careful consideration. My decision to come to Norwich was based upon the belief that an opportunity existed here for constructive work and I still believe that if the same spirit of co-operation continues that has during my first month's service here, that we shall have very happy relations as the time goes on. After arriving in Norwich my first job had a great deal to do with the studying of the organization, its by-laws and its former activities, and I want to assure you at this point that during the several years I have been connected with the Chamber of Commerce, I have visited many organizations and studied their programs and accomplishments, that I have never seen an organization in a community the size of Norwich which had such a good record and whose books and general financial condition were in better shape than the Norwich Chamber's at the time Mr. O'Rourke left it. While the record of his administration is impressive to local people who have been familiar with it, it stands out among Chambers in other parts of the country to perhaps a much greater extent than it does locally.

I hope you will bear with me this evening while I touch on a few of the more important phases of the coming activities in the Chamber. You will find the book of Mathew and, by the way, I trust I may refer to the good book in the presence of the Chamber of Commerce membership, at least I hope you will not be like the two elderly ladies who attended the women's sewing circle at an afternoon tea, one of whom was heard to remark I always thought Sodom and Gomorrah were man and wife and the other one replied, well if they were not, they ought to have been. However in the book of Matthew, you will find that it says, where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them. The revised version has it, where two or three American business men gather together, they immediately proceed to elect a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer. Thereafter there remains these four, president, vice president, secretary and treasurer, and the greatest of these is the secretary. Now while in the average case this story may apply, I am a firm believer based upon the experience of many Chambers throughout the country that a Chamber of Commerce is successful to the extent that its members participate in its activities and likewise a Chamber secretary succeeds in just such proportion as he is able to interest and enthuse the membership in the work of the organization. With this end in view, our first thought has been, publication of a monthly magazine. This being published in co-operation with the Affiliated Chamber of Commerce Publications of New York, an organization which publishes several other Chamber bulletins. The same articles of national interest which occupy six pages of the magazine are printed in each of the other Chamber publications and the local news is covered on four pages, and in addition we have both outside covers. We commend it to your attention and trust that you will find it interesting and helpful in keeping in touch with the activities of your Chamber.

The second step in connection with our program has been the development of the budget and sustaining fund plan. This may sound technical, but it is simply the putting down on paper of the program you wish to carry out during the coming year and what it will cost. At the present time there is a possible income of $7500 for the coming year's work, merely enough to carry on the cost of administration. In many cities in New England and throughout the country this same condition is prevalent. The total amount received from membership dues is not sufficient to carry on the work the Chamber is expected to do. So in Norwich we called together our various committees, sat down and worked out a program and developed a tentative budget. The recommendations of these various groups along with the tentative budget were submitted to the budget committee who in turn went through each item very carefully. They finally passed on their recommendations to the board with a few changes in the original suggestions and the result has been the adoption of the $11,000 budget which you have had about as the object of our coming campaign. Now there are some items included in this budget which I want to dwell on to some extent.

First, is the industrial survey. Why we should have one, what will it cost and what good will it be when we get it? In order to answer this question, Why should we have one?, I am going to take the situation as we actually find it in Norwich. A good many Chamber members as well as outsiders who are citizens of Norwich and not members of the Chamber are constantly asking the secretary and the officers of the Chamber, why we don't get new industries. In fact the desire to get new industries is quite often the reason for a Chamber's organization, and a secretary is employed and told that one of the parts of the program the board are anxious to have him give considerable attention to, is the securing of industries. This is easy. Many secretaries have been told the same thing and many thousands of dollars have been spent promiscuously in trying to get new industries. Recently the city of Utica, New York, raised a fund of a million dollars and employed a man whom they paid $5000 a year to sit down and work on this problem. At the end of a year's time, he had corresponded with some 1500 different plants who were considering locating in Utica and they had developed a prospect list of 36. Of this 36 more than 20 were anxious to secure a part of the million dollar fund and a few more were found to be undesirable for one reason or another and it finally dwindled down to three actually good prospects for Utica, none of whom they had actually secured at the end of the year's work. What is the answer? First of all few industries are moving. Cities are in keen competition for those few. Those cities who have the best advantages to offer and who are presenting them through publicity, advertising and in the form of industrial surveys have only adopted a plan which every business man uses in selling his wares and customs. The average business man first of all desires to know his product. He places his house in order and invites people to his store and through attractive window displays and good salesmanship, business is produced. The same thing applies to a community. Before we can successfully sell the advantages of Norwich or develop the inequalities and defects in our community, it is necessary to make a careful survey of all the factors which have a bearing on industry. I say industry, because Norwich is primarily an industrial city. If it was a summer resort, it would be an entirely different problem. This must be done with the view of developing industry, by that, I mean that we are to complete a survey to enable us to give as much attention to the development of the industries we already have as to those we may hope to secure. Briefly, I might say right here that last year the city of Rochester raised a fund of $750,000 to be used as a loaning fund to help promote industry in Rochester. At the end of the year 75 per cent of the money which had been used out of this fund had gone to enable present industries to expand their facilities and only 25 per cent had been spent in securing new industries. Therfore in answering the question of an industrial survey, I state that it is necessary for us to have all of the facts which bear on industrial expansion, such as taxation, transportation facilities, available labor supply, available factory space, water supply, power resources and many other subjects such as geography, topography, climate, etc., etc. The cost of the industrial survey is of course dependent upon the size of the city and the way in which you have it done. Some surveys have been made by a committee inviting the secretary to take a trip in their car and spending the day in travelling about and looking over the city. This way of course is very fine in facilitating the secretary with the city, but doesn't present a very concrete argument to a prospect nor does it particularly help out the expansion of present industry. The other custom has been the employment of high grade technical experts who spend anywhere from two to six months in your community and employ a large force of people to make a thorough and high grade investigation at a cost of about $3500 to $6000. In Rochester we felt the need of an industrial survey and it became one of the projects of the industry committee. They succeeded in securing subscriptions to a fund which amounted to approximately $10,000 and employed a local young man who was an industrial engineer in the Eastman Kodak company and who has very successfully built up the information needed in loose leaf form and has at command practically all information necessary about Rochester as far as it relates to industrial development. In Norwich your committee have felt that a similar plan might be followed and while they are not sure as to what the total cost will be, they have requested an initial appropriation of $1000 to get the project under way. Under this plan it will mean the employment of a man locally who will work along with the committee on a program similar to the one suggested by the United States Chamber of Commerce.

The third question, what good will it be to us when we have it, depends on a large degree to the civic support of the community. When it becomes known that Norwich should have more and better homes or that it needs better transportation facilities or what not in order to expedite industrial development, or likewise if it becomes known Norwich has many things which are attractive to industrial development, it then becomes a problem of publicity and advertising. This leads me up to the third subject which I commend to your attention this evening, that of "publicity" for which an appropriation of $1,000 has been included in the budget for this year. At the present time there is no booklet in the chamber office which can be used as descriptive of Norwich. Your publicity committee have recommended the printing of five to ten thousand booklets containing photographs of principal buildings and scenes in and around Norwich, along with suitable descriptive material attractively arranged. They have also felt that more work could be done along the lines of road signs which leaves a lasting impression in the minds of the traveling public, and finally they have felt that efforts to sell Norwich to the outside world would be in vain unless we made along with it an effort to make the advantages of the city well known to its own population. Now there are many other things on our program for the coming year. One in particular I want to emphasize at this point is that of aviation. It also ties in with the matter I have been talking on, that of publicity. Norwich was anxious to put its name on the map in a more impressive fashion, than it has ever done before, the one thing to do would be to have an airport or a landing field for aeroplanes. The other day a map came into my office in which the various fields over the country, perhaps twenty-five or thirty were very clearly spotted on the map. There is only one in Connecticut at present and that is in Hartford. We have invited your governor to attend the county fair and also to be present at our one day congress on September 26th. If we had a suitable field for him to land in, he would undoubtedly come here in his aeroplane. I think one of the finest things that could result from this meeting tonight to show the citizens of Norwich that we are a progressive organization would be a telegram to the governor stating that a group of men here have undertaken to put the fair grounds in condition for him to fly here on Thursday, September 22nd, Governor's day. That would become known all over the state and would be a mighty fine thing for us to do.

On the 26th day of September we are planning a one day congress. The definition of a one day congress is an opportunity for every citizen to have a part in considering the chamber's program of work. In the morning we open with a breakfast at which Frank Stockdale is to address the local sales people on "How to build sales and grow with your store." At some other time during the day we are hoping to arrange for a mass meeting in the Norwich Free Academy to be addressed by one of the speakers. At eleven o'clock a round table conference of the Retail Credit bureau is to be in charge of Edwin S. Niles, formerly secretary of the Retail Credit bureau in Springfield and now general manager of the Retail Shopping News, an expert in this particular subject. At noon a merchants' luncheon will be addressed by Mr. Stockdale on the subject, "Today's competition and how to meet it", followed by an opportunity for business men to have a personal conference with Mr. Stockdale on any particular problem they may wish to have his counsel on. At three in the afternoon an open forum at which we are hoping to have Mr. Colvin Brown of the United States chamber of commerce. At four a women's mass meeting in charge of Mr. Niles of Springfield to discuss retail shopping conditions and at 6.30 in the evening a chamber dinner to be addressed by Campbell Scott, consulting engineer of New York city, on the subject "How to develop Trade and Industry," on which occasion we are hoping to have Governor Trumbull present. The One Day Congress will be followed on Friday by the opening of our five day campaign to establish the budget for next year. I am sure that the program is worthy of consideration of every citizen of Norwich and with the proper cooperation and support on the part of the members in backing up and working for this program, we will no doubt make a big success of the campaign. The progress of Norwich depends upon the wholehearted support which the citizens give to its program of work. So in closing, gentlemen, I want to remind you of the little girl in a western wheat field who was lost. About one hundred men were searching the field high and low but had been unable to get any trace of her. Finally one bright fellow thought that they form a long line and taking hold of hands march forward. They did this and in a short time the little girl was located. This is the essence of cooperation, when a group of live wire citizens who are loyal to the home town decide that they want to put over a certain project and unite their efforts to do it the feat is practically accomplished. In Saranac some fifty or sixty fellows worked on our campaign to put over a new hotel for Saranac lake. The result is a $500,000 project and one hundred rooms and bath, opened on July 1 this year. The citizens of that community can point to that structure and say there is something the chamber of commerce did for Saranac lake. For years the Rochester chamber has been working for a city management plant. A campaign organized of over 1,200 workers two years ago for no other purpose than to approach every voter and ask him to sign a petition requesting the common council to submit the question in form of referendum to the people. At the time of the referendum over 60,000 votes were cast in favor of the city management plan and the result is that on January first the coming year, Rochester turns over its government to the new city manager. That is a concrete example of what organized cooperation can accomplish. Finally gentlemen we are about to enter a test period in the life of our organization and I appeal to you for a continuation of that hearty support which you have always rendered to worthy projects in the past, to the end that Norwich may progress in maintaining her prestige among progressive cities of America which she rightly deserves.

State Officer Speaks

President Case expressed confidence in the plans for the year as outlined by Secretary Pilcher and then introduced Mr. Belden, executive vice-president of the Connecticut chamber of commerce, to speak upon what Norwich ought to do in the future.

After suggesting that the facts brought out by Mr. O'Rourke could profitably be published in pamphlet form and making complimentary references to President Case and Secretary Pilcher, Mr. Belden went on to say that chamber of commerce work some times calls for sacrifice on the part of the individual, but if you can find the man who is willing to give time to the work you can make it go and it will indirectly be a benefit to the individual. He gave the advice that Norwich men could compare what they see in other cities with what they see in Norwich and ask themselves if they are proud of the part they are playing in their own community. Make the decision to play your part, he said, to do your share and you will be vastly benefited and it will benefit Norwich.

Mayor Waters Called On

Mayor Waters was called on by President Case, responding by saying that for the past five years he had been realizing what the chamber of commerce can do for the city. I've worked with them, said the mayor, and I know that the chamber of commerce will do anything that is for the best interests of Norwich and that is what we want. It is up to us to do what we can through this organization.

ENGLAND GETS COCKTAIL RECIPES FROM AMERICA

LONDON, Sept. 12 (AP)—Everyone knows him as "Craddock the Cocktail King." He probably has a first name, but no one uses it. He presides over the important function of mixing cocktails at the exclusive Savoy hotel.

Craddock says that every year he receives at least 20 new recipes for cocktails from America. These come from men and women who made inquiry as to who was mixing the cocktails they were being served during their stay in London. Craddock claims the distinction of having concocted the last legal cocktail in New York at midnight on the night before prohibition went into effect.

FIRST NEWSPAPER AD DISCOVERED IN LONDON

LONDON, Sept. 12 (AP)—What is believed to be the first newspaper advertisement has been discovered in the files of a London newspaper. It is exhibited at the Advertising exhibition and convention held in London during July.

The ad is from a newspaper called A Collection for Improvement of Husbandry and Trade, published in London, Dec. 13, 1695. It reads as follows:

"A commander of a very good merchant ship wants an apprentice that hath his Pen well, and understands Arithmetick to assist him in the keeping of Books and doing of Business, and hath Friends who will be bound for his true and faithful service during his Apprenticeship."

The family roll call showed that there are Martiuses in Austria, Germany, Hungary, Poland and America.

CONN. BUILDING TOTALS ASCEND DURING AUGUST

Bridgeport took the lead in building activities in the state of Connecticut during the month of August, according to a survey made by E. L. Taylor, secretary of the committee on industrial development of the New Haven railroad. The Park city's total of building permits issued during the month of August reached $1,160,057 as compared with a total for the same month last year of $465,956. The railroad survey shows that increases in building activity took place in a majority of the cities throughout the state. General gains were made not only over August 1926 but also over July 1927.

Hartford, which usually holds a high place among the cities of the state in building activities, ranked second for the month of August, trailing Bridgeport with a total of slightly more than a million dollars worth of building permits issued. Greenwich and Stamford followed closely after Hartford, Middletown and Norwalk practically doubled their totals of last year. Substantial increases for the month were also recorded in Bristol, New Britain, New London and Waterbury. The figures compiled by the New Haven railroad for the month of August, comparing the totals of 1927 with those of 1926, are as follows:

Bridgeport	$1,160,057	$ 465,956
Bristol	221,000	83,785
Danbury	119,455	273,015

Acquired Tastes

It has been said that acquired tastes are stronger than natural ones. The taste for olives is often an acquired taste. Few persons like artichoke or caviar at the first taste. But when the taste has been acquired it is persistent and definite.

A cultivated taste for fine coffee instantly appreciates the difference between an exquisite and an ordinary blend. Once one has come to know and enjoy YUBAN, no substitute is acceptable.

Coffee Making Pointers

Scientific experiments by Prof. Prescott of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology have proved that coffee should never be boiled for even as short a period as one minute. Continued boiling causes the development of bitter and woody tastes. The best results are obtained by bringing the coffee to the boiling point and serving immediately.

MANY ACADEMY ATHLETES TO ATTEND COLLEGE DURING THE COMING YEAR

The march is on! It started a few days back and for about two weeks will be increasing until about the last week of the month, namely the march of ex-Academy athletes on higher institutions of learning. It is greater this year than it has been in over a decade, for many of the members of last year's successful Red and White teams are now packing to answer that call to "carry on" higher up.

All sport teams at the Academy will find many valuable performers gone during the coming year but there is the one consolation for N. F. A. that those who have gone will be carrying the name and fame of the local institution to schools of learning all over this broad land of ours.

The baseball team, the one that won the first state title in nearly 15 years for the Academy will probably suffer most of all when Coach Earle E. Brigham sounds the call next spring for no less than six regulars have left and four of these are at colleges this fall. But Capt.-elect Mace Goldblatt, catcher, the two star pitchers, Lloyd Jarvis and Johnny Greene and Billy Tirrell, first sacker, are left from those who performed regularly last season.

Of the rest, Ray Yerrington, the dependable third baseman, who was almost unanimously picked by sport writers as of All-State calibre leaves for the Springfield Y. M. C. A. college. Steffy Cimikoski, shortstop and lead off man will enter Providence college on a baseball scholarship. Al Mish goes to Harvard and Hymie Sadinsky, left field, matriculates at Columbia. The other two whom have gone are Pete Labenski, pitcher and infielder who will work a year before entering college, probably Conn. Aggies and Ducky Jackson, second baseman, who will finish his high school education in California, having left during the summer.

Of the basketball team, eastern Conn. league champs in their first season, Ray Yerrington, who was captain will be the only absentee when Coach Moeberg sounds the call in a couple months. It is expected that Ray will be a candidate for the court team at his college this fall and he will make a strong bid for the team. Those left for the basketball team this year are Capt. Jim Kelly, and Buck LaCroix, guards, Les Pingree, center and Joe Vieau and Dave Tigar forwards.

Football will suffer heavily from loss of regulars, no less than eight having gone. The three left this season are Capt. Jack Marks, back, Johnny Greene, end, and Kahn, tackle.

Capt. Ed Brewer, who by his plunging and stellar defense work last year gained state-wide fame will enter Brown university as will also Red Fidell, husky guard. These two should make a strong bid for the grid team at the Providence institution as they have much natural ability and experience. Fred Schwartz, center and Jim Williams, quarterback, will go to Conn. Aggies, Al Mish, as stated, goes to Harvard, Eddie Gylomb, guard, to Middlebury, while Walt Hussey, end and Pete Labenski, back, will stay at home working for a year.

Track will not suffer in numbers but the loss of Capt. Art Armstrong, who piled up many point for the Red and White during the past three season on the track will be felt.

The diminutive Arties is another who will be in Norwich for at least a year, playing with the C. P. C. basketball team, perhaps. Jim Moore who in addition to being a valuable member of the track squad, also performed as sub end in football, will probably be another at home for a year. He then will in all probability enter Storrs college.

Cross country loses Hymie Sadinsky to Columbia while tennis still has some very capable performers left.

Not to forget the managers, Johnny Spotton of track and cross country intends to enter Middlebury shortly while Frisbie Mitchell of football will probably go to Yale.

Others to leave are Donald Gilbert, football letterman, to Wesleyan, John Counihan, on the baseball squad in 1926, to Holy Cross, Clarence Brewer, who starred on the 1926 football team, will work a year; Lin Mort of the football team, will work a year; Lin Mort of the football squad this past season to Yale.

Former N. F. A. athletes who have gone forth in previous years will also be leaving shortly or have left for their respective schools. Pheno Tombari, on the freshman football squad last fall and captain of the frosh baseball team this spring is already at Storrs with the Conn. Aggie varsity. Pheno is out for an end berth. Dan Polsky has left for the Brown varsity camp to attempt to gain a post on the iron Men.

Bill Ringland, former all-around athlete at the Academy will probably resume of William and Mary this year where Sam Wilcox is now on the varsity golf team. Bill Disco, a member of the tennis team at St. Thomas seminary, Hartford, will probably again carry their colors on the courts next spring. John McDougald leaves for University of Michigan soon, where he will be a basketball candidate.

Taken all in all, it seems that Norwich Free Academy is or will be fairly well represented in the college world this coming school year.

FRENCH PLAYERS COME THROUGH FIRST ROUND

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 13—(AP)—Four smiling Frenchmen, playing with the confidence that comes with the Davis cup, bowled through their first round matches today in quest of the United States turf court championship now held by one of their number, Rene La Coste.

William T. Tilden, and William M. Johnston, chief hopes of America who found the French too much for them in the battle for the cup last week, also reached the second round, but others of the leading American stars went down in untimely defeat.

Among the upset casualties were: John Doeg, the 18 year old Californian, and Lewis N. White of Austin, Texas, conqueror of Doeg several times this year. Doeg was put out by Kenneth B. Appel of Princeton, 10-8, 6-3; 3-6; 6-2; and White by Arnold W. Jones of Providence 5-7; 6-3; 6-1; 6-0.

Two other seed players to vanish were George M. Lott, Jr., and Richard N. Williams, Philadelphia veteran.

The latter two defaulted, Lott because of illness and Williams because of the press of business.

A fifth seeded player who failed to enter the second round was Ryiki Miki, Japanese Davis cup player, who went down before Herbert L. Bowman, clay court start, in straight sets, 6-4; 6-1; 6-2.

Mello Wins.

BOSTON, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Al Mello, Lowell welterweight, won the decision over Bobby Brown, also of Lowell, after 10 hard rounds of fighting at the Boston arena tonight.

WRIGHT AND SMITH HOMERS KEEP PIRATES AT TOP

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Home runs by Glenn Wright and Earl Smith gave Pittsburgh its third straight victory over Philadelphia today, 3 to 2. Carmen Hill, chalking up his 21st victory of the season, allowed the Phils but four hits. The victory enabled the Pirates to retain their lead in the hectic National league race.

Smith's homer in the fifth inning wiped out a one-run lead the Phils had gained in the second on a walk to Wrightstone, a single and two sacrifices. The Quakers went ahead again in the seventh on another walk to Wrightstone, a single and a squeeze play by Thompson, but the Pirates again tied it up in their half on a walk to Harris, Smith's single and Hill's long sacrifice fly. Ferguson, Phil Hurler and Barney Friberg, third baseman, were ejected from the game after Smith's single when they protested a decision by Umpire Jordan, calling Harris safe at third. Manager "Stuffy" McInnis left the field with his ousted players, giving rise to reports that he also had been ejected. Scott took Ferguson's place on the mound and Wright's homer in the eighth, the winning run was made off him. Score:

GIANTS DOWN CUBS TO HOLD TIE FOR SECOND

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—(AP)—The Giants weathered a heavy batting assault as well as a barrage of pop bottles today, winding up the Cubs' series with a 7 to 5 victory. As the Cards won from the Robins, New York and St. Louis remain tied for second place two games from the Pirates who defeated the Phils.

Fitzsimmons was reached for sixteen hits but was given wonderful support especially by Hornsby. Charlie Root was thumped off the slab in the fifth by successive triples by Mueller and Lindstrom, Nehf going to the rescue. Guy Bush was called upon for the last frame.

Some 25,000 fans saw their favorites go down and gave vent to their feelings at some decisions against the Cubs by raining pop bottles on the field in the ninth, several of the missiles landing near Harper in right field and one grazing Umpire Pfirman as the game ended.

Hornsby clouted his 24th homer and Hack Wilson his 27th. None was on base either time. Score:

MARTIN TEAM BEATS WERMANS IN LOOSE GAME

J. B. Martin had a big last inning for four runs and the victory last night in the Industrial league at the Academy campus, the Werman Shoers falling by a 6 to 2 count. "Boots" Greene was driven to shelter during this attack and Eli Segal finished the game. Greene had been going well until this spell but three singles and an error proved too much.

Lefty Lucier was in again for the Martins after twirling 11 innings Saturday and he allowed the Shoers six hits and was in danger in only one inning, the third, when the West Siders scored all their runs.

Red Smith and Segal led the hitters. Score:

The champion Richmond Radiators and Insilcos, who are in third place met tonight in the Industrial league at the Academy campus with Lloyd Jarvis and Johnny Greene pitching for the respective teams. This will be the second meeting on the mound of these Academy stars and one of the largest crowds of the season is exected. The game is the last regularly scheduled tilt of the league season.

Both teams will be strengthened so that a tight battle looms. The Silvermen will have Leo Morin and Leo Hamil in the infield and Fitzgerald in the outfield as additions while Red Smith will cover second for the Ironmen. The game is slated to start promptly at 6 p. m.

HARVARD AND DARTMOUTH TO SCOUT EACH OTHER

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Harvard and Dartmouth, both parties to non-scouting agreements with Yale, will entertain each other's scouts during the coming football season. This past, the result of a conference between Arnold Horween and Jessie Hawley, head coaches of the Crimson and the Big Green, was made public today.

The non-scouting plan was introduced into big three football last year by Ted Jones of Yale and Bill Roper of Princeton, and was put into effect for the Yale-Princeton game. At Yale's invitation, all the 1927 oponents of the Bull Dog, including Harvard and Dartmouth, agreed to forego scouting for the season. Harvard did so reluctantly, stipulating that its acceptance was for one season only.

The Crimson then notified its opponents for 1927, that it was ready to make a similar arrangement with any that desired. Three of the eight, Vermont, Pennsylvania and Yale, placed themselves on the non-scouting basis. As between Harvard and Dartmouth, the question was left to the coaches, who decided to continue on the old basis.

GOLF CLUB NOTES

A beautiful day, and a beautiful course attracted many to the golf club on Monday afternoon.

After snatching a few hours sleep Sunday night Massie B. Miller was off bright and early Monday morning to enter the qualifying round of the P. G. A. at the Sandy Burr Country club at Wayland, Mass. The P. G. A. tourney this year will be played in Dallas, Texas. Six professionals from New England qualify.

"Doc" Underhill, a former member of the club, paid a visit to the course and played a round with John Fontaine "Doc" admitted his drives were going good but refrained from going into further detail.

Sitting on the porch of the pro shack yesterday afternoon we timed a fair foursome and it took just 24 minutes for the first hole. This same foursome played the New London County club course earlier in the day which may account for the seeming long time it took to play the first hole.

The first match of the day Monday was between Alex Finlayson and Jim Knott in the third sixteen of the Labor day tournament. Jim took Alex over 5 and 4 and enters the semi-finals.

In another match in the third sixteen Frank Davis won from John McKinley 2 and 1 in a match that was closely contested.

No matches in either the first or second sixteens were played on Monday.

On Thursday of this week there will be about 80 golfers in the Woolen [illegible] tournament at the club. The [illegible] woolen manufacturers are entertaining their fellow manufacturers, and brokers in New England on that day.

Massie B. Miller, local professional failed to qualify in the P. G. A. tourney as he shot 161 for the 36 holes. He had an 83 for the morning round and a 78 in the afternoon.

TUNNEY'S SHARE OF CHAMPIONSHIP BOUT WILL BE OVER MILLION DOLLARS

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—(AP)—All financial arrangements for the Dempsey-Tunney battle of Setember 22 were settled tonight, and certified checks for $1,000,000, Tunney's purse, and $450,000, Dempsey's share, were posted with the Illinois state athletic commission.

Forfeits of $25,000 and $10,000 were posted in behalf of Tunney and Dempsey and the boxing commission gave its final approval of the contracts and the match. At the same time Tex Rickard and George Getz signed the lease for the Soldier field stadium, the battle ground, and paid the $100,000 rental.

The new contracts, arranged by Rickard over the week end with the champion and his challenger, were substitutes for the original agreements which gave the two fighters an option of a percentage of the purse. The new terms give them the flat guarantees embodied in their pay-checks handed to the boxing commission tonight, and no further participation in Rickard's hoped-for $3,000,000 gate.

RUTH DENIES HE STRUCK HIS ACCUSER

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—(AP)—"Babe" Ruth, collosus of swat, was identified in court today by Bernard Neimeyer, a cripple, as the man who had assaulted him last fourth of July, but Ruth denied the charge, offering two alibi witnesses to prove he was in Garfield, N. J., at the time. The case was continued until Friday to allow Neimeyer time to get witnesses.

The best known ball player in America was arrested on a John Doe warrant, because Neimeyer had never seen the Yankee outfielder and couldn't identify him for police purposes in making out the summons. Neimeyer is sure he knows Ruth now, however, for he said in court "I will never forget his physique, his face, and his dog trot walk."

Neimeyer testified that last fourth of July, he encountered Ruth on upper Broadway, near a hotel that is a rendezvous for baseball players. Neimeyer said two women brushed against him in passing and that a large man called out to ask if he, Neimeyer, had spoken to them. One of the women said "no", but the large man "struck me a terrible blow in the eye."

A crowd gathered and remarks of bystanders, according to Neimeyer, revealed the large man as one George Herman Ruth, of baseball renown. Neimeyer said Ruth accused him of having spoken to his wife, although she had denied it when Ruth first called out to her.

Neimeyer said he tried to have Ruth arrested then, but a nearby traffic policeman refused, advising him to "call the patrolman on the beat." The crowd, Neimeyer said declined to interfere. After the man and two women had left in a taxi, he said, he got a summons which was served at the Yankee stadium July 29.

Ruth declared he was "much surprised" by the complaint.

BOTTOMLEY'S HOMER GIVES CARDS WIN OVER DODGERS

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Jim Bottomley's home run with Holm on base in the fifth inning gave Arthur Reinbart and the Cardinals a shutout victory over Brooklyn today, 2 to 0, as well as a clean sweep of the four game series. The triumph enabled St. Louis to keep pace with the Giants and two games from the Pirates, who also won. Reinhart held the Robins to six hits while Elliott was found for 11. Elliott was effective in the pinches, however, twice stopping the Cards with the bases filled. Twelve Cardinals were left stranded on base. Score:

LUCAS AND LUQUE PITCH REDS TO DOUBLE VICTORY

CINCINNATI, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Luque and Lucas took the Boston Braves in tow today 6 to 4 and 3 to 0, respectively in a double bill to make the Reds victors over Boston five in a row.

Dressens triple with the score tied 4 to 4 in the sixth inning of the first game turned the trick for Cincinnati. It scored Hargrave and then Dressen trotted in under a sacrifice fly for the final score.

Allen's double, Walker's triple and Ford's single gave the Reds a two run lead in the fourth inning of the second game.

ENTRIES FOR AMATEUR BOUTS MUST BE FILED BEFORE SEPT. 18

Boxers for the next and probably last Duwell outdoor amateur boxing show which will be staged at the Duwell field on Tuesday night, September 20, must file entry before midnight of Sept. 17th, if they expect to go one. This announcement comes as a result of the decision made by the Duwell athletic committee at a meeting held at the club last night.

In the past, many of the boxers had failed to register within the time limit, and naturally were disappointed when turned down on the night of the fight. At the last show, over twenty-five men failed to get a chance to go on, a fact which caused more or less grumbling. The club officials wish to give all of the boys a fair shake, and feel that the contestants might at least fill out the entry blanks and slip them in on time.

With the entry list complete, several days before the date of the show, the matchmaker can begin to line up his card, and have some idea of how he stands. It is with this in view that the mentioned decision was made last night, and will be strictly enforced in the future. The blanks are ready now and may be had by applying at the Duwell club, or addressing "Sports."

Frankie Busch, light heavyweight boxer, formerly of this city, now an instructor at the Cheney Brothers community recreation center in South Manchester, has been after the local club for the past few weeks for a chance to show a team of boxers here. The Duwell matchmaker is negotiating with the South Manchester crowd, and in all probability will sign them as the attraction for the next show.

BASS WINS DECISION OVER RED CHAPMAN

SESQUI CENTENNIAL STADIUM, PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 12.—(AP)—In a sensational ten round match which almost ended in a simultaneous knockout in the ninth round Benny Bass of Philadelphia, battered his way to victory tonight over Red Chapman in a bout that carried with it recognition by the Pennsylvania state athletic commission as featherweight champion of the world.

Coming out of their corners in the ninth round with a furious rush, both connected solidly with left to the head. Both reeled back and tumbled to the floor. Chapman in the center of the ring and Bass along the ropes. But Benny recovered quickest, was on his feet in a second or two while Chapman rested on one knee and took a count of eight.

Bass himself seemed groggy but he leaped back at his opponent with a savage fury, forced him about the ring under a fierce barrage and curled another left to the head that sent Chapman to the floor again for a count of eight.

Chapman was all but out, reeling about and bracing himself on the ropes but he managed, gamely, to weather the storm as Bass fought himself out in a vain attempt to score a knock out. Both were so exhausted from this thrilling round that they had little left and spent most of the tenth and final round clinching.

Lew Tendler, veteran Philadelphia southpaw, grown close to middleweight poundage since he was an outstanding lightweight title contender in 1922-23, carried off the judges' decision over Sailor Darden, New York Negro, in a slam-bang 10 round semi-final. Tendler suffered a split lip early in the bout but forced the fight the rest of the way, staggering Darden with lefts to the head in the fourth and tenth. Tedler weighed 151 3-4 nad Darden 154 1-4.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

Last week was the first really favorable week for building of the entire summer there not being a rainy day during the week and contractors made the most of the favorable weather to rush along work that had been retarded by the continued rains. Exterior work that had been held up by the wet weather was pushed along as was the excavation and foundation work on a number of buildings in Norwich and vicinity. At the office of Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton there was a slight falling off in the permits for new buildings and only one or two for small structures were granted.

Work on the eight-story building for Silberman Co. on Main street went along at a good rate of speed during the past week. The larger part of the excavation work has been completed and the concrete foundation is being laid. The foundation for the elevator shaft has been laid. With another week of good weather it is expected that the foundation will be ready for the laying of the steel superstructure.

At the building on Water street owned by T. H Eldridge the work of erecting a first story new front is well along. The large reinforcing I beam over the entrances has been set in place and the scaffolding has been removed. The work of laying the brick for the front is in progress and the plate glass display windows will be set in another week.

In the East Great Plain section one house has been completed within the few weeks and a second house has reached the boarding-in-stage. This section of the town has been building up rapidly during the past few years.

Two houses on Dunham street were completed last week and are now ready for occupation while the two new houses on West Thames street between Newcombe street and Nelson Place are practically completed.

At the Morkan Co. new store the exterior work has been completed for some time and now the large refr

MANY ACADEMY ATHLETES TO ATTEND COLLEGE DURING THE COMING YEAR

The march is on! It started a few days back and for about two weeks will be increasing until about the last week of the month, namely the march of ex-Academy athletes on higher institutions of learning. It is greater this year than it has been in over a decade for many of the members of last year's successful Red and White teams are now packing to answer that call to "carry on" higher up.

All sport teams at the Academy will find many valuable performers gone during the coming year but there is the one consolation for N. F. A. that those who have gone will be carrying the name and fame of the local institution to schools of learning all over this broad land of ours.

The baseball team, the one that won the first state title in nearly 15 years for the Academy will probably suffer most of all when Coach Earle E. Brigham sounds the call next spring for no less than six regulars have left and four of these are at colleges this fall. But Capt.-elect Mace Goldblatt, catcher, the two star pitchers, Lloyd Jarvis and Johnny Greene and Billy Tirrell, first sacker, are left from those who performed regularly last season.

Of the rest, Ray Yerrington, the dependable third baseman, who was almost unanimously picked by sport writers as of All-State calibre leaves for the Springfield Y. M. C. A. college. Steffy Cimikoski, shortstop and lead off man will enter Providence college on a baseball scholarship. Al Mish goes to Harvard and Hymie Sadinsky, left field, matriculates at Columbia. The other two whom have gone are Pete Lebenski, pitcher and infielder who will work a year before entering college, probably Conn. Aggies and Ducky Jackson, second basleman, who will finish his high school education in California, having left during the summer.

Of the basketball team, eastern Conn. league champs in their first season, Ray Yerrington, who was captain will be the only absentee when Coach Moeberg sounds the call in a couple months. It is expected that Ray will be a candidate for the court team at his college this fall and he will make a strong bid for the team. Those left for the basketball team this year are Capt. Jim Kelly, and Buck LaCroix, guards, Les Pingree, center and Joe Vieau and Dave Tigar forwards.

Football will suffer heavily from loss of regulars, no less than eight having gone. The three left this season are Capt. Jack Marks, back, Johnny Greene, end, and Kahn, tackle.

Capt. Ed Brewer, who by his plunging and stellar defense work last year gained state-wide fame will enter Brown university as will also Red Fidell, husky guard. These two should make a strong bid for the grid team at the Providence institution as they have much natural ability and experience. Fred Schwartz, center and Jim Williams, quarterback, will go to Conn. Aggies. Al Mish, as stated, goes to Harvard, Eddie Gylomb, guard, to Middlebury, while Walt Hussey, end and Pete Labenski, back, will stay at home working for a year.

Track will not suffer in numbers but the loss of Capt. Art Armstrong, who piled up many point for the Red and White during the past three season on the track will be felt.

The diminutive Arties is another who will be in Norwich for at least a year, playing with the C. F. C. basketball team, perhaps. Jim Moore who in addition to being a valuable member of the track squad, also performed as sub end in football, will probably be another at home for a year. He then will in all probability enter Storrs college.

Cross country loses Hymie Sadinsky to Columbia while tennis still has some very capable performers left.

Not to forget the managers, Johnny Spotton of track and cross country intends to enter Middlebury shortly while Frisbie Mitchell of football will probably go to Yale.

Others to leave are Donald Gilbert, football letterman, to Wesleyan, John Counihan, on the baseball squad in 1926, to Holy Cross, Clarence Brewer, who starred on the 1926 football team, will work a year; Lin Mort of the football team, will work a year; Lin Mort of the football squad this past season to Yale.

Former N. F. A. athletes who have gone forth in previous years will also be leaving shortly or have left for their respective schools. Pheno Tombari, on the freshman football squad last fall and captain of the frosh baseball team this spring is already at Storrs with the Conn. Aggie varsity. Pheno is out for an end berth. Dan Polsky has left for the Brown varsity camp to atempt to gain a post on the Iron Men.

Bill Ringland, former all-around athlete at the Academy will probably resume of William and Mary this year where Sam Wilcox is now on the varsity golf team. Bill Disco, a member of the tennis team at St. Thomas seminary, Hartford, will probably again carry their colors on the courts next spring. John McDougald leaves for University of Michigan soon, where he will be a basketball candidate.

Taken all in all, it seems that Norwich Free Academy is or will be fairly well represented in the college world this coming school year.

FRENCH PLAYERS COME THROUGH FIRST ROUND

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 12—(AP)—Four smiling Frenchmen, playing with the confidence that comes with the Davis cup, bowled through their first round matches today in quest of the United States turf court championship now held by one of their number, Rene La Coste.

William T. Tilden, and William M. Johnston, chief hopes of America who found the French too much for them in the battle for the cup last week, also reached the second round, but others of the leading American stars went down in untimely defeat.

Among the upset casualties were: John Doeg, the 18 year old Californian, and Lewis N. White of Austin, Texas, conqueror of Doeg several times this year. Doeg was put out by Kenneth B. Appel of Princeton, 10-8, 6-3; 3-6; 6-2; and White by Arnold W. Jones of Providence 5-7; 6-3; 6-1; 6-0.

Two other seed players to vanish were George M. Lott, Jr., and Richard N. Williams, Philadelphia veteran.

The latter two defaulted, Lott because of illness and Williams because of the press of business.

A fifth seeded player who failed to enter the second round was Ryiki Miki, Japanese Davis cup player, who went down before Herbert L. Bowman, clay court start, in straight sets, 6-4; 6-1; 6-2.

Mello Wins.

BOSTON, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Al Mello, Lowell welterweight, won the decision over Bobby Brown, also of Lowell, after 10 hard rounds of fighting at the Boston arena tonight.

WRIGHT AND SMITH HOMERS KEEP PIRATES AT TOP

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Home runs by Glenn Wright and Earl Smith gave Pittsburgh its third straight victory over Philadelphia today, 3 to 2. Carmen Hill, chalking up his 21st victory of the season, allowed the Phils but four hits. The victory enabled the Pirates to retain their lead in the hectic National league race.

Smith's homer in the fifth inning wiped out a one-run lead the Phils had gained in the second on a walk to Wrightstone, a single and two sacrifices. The Quakers went ahead again in the seventh on another walk to Wrightstone, a single and a squeeze play by Thompson, but the Pirates again tied it up in their half on a walk to Harris, Smith's single and Hill's long sacrifice fly. Ferguson, Phil Hurler and Barney Friberg, third baseman, were ejected from the game after Smith's single when they protested a decision by Umpire Jorda, calling Harris safe at third. Manager "Stuffy" McInnis left the field with his ousted players, giving rise to reports that he also had been ejected. Scott took Ferguson's place on the mound and Wright's homer in the eighth, the winning run was made off him. Score:

GIANTS DOWN CUBS TO HOLD TIE FOR SECOND

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—(AP)—The Giants weathered a heavy batting assault as well as a barrage of pop bottles today, winding up the Cubs' series with a 7 to 5 victory. As the Cards won from the Robins, New York and St. Louis remain tied for second place two games from the Pirates who defeated the Phils.

Fitzsimmons was reached for sixteen hits but was given wonderful support especially by Hornsby. Charlie Root was thumped off the slab in the fifth by successive triples by Mueller and Lindstrom, Nehf going to the rescue. Guy Bush was called upon for the last frame.

Some 25,000 fans saw their favorites go down and gave vent to their feelings at some decisions against the Cubs by raining pop bottles on the field in the ninth, several of the missiles landing near Harper in right field and one grazing Umpire Pfirman as the game ended.

Hornsby clouted his 24th homer and Hack Wilson his 27th. None was on base either time. Score:

MARTIN TEAM BEATS WERMANS IN LOOSE GAME

J. B. Martin had a big last inning for four runs and the victory last night in the Industrial league at the Academy campus, the Werman Shoers falling by a 6 to 2 count. "Boots" Greene was driven to shelter during this attack and Eli Segal finished the game. Greene had been going well until this spell but three singles and an error proved too much.

Lefty Lucier was in again for the Martins after twirling 11 innings Saturday and he allowed the Shoers six hits and was in danger in only one inning, the third, when the West Siders scored all their runs.

HARVARD AND DARTMOUTH TO SCOUT EACH OTHER

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Harvard and Dartmouth, both parties to non-scouting agreements with Yale, will entertain each other's scouts during the coming football season. This past, the result of a conference between Arnold Horween and Jessie Hawley, head coaches of the Crimson and the Big Green, was made public today.

The non-scouting plan was introduced into big three football last year by Ted Jones of Yale and Bill Roper of Princeton, and was put into effect for the Yale-Princeton game. At Yale's invitation, all the 1927 opponents of the Bull Dog, including Harvard and Dartmouth, agreed to forego scouting for the season. Harvard did so reluctantly, stipulating that its acceptance was for one season only.

The Crimson then notified its opponents for 1927, that it was ready to make a similar arrangement with any that desired. Three of the eight, Vermont, Pennsylvania and Yale, placed themselves on the non-scouting basis. As between Harvard and Dartmouth, the question was left to the coaches, who decided to continue on the old basis.

GOLF CLUB NOTES

A beautiful day, and a beautiful course attracted many to the golf club on Monday afternoon.

After snatching a few hours sleep Sunday night Massie B. Miller was off bright and early Monday morning to enter the qualifying round of the P. G. A. at the Sandy Burr Country club at Wayland, Mass. The P. G. A. tourney this year will be played in Dallas, Texas. Six professionals from New England qualify.

"Doc" Underhill, a former member of the club, paid a visit to the course and played a round with John Fontaine "Doc" admitted his drives were going good but refrained from going into further detail.

Sitting on the porch of the pro shack yesterday afternoon we timed a fair foursome and it took just 24 minutes for the first hole. This same foursome played the New London County club course earlier in the day which may account for the seeming long time it took to play the first hole.

The first match of the day Monday was between Alex Finlayson and Jim Knott in the third sixteen of the Labor day tournament. Jim took Alex over 5 and 4 and enters the semi-finals.

In another match in the third sixteen Frank Davis won from John McKinley 2 and 1 in a match that was closely contested.

No matches in either the first or second sixteens were played on Monday.

On Thursday of this week there will be about 80 golfers in the Woolen men's tournament at the club. The local woolen manufacturers are entertaining their fellow manufacturers, and brokers in New England on that day.

Massie B. Miller, local professional failed to qualify in the P. G. A. tourney as he shot 161 for the 36 holes. He had an 83 for the morning round and a 78 in the afternoon.

TUNNEY'S SHARE OF CHAMPIONSHIP BOUT WILL BE OVER MILLION DOLLARS

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—(AP)—All financial arrangements for the Dempsey-Tunney battle of setember 22 were settled tonight, and certified checks for $1,000,000, Tunney's purse, and $450,000, Dempsey's share, were posted with the Illinois state athletic commission.

Forfeits of $25,000 and $10,000 were posted in behalf of Tunney and Dempsey and the boxing commission gave its final approval of the contracts and the match. At the same time Tex Rickard and George Getz signed the lease for the Soldier field stadium, the battle ground, and paid the $100,000 rental.

The new contracts, arranged by Rickard over the week end with the champion and his challenger, were substitutes for the original agreements which gave the two fighters an option of a percentage of the purse. The new terms give them the flat guarantees embodied in their pay-checks handed to the boxing commission tonight, and no further participation in Rickard's boped-for $3,000,000 gate.

RUTH DENIES HE STRUCK HIS ACCUSSER

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—(AP)—"Babe" Ruth, collosus of swat, was identified in court today by Bernard Neimeyer, a cripple, as the man who had assaulted him last fourth of July, but Ruth denied the charge, offering two alibi witnesses to prove he was in Garfield, N. J., at the time. The case was continued until Friday to allow Neimeyer time to get witnesses.

The best known ball player in America was arrested on a John Doe warrant, because Neimeyer had never seen the Yankee outfielder and couldn't identify him for police purposes in making out the summons. Neimeyer is sure he knows Ruth now, however, for he said in court "I will never forget his physique, his face, and his dog trot walk."

Neimeyer testified that last fourth of July, he encountered Ruth on upper Broadway, near a hotel that is a rendezvous for baseball players. Neimeyer said two women brushed against him in passing and that a large man called out to ask if he, Neimeyer, had spoken to them. One of the women said "no", but the large man "struck me a terrible blow in the eye."

A crowd gathered and remarks of bystanders, according to Neimeyer, revealed the large man as one George Herman Ruth, of baseball renown. Neimeyer said Ruth accused him of having spoken to his wife, although she had denied it when Ruth first called out to her.

Neimeyer said he tried to have Ruth arrested then, but a nearby traffic policeman refused, advising him to "call the patrolman on the beat." The crowd, Neimeyer said declined to interfere. After the man and two women had left in a taxi, he said, he got a summons which was served at the Yankee stadium July 29.

Ruth declared he was "much surprised" by the complaint.

BOTTOMLEY'S HOMER GIVES CARDS WIN OVER DODGERS

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Jim Bottomley's home run with Holm on base in the fifth inning gave Arthur Reinhart and the Cardinals a shutout victory over Brooklyn today, 2 to 0, as well as a clean sweep of the four game series. The triumph enabled St. Louis to keep pace with the Giants and two games from the Pirates, who also won. Reinhart held the Robins to six hits while Elliott was found for 11. Elliott was effective in the pinches, however, twice stopping the Cards with the bases filled. Twelve Cardinals were left stranded on base. Score:

ENTRIES FOR AMATEUR BOUTS MUST BE FILED BEFORE SEPT. 18

Boxers for the next and probably last Duwell outdoor amateur boxing show which will be staged at the Duwell field on Tuesday night, September 20, must file entry before midnight of Sept. 17th, if they expect to go one. This announcement comes as a result of the decision made by the Duwell athletic committee at a meeting held at the club last night.

In the past, many of the boxers had failed to register within the time limit, and naturally were disappointed when turned down on the night of the fight. At the last show, over twenty-five men failed to get a chance to go on, a fact which caused more or less grumbling. The club officials wish to give all of the boys a fair shake, and feel that the contestants might at least fill out the entry blanks and slip them in on time.

With the entry list complete, several days before the date of the show, the matchmaker can begin to line up his card, and have some idea of how he stands. It is with this in view that the mentioned decision was made last night, and will be strictly enforced in the future. The blanks are ready now and may be had by applying at the Duwell club, or addressing "Sports."

Frankie Busch, light heavyweight boxer, formerly of this city, now an instructor at the Cheney Brothers community recreation center in South Manchester, has been after the local club for the past few weeks for a chance to show a team of boxers here. The Duwell matchmaker is negotiating with the South Manchester crowd, and in all probability will sign them as the attraction for the next show.

BASS WINS DECISION OVER RED CHAPMAN

SESQUI CENTENNIAL STADIUM, PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 12.—(AP)—In a sensational ten round match which almost ended in a simultaneous knockout in the ninth round Benny Bass of Philadelphia, battered his way to victory tonight over Red Chapman in an bout that carried with it recognition by the Pennsylvania state athletic commission as featherweight champion of the world.

Coming out of their corners in the ninth round with a furious rush, both connected solidly with left to the head. Both reeled back and tumbled to the floor. Chapman in the center of the ring and Bass along the ropes. But Benny recovered quickest, was on his feet in a second or two while Chapman rested on one knee and took a count of eight.

Bass himself seemed groggy but he leaped back at his opponent with a savage fury, forced him about the ring under a fierce barrage and curled another left to the head that sent Chapman to the floor again for a count of eight.

Chapman was all but out, reeling about and bracing himself on the ropes but he managed, gamely, to weather the storm as Bass fought himself out in a vain attempt to score a knock out. Both were so exhausted from this thrilling round that they had little left and spent most of the tenth and final round clinching.

Lew Tendler, veteran Philadelphia southpaw, grown close to middleweight poundage since he was an outstanding lightweight title contender in 1922-23, carried off the judges' decision over Sailor Darden, New York Negro, in a slam-bang 10 round semi-final. Tendler suffered a split lip early in the bout but forced the fight the rest of the way, staggering Darden with lefts to the head in the fourth and tenth. Tedler weighed 151 3-4 nad Darden 154 1-4.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

Last week was the first really favorable week for building of the entire summer there not being a rainy day during the week and contractors made the most of the favorable weather to rush along work that had been retarded by the continued rains. Exterior work that had been held up by the wet weather was pushed along as was the excavation and foundation work on a number of buildings in Norwich and vicinity. At the office of Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton there was a slight falling off in the permits for new buildings and only one or two for small structures were granted.

Work on the eight-story building for Silberman Co. on Main street went along at a good rate of speed during the past week. The larger part of the excavation work has been completed and the concrete foundation is being laid. The foundation for the elevator shaft has been laid. With another week of good weather it is expected that the foundation will be ready for the laying of the steel superstructure.

At the building on Water street owned by T. H Eldridge the work of erecting a first story new front is well along. The large reinforcing I beam over the entrances has been set in place and the scaffolding removed. The work of laying the brick for the front is in progress and the plate glass display windows will be set in another week.

In the East Great Plain section one house has been completed within the few weeks and a second house has reached the boarding-in-stage. This section of the town has been building up rapidly during the past few years.

Two houses on Dunham Street were completed last week and are now ready for occupation while the two new houses on West Thames street between Newcombe street and Nelson Place are practically completed.

At the Mohican Co. new store the exterior work has been completed for some time and now the large refrigerator is being installed along with the interior fixtures and apparatus.

Many other projects in Norwich and vicinity have made fine progress during the past week and it is expected that a number will be completed this week if the weather holds favorable.

JACK WHITESIDE COMPLAINS AGAINST NEW LONDON PATROLMAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 12—Charges have been preferred against Patrolman Carlos Selesnitsky by Jack Whiteside, a concession owner at Ocean Beach. Whiteside alleges that Selesnitsky used language of an abusive nature and that his conduct was unbecoming an officer appointed to preserve the peace. The alleged offense occurred August 1, at Ocean Beach. The charges have been submitted to City Manager William A. Holt and they will be investigated at a hearing. Selesnitsky has not been suspended because of the lapse of time between the presentation of the charges and the commission of the offense. Whiteside has a restaurant on Stuart avenue and autoists have made the practice of stopping there, but on the wrong side of the avenue, to make purchases. Whiteside is said to have admitted the acts of the autoists, but said that the violation was merely technical, inasmuch as the drivers stopped only long enough to make a purchase, which was not more than one or two minutes. He remonstrated with Selesnitsky for rebuking the concessionist's patrons and informed the officer that the latter displayed favoritism in taking the autoists who parked there to task for their acts, intimating that if the purchase was made at a store other than Whiteside's, the autoist would not be criticised. Whiteside also said that Selesnitsky found the auto of a dance hall proprietor parked there in violation of the law and that instead of rebuking the owner as he had the patrons of the aggrieved concession proprietor, the officer went to the dance hall, procured the key of the auto and drove it to where parking was permissable. The controversy between Selesnitsky and Whiteside became heated and it is claimed that harsh words were exchanged, with the result that Selesnitsky arrested Whiteside on a charge of breach of the peace and interfering with an officer. In the police court the next day Whiteside was found not guilty. Whiteside claims that Selesnitsky in his attitude towards motorists did so to interfere with and injure Whiteside's interests.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theater

If such a thing were possible we would say that the shows at the Palace are improving all the time, but the consistent good rate at which they have been going leaves a doubt as to whether or not they could be improved upon. We witnessed the new show that opened yesterday and all we can say is, it's great. Five acts of vaudeville such as you would expect to see in one of the high priced theaters in a large city were shown. Flo Carol, Eddie Riley and The Courtiers, a seven people act, with a jazz band, are about the fastest act seen in many a day. The musicians are talented and give a great act. Edward and Morris an eccentric comedy team are there and then some, their comedy is very interesting and good. Harry Bernard and company in a skit called The Black Cat, is very clever. The cast comprises two men and two women. Sponsler and Leroy, a team of singers and talks were very well received. Bento Bros. a very neat team of hand balancers, something different than you have seen before. As mentioned above this show is worthy of any stage in the biggest houses of the country.

Z-i-p! B-a-m! Z-o-w-i-e!

No, dear friends a boiler has not exploded. It's only a few linguistic fireworks descriptive of Reginald Denny's latest bang-up success, a roaring, racing picture entitled Fast and Furious, which is now zooming across at the Palace theater, with the popular Universal star at the wheel and a heavy foot on the accelerator.

You'll never know what troubles are until you see some of the scrapes that Denny gets into in Fast and Furious. Right fro mthe start he has his epiglottis fibula or something or other dislocated and when you see the X-rays they took of him after they unwrapped him from his steering wheel, you'll "take it big," as they say around the studio stages.

Dubuque, Iowa, will be the meeting place today of the annual convention of the International City Managers association.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theater

The Broadway playing to capacity crowds features for the last three times today, the much heralded Annie Laurie with Lillian Gish and Norman Kerry. The picture, an immense production is packed with thrills and suspense. Produced on a gigantic scale, with thousands of players, it is undoubtedly one of the biggest sensations of the season.

The main feature will commence at 2:15 in the afternoon and 7 and 9 o'clock in the evening. We sincerely advise all to see it. Commencing tomorrow for two days only. Adolphe Menjou will be featured in Service for Ladies.

A head waiter, the most famous in all Europe, meets a beautiful American heiress while vacationing incognito at a fashionable Alpine inn. A visiting king greets him with delight. The hotel attendants wait on him hand and foot. His every whim is immediately satisfied. Daughter and wealthy papa decided that verily, this handsome gentleman must be "someone." Time flies and their friendship quickly develops. At the end of his furlough, seeing the yawning gulf which divides him from the girl, our distinguished stranger decides to spend one glorious night and leave her life forever. The ice carnival takes place and after it—our friend writes a note describing the chasm which separates them before taking the next train to Paris. Days pass. One fine evening who should enter his dining room but the girl! What happens? Don't forget, she imagines that the chasm he described has to do with his high state; she doesn't realize that he is only a head waiter.

That's the situation around which Adolphe Menjou's new Paramount picture Service for Ladies reaching the Broadway tomorrow has been built. Kathryn Carver is the star's new leading woman. Harry D'Arrast directed.

Bryant Stratton College

The 65th year of Bryant-Stratton College of Business Administration opened Tuesday, Sept. 6, with a record-breaking attendance. Students coming not only from all parts of New England and Canada, but from New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Virginia, Florida, Minnesota, California, Hawaii, The Philippines, even from Marlsteo college, Tientsin, China, made it a high-water mark enrollment in numbers as well as in the variety of states and countries represented.

The first day's registration indicates that the group quotas for the business administration, higher accounting, secretarial and general business departments will soon be filled and that a waiting list will have to be established.

A noticeable feature of the personnel of the student body shows that 85 per cent of its members are high school graduates entering for the two-year courses leading to the state-authorized degrees.

STONINGTON

The corner stone of the new Stonington town hall was laid Friday afternoon of granite and marked 1928. The upper box contained copies of local and nearby newspapers, reports of town officers, copies of seals of various town officers and currency of date. The slab was laid by Frank F. Dodge and the stone was laid by Louis Capitaine on the southeast corner in the presence of selectmen and the building committee, assistant town clerk and borough clerk and treasurers and a few spectators.

In the Stonington town court Saturday morning before Judge William A. Wilcox, Abbie Clyde of Old Mystic, charged with selling and keeping with intent to sell, pleaded not guilty. The case was continued to Sept. 24th at request of Prosecuting Attorney G. R. McKenna. The accused was taken in on August 24 by State Policeman Kenerson.

Henry Moriarty of the Mystic club, charged with selling and keeping with intent to sell, pleaded guilty and was fined $150 and costs of $32.96, also given a jail sentence of 60 days, which sentence was suspended. He paid. He was arrested August 24.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

New York

Stocks irregular; Pennsylvania railroad, American Telephone and Telegraph and American Smelting reach new peaks.

Bonds mixed, Erie "D" 4s rise nearly 4 points.

Foreign exchanges steady; Japanese yen crosses 47 cents.

Cotton weak, ore favorable crop outlook.

Sugar steady, Cuban support.

Coffee higher, firmer Brazilian markets.

Chicago

Wheat lower; larger foreign estimates.

Corn weak; favorable weather.

Cattle strong to higher.

Hogs active and higher.

MARKET WAS FAVORABLE

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—(AP)—Reactionary tendencies developed today in all speculative markets. Stock prices sold down 1 to nearly 6 points in a broad selling movement inspired by the marking up of call money rates to the highest levels in more than two months. Cotton broke about $4 a bale on liquidation influenced by reports of better crop weather. Wheat futures lost about a cent a bushel and corn sold down as much as 4 cents a bushel.

The reaction in the stock market came after an opening outburst of strength in which more than a score issues were elevated to new high levels for the year, or longer. Fixing of the renewal rate for call money at 4 per cent, was followed by the calling between $20,000,000 and $30,000,000 in loans and a subsequent advance in the rate to 4 1-2 per cent, the highest in about ten weeks. Inasmuch as easy money has been the chief background for the recent advance, this stiffening in rates caused widespread liquidation, which was stimulated by the hammering tactics of bear traders.

Outside of the break in commodities, there was little in the day's news to influence the price movement. Early strength of the steel shares presumably was in reflection of the increase of 54,000 tons in the August unfilled orders of the U. S. Steel Corp., which were made public after the close of the market on Saturday. U. S. Steel common, after duplicating the year's high of 157 for the present issue, sold down to 153 1-2, closing just above that level for a net loss of 1 3-8. Bethlehem recorded a similar loss at 63 1-4.

Selling pressure was quite effective against a number of the so called "blue chip" issues, particularly Air Reduction, Commercial Solvents, Detroit Edison, Dupont, Sloss Sheffield and Woolworth, all of which sold down 3 points or so. Acute weakness again developed in Briggs Body, which broke more than 14 points to a new 1927 low at 21 1-2 on fears for the safety of the $3 annual dividend.

Strength of Freeport Texas, which crossed $1 to a new peak, was reported as be in anticipation of an increase in the annual dividend this week. Among the many other issues to reach new high ground were American Telephone, International Telephone, Bush Terminal, Associated Dry Goods, Oppenheim Collins, Studebaker, Burroughs Adding Machine, Reynolds Tobacco B and United Fruit, but not all the gains were maintained.

Rails offered better resistance to pressure than the industrials, probably because so many of them already had undergone sharp downward readjustments as a result of the publication of poor traffic and earnings statements. Pennsylvania and Chicago Northwestern attained new peak prices and Union Pacific advanced to within a fraction of the year's high.

There was no quotable change in time money and commercial paper rates, but a stiffer undertone was reported.

In the foreign exchange market, chief interest again centered in Norwegian kroner, which crossed 26.40 cents, around the year's high. Sterling cables ruled around $4.86 7-32 and French francs just below 3.92 cents.

Polly, a 45-year-old parrot belonging to Mr. and Mrs. James P. Rutledge, of St. Louis, Mo., is probably the first of her kind to have a change of climate recommended for her health. And she's going to get it, for the Rutledges, who have had Polly for 24 years, are going to send her to Colorado for the summer. Polly has been suffering from asthma and a veterinary advised the change.

CHAMBER ADOPTS BUDGET, SUSTAINIG FUND PLAN

A recent survey made in several New England cities brings out the fact that in the majority of cases the income from membership dues is not sufficient to enable the chamber of commerce to carry out effectively the program which is expected of it.

Cities who have adopted the new plan of budget and activities fund include Boston, Worcester, Lynn, Gloucester in Massachusetts, Manchester, and New Haven in Connecticut, Portland, Maine, Waltham, Mass., and Woonsocket, R. I.

In Norwich chamber of commerce income dues receivable as of September would approximate $7,500. This amount is barely sufficient to cover the costs of administration, and does not provide sufficient funds for concrete work. This condition is not at all uncommon. Its solution lays in the adoption of the new plan which provides for securing as many single membership at $25 per year as possible from persons who are qualified and in a position to become members of the chamber. These memberships continue from year to year unless cancelled. They carry with them the right to vote, and obligation to participate in the chamber's activities. They produce for the chamber a certain amount of annual revenue. This amount of revenue is not enough for the full community and business service program which the chamber is expected to perform.

A special activities fund is established of an amount which represents the difference between the revenue produced by single memberships dues ($25 or more) and the total revenue needed, and those in a position to do so are asked to subscribe to this fund in varying amounts, depending upon their ability to do so, and their equitable share of the funds determined usually by a committee upon the basis of the contributor's financial state in the community. These subscriptions obligate the subscriber for one or more years. They don't carry with them the right to vote (that is a privilege of the single dues membership $25); also, if a subscriber happens not to be a member and if his subscription is more than the amount of a single dues membership, then the membership may be issued to him.

In ascertaining the amount of the budget for the coming year in the Norwich chamber of commerce, the needs of the various committees were carefully estimated by special group meetings and their requests were forwarded on to the budget committee who, in turn went over each item in the proposed budget very carefully. This budget committee finally made its recommendation to the board of directors who in turn, after consideration, adopted the budget as follows:

Budget Adopted For 1927-28.

Salaries	$5,400.00
Overhead (rent, light, telephone and telegraph, postage, office supplies and miscellaneous	1,810.00
Production (industrial survey, community advertising, fire prevention, safety, good roads, legislation, membership meetings, solicitations, industrial exhibit, taxation, transportation, postal facilities, public health, etc.	2,800.00
	$10,010.00
Add 1926-27 deficit	1,000.00
To be raised now	$11,010.00

This total amount of $11,010.00 becomes the objective of the campaign and is to be secured from four sources: first, continuation of approximately 300 memberships. Second, collection and continuation of approximately 85 delinquent memberships. Third, new memberships. Fourth, subscriptions to special activities fund.

The amount to be raised through subscriptions as against membership dues has not been decided upon as yet. The decision of this matter has been left to the special campaign advisory committee of which E. O. Rodier is chairman.

TWO AUTO DRIVERS PAY FINES IN CITY COURT

Konstantin Rashkevitch of R. F. D. No. 6, was fined $100 and costs in the city court Monday morning for driving his machine while his license was under suspension. He claimed he did not realize that it was a violation of the motor vehicle law to drive while his license was suspended. Two weeks ago he lost his license when he was found guilty of driving while under the influence of liquor. He was arrested Saturday night. He paid $110.50 in court.

Theodore Hyanis of this city was fined $25 and costs for operating a motor vehicle without having a license to do so. Monday morning he was arrested by Officer Michael Carroll at Shannon corner. The officer noticed a sign advertising tires on the back window of his machine and stopped him to inform him of the law prohibiting stickers on windshields and windows of cars. Then the officer learned that Hyanis did not have a license. Several men were fined for intoxication.

GERMAN APPRENTICES EARN $12 A MONTH

BERLIN, Sept. 12 (AP)—Almost four million wage earners in Germany must content themselves with a monthly wage of $12, or 50 marks, according to figures by the institute for economic research. Most of these underpaid workers are apprentices.

By far the largest group of wage earners draws monthly wages of $25 to $75. It comprises 8 13 millions. Almost 5 1-2 millions earn from $12 to $25.

The figures were arrived at on the basis of sales of official insurance stamps. Under the German law, all wage earners are compelled to enroll in one of the government invalid, old age and sickness insurance institution. The premium is paid weekly in proportion to the income, in the form of insurance stamps bought at the post office.

The statistics cover the cases of 18 million workers, but do not include employes with fixed annual salaries nor business or professional men earning their incomes independently. Of these 18 millions, only 350,000 earn more than $75 monthly.

N. H. ROAD IS AUTHORIZED TO ISSUE $98,073,400 STOCK

Permission Granted by the I. C. C.—Road May Issue $49,036,700 of Cumulative 7 Per Cent Preferred Stock, and Like Amount, From Time to Time, of Common Capital Stock—Preferred Stock Funds Will Be Used to Reduce the Road's Obligations to the Government—The Commission Disapproved the Road's Plan to Contract With J. P. Morgan & Co. to Underwrite the Preferred Issue For $980,734, or Two Per Cent of the Aggregate Par Value.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13—(AP)—Proposals of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad to issue $49,036,700 of cumulative seven per cent preferred stock and a like amount of common capital stock as part of a plan for discharging its entire indebedness to the federal government were approved today by the interstate commerce commission.

The company proposes to offer 490,367 shares of preferred with a par value of $100 each for subscription to common stockholders at the rate of one share of preferred for four of common. Holders of New Haven six per cent. convertible debentures due Jan. 15, 1947, will be offered one share of preferred for each $400 of debentures.

The new common stock also will consist of 490,367 shares with $100 par value each. It will be offered to convert the similar amount of preferred on the basis of share for share of equal par value.

Plans of the New Haven to contract with J. P. Morgan and company to underwrite the issue for a commission of two per cent. or a total cost of $980,734 were disapproved, the commission holding the road was not justified in incurring this expense. The company had contended this step was necessary because of the limited time to meet a $43,000,000 note held by the secretary of the treasury.

The commission said the note was issued with no provision for anticipating payments on the principal, and matures Oct. 1, 1930, and that the secretary has agreed to hold the note until Oct. 15 next.

Commissioner Woodlock in a separate opinion concurring with disapproval of the underwriting agreement said that it was not necessary for the company to ensure sale of the security by means of underwriting.

DEATHS AND DAMAGE IN JAPAN BY TYPHOON

TOKYO, Sept. 13—(AP)—A typhoon and tidal wave combined today to cause heavy loss of life and immense property damage on the Japanese island of Kiushiu. More than 100 persons are believed to have perished in Kumamoto prefecture, and a report impossible of confirmation owing to disrupted communication, asserts that one thousand others died in one town near the city of Kumamoto.

The storm, described as the most severe in decades, swept the prefectures of Kumamoto and Fukuoka with with wind and wave, leaving death and desolation behind it. In Kumamoto prefecture 1,000 houses were inundated and destroyed, according to meager reports.

The region devastated was rich in rice growing of which the city of Kumamoto was a center, with a population estimated at 75,000.

Efforts were made to restore communication with Nagasaki, whose population of 160,000 includes a large number of foreigners.

The course of the Monoplane Pride of Detroit on a flight around the world took it to Omura, a few miles southeast of the storm area

FAIL IN NEGOTIATIONS TO END COAL STRIKE

Chicago, Sept. 13—(AP)—Negotiations to end the coal strike in Illinois failed today when a joint conference of miners and operators adjourned without reaching an agreement.

Conferences had been in progress for a week and for the last few days negotiations were conducted through a joint committee of two miners and two operators. The miners offered to go back to work immediately on the Jacksonville agreement, while a joint commission of four, two members and two operators, investigated the situation, to report not later than next February 1.

A committee of nine appointed yesterday by the operators refused to accept this plan and late session today John L. Lewis, international president of the mine workers, told the operators that he had done everything in his power to bring about peace.

Ninety per cent of the Illinois mines are still closed and their miners, numbering about 75,000 are idle because of the failure of the conference.

Old Glory Wreckage Hauled Aboard Ship

Government Steamer Kyle is Searching For Traces of the Plane's Crew.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13—(AP)—The Daily Mirror tonight announced receipt of the following message from Douglas Muir, St. John, N. F., newspaperman, aboard the S. S. Kyle, the vessel chartered by the Mirror to search for the monoplane Old Glory:

"Abroad S. S. Kyle, off Newfoundland:

"The wreckage of the Old Glory taken from a heavy sea consists of 34 feet of wing containing three tanks. A fourth tank is missing. The other three contained large quantities of gasoline when picked up.

"The engine and body of the plane evidently had been torn from the wings, leaving no trace of the control cockpit except one lever and speaking tube located near the fuel gauges.

"The American flag painted on the right wing was clearly distinguishable and traces of a corresponding flag discernable on the left wing. A portion of one large, black painted letter also showed on the right wing, in the shape of the letter 'V,' or possible parts of the letters 'W', 'M' or 'N', (the Old Glory carried on its wing the legend 'NX-703' in accordance with government regulations. It is probable the 'V' referred to by Mr. Muir is a fragment of the 'N.')

"Fragments of canvas-body casing are painted silver and blue. The ship's undercarriage and left wheel are fairly complete, but the wing and support are a tangled mass of stays, giving evidence of boisterous weather existing since the disaster. Nevertheless, other records may be found in this vicinity which may give a clue to the fate of the three brave men who accompanied Old Glory on this ill-fated endeavor. Therefore, we will continue the search, come what may.

"A strong southeast wind is blowing and the sea is rough and foggy."

BELIEVE OLD GLORY CREW MAY HAVE BEEN PICKED UP

NEW YORK, Sept. 13—(AP)—Mrs. Philip A. Payne and Mrs. Lloyd Bertaud, wives of two of the missing fliers, and Mrs. Florence Callaghan, Bertaud's mother, were kept in constant touch with developments today in the search for "Old Glory."

They clung to the belief that the men may have been picked up by a fishing boat not equipped with radio, even though veterans who know the Nova Scotian waters pointed out that the place where the wreckage was reported found is far to the north of the fishing banks.

A reward of $25,000 offered by William Randolph Hearst for the finding of the plane or its crew still stands, it was said today by an official of the New York Daily Mirror. But it has not been decided whether payment will be made to the crew of the Kyle.

PRIDE OF DETROIT HAS HOPPED OFF FROM OMURA

TOKYO, Sept. 14—(AP)—The round-the-world monoplane, Pride of Detroit, hopped off at Omura at 6:35 a. m., (Japanese time) for Kasumigaura, near Tokyo.

Receipt of the announcement of the American monoplane's hop off disposes of doubts as to what may have happened to the plane in yesterday's typhoon and tidal wave which struck the section of Kiushiu Island on which Omura is located. Omura is the site of a Japanese naval aerodrome and is situated about ten miles northeast of Nagasaki and just a few miles from the center of yesterday's storm. Kasumigaura is a naval aviation field 45 miles northeast of Tokyo.

AVIATRIX UNDAUNTED ABOUT FLIGHT TO PARIS

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 13—(AP)—Smiling but adamant, Miss Ruth Elder, Lakeland, Fla., aviatrix, tonight waved aside all suggestions that she abandon her proposed New York to Paris airplane flight.

Wheeling Bankers, sponsoring the flight, vainly urged Miss Elder and George W. Haldeman, her veteran navigator, to postpone the hop-off for France until next year.

"We agreed to go and are going," Miss Elder said.

The proposal that the "American Girl," Stinson-Detroiter monoplane, specially built for the hope to Paris, be entered in the New Yorkto Spokane Air Derby as a substitute flight, was rejected quickly.

"Not if that would mean that we give up the Paris flight," Miss Elder said to this suggestion. "If it does, we'll be glad to enter that race after we return from Paris."

Miss Elder, flying from Portsmouth, Ohio, where her plane was forced down by lack of fuel last night on its flight from Tampa, Fla., to Wheeling, brought the "American Girl" to rest at Langlin Field, Mounsville, early this afternoon. She said she and Haldeman would take off for Roosevelt Field, N. Y., at noon tomorrow and the trans-oceanic flight would start as soon as weather conditions permitted.

Miss Elder announced she and Haldeman would take a direct route from Roosevelt Field for Paris rather than by way of Newfoundland.

Jury Filled For the Cline Murder Trial

State Exhausted Its Allotment of 25 Challenges—Defense Used by 22.

(Special to The Bulletin)

ROCKVILLE, Sept. 13—The long task of filling the jury box for the trial of Leonard Lanson Cline, novelist and former newspaperman, on a charge of murder of Wilfred Pryor Irwin at the Cline farmhouse in Mansfield, was completed ten minutes before adjournment time at Rockville today.

Ten jurors had been selected during the three days of examinations of nearly 150 talesmen last week. The eleventh juror was accepted shortly after the resuming of court after the noon recess. He was Andrew E. Maneggia of Bolton, a dairy farmer. He was the sixteenth talesman examined during the day and the 146th examined since the opening of court.

As the afternoon waned and the hour came to within ten minutes of five o'clock, D. S. T., when Judge Yeomans has been calling a halt to proceedings for the day, the crowded courtroom became tense as talesmen were put through their qualification paces by State's Attorney Noone and Defense Attorney King.

The state had exhausted its allotment of 25 challenges while the defense had used up 22. Clinton Eldredge of Willington, a town road builder was the twelfth choice. With his acceptance made by the defense, Judge Yeomans called in the dozen talesmen who had not been examined out of the total of 100 summoned—40 had been summoned for today—and these he excused until Tuesday morning, October 4. He then admonished jurors in the panel against conversing or reading about the case and court adjourned until Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock D. S. T., when the actual trial gets underway.

That there be no relationship or business contact with members of the prosecution, including the state police, was one of the requirements made of a talesman before acceptance by the defense. That the defense was emphatic on this qualification became known when Louis A. Gowdy of Somers took the witness stand as a prospective talesman. While he was O. K.d by the state, the keen former attorney-general uncovered the fact that Gowdy was the father-in-law of State Policeman Harris J. Hulburt, member of the Stafford Springs barracks and one of the leading investigators of the alleged crime.

The defense, the state and the judge came to loggerheads over the rejection or acceptance of this talesman. The chief defense counsel 16st a motion for excuse and was forced to make use of one more precious challenge to keep Mr. Gowdy out of the jury box.

The jurors, of whom six are farmers, who will sit for the trial Wednesday are: George N. Sterry, South Willington, lumber dealer; John M. Swanson, Bolton, farmer; Charles Long, Bolton, farmer; August H. Mattern, Mansfield, poultryman; Carroll H. Hawkins, Mansfield, farmer; James J. Kerwin, Mansfield, carpenter; Edwin H. Hansen, Coventry, erstwhile farmer and grain truck driver; Clement N. Sumner, Bolton, farmer; Andrew E. Maneggia, Bolton, dairy farmer; Clinton Eldredge, Willington, road builder. Four were accepted last Wednesday, five Thursday, one Friday and two today.

In the event that the selection of two more jurors would be made fairly early in the day, witnesses for both the state and defense were on hand today. The first delay came in the nature of one hour's conference in closed chambers between the attorneys and Judge Yeomans. Court was not called to order until 11 o'clock.

HUNDREDS OF BUSHELS OF POTATOES CONDEMNED

PORTLAND, Maine, Sept. 13—(AP)—Hundreds of bushels from 19 carloads of potatoes from the fields of Aroostook county, condemned by a local chain store and consigned to a watery grave off the coast, tonight were stored in cellars of local people, who evidently anticipated a hard winter.

The spuds were trucked to the Boston & Maine wharf and dumped in piles along the docks.

No sooner had the lighter which was carrying them offshore left on her second trip, when youngsters, armed with gunny sacks, swarmed the docks and helped themselves.

The report spread and soon men and women, some in expensive automobiles, joine din the raid. One man boasted he had collected 30 bushel.

Some of the youngsters with a keen sense of business stacked their bags on the dock and sold them at ten cents a sack. A large quantity of the potatoes, apparently without blemish, but affected by the early blight, were said to be fit for immediate consumption.

STORM IS RAGING IN PATH OF PRIDE OF DETROIT

TOKYO, Sept. 14—(AP)—While a heavy rainstorm was sweeping the Tokyo district early today, the monoplane Pride of Detroit was apparently winging its way from Omura where it hopped off at 6:35 a. m. for Kasumigaura, near here, although no word has come of its progress. With the storm raging it is feared the plane may encounter difficulties. Apparently, however, the weather was favorable at Amura when the plane left.

DEATH AND DESTRUCTION SPREAD BY TIDAL WAVE ON WEST COAST MEXICO

NOGALES, Ariz., Sept. 13—(AP)—A storm of intense severity which whipped up a tidal wave believed to have extended over a thousand miles along the Pacific ocean, has spread death and destruction over the west coast of Mexico. First news of the disaster occurring last Wednesday, reached this border town today.

Meager reports to the Nogales Herald over badly crippled communication lines, said the death toll might reach into hundreds while other hundreds, perhaps thousands, were left homeless and shipping suffered severely.

Three of Mexico's greatest seaports —Guaymas, Salina Crux and Manzanillo—are reported to have suffered heavy property loss, while two vessels of the National line, the Jalisco and the Navajoa, are missing. Mazatlan, fourth important west coast port, also felt the lash of the storm but not so severly as the other towns.

The storm headed up the coast from the Gulf of Tehuantepic, Oaxaca, and swept northward as far as Guaymas, Sonora, within 300 miles of the American border.

Loss of life and property, concerning which no exact information was available, is believed to have been the heaviest at Salina Cruz, in the state of Oaxaca.

Many small craft along the coast have not been accounted for and it is feared the loss of life at sea was heavy.

FRANCE READY NEGOTIATE A COMMERCIAL AGREEMENT

Will Probably Suggest Sept 26 For the Beginning of Discussions—Offer Comes in Reply of the French Government to the American Protest on the Tariff—The French Foreign Office Sent Word to the American Embassy in Paris That France's Reply Would Be Presented Today.

PARIS, Spt. 13—(AP)—The reply of the French government to the American protest on the tariff announces the readiness of this government to begin immediate negotiations with the United States for a commercial agreement, and will probably suggest Sept. 26 for the beginning of the discussions.

The foreign office sent word to the American embassy that France's reply would be presented tomorrow. In advising th eembassy of this decision, the foreign office said it was realized that the urgency of the question necessitated immediate treatment.

French traiffs, which impose very high rates on certain American commodities, in some cases considered prohibitive, have brought forth strenuous protests from both French and American firms, as well as an official protest from the American government.

It appears likely that the response of France will take a middle course between fully meeting the American request for amelioration, and "standing pat" on the tariff schedules as announced.

The French reply is described unofficially as setting forth the French government's position that it cannot, without corresponding concessions, give to American imports the same treatment it now extends to Germany, England and various other countries with which France has reciprocal treaties.

Therefore, the French government is ready to enter into negotiations with the United States for a commercial agreement on a give and take basis.

It is possible, although not yet certain, that for a short period American imports will receive the benefit of the lowest rates, namely those contained in the Franco-German commercial treaty, but only in the same categories of commodities.

WEST ASHFORD HAS THE LARGEST TREE IN THE STATE

HARTFORD, Sept. 13—(AP)—First prize in the large tree contest conducted by the state forestry department, has been won by Arpad Morles, of West Ashford, it was announced today by State Forester Austin F. Hawes.

A red oak on Mr. Morles's property proved to be the largest tree of the numerous ones reported by entrants in the contest. Second prize was won by Dr. Charles B. Graves, of Gales Ferry, who reported a white oak growing on his land.

The prize winning tree reported by Mr. Morles was found to have a circumference of 32 feet at a point one foot above the ground, 21 feet at a point four and a half feet above the ground, a horizontal branch spread of 135 feet and a height of 95 feet.

The white oak which took second prize has a 26 foot circumference a foot above the ground, a circumference of 19 feet, six inches, four and a half feet above the ground, a horizontal branch spread of 122 feet and is 85 feet high. Measurements of all trees as reported by the contestants in entering the contest were checked by representatives of the forestry department.

COUPLE AND BOARDER DEAD IN TRAGEDY IN DANBURY

DANBURY, Sept. 13—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bill, of 28 City Hamlet, and Alfred Kelly, a boarder, were found dead by police in the Bill home shortly after 11 o'clock tonight. It is believed that Bill shot his wife and the boarder and then committed suicide by shooting himself with the same rifle.

Neighbors, hearing six shots and sounds resembling the falling of a heavy body, went to the house and found it lighted but locked. Police were notified, and breaking in, found Mrs. Bill dead at the foot of a stairway, Kelly near a stove, and Bill, still living, lying almost across Kelly's body. Bill died almost immediately.

According to neighbors, Bill had been jealous of Kelly, although the two were friends and Kelly had come there to board on the husband's invitation.

FIRST THEFT OF PLANE REPORTED IN BAY STATE

BOSTON, Sept. 13—(AP)—The first theft o fa seaplane ever reported in this state has put it up to the state registrar of motor vehicles to decide whether under the circumstances this vehicle was an airplane or a boat.

Robert L. O'Brien, state aircraft inspector, who went to Fall River today to investigate the theft of the plane by three boys who later wrecked it while trying to fly, said that if they merely drove the plane about on the water and did not get it into the air they could not be charged with flying without a license.

If they got it off the water before wrecking it they could be charged with this offense as well as with theft. Seaplane operators say that a seaplane while on the water is a boat, when it gets up on the step of its pontoons it is a hydroplane and when it leaves the water it is an airplane.

SURGEON ASPHYXIATED WHILE EXPERIMENTING

MANCHESTER, England, Sept. 13—(AP)—Victim of his own scientific zeal, Dr. Sidney Rawson Wilson, surgeon and anaesthetist, was found dead tonight in his laboratory. His wife discovered the experimenter with a mask over his face before a machine which administered gas mixtures.

It had been Dr. Wilson's great ambition to obtain and prolong the analgesic state, which is obtained momentarily when a person under an anaesthetic loses feeling, yet retains consciousness.

Dr. Wilson's brother said that the former believed he had sufficient will power to prevent himself from losing consciousness completely. Colleagues are of the belief that he met death experimenting on himself.

RUNAWAY ORPHAN WAS DROWNED IN THE HUDSON

NEW YORK, Sept. 13—(AP)—Held as a vagrant after he had told police of a desperate struggle in the Hudson river which ended in death by drowning of his brother, Floyd Lane, 20, today revealed how he and his brother had escaped from a Massachusetts orphanage only to face tragedy as they attempted to swim across the Hudson to New Jersey where they intended to seek work.

Lane concealed his name and when he was arrested said the drowned man was his cousin. Later he admitted the deception was prompted by fear that he would be sent back to the orphanage if his identity was discovered. The true version of the drowning followed Lane's first story that his "cousin" had tried in vain to drag him to death in the river and then committed suicide.

The brothers ran away from the Wrentham State school at Wrentham, Mass., on August 11, authorities at the school said. Both had good records at the school, where they had been sent in 1924 upon the death of their parents. A home is waiting there for Floyd if he wants to come back, they said.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 13—(AP)—One Ohio penitentiary convict was shot and another made good his escape today when two prisoners at the stone quarry made a break for liberty.

Thomas H. Berry 29, Negro, was shot in the back and leg by Guard Willis and removed to the prison hospital. He was sentenced from Montgomery county for assault in July, 1924.

Dug Griffin, 30, also a Negro, made good his escape. He was sentenced from Hamilton county for housebreaking and was received at the prison on February 11, 1926.

SWIFT JUSTICE METED OUT TO CHICAGO BANDIT

CHICAGO, Sept. 13—(AP)—Swift justice overtook William Ed Baker, the "cat" bandit, arrested a week ago, after robbing more than 100 women. He was sentenced to the Stateville penitentiary for from one year to life, on each of five charges to which he pleaded guilty, the sentences are to run concurrently and he was admitted to the prison late today.

Mrs. Helen Baker, wife of the "cat", against whom the jury did not return an indictment, today said she intends to file suit for divorce soon on the grounds that her husband was too familiar with some of his women victims, to which charge, she claimed, he confessed when questioned by the police. Baker later denied that he had ever attempted to atack any of his victims, although police said several charges were made.

N. Y. STOCK MARKET CONTINUES BULLISH

NEW YORK, Sept. 13—(AP)—The bull movement on the New York stock exchange, which has been running with few interruptions since 1924, took on a new lease of life today when spirited bidding for some of the leading idustrials sent them up 5 to nearly 15 points, and carried the general average for that group to a new record high level for all time. Rails moved upward in sympathy, although the advance was not as uniform, and the general average, although showing a net gain of nearly 2 points, failed to attain the year's peak established a few months ago.

"It's Toasted" gives Lucky Strikes the finest flavor and protects the throat

What 11,105* doctors write about smoking

WHAT is the quality that Tito Schipa, Jeanne Gordon, Clarence Whitehill, Nina Morgana, Frank Keenan, Ezio Pinza, William Hodge, Laura Hope Crews and other famous singers, actors, broadcasters and public speakers have found that makes LUCKY STRIKES delightful and of no possible injury to their voices?

For the answer we turned to medical men and asked them this question:

Do you think from your experience with LUCKY STRIKE cigarettes that they are less irritating to sensitive or tender throats than other cigarettes, whatever the reason?

11,105 doctors answered this question "YES."

Consider what these figures mean; consider that they represent the opinion and experience of doctors, those whose business it is to know.

"Until I began to smoke Lucky Strike cigarettes, I had to limit my pleasure in smoking. Now I smoke Lucky Strikes exclusively. My voice, my throat are never affected."

BURGLARS ACTIVE IN DANIELSON MONDAY NIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 13—From various sections of Danielson this morning there came to the police reports of breaks made during the night, the entire series netting the burglars nothing at all in so far as check-ups to this afternoon indicated.

Places entered are at widely scattered sections of the community and included the office of Young Bros., on Mechanic street, the office of The Kennedy corporation on Cottage street, four garages of Powdrell and Alexander in the rear of residences of Main street, near the Danielson homestead and at the Delor Grennon garages on the West Side, off South Main street.

At the offices of the two coal companies both safes were unlocked, though the doors were closed. Nothing of value to burglars is kept in either of them. In these offices the burglars evidently made a more or less thorough search for valuables,as is indicated by the manner in which books, papers and other contents were strewn about.

At the Powdrell and Alexander garages locks were forced on four stalls, but there was nothing to indicate that an effo.t had been made to get away with the 'rucks or cars kept there, nor were minc' things that might have been taken missing. Only one of the long string of stalls at the Grennon place on the West Side was forced open, and, as at the other garages, nothing was taken, nor the car disturbed. Farther west on South Main street these workers of the night pushed a light truck belonging to Alanson out of the yard, where it had been left for the night, and into the street, where it was abandoned, for some reason. The men responsible for the breaks left no clues.

The first intimation that something was wrong came to Night Officer Arthur De Forest about 3:30 this morning when a night employe of Powdrell and Alexander on his way home, found a man skulking about in the vicinity of Cottage street. This stranger inquired of the night worker as to his having seen a man with a basket of tools and was told "No" and given an order to be on his way. The local man did not recognize his questioner, but did report the rather unusual incident to Officer DeForest.

Various features of the breaking and entering considered, it was regarded here as probable today that the work had been done by more or less amateurish young men who may have drifted in here on some hitch-hiking expedition, as many of that type do.

Local and state officers went over all the facts and information obtainable in the cases today, but nothing developed that would indicate the likelihood of apprehending the responsible parties.

Opening Friday morning in temporary quarters in the Exchange block the entire stock of Dowe's store will be offered at from 1-3 to 1-2 off.—Adv.

The Sunday school attendance was slightly below the general average. There was a combined choir and Sunday school committee meeting at Mr. Child's last Thursday night. On Saturday this week the Sunday school will hold its annual picnic at the athletic field, events beginning at 1:30.

Mr. Hunt was a native of Providence, born July 29, 1838, and lived many years of his life in that city, where he was engaged during his active years as a wholesale manufacturer of cigars. He was a son of Josiah Arnold Hunt and Lydia Mason Hunt.

PUTNAM

LOST TREASURE LEGEND HAS BEEN REVIVED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Sept. 13—Evidently the lost treasure of Windham county has not entirely been forgotten. Every so often it comes to the front again. A recent New York paper contained the following advertisement: "Treasure lost in Windham county—would like information of the names of four men that were in Thompson, Conn., between twelve and fifteen years ago that had a plan of the lost treasure in Windham county. Any information will be appreciated." The address given was in Webster, but is not supposed to be a permanent address of the advertiser. About a year ago, the same man advertised in a Connecticut paper of the treasure and also inquired of Putnam and Thompson citizens as to whether or not they knew anything of it.

According to the legend, a chest of gold was buried during Revolutionary times on the farm of Otto Reich of Wilsonville, who was an ancestor of the man now trying to locate the treasure. A band of soldiers carrying the gold to Washington's army were supposed to have been attacked by British and Indians and to save the money, it was hastily buried next to a large tree believed to have been located on the Reich farm which was near Thompson. The treasurer-bearers were killed and the gold is supposed to still remain in the ground.

Many people in this vicinity have heard the story but so far as is known, no one has ever gone so far as to dig for the gold.

More Proof —OF— WILLIAMS OIL-O-MATIC HEATING Superiority!

Mr. Pierre S. Du Pont, Head of General Motors, Has 50 Oil-O-Matic?

The fact that Mr. Du Pont of the famous Du Pont family and head of the great General Motors Corporation has bought 50 Oil-O-Matics for his large estate is of prime importance to every home owner. It settles the question of comparative merit for Oil-O-Matic was chosen by actual tests on the basis of engineering excellence and on its fitness to provide economical, uniform, dependable heat.

Enthusiastic About Oil-O-Matic

Mr. Du Pont and all his tenants—like all Oil-O-Matic owners—are enthusiastic about the cleanliness and even temperature of this modern heating method. Their homes are spotlessly clean and easy to keep so. They enjoy the comfort of perfectly uniform, automatic heat at a cost equal to the bare cost of coal.

In view of this there should be no question as to Oil-O-Matic's dependability. Particularly since it has been giving similar satisfaction for 8 years and—

"So satisfied wiht Oil-O-Matic in my apartment house that I purchased one for my residence, where for two winters they have automatically maintained uniform temperature day and night."—R. W. PERKINS, President, Eastern Connecticut Power Co., 60 Broad St., Norwich.

"The two Oil-O-Maitcs you installed for me are all you claimed they would be in operation, service and economy. Never before have we enjoyed such clean, even heating comfort without trouble or care."—J. B. CARON, 197 Broadway, Norwich.

"We are very pleased with our Oil-O-Matic heater. So far it has given great satisfaction. I should be sorry to return to a coal heater."—R. S. GERNON, 195 Washington St., Norwich.

NO EXTRA SESSION

Extra session talk has been underway for months. It began before the 69th congress had completed its work and it is still heard. The president has not been disposed to take such a step but he has been disposed to wait and see whether conditions justified such a step.

When, on his return from his vacation, the president called in the republican leaders of the senate and the house for the purpose of getting their opinion as to whether a special session was needed, or whether it could be expected to accomplish anything, he received frank expressions from both Senator Curtis and Congressman Tilson against any such action. They are convinced that it is not needed, that it would not result in expediting special legislation, that there should not be haste in dealing with flood legislation and that the contested elections in the senate do not require the additional time. It seems highly probable that the advice received will be followed.

Those with hopes of embarrassing the administration by getting a special session of congress to follow immediately after the 69th congress would have monopolized such a session with tactics similar to those employed during the closing days of the last congress. They had politics in mind and they would have liked nothing better than to have used congress as a means of getting publicity for the next presidential campaign. Little would have been accomplished but there would have been a constant wrangle for political effect.

That is what could be expected if congress, or the senate, should be called into a special session this fall in advance of the date fixed for the regular session. It might be possible for matters to be taken up and disposed of, but that gives no assurance that any such course would be followed. Judging from the past an extra session would simply be a waste of time and the congressional leaders understood that thoroughly. Had there been an emergency to require an extra session the situation would have been entirely different.

THE IRISH ELECTION

Affairs in the Irish Free State have been watched with keen interest from all directions because of the belligerent character of the contests. It is certain that more than those in Ireland or in the British isles will be concerned over the outcome of the new election which takes place in the Free State tomorrow.

This election represents an endeavor on the part of President Cosgrave to strengthen his position in the Irish parliament. He gained what he considered an important victory in preventing the overthrow of his government. He believes that it was in keeping with the sentiment of a great many of the people and as the result of the disclosure of the De Valera methods and plans he hopes to get a majority control of the new parliament.

Anticipation and realization are often far apart, but he has played the bold game of taking every possible advantage of the favorable position in which he was left as the result of the breakdown of the DeValera scheme. Ireland isn't united behind any one party. The government was able to function only through a coalition of parties and there's no certainty that Cosgrave can get a majority of new parliament. He has been helped however by the fact that there are two less parties in the field at this time and that there are but 280 candidates where there were 375 at the previous election.

Indications point to the fact that there has been consolidation of parties, that experience has shown the mistake of such a divided parliament and that the voters have been faced with the advisability of backing these from whom the most satisfactory running of the Irish Free State can be expected. Issues are badly complicated but President Cosgrave is depending upon the effect of the De Valera tactics to greatly strengthen the government's support and produce a parliament from which the people can expect to get better conditions and better laws. It is on this outcome that much interest hinges.

THE WRONG METHOD

When Panama, through its foreign minister, takes the question of the Canal Zone to the league of nations for the purpose of bringing about an adjustment of the situation which has arisen over the failure of Panama to ratify the negotiated treaty with this country, it must realize that while the league may talk about it all it wants to it can expect no adjustment through that avenue.

It is a matter pure and simple between this country and Panama. It is clearly stipulated in the existing treaty what the position of the United States is in the Canal Zone and it is to be expected that this country will exercise needed care in seeing that it is protected. In case of war it is to be realized that the canal would be an object of attack. A strip of land ten miles wide would by no means give ample territory for its protection for it is to be realized that attackers would hasten to make use of Panama territory for the purpose of conducting a land attack. That would be done whether Panama was willing or not and it is because such would call for resistance on the part of this country even to the extent of using Panama territory that the additional treaty with Panama was sought. Inasmuch as Panama would be in the midst of military operations in case of attack, should it regard itself at war in case of such developments in support of the United States it would simply mean that this country would be acting in keeping with expectations when it moved to repel any invasion of the canal region from actual Panama territory.

But any understanding or misunderstanding between the two countries can be adjusted between them. Just why Panama should be going to the league of nations when no request has been made to Washington for a modification of the treaty terms since ratification was defeated is a bit puzzling, but regardless of the motives of Panama, or its foreign minister, the course that has been adopted is most certain to amount to nothing. Its effectiveness as a backhanded hint to this country promises nothing.

RADIO AND OLD GLORY

The claim has been made that the fact that Old Glory carried radio equipment did not save it and did not make their rescue possible. It cannot be overlooked, however, now that wreckage of the airplane has been found that it is the only one of the lost airplanes which has been found and identified and that was made possible only because it was disclosed through the radio that there was some sort of trouble and their S. O. S. message gave their approximate location.

Had Nungesser and Coli, Minchin and Hamilton or Tully and Medcalf been able to communicate with steamships as was done by Bertaud, Hill or Payne there would have been some indication where disaster overtook them, where search might be carried on and where help might have been sent. Disaster has occurred alike to those planes which carried or did not carry radio equipment, but it is significant that only the plane that had it has been located. There is no idea where search should be made for the others.

However slim it may be, hope will not be abandoned for the three men in Old Glory until sufficient time has elapsed to show that they have not been picked up by some tramp ship, without wireless and carried to a distant port. The finding of the wreckage stimulates hope in that direction. It will revive the feeling that through some means they have been able to escape the indicated fate, but it seems to be firmly established that before any more transoceanic flights are attempted the planes should be of the seaplane type and be able to include in their loads an efficient radio, not only as a means of indicating the progress of the fliers but to serve as a guide to any who may be called upon to go to their assistance or search for their fallen machine.

INDUSTRIAL SURVEYS

New England has always been a hive of industry. Changing conditions have had their effect. Industries of other days are gone but others have taken their place and even now we are experiencing the effect of certain industrial migrations. But that doesn't detract from the industrial advantages of this part of the country and the necessity for making the most of them. If it isn't one thing it must be another and if there are troubles that can be remedied they should be known and given needed attention while there is time.

It is an excellent step that has been taken by the New England council in cooperation with the federal department of commerce in making an industrial survey of New England, reports of which are appearing daily in The Bulletin. By this means it is being found out what is the matter with New England industries and what is being done to correct the trouble.

In much the same way, through local initiative, it is to be hoped that some worthwhile information will be obtained from the industrial survey which has been advocated for Norwich. It is time that we knew more about our industries, what can be done to stimulate those that need it, what real inducements we have to offer for developing those already here and encouraging others. Getting down to the bed rock of facts and looking Norwich in the face industrially should be productive of excellent results, and it is to be earnestly hoped that it will be gotten into early operation.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: What are you planning to do with your old straw hat?

Thus far the melancholy days this fall seem to have come in August rather than September.

From a distance it can be imagined that Rapid City has the appearance of a deserted village.

Now comes the annual test of courage by those who desire to wear the straw hat beyond the shelving day.

Even though there may be a special safety week, isn't it worth while to make efforts produce safety 365 days in the year?

Looking for an island a mile and a half long by half a mile wide might not be so difficult if it wasn't 2400 miles away in the broad Pacific.

The republicans in caucus have exercised judgment which it is believed will be enthusiastically supported by the voters of the town when they get a chance to vote next month. Efficient public service is deserving of hearty endorsement.

BUFFER PHILOSOPHY

The little blond, fuzzy-haired manicurist scanned me with shrewd blue eyes.

"Friend of the manager?" she asked with a jerk of her head toward the embodiment of masculine suavity moving toward the front of the shop on rubber heels.

"No," I smiled. "Why?"

"Oh," the little blond, fuzzy-haired manicurist laughed nervously, "Just wanted to make sure. You have to be so careful around here. You think you're safe and the next thing you know he's right on top of you."

I waited attentively while she finished filing the nails of my right hand. Then, quite suddenly, she looked up at me and gave me a flashing smile.

"I'm kind of upset this morning," she informed me. "I'm scared to death that he"—with another expressive jerk of the head toward the front of the shop—"will spot my wedding ring. I couldn't get it off this morning. My finger's kind of swollen." Whereupon the hungry scissors bit off a bigger piece from the corner of my thumb than they should have.

"It's a pretty thing," I remarked admiringly, glancing again at the small, sparkling band that had caught my eye at the beginning.

"Just got it last night," confided the little blond, fuzzy-haired manicurist. "Had my afternoon off yesterday. My sweetheart met me and said, 'Let's get married.' He's been wanting me to marry him for a long time, but I couldn't make up my mind. You know, there's another man I was crazy about, too—a handsome fellow, tall, dark,—oh, you know how it is!" She looked up at me engagingly, the murderous scissors poised like a question mark.

I nodded sympathetically.

"Well, before I knew it, we were over at the city hall. My sweetheart knew the judge and everything was over in a jiffy. Can you beat it? I had no more idea of getting married than flying. It was lots of fun, though. And no one knows a thing about it—not a soul!

"You see, my husband—" she paused a moment over the new appellation as one pauses after tasting a new dish; "he doesn't want me to work. But gee! What would I do all day stuck in a flat by myself?

"What's more, I like my work," she went on, buffing my nails with emphatic vigor. "But if the manager found out that I was married he'd fire me in a jiffy. They won't have married women here. That's what made me so nervous when you came. I was trying to get the ring off when he called me to take you."

"Why not soap your finger and try to get it off now?" I suggested, feeling somehow a part of the conspiracy.

"No. I'll be careful and when I'm through with you I'll get it off."

"Are you very happy?" I asked.

"I guess so." A moment's silence. "Gee! Married life's so different from what you imagine it is." She jabbed the cuticle of my finger fiercely.

"But when you're alone, living around in hotels, eating in restaurants and chasing around, you get tired of it and sort of want an anchor, a steady pal and any kind of a hole that you can call home." Again she was silent while she regarded my chin speculatively.

"After all," she decided, her eyes seeking mine, "any man's a gamble. You never know a man until you're tied to him. And maybe, if I'd married th other fellow, he wouldn't have been as nice to me as this one is. Gee! My husband's wonderful to me—waits on me hand and foot. He won't let me do anything."

"That's fine," I murmured.

"Yea—if it lasts," she replied, a pinch of skepticism flavoring her "newly married" ardor.

"It will," I assured her.

"Well"—philosophically—"the only way to find out is to try it. And if it doesn't work, get out of it. It's easy enough."

"Y—yes," I replied dubiously. "But you don't want to look at it that way. It's a great thing to make a success of marriage."

"You bet it is," the little blond, fuzzy-haired manicurist agreed cordially as she gave my nails a final buffing. "But"—confidingly, cupping her chin in her small white hands—"I'd rather be a divorced woman than an old maid, wouldn't you? Seventy-five cents, please."—Exchange.

YOUR HEALTH

THE HARD-OF-HEARING CHILD

Alice G. Bryant, M. D., Boston, Mass. Member Gorgas Memorial

The problem of the deafened are not new, but our methods of approach, interpretations and procedures are new. The problem is vital, for preliminary surveys of the children in our public schools by the American Federation of Organizations for the Hard-of-hearing find 3,000,000 children with defective hearing.

In 1902, Martha Bruhn founded the first school in lip-reading for the deafened adult. Other schools have been established, and they have all exercised a profound influence and enriched the lives of the deafened.

Dr. Franklin Bock of Rochester, N. Y., believed that many of the retarded children in the public schools were hard of hearing due to ear troubles. In 1909 he was permitted to hold a clinic in a public school and in 1916 he was able to introduce lip-reading in the public schools of his city, and later his appeal to hold speech correction classes was granted. Today many lip-reading teachers are actively functioning. A few of the public schools have introduced lip-reading.

Last year a department of lip-reading was established by the board of directors of the National Educational association. The Volta bureau has rendered able assistance.

An acoustic engineer, Dr. Horace Fletcher, has invented the phone-audiometer which correctly and accurately detects and grades deafness. It is efficiently productive, for it permits group testing, thus shortening the testing period. The percentage of deafness and the "danger zone" aid ear specialists and lip-reading teachers. When the deafened school-children repeat once, twice or more times, it is a waste of education. The pupils are penalized, but we are the offenders. We owe the pupils a new valuation in education. They become repeating machines where efforts are stultified, spirits are depressed and pride is at a discount.

Do not stress overhead costs. Increase production by eliminating waste, waste of effort, time, strength and usefulness. Expert lip-reading teachers will materially help to solve the problem. They have discovered the facts by laborious work. They have knowledge by conviction, as each child must be judiciously studied and individually taught.

The hard-of-hearing pupil should not be segregated or isolated. He needs a knowledge of school conditions. He should associate with his teachers and school comrades. He no longer is forgotten or falls behind in his classes or enters the great vast world unheralded, unwelcomed and unprepared to meet its problems. No longer are his wistful hopes shattered. He has a romantic history of progress. In spite of his handicap with strengthened confidence and unshaken faith, backed by a full record of progress and output, he is qualified for his life's work and he meets it. The captains of health and education have been his life preservers.

Stories That Recall Others

Mule Feed

A number of men were in a restaurant for breakfast. On being asked what they wished, one of the men ordered a bowl of oatmeal. The waiter called back to the kitchen: "Feed a mule."

It is needless to say that during the succeeding days the gentleman stood quite a bit of kidding about mule feed.

Not Their Choice of Tune

He was an organizer for a fraternal society and tells this story on himself:

I was down in Tennessee organizing lodges and was not as familiar with the community as I became later. At a certain point in the meeting it came time to sing the organization's song set to the tune of a popular song. I started out with great eclat, supposing all would join in, but there wasn't a sound. Supposing they were a little bashful, I got up more steam than ever and started out with a rolling baritone, when I felt a touch on my arm.

"Suh," said the old colonel, a veteran of the Confederate army, "I must tell you, suh, that we nevah sing that song down heah."

Light dawned upon me for the song I was trying to sing was the air of Marching Through Georgia.

Cubby Leaves a Trail

Mischief always leaves a trail,
You'll find that this will never fail.
—Old Mother Nature.

Farmer Brown's Boy was the first one to reach the bottom of the cellar stairs. He hadn't stopped to bring a light. It was none too easy to see down there, for you will remember it was supper time. So almost the first thing he did was to step in the puddle of molasses. Of course, he discovered right away what he had stepped in and he warned Farmer Brown and Mother Brown to bring a light before they came any further. When that light arrived such a sight as greeted their eyes! That barrel of molasses was right near the foot of the stairs. The puddle of molasses had spread out until it was all around the lower step. That is how Farmer Brown's Boy had stepped into it the very first thing.

"Great land of love!" exclaimed Mother Brown as she stared down at the sticky mess. "I told you it was that Bear! And that crash we heard was my preserves. I just know it without looking."

By this time Farmer Brown's Boy had found a board which would reach from the lower step across the puddle of molasses and over this Farmer Brown and Mother Brown walked without getting into the sticky mess. Then all three went to look in the preserve cellar. There on the floor lay broken preserve jars, with syrup spattered all about and some of the fruit. But there was no Cubby there.

The sight of that preserve closet was more than Mother Brown's good nature could stand. Her eyes flashed. "I've stood all I'm going to," she declared grimly to Farmer Brown's Boy. "When you catch that Cub again you march him right back to the Green Forest and let him go. I've had all I want of pet Bears. He goes straight back to the Green Forest and the sooner the better I'll like it. Now where is the black imp?"

A hasty look through the preserve closet showed that Chubby was not there.

"He heard us coming and he has hidden somewhere here in the cellar," declared Farmer Brown. "I remember now that early this afternoon I found the outside cellar doors open and closed them. That cub must have been in here then and I shut him in. The rascal has been having a high old time, and I guess every dron of molasses is out of that barrel. I'll open up the outside doors and we'll chase him out that way."

So Farmer Brown opened up the bulkhead doors and the hunt for Cubby was resumed. As Farmer Brown's Boy approached some barrels there was a sudden scurry behind them and out darted a small black form. Farmer Brown's Boy grabbed at him, but missed him. Farmer Brown jumped to catch him as he started for the open bulkhead. Cubby dodged and then made straight for the stairs that led up to the kitchen. Straight through the puddle of molasses he galloped and up the cellar stairs to the kitchen, while Mother Brown shrieked and Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy said unkind things about him. Then Farmer Brown's Boy, forgetting all about his sticky shoes, started up after Cubby as fast as he could go.

Farmer Brown's Boy grabbed at him

Does your daughter attend school regularly?

MANY GIRLS are absent from school for a few days each month because of illness. In many cases this is unnecessary because young girls — as well as older women — can be strengthened by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Girls suffering from run-down condition, sleeplessness, nervousness, and loss of appetite, should gain new strength and vigor from this Vegetable Compound.

The following testimonials show what the Compound has done for other schoolgirls.

NERVOUS AND DIZZY

Charleston, Illinois:—"I gave my fifteen-year-old girl Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it did her a wonderful lot of good. She was nervous, weak and dizzy. At last she was so bad off that she was out of school for four months. The Vegetable Compound has improved her in every way and she has gone back to school. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to other mothers with girls who are not as strong as they should be." Mrs. Alice Louthan, Route 2, Charleston, Illinois.

Remember this package. None genuine without the signature of Lydia E. Pinkham.

SICK AND WEAK

Camden, New Jersey:—"When my daughter was twelve years old she was hurt at the play-ground. She was sick and weak for some time after that and was not able to go to school regularly. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped her wonderfully, and she now goes to school every day. She has gained in weight and has a better appetite than she had before taking it." STATE HUNTERS ELECT THEIR OFFICERS FOR YEAR

Frank L. Walden, prominent sportsman of Chester, was elected president of the Connecticut Hunters' Protective association at the annual meeting of that organization held Saturday afternoon at the Pease house, Saybrook Point. The full slate elected for the ensuing year included the following:

President—Fred L. Walden, Chester.
Vice president—James Manning, Norwich.
Secretary — George Wargo, East Lyme.
Treasurer—William Marooney, New London.

Secretary Wargo was the only official returned to office and his choice was over his own objections. Secretary Wargo did valuable work in organizing and directing the work of the association with Dr. George E. Bitgood, Joseph G. Harrigan and others from New London and vicinity.

Deputy Game Warden Robert B. Chappell of New London addressed the meeting and urged greater co-operation of huntsmen with the game wardens in bringing to justice hunters who intentionally violate the state laws.

George Dean of Niantic led the discussion relative to quail, in which many of those present participated, while the subject of conservation of game in the wooded areas of the state and re-stocking of the forests with raccoon and kindred game animals, was discussed in detail by Secretary Wargo.

Missing Witness Arrested

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION
Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.
Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

DARTMOUTH PROFESSOR TO ADDRESS HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The annual meeting of the New London County Historical society will be held in the Shaw mansion, New London, on Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 20, at 3 o'clock. After a brief business session, Prof. Eric P. Kelly of Dartmouth college, Hanover, N. H., will speak on the subject Connecticut Origins of Dartmouth College.

This college had its origin in New London county. Rev. Dr. Wheelock's Indian Charity school, located in Lebanon, was removed to Hanover, N. H., and incorporated as Dartmouth college.

One of the most distinguished and best known of all the Mohegan Indians was the Rev. Sampson Occom, who attended the school in Lebanon. In 1766 he was sent to England with the Rev. Mr. Whitaker, to collect funds for the "support of the Rev. Dr. Wheelock's Indian academy and missionaries among the savages of North America." A large amount of money was raised, of which 5,000 pounds was contributed by the Earl of Dartmouth, to enlarge the school, which was named Dartmouth college. Thus the early history of the college is closely linked with that of the Indians.

TEARING DOWN HOUSE ON F. L. OSGOOD PROPERTY

The F. L. Osgood house on Washington street, at the corner of Sachem street, where the new Masonic temple is to be erected, is being dismantled by Charles W. Burton, who has bought the house from the Masonic corporation and will wreck it and remove it from the property.

There will be much of the fine interior fittings of this beautiful forty-year old residence that Mr. Burton will be able to salvage and find use for in other building operations. On the main floor this will include the beautiful oak staircase and mantel piece in the front hall, cherry and oak finishes and wainscoting in several rooms, oak, maple and North Carolina pine floors. Three tiled bathrooms with nickel plated fittings, many stained glass windows, the tile from more than half a dozen fireplaces, a large quantity of brick from the three big chimneys and many pillars in the cellar will also make worthwhile salvage. The rooms on the second floor are all finished in white enamel, practically as fresh as the day it was put on, and this enamled woodwork is all being carefully removed.

The Hartford Accident & Indemnity Co. is made defendant in the superior court for Hartford county in a suit brought by the state of Connecticut on the surity of $20,264 given the company to indemnify the state against loss in the construction of buildings at the State Farm for Women at Niantic.

FORMER MYSTIC RECTOR DIES IN BRIDGEPORT

Following an illness of about two months, Rev. Lucian W. Shey, former pastor of St. Mark's Episcopal church at Mystic, died Monday night at 9:40 o'clock at the home of his brother, 140 Edna street, Bridgeport, according to word received in Mystic. Mr. Shea came to the Mystic church two years ago last June, and two months ago started on his annual vacation. The vacation period was extended until Sept. 1, because of his ill health, but the pastor sent in his resignation about two weeks ago when it became apparent that it would be some time before he would be able to return to St. Mark's. At the same time he also tendered his resignation as pastor in charge of Grace chapel, Noank, a position which he had held since taking over the Mystic pulpit.

Born in Bridgeport, Mr. Shey was ordained a deacon by Bishop John Williams in June, 1890. He served for several years in Connecticut pulpits, later accepting a rectorate in Pittsburgh, Pa., which he held for 11 years, going then to Cleveland, where for nine years he held a pastorate. He came to Mystic two years ago, and, in the brief period that he served St. Mark's church, he was instrumental in establishing the parish upon a firm financial footing. Charitable in the extreme, he spent much of his time in administering to the ill and needy, and he proved to be one of the most popular pastors Mystic has ever known.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Charlotte M., and a daughter by his first wife.

The classes being held in the Central Baptist church every evening this week with Professor James P. Berkeley of Newton Theological institution as the teacher are proving among the most worthwhile ever conducted in Norwich. These are being attended not only by a large number of the teachers and other workers of the Central Baptist Sunday school, but also by a number from the other Protestant churches are expected to attend the classes. Rev. G. F. Bailey of Norwich Town, in speaking at the brief devotional hour between the two classes, stated that Professor Berkeley's statement on conversion was the most luminous he had heard since coming to Norwich. Wednesday evening the first class will take as the subject for discussion "Religious Questions," and the second "Planning the Lesson" with particular stress on the matter of attention.

The classes start at 7.30 and are conducted in the church auditorium.

ENNA JETTICK
Health Shoes

From the diary of Enna Jettick
"This was my turn on Mulberry Street. Four children and the father dead. I sent the mother out for the day. My dear, I gave five children a bath. I wondered why one of them kicked and squirmed and squealed so, until the mother returned and told me that that youngster belonged to one of the neighbors. It was so good to see her laugh! I gave her a little extra money to buy a pair of Enna Jettick shoes like mine, and I think she won't mind her work so much now."

RUTH HITS TWO HOMERS TO HELP YANKS CLINCH AMERICAN LEAGUE FLAG

NEW YORK, Sept. 13—(AP)—The New York Yankees clinched the American league pennant today beyond all mathematical doubt with a double victory over Cleveland, each by a score of 5 to 2.

Babe Ruth, clubbing out one home run in each game to bring his season's total up to 52, led the attack that definitely assured the Yankees their second straight championship and fifth in seven years under the management of Miller Huggins.

The Yankee steam-roller, flattening all opposition almost from the start of the season, clinched the flag with the finish of the season still nearly three weeks and with the overwhelming margin of 17 games over the second-place Philadelphia Athletics. It is one of the most decisive victories in the history of either major league, and a contrast to the Yankee triumph last year when the team barely staggered in at the finish with a three-game margin over Cleveland.

With 15 more games to play, the Yankees may lose all of them and still finish at the top by a single game margin, even though the Athletics won all of their remaining 17 contests.

With 98 victories and only 41 defeats on their slate, including today's games, the Yankees have an excellent chance to break the American league record for total wins in a season. This mark was set at 105 by the Boston Red Sox of 1912. The major league mark, 116 victories, hung up by the Chicago Cubs in 1906, is out of their reach.

The Yankees have set a few new slugging records already this season that may stand for some time. The spectacular Ruth-Gehrig battle has enabled them to break the major league club record for total home runs. Two by Ruth today, along with others by Pat Collins and Earl Combs brought the Yankee aggregate up to 145, five more than the record of 140 set by the Chicago Nationals in 1884. The American league's former record, 134, was set by the Yankees in 1921, when Ruth hung up his high individual mark of 59. Score:

LACOSTE AND TILDEN WIN SECOND ROUND MATCHES

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Rene Lacoste of Paris, defending champion, and William T. Tilden of Philadelphia, champion six times in succession before Lacoste won last year, today swept through their second-round matches in the National turf court tennis championship with loss of but six games each.

Favored to win the final round, the French and American aces won respectively from Gilbert Nunns, of Toronto, 6-0, 6-2, 6-4, and Berkeley Bell, Austin, Texas, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

Second round vcotories were chalked up for Henri Cochet, Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon of the French Davis cup team, and for William M. Johnston and Francis T. Hunter, of the ilfated American team.

Borotra, won in characteristically spectacular style from Sam Gilpin of Philadelphia, 6-4, 8-6, 6-8, 7-5. Cochet was plainly in earnest in his match with Ed Feibleman, former Harvard player, but had difficulty with his lanky opponent's sharply angled and accurate drives. He ended by wearing down Feibleman as he wore down Tilden at Wimbledon and winning at 6-4, 8-6, 5-7, 6-0.

Brugnon had the distinction of winning the quickest victory of the day, taking only 30 minutes to subdue Don Stratchan of Philadelphia, 6-0, 6-1, 6-2.

"Little Bill" Johnston kept on toward a possible semi-final meeting with Lacoste by taking over Cliff Marsh, ex-Williams college captain 6-1, 6-4, 7-5.

Howard G. Chandler, however, was not so successful. Like Johnston in the Davis cup matches, Chandler was slow, stiff and uncertain from lack of practice and lost to Hunter in straight sets 6-2, 9-7, 6-4. Last year Chandler was ranged with in the country and Hunter twelfth.

The chief surprises in the second round were the elimination of Yoshiro Ohta of Japan, seeded player and the crushing defeat of Dr. Carl Fischer former inter-collegiate champion by Arnold Jones, ex-Yale captain. Ohta who yesterday eliminated Clarence Griffin was put out today by the latter's brother, Elmer of New York, 6-0, 6-2, 6-2. Fischer was set down at 6-1, 6-1, 6-2.

Dempsey Makes $9,000 Gift

LINCOLN FIELDS, Crete, Ill., Sept. 13—(AP)—Jack Dempsey today presented his manager Leo Flynn, with a $9,000 diamond bracelet as a gift for Mrs. Flynn.

The gift was a sign, in the opinion of the boxing experts, that rumors of a rift between Dempsey and his pilot were just rumors.

PRELIMINARIES FOR BIG FIGHT ARE ANNOUNCED

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—(AP)—While Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney were enjoying a lull in their training today, Tex Rickard and George F. Getz, his associate in the promotion of the "battle of the magnificent distances" in Soldier field, September 22, were completing last minute details of the fight. The last legal barrier was hurdled this afternoon when the Illinois state athletic commission granted Getz his license as legal promoter and accepted the forfeits posted in behalf of Tunney and Dempsey.

Getz placed in the hands of the commission an insurance policy for $1,000,000 to protect the public in case of accidents within the arena.

Rickard made the announcement that both Tunney and Dempsey were under contract to fight under his direction in 1928; that the winner would be matched to fight Jack Sharkey, provided Sharkey survived the elimination trials planned by Rickard.

Rickard said he and Getz were considering the erection of a bigger and better Madison Square garden in Chicago for boxing, hockey and other sports.

Fifty-three special trains and more than 200 extra passenger coaches attached to regular trains will bring 50,000 fight fans here a canvass of railroad offices reveals.

Six bouts between heavyweights will provide the preliminaries in Soldiers' field, September 22, according to the card Rickard submitted to the state athletic commission today.

These will be the preliminaries:

Big Boy Peterson, New Orleans, vs. Knute Hanson, Racine Wis. Chuck Wiggins, of Indianapolis, and Jimmy Byrne, Louisville. Martin Burke, New Orleans, vs. Billy Vidabeck, Jersey City. George Manley, Denver, vs. Yale Okum, New York. Jack McCann, St. Paul, vs. Wyoming Warner, Cheyenne. Armand Emanuel, San Francisco, vs. George LaRocco, New York. Each will be at six rounds.

DODGERS GIVE CUBS SETBACK, WINNING 6 TO 5

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—(AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers put a crimp in the National league flag prospect of the Chicago Cubs today by defeating them in the opening game of the series, 6-5. As the Pittsburgh Pirates won a doubleheader from Boston the Cubs dropped five full games behind the league leaders.

Brooklyn won the game by bunching hits off Sheriff Blake in the early innings, but they helped to other runs in the six by Chicago errors.

"Spittin' Bill" Doak held the Bruins to three hits, all made in the second inning, but he was forced to retire in the sixth because of the intense heat. Ehrhardt, who replaced him, was driven off in the eighth, when Chicago rallied for four runs. Doug McWeeney came to the rescue and shut off the home bid. Score:

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13.—(AP)—The Athletics slugged the offerings of Connally and Jacobs for 19 hits today and trounced the Chicago White Sox by a score of 15 to 5. Ty Cobb hit two doubles and a pair of singles and Joe Boley cracked a single, double and triple out of four trips to the plate. LIGHT WORK FOR AGGIE FOOTBALLERS THIS WEEK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Sept. 13—Light work only was held in the camp of the Connecticut Aggies here today, Coach Alexander allowing his men nothing more strenuous than dummy scrimmage. Sessions were held both morning and afternoon, with particular attention being paid to a mastering of individual assignments on plays and formations.

That the Aggies are well fortified with capable punters was demonstrated this afternoon when Captain Eddy, Williams and Hawkins all booted out twisting spirals of the long distance variety in the afternoon kicking drill. Ryan also showed up fairly well with the kickers.

Kenneth Wilson of Springfield, Mass., and regular tackle last fall and John Goebel, star freshman end last season, joined the squad today.

Henry Schildren of Naugatuck, Merton McAvoy of Mt. Carmel and Martin Gilman of Norwich, all linemen received minor bruises in blocking practice, but nothing serious.

PIRATES STRENGTHEN HOLD ON N. L. FIRST PLACE

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 13. — (AP) — Timely hitting and effective pitching gave Pittsburgh both ends of a doubleheader against Boston today, and enabled the Pirates to maintain their lea dover the rest of the field in the National league pennant race. Lee Meadows turned in his 18th triumph of the year in the opener, 6 to 1, while Vic Aldridge got the decision in the second 5 to 4.

The Pirates routed their persistent nemesis, Kent Greenfield in the first game, driving the former Giant from the box at the close of the fourth inning when they had gained a five to nothing lead. Guy Morrison and Henry Wertz finished the game for the Braves. Meadows was very effective with men on the bases aside from the eighth inning when the Braves scored their one run.

The league leaders won the second game by batting rallies in the fourth and fifth innings when all their runs were scored. Genewich was pounded hard and Morrison, his successor also was battered. Wertz finished and held the Corsairs to one hit in two innings. Aldridge hurled brilliantly for six innings but the Braves hammered him hard in the last three frames, driving him out of the box in the ninth inning. With nobody out, Ray Kremer relieved him and the Braves were able to score only one run, one short of a deadlock. Moore, whose pinch double had scored the Braves' fourth run was caught at the plate when he atempted to score on Bancroft's single, for the final out of the game. Scores:

RIVERVIEW TO PLAY NORWICH ALL STAR TEAM SATURDAY

A game that will be of considerable interest to the followers of the 1927 Academy baseball team is the announcement that on Saturday at the State Hospital diamond the Riverview club will play the Norwich All Stars. The interest lies in the fact that six members of the All Stars played with the Academy team during the 1927 season. Two of the other players were members of the 1926 team. Lloyd Jarvis has been picked to pitch against the Riverview team with his battery mate, Mace Goldblatt, doing the catching.

The All Stars will lineup as follows: Goldblatt, c; Jarvis, p; Gerry Burke, 1b; Smith, 2b; Pheno Tombari, ss; Yerrington 3b; Sadinsky lf; Greene, rf. Others who will be in uniform will be Rabbit Gauthier, Gill Kampf, Morin, Pete Labenski, A. Tombari, Bill Ringland and Court Whitney. Tony West is slated to pitch against the Stars.

Fined for Not Sliding

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 13—(AP)—The failure of Eddie Moore, Boston Braves infielder, to slide into home plate in the ninth inning of the second game of today's double header with Pittsburgh, has cost him a $200 fine, Manager Dave Bancroft announced tonight.

Moore, pinch hitting, had doubled to score the Braves' fourth run. With two out and only one run needed to tie the score, Bancroft singled into centerfield. Moore, trying to score from second base, went into home plate standing up and L. Waner's accurate throw cut him down, retiring the side and ending the game.

SENATORS TAKE DOUBLE VICTORY FROM TIGERS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Timely hitting gave the Senators a double victory today over the Tigers, who dropped the second game of a double header 5 to 3, after losing the first 3 to 2.

A rookie pitcher, Billings, got credit for the first defeat, while Lisenbee, pitching his initial year for Washington, was credited with winning the second game. Score:

DARKNESS HALTS DUSTY LEAGUE GAME IN THIRD

Darkness stepped in after three thrilling innings to stop the Richmond-Insilco industrial league tilt Tuesday evening at the Academy campus with the later leading 1 to 0 and as a result activities will be taken up again tonight starting promptly at 5:45 o'clock.

It is hoped that seven full innings can be gotten in starting at this time and if the night is any way clear there should be no reason for fans not seeing a regulation twi game between these two bitter rivals.

Each team has strengthened considerably for this game and tonight will see practically two All-Star league teams playing. The Richmonds have Mace Goldblatt catching with Couture pitching. Gerry Burke at first, Red Smith at second, Gil Kampf at short and Steffy Cimikoski with Lloyd Jarvis, Tim Coughlin, Blinderman and Bargnesi in the outfield. The Insilcos will lineup with either Greene or Koslowski pitching. Al Mish catching, Zaremba on first, Leo Morin at second, Morrosky at short and Lemieux at third with Izbicki, Greene or Koslowski and Blow in the outfield.

The Silvers scored their run in the third when Leo Morin led off by hitting one through Cimikoski and went to third on Lemieux's a hit and scored on Al Mish single into right.

The Richmonds threatened in their half of this inning when Gil Kampf, being safe when Burke was forced at second, took second as Koslowski threw into the first base crowd attempting to nail him off first. Cimikoski then singled to center but a fine throw by Johnny Greene nailed the Irvington's third sacker at the plate. Neither team had any other chances to score.

THAMES A. C. STAGES LAST SHOW THURSDAY NIGH.

The Thames Athletic club will stage what will probably be its last outdoor show of the season at Ocean beach on Sept. 15, it has been announced by Matchmaker Jerry Sullivan. The card will be one of 25 rounds, featuring 10 round main go between Tommy Lemieux, flashy Woonsocket, R. I. bantamweight, and "Irish" Benny Pell of Brooklyn. They are expected to scale 116 pounds. Lemieux was declared New England bantamweight champion as the result of his victory early in the summer over Ruby "Dark Cloud" Bradley of Holyoke, Mass. The Brooklyn Irishman is considered among the fastest of metropolitan little men.

Steve Culver, Bridgeport lightweight, is bracketed with Ralph Landers of New York for the eight round semi-final. In booking these two headline matches, Matchmaker Sullivan believes he has gathered the makings of two excellent star bouts.

Fans whose memories are limber enough to hark back to early season amateur boxing events will be pleased to learn that Farmer Hill, Westerly's newest candidate for professional laurels, will appear in the opening bout against Eddie Ryan of Providence. They will scale about 150 pounds. Farmer Hill was one of the most popular of the heavier amateur sluggers to appear in the local simon-pure ring. He performed here six times, winning five bouts by knockouts and losing one decision to Young Reymond.

Battling Eurk of Westerly, a featherweight, is down as one of the principals in the second preliminary, six rounds. Matchmaker Sullivan has a Providence boy in view as an opponent. The other half of the match will be announced as soon as articles are signed.

NOANK TO PUT ON FAST BASKETBALL TEAM THIS YEAR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NOANK, Sept. 13—There is plenty of good material from which to choose for a local basketball team this season. Albert Patterson, captain of last year's team will be the man around whom the team will be built. His records have given him a standing among the best basketball players in the county. Smith, who played center last year looks the most likely for that position this season. It is not known yet whether Macdonald will be able to start in the game the early part of this fall. Morgan is still among the uncertain ones and the task of picking forwards is not a small one. Morrison is a sure man at guard. Neil Morrison, manager of the team last season, stated today that an association will be formed and a captain, manager and treasurer elected, also the hall officers. The workouts next week will surely bring forth a scrimmage and then the more definite conception of who's who may be reached.

RUTH ONLY 3 BEHIND HIS 1921 RECORD

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Babe Ruth's fifty first and fifty-second home runs today against Cleveland brought the Bambino seven swats ahead of Lou Gehrig, his closest rival, and seemed to assure him the long-distance hitting championship of the majors for the season, barring a highly improbable rush by Gehrig.

With the season finale nearly three weeks away Ruth is only seven home runs away from his record mark established in 1921.

New England Industries

(Note: The information, on which this article, issued by the research department of the New England council, is based, was obtained by the domestic commerce division, United States department of commerce, through an industrial survey of New England conducted in co-operation with the New England council. The department of commerce is now preparing for publication a full report of this industry which will contain additional information of practical value to all New England business men.)

SHIRTS

The shirt industry of New England is increasing its selling activity and total sales have been on the increase, a survey conducted by the United States department of commerce and the New England council shows. Only one plant has reported a decrease, and new sales methods and extension of sales territories are having a good effort. The industry as here considered embraces only the makers of shirts, shirt waists for men and boys, and shirt bosoms.

Although New England produces only 6 per cent of the country's output, her total production is exceeded by three states only; New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. The average number of employes per establishment is 84, and the average annual value of product $331,000, while the rest of the country shows the figures 54 and $225,000, respectively. One-third of New England's plants are in Massachusetts and Connecticut.

This survey shows the average age of plants to be 30 years, and the average period of present management 20 years. There has been no change of management of the reporting plants in the last 10 years. Nearness to market is the reason most frequently given for locating in this section, especially by Connecticut plants.

The percentage of workers on a piece work basis is 65 per cent for the entire New England group and in all but factories, at least half the employes are paid on some such basis.

Much of the shirt making is done on a contract basis, but the amount paid for contract work in New England is only 18 per cent of the amount for wages, as against 46 per cent for the rest of the country.

The plants which report a slack employment period run from 25 per cent to 75 per cent of capacity in this slack period; only three of the 11 manufacturers reporting have developed any special products or inventory to fill in the slack time. Accident prevention is first in the list of improvements effected, followed by organization and executive control and production control.

All but two of these plants make the majority of their sales in New England, and these two are in Connecticut and thus relatively near New York city. The average per cent of New England sales is 71 per cent of the whole. Total sales have increased in the majority of plants, new sales methods figuring as the dominant cause.

As to brands and trademarks, only two plants report less than 50 per cent of their output so marked. All methods of distribution are used, but those direct to the retailer and to the consumer are the most popular.

One half the value of product is in the cost of materials with labor less than one-fifth. More than 10 per cent is spent for selling costs. There has been, on the whole, an upward trend in sales since 1921.

The electrical equipment on a large ocean liner such as the Aquitania requires over 200 miles of cable and more than 700 miles of wires, weighing some 45 tons.

POETRY

Young Man of the Mountain

Sap dropped from a broken twig
Through the mat of leaves
Pressed by the weight of Winter's snow,
Here an there a green spike showed.
Along the road which followed the rushing brook.

Rob was driving a pair of steers
Dragging a home-made rattling cart.
He was past eighty, yet his step was firm
As he kept pace with the fast-walking cattle.
He broke a twig from a birch
And chewed the sappy bark.
He looked up with eager eyes
At the mountains rising on either side.
He squared his shoulders, when the team stopped to rest,
And took in deep breaths of the fragrant air.
He was going home to his mountains,
He stood in the door of his mountain farmhouse
Watching the sun through the spruces.

"They say I'm too old to stay up here. Old!
Mebbe I am old down there in th' valley
With all the rushin' and the new fangled ideas
Clutterin' things up with what they call civ-lization.
But up here—"

He came out to the edge of the porch—

"You see old Stratton through the gap there?
Been there you tell how long.
Hear the Branch roarin' out back the house?
How many centuries's it been a-cuttin'
To make the valley there?
There's that stand o' spruces
That never felt an ax;
They was big timber when I was born
Right here in this house
Eighty-three years ago come July."

He heaved a deep sigh of content.

"Mebbe down there I ain't nothin'
But just an old man,
But hup here where I b'long"—

There was exultation in his voice—

"Why up here I ain't nothin' but a year-lin'."

The Weather

I like the cold and blowy days,
I like the driving rain,
When Winter goes, I long and long
For it to come again!

I like the dog-day weather, too;
On muggy days I'm glad;
And when it's up to ninety-nine—
Oh, well, it's not so bad!

I like it when the mercury drops
To twelve degrees below;
I do just love to be outdoors
With all the ice and snow!

The weather's wonders, I believe,
On me will never pall;
Its eccentritities are grand,
And oh, I love them all!

CARELESS TRUCK DRIVER GETS 20 DAY JAIL SENTENCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 13—Michael Joseph Cannon, 42, of 450 Broad street, Windsor, Conn., was before Judge Oliver H. Williams in Third District court Tuesday morning on a charge of reckless operation of the large motor van of J. A. Cazzas Co., of Hartford, on Broad street, Westerly, Monday about 3 p. m. He pleaded guilty and after a hearing was sentenced by Judge Williams to 20 days in Providence county jail, and was committed by Lieut. Champlin.

Cannon's arrest was made by Police Lieut. George H. Champlin in Dixon square. It followed a report made by Matthew J. Hatten of 151 Warren avenue, Providence, that while he was proceeding in his Buick sedan up Liberty street, Pawcatuck, he was crowded off the road by the approaching van driven by Cannon and the sedan's rear left mudguard and body crushed by a sideswipe. When taken to the Westerly police station, Dr. Michael H. Scanlon pronounced the man under the influence of liquor. In the moving van was the racing mare "Mary B." valued at $10,000 and owned by Peter Berry and Son of Hartford, in the charge of W. T. Crozier and William Martin and bound from Charter Oak park race track to the track at Kingston fair grounds. "Mary B." bf, (Kirby) on Sept. 6th in the Charter Oak three-year-old trot, purse $1,000 divided second money in the heats won 2.10 1-4 and 2.12. Mr. Cazzas was telephoned and requested that a driver be secured and the horse taken to Kingston without delay. Fred Lanphear, of Westerly as driver, making the trip. Tuesday forenoon Alexander S. Ross of Windsor returned with the truck to Hartford.

Cannon told the court that his home was in Mansfield, Mass., is unmarried. This is the first time that he has ever been arrested. He said after making two trips from Hartford to New Haven he had reached Hartford at 11 p. m. Sunday and with the racehorse and two men left Hartford Monday at 8.30 p. m. Just beyond Norwich he picked up a man walking along the road and stopping at a wayside stand, each had two glasses of sweet cider. The stranger had a bottle of "stuff" with two drinks and the mixing of the cider and stuff got him feeling that way. When questioned by Westerly police he said his stranger passenger had disappeared. He said the stranger had the stuff himself in a bottle, and as to its nature, said it might have been poison.
